Pratt City, Ala., Jan 15, 1900

Editor BANNER—Please allow me space in your correspondence col- ... a few items from Pratt City. The new steel mill at Ensley, Ala., has four of its large furnaces running, making steel. The other five or six will be put in operation as soon as completed. The mill, which is the largest steel mill in the United States, cost one and half million dollars, and covers three or four acres of ground. The new rod mill will cost two million dollars and cover four acres of ground. Ensley has ten acres covered with machinery that two years ago was nothing but woodland. It has 25 or 30,000 inhabitants that two years ago was only 5,000. When in Birmingham pay Ensley a visit, you will never regret it.

Mr. J. M. Kicker has returned home after spending a week with friends and relatives at Coopers.

Mr. E. J. Downs; we learn, is to be married in a few days to one of Cooper's fairest young ladies. We all wish you a long, happy and prosperous life, (especiall the boys from No. 2). Many times have you gone beyond the veil of "tears," though its all over now.

Albert Mims, of Clanton, it is learned, has accepted a position with the Federal Steel and Iron Co., in the engine room at Thomas, Ala.

This is a good place for a young man to make a start. Though small wages to begin with he has a chance to some day demand good wages, and his services always be in demand. Albert is a son of W. A. Mims, of Swift Creek, Ala., near Ehrman's mill. ROXIE.

Stanton.

Mr. I. H. Sexton went to Clanton on business recently.

Mr. Quent Maroney, of Vinehill, visited friends here Sunday.

Misses Ella Burns and Luella Parnell, of Dixie, paid Mis. Gregory a visit Saturday.

Mr. C. W. Plant has secured a position with Neal & Honeycutt at Vicks, Ala.

Mr. A. Mahone has moved into Mr. Plant's residence.

Messrs. John and Corlie, Misses Minnie and Georgia Rasberry, of Lily, visited friends and relatives here Sunday.

Miss Lena Connell has returned home after a lengthy visit to Shelby Springs.

W. C. Dyer went to Centreville Friday.

Messrs. J. R. McDaniel and J. B. Gullahorn, Mrs. Bailey and children, of Montgomery, visited relatives here Sunday.

Rev. W. B. Dennis filled his regular appointment at the M. E. church Sunday and Sunday night.

Mr. Charles Marlar has moved his family to Stanton from Billingsley.

Mr. Felix Fitts lost part of a finger by moulding machinery at the furniture shop Monday.

Mr. Albert McGee visited relatives in Clanton this week.

Farmers' Insurance for Chilton.

J. H. Newton, General Agent, and D. W. Gray, Organizing Agent, for the Farmers' Mutual Insurance Association of Alabama, are now insuring the dwellings and outbuildings of the farmers, canvassing the county by beats. All of the county officers are appointed temporarily for the first six months, then elected annually by the members. Mr. N. J. Callaway has been appointed President and J. W. Littlejohn, Secretary and Treasurer for Chilton. A director for each beat will be appointed. This plan of insurance is in most of the Southern States and has been in the Northern and Western States for several years; also it is old in some of the European countries. There will be a public meeting of the members of Chilton Association on the 3d day of February at Littlejohn's school-house. The general agent and others will lecture to the Association. Public invited.

Lily.

On Monday, January 8, ... person or persons unlawfully e... ed the house of Mr. T. J. L... while the family were out and carried out his trunk to about fifty yards from the house and after breaking the lock stole about $103. The thief was evidently in a hurry and did not get all the money there was in the trunk, one pocket book containing $34 was left and $75 in gold at the bottom. Suspicion was centered upon a man but after the track was followed up it was found to be without foundation.

On Monday, January 15, Joe Cosby, colored, was arrested and carried before Justice of the Peace O. Latham at Maplesville, and bond was fixed at $500. When arrested he had $25.30 on his person, but no money was found at his house. As he could not make the bond he was carried to the county jail at Clanton.

Riderville.

Rev. Connell preached to a good congregation here Sunday evening, and Rev. Maroney preached Sunday night. We are in hopes there was better conduct out of doors than there was last Sunday night; some of the boys got drunk and kept up a disturbance. I hope the young men will do better.

Well, last week was a week of moving in our little town; everyone tried to move and those that didn't, wanted to.

Mr. Riders' new house is complete and he has moved in.

We regret to state that Mr. R. M. Cooper has moved his family to Dixie.

Mrs. Martha Ramsey and her mother, Mrs. Rucker, of Adams, paid Mrs. Peoples a pleasant visit Saturday.

Mrs. E. W. Blalack visited relatives in Dixie last Sunday.

Miss Eb Fox, of Lily, visited her sister, Mrs. Smitherman last Saturday. B. P. M.

Having a Great Run on Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Manager Martin, of the Pierson drug store, informs us that he is having a great run on Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He sells five bottles of that medicine to one of any other kind, and it gives great satisfaction. In these days of la grippe there is nothing like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to stop the cough, heal up the sore throat and lungs and give relief within a very short time. The sales are growing, and all who try it are pleased with its prompt action.—South Chicago Daily Calumet. For sale by Clanton Drug Co.

FIRE AT CLANTON.

On Monday morning about 8 o'clock the barn at Mr. W. I. Mullins' residence was discovered to be on fire. An alarm was promptly raised and a large number of men were soon on hand to fight the flames. With some little difficulty the horses were got out of the stable and turned loose. It was soon found impossible to save the barn and every effort was made to save the residence from destruction. The buggy house and coal shed were demolished as well as all connecting fences and by a plentiful use of water on the kitchen the fire was kept back from the dwelling-house.

There are several theories advanced ... origin of the fire. There was ... the fire within a few ... the barn where some laundry work was being done, and it is possible a spark may have blown from the fire to the barn. Another theory is that one of the children with a toy pistol, being out of caps, was firing off the heads of matches; and still another one is that some one had gone into the barn smoking. But whatever the cause the barn and stable, buggy house, and out buildings were all completely destroyed. Mr. Mullins estimating his loss at from $500 to $600, with some small insurance on the buggy house.

Prevented A Tragedy.

Timely information given Mrs. George Long, of New Straitsville, Ohio, prevented a dreadful tragedy and saved two lives. A frightful cough had long kept her awake every night. She had tried many remedies and doctors but steadily grew worse until urged to try Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle wholly cured her, and she writes this marvelous medicine also cured Mr. Long of a severe attack of Pneumonia. Such cures are positive proof of the matchless merit of this grand remedy for curing all throat, chest and lung troubles. Only 50c best salve in the world. Cure guaranteed. Only 25c. Sold by J. S. Johnson, jr., druggist.

FRESH TRADE DEVELOPMENTS.

A coffee berry which rivals the product of Java closely in aroma is being raised in Queensland, Australia, in small quantities.

A miner's lamp, using acetylene gas, has been introduced into the Selbeck mines of Germany. Up to date it does not appear to have been used in this country.

So rapid has been the development of cotton mills in Alabama that it is thought the whole amount of fiber grown there will be consumed at home inside of a year or two.

The paper mill in Holyoke, Mass., which makes Japanese napkins, is said to be the only one of its kind in this country, and its business is growing so rapidly that enlargement of the mill has become necessary.

Owing to a lack of rain in Sweden, the streams that afford power for the woodpulp mills have been low for months. This fact tends to raise the price of pulp there and in those countries that depend on Swaden for a supply.

Ropes are used extensively in England in place of belting for the transmission of power. Cotton is the favorite material, but experiments have recently been made with paper ropes, and they are said to give satisfaction.

Most of the sheep of Northern Arizona are being driven [illegible] the southern part of the Ter[illegible]ut the cattlemen are jealous [illegible]t-en to do harm to men [illegible] the flocks are brought their ranges. A rather strange story attaches to the purchase of this gun, with its companions. In 1896 the British Government obtained secret information that made it evident that the Boers of the South African Republic were engaged in a plot with the object of seizing Delagoa Bay, either by purchase from Portug[illegible] or by force. Great Britain has the right of preemption over Delago Bay, and as soon as the intention of the Boers was known a large British fleet was collected outside Lorenzo Marques. The Boers, finding their arrangements discovered, gave up for the time their cherished ambition of obtaining a port.

But so sure were the authorities of the Transvaal at one time of being able to secure Delagoa Bay that they ordered the guns to protect it, presumably against the British warships. These guns were manufactured in France, and were taken into the Transvaal marked "machinery, with care," by the Netherlands Railway, which is strongly pro-Boer in sympathies.

When the original purpose for the guns was impossible of accomplishment, the Boers mounted them outside Johannesburg and some time ago sent them from there to Natal. They formed the greater part of the strength of the artillery, which had been worrying the garrison at Ladysmith, being mounted about four miles to the east of the town.—New York Times.

Elegance at Eighty.

One scarcely expects elegance in an old man at eighty. The lean and slippered pantaloon at that age begins to slop around considerably. But I have in mind a patriarch in this city who is as spick and span at fourscore as he was at thirty, when he was the dandy of lower Broadway. He has all his shoes made to order at $16 a pair, and both right and left are shaped on the same last, so that he may change them at every wearing. He has seven pairs, one for each day in the week. They are kept in cases over night. His underwear is rich silk. He has twenty pairs of trousers, each provided with its particular suspenders, which have been carefully adjusted to give the correct hang, and are never removed until the cloth is worn out or cast off. All his hats are lined with satin by the fashionable Fifth avenue dealer with whom he trades. His ties are never ready made, and are exquisite gems, costing never less than $4.—Victor Smith, in New York Press.

Stories in China.

Lord Charles Beresford's latest China story illustrates the vileness of the roads in the Celestial Kingdom. Complaining on the subject on one occasion to an American gentleman resident in China, Lord Charles says he received the reply, "Yes, a mule was drowned the other day in the road outside my house."—London Chronicle.

Three Boys Drowned.

Three boys, Richard, French, Thomas O'Brien and Charley Pachow, were drowned in the gas house pond in Louisville, Ky. The boys were playing on the ice, which, weakened by the day's warm weather, gave in without warning. All were about the same age, 12 years.

A $1,000,000 Cotton Mill.

Preparations are being made at Gastonia, N. C., for the erection of a cotton mill to cost $1,000,000. Work will begin on the plant as soon as the weather permits.

CO[illegible] CLASSIFICATION.

Uniformity is Urged by the New Orleans Meeting.

At the last session of the Cotton States Association of Commissioners of Agriculture, which was in session at New Orleans the past week, the following resolution, offered by Commissioner Hill, of Arkansas, was adopted;

"Whereas the cotton crop of the south is being sold on local classifications, varying greatly to their requirements and misleading in their effect; and,

"Whereas, The interest of the cotton grower demands that the classification of his staple be uniform, to the end that the term 'middling cotton' shall have the same significance in each American cotton market, as well as in Liverpool, the world's great cotton market;

"Resolved, That this association of the Commissioners of the Agriculture of the Cotton States of America recommend that the several cotton exchanges, by concert of action, fix and adopt uniform classification of cotton such as will correspond, if possible, with the cotton classification of Liverpool and the principal cotton markets of Europe."

Italy Demands Punishment.

The Italian government has signified to the government of the United States, in the polite and courteous method known to modern diplomacy, a wish that the persons guilty of lynching the five Italians at Tallula, La., last spring should be punished. Heretofore, in cases of lynching of Italians, the matter has been compromised by the payment of an indemnity, but this does not meet the present demand of the Italian gov[illegible]ent.

The work of disinterring the remains of Americans is in progress at Colon cemetery, at Havana. The bodies of seventy have been disinterred. Some forty workmen who began at $1.50 a day, went on strike for twice that amount, but other workmen were immediately hired.

Returned for More Mules.

The Iona, Corinthia and Kildona, British transports, which took out cargoes of mules to South Africa, have returned to New Orleans for more, which they have begun to load. The Corinthia took out 1,180 mules and lost eighty, and the Iona only lost eleven mules. The Kildona had an equally satisfactory trip.

Electric Line from Atlanta to Marietta.

The Atlanta and Western Railway and Power company, which proposes to equip an electric line between Atlanta and Marietta, Ga., by way of Austell and Douglasville, has been granted a charter by the secretary of state. The company will be capitalized at $100,000.

The Chicago Times-Herald, commenting on the supposed $200,000,000 automobile trust, observes: "The price of automobiles has placed them beyond the reach of the man of ordinary means. This trust must be, after all, then, a case of 'benevolent assimilation' on the part of the generous and philanthropical makers of automobiles. It is possible that the object of this combination is to make automobiles so cheap that the mechanic may ride in one to and from his place of employment and the servant girls may take a spin in them after the culinary labors of the day are ended.

TRAGEDY IN TENNES[illegible]

Ex-Soldier, White Drunk, G[illegible]on the War Path.

At Almy (Paint Rock Mi[illegible] four miles from Knoxville, Tenn., Addy Chitwood was shot and i[illegible]antly killed Saturday night by Eli Phillips.

Chitwood owned a saw mill w[illegible]t of Oneida, and had gone to Paint Rock to see about getting some piping. He met Phillips, and after having a friendly chat, went to a house near by, where they got into a dispute in regard to change. Phillips called Chitwood a liar, and at the same time drew his pistol and fired while Chitwood was on his knees, the ball penetrating his heart, causing instant death.

For the last ten days Phillips has been on a drunk, and boasted he was going to kill his man and then join the army. Last Wednesday while he was at Oneida he shot a drummer's valise all to pieces, and the same day shot a man by the name of Chambers, hitting him in the foot. Saturday he shot at Charles Keelon, held up the Paint Rock engine that carries the mail from the mines to Oneida, and at 10 p. m. [illegible]nd his threat by killing Chitwood. FARM LABOR TROUBLES.

Georgia Farmers After "Peg Leg" Williams for Interfering With Hands.

A special from Madison, Ga., says: W. A. Williams, the emigrant agent, who during the past six weeks has sent 2,500 negroes out of Greene and Morgan counties into Mississippi, Texas and Arkansas, has been in jail here twenty-four hours as a measure of safety, a mob of farmers having threatened his life at Greensboro Saturday afternoon.

Williams, who is known all over the south as "Peg Leg" Williams, has been in this county this time several days. He had engaged a number of negroes to leave Greensboro Saturday night for the west, and was there arranging for their departure. The negroes have been leaving the farmers in large numbers of late, and many of them are entirely without help.

WORK OF A CRAZY NEGRO.

Quaker Preacher Instantly Killed—Murderer Meets the Same Fate.

The usual quiet of Southampton county, Va., was disturbed Saturday by a tragedy in which an inoffensive Quaker preacher and a crazy negro lost their lives and several men were wounded.

A negro named Rix, while walking along the country road met Thomas Hall and George Bradshaw, two white farmers. He opened fire on them without provocation, wounding both. Rix subsequently met Rev. Mills Rayford, a preacher, and shot him down. Death was instantaneous.

A posse was organized and pursued Rix. He was overtaken, but resisted arrest. Drawing his revolver he fired upon his pursuers, wounding one or two of them. His capture being impossible without the use of firearms, he was quickly shot down and died in a few minutes. Rix was deranged.

Smallpox at Jackson, Miss.

Considerable uneasiness is felt in Jackson, Miss., over the increase of smallpox. The disease is now making its appearance among white people. The uneasiness is especially manifest among the members of the legislature, and the city health officer made an address to the lower house, advising all members to be vaccinated. The disease continues mild.

RURAL MAIL DELIVERY

Marvelous Growth and Popularity of the System.

"Up to the present time there has been nothing in the history of the postal service of the United States," says the annual report of the first assistant postmaster-general, "so remarkable as the growth of the rural free delivery system. The daily delivery of mail at the farm, by the Federal Government, is no longer an experiment. In the language of the report, the system is to be dealt with as an established agency of progress, awaiting the action of the Congress to determine how rapidly it shall be developed." The current month finds rural free delivery of mail in successful operation from 383 distributing points radiating over forty States and one Territory, while other districts from Maine to Texas are anxiously waiting for those regular visits of Uncle Sam which mean so much in a variety of ways.

MR. CARRIER, BOWLING GREEN, OHIO.
(Twenty degrees below zero.)

This country is learning that ethical considerations like these are most intensely practical, and that a study of these problems is what the country needs for a truly larger growth. But the facts are deduced in the report to appeal to those to whom figures are the only tangible evidence. So the report sets forth that whenever the system has been started properly, it has been followed by these results: Increased postal receipts. More mail is written and received. More papers and magazines are subscribed for. So marked is this development that many rural routes already pay for themselves by the additional business they bring. The enhancement of the value of farm property reached by rural free delivery. The increase in value has been estimated as high as $5 an acre in some cases. A moderate estimate is from $1 an acre.

Better prices obtained for farm products, the producers being brought into daily touch with the state of the markets, and thus being enabled to take advantage of information heretofore unattainable.

In the communities where it has been tried free delivery is considered the greatest boon that the Government ever has conferred on them. One Missouri farmer has calculated that in the last fifteen years he has driven 12,000 miles going to and from the postoffice to get his mail—all travel that is saved to him by the free delivery system.

In the last report of the First Assistant Postmaster-General there are some striking illustrations.

There is, for example, a scene at a country store, twelve miles from Lafayette, Ind., from which point three rural letter carriers start daily, each making a circuitous drive of twenty-five miles or more, without passing over the same road twice. At the particular point photographed four cross roads meet, and twenty or more families, most of them living half a mile from the store, have each put up an individual letter box of galvanized iron, lettered with the name of the person for whom it is intended.

RURAL DELIVERY MAIL BOXES AT TORIA, ILL.

Into this box the carrier, whose hour of arrival is known, and scarcely varies ten minutes, winter or summer, drops the letters and daily papers for each family, and collects in return their mails which are deposited in a Government collection box, placed in position at the same spot. The farmer's children, or such idle hands as he can spare, gather up the mail and carry it to the house, and the farmer is thus spared a drive of twelve miles to the postoffice, which he would hardly feel justified in undertaking in the most favorable weather more than twice a week, and then at much personal inconvenience and pecuniary loss. With the rural free delivery the mail and his paper [illegible] of time and money.

The hardships sometimes encountered by the rural carriers are shown in the photograph of a rural carrier in Northern Ohio returning from a trip when the thermometer was forty degrees below zero. Yet, though the First Assistant Postmaster-General reports that there are several girls acting as bonded rural carriers, few instances are recorded of their failing to make their daily trips, either in the coldest storms of winter or the blazing heat of summer.

One question which has received grave consideration by the Department is the insecurity and improper character of the mail boxes put up. On this subject the First Assistant Postmaster-General says:

In the early days of the service, when neither Congress nor the Postoffice Department, as then organized, held out any hope that rural free delivery would prove more than a transitory experiment, extreme carelessness was manifested as to the kind of receptacles put up as rural free delivery boxes. Tomato cans, cigar boxes, drainage pipes up ended, soap boxes and even sections of discarded stove pipes were used as mail boxes, and were frequently placed in hedge rows or other inconvenient spots out of reach of the carrier.

The Department has entered upon a systematic effort to correct this condition of things, and a recommendation is made that the Government provide uniform boxes and maintain them, charging a moderate rental.

Kaiser's Great Ring of State.

Whenever the Emperor of Germany is engaged in an important function, either imperial or royal, those near him notice that should he by any chance take the glove off his left hand he wears on the middle finger a large ring—a square, dark-colored stone set in massive gold.

The story is that the ring is an old heirloom in the Hohenzollern family, dating from the time when the ancestors of the Kaiser—the Margrafs of Nuremberg—followed their leaders to the capture of the Holy Sepulchre from the Moslems.

Margraf, of Ulrich, who lived in the thirteenth century, was an adventurous prince, and it is believed that the ring which the Kaiser now wears came into Ulrich's possession after a hard-fought battle under the walls of Jerusalem. It belonged to one of Saladin's successors, and in some unexplained manner it found its way on to the finger of the German Knight.

Some one of the Nuremberg Margrafs obliterated the sentence from the Koran which originally adorned it and engraved a Latin cross in its place.

BILL ARP'S LETTER.

Bartow Man Has an Interesting Treatise on "Time."

FIGURES "1900" LOOKS VERY STRANGE.

They Indicate That Old Father Time Is On the Move—Century Question Discussed.

If a man can dodge around the 20th century question it is a fitting time for him to consider the shrinkage of time since he was a boy, and to ponder upon the reason why the years grow shorter and shorter as he grows older and wiser, and how the period is surely coming when there will be no years or months and time will be no more. According to scripture this thing called time is a perishable elastic compressible creation adapted to man in his state of probation and not at all necessary to the creator who said "before the world was made I am." God always speaks of himself in the present tense "I am [illegible]" is one eternal [illegible]now without be[illegible]ning of [illegible] end of days. [illegible] cannot comprehend this, but [illegible] goal we can almost ca[illegible] of its possibility.

That time is compr[illegible]d elastic all of us have exper[illegible] sometimes the hours seem [illegible] In our dreams we som[illegible]ense hours and days of eve[illegible] de-lirious moments. I[illegible]r-get the anxiety and [illegible] effort to keep my bro[illegible] ing a duel and how I [illegible] all the correspondenc[illegible] and his adversary and how the duel could not be avoi[illegible] I carefully selected and loa[illegible] tol[illegible] measured off the d[illegible] de an[illegible] effort t[illegible] d p[illegible] he [illegible] and a[illegible] not more than [illegible]nute—an[illegible] membered every [illegible]ne and corres[illegible]sence, and whe[illegible] from my fever could [illegible] time of hours was co[illegible] ments. Just so [illegible] who thought to be drowned and w[illegible] suscitated tell us that a pano[illegible] their whole life came before [illegible] they lost consciousness. Every[illegible] and thought and deed and even[illegible] they had witnessed from the childhood was as vivid and real as if it were just transpiring. There can be no doubt about this experience of many persons. It is well confirmed.

We are just on the verge of knowing wonderful things and my faith is that we will know when we put off this mortal coil and our souls are released and free. We have implanted within us a spark of divinity, but only a spark.

But alas, how little we do know and how utterly helpless we are. We know not whence we came, or whither we are going. We cannot make one hair white or black. We cannot tell by what mysterious power we raise our hands or move our feet or wink our eyelashes. We cannot add a day or an hour to our lives, nor foresee the accidents that may befall us as we move to and fro on the land or sea. We cannot escape the pestilence that walketh at noonday nor make ourselves secure against fire and flood and famine.

What pitiful creatures we are, and yet we see everywhere around us young men who are conceited and proud of their manhood or their money and we see young girls who are vain of their beauty or their dress when they played no part in the formation [illegible] the one or the earning of the oth[illegible] A beautiful woman is close kin to the angels, and she should be thankful that God made her so, but she has no excuse in the world for being vain. Humility is her loveliest ornament. As for these conceited and haughty young men who strut around in fine clothes that they never earned or that they got by short cuts and dishonorable means, they excite only pity or contempt. When we look upon them we can but exclaim with David, "Lord what is man that thou art mindful of him?"

Young men, why don't you humble yourselves under the mighty hand of God, who made you. You have not the remotest idea who you are today, and you don't care if you havent. You have traveled 300,000,000 of miles since the last year and got back to the same place you started from. You travel 30,000 miles an hour and every day turn a summersault 25,000 miles round and don't know it, and you don't care if you don't. The Creator is your engineer and runs your train without a run-off or a collision and you never think of Him or thank Him. You seem to think that you are doing it.

I reckon the twentieth century problem is about settled. It is an old problem and perplexed mankind away back in the ages. The question used to be whether the year prior to the birth of Christ was 1 B. C., or 0 B. C., and the mathematicians and the astronomers settled it down at 0 B. C., and began the new era with 1, A. D., and it remained 1, A. D. for 365 days. But aside from this the problem is purely a mathematical one, for if it takes 100 years to make a century it will take 1900 years to make 19 centuries, and they will not have pasted until next January comes. What a world of confusion these old popes and monks and kings got our chronology into. With some of them the year began the 25th of March, with others 1st of January, and Christmas and Easter. One time the year was set back three months and at another time 12 days. The year was divided into 9 months and 10 months and 11 months and at the last into 12 months. They treated old Father Time according to their whims. Julius Caesar stuck in a month to gratify his vanity and he called it July. This made Augustus Caesar jealous and he stuck in another month and called it August.

But about 150 years ago all Christendom got the divisions of time settled down upon the present basis and I hope it will stick. We do not know that the Savior was born 1899 years ago last Christmas, but that is as near as can be approximated, and it is near enough for all Christians to observe and be thankful for.

1900. There is a meaning in those figures. Everytime they are written on a letterhead or a ledger or a bank note or check or hotel register or printed on a newspaper they mean something. The pens of Christians and infidels and Jews and Gentiles are all writing it visible and indelible upon the paper. Every moment of time it is being written all over the world and every mark establishes a great fact that 1899 years ago there was a birth—a notable birth, and old Father Time suddenly stopped the old calendar and began a new count and called it Anno Domini.

What a wonderful event it must have been that closed the record of the ages and started time on a new cycle. How in the world did it happen? The Greeks had their calendar and the Romans had theirs and the Jews had one that was handed down by Moses. The Greeks had the olyphiads and the Romans the birth of their ancient and the Mohammedans the flight [illegible]homet, but all were over sha[illegible] and still are by the one set [illegible]ful of friendless Chri[illegible] wonderful thing is th[illegible] simple [illegible]ures. [illegible] day and [illegible]ad th[illegible]

[illegible]s all p[illegible]der [illegible] prove.—[illegible]

[illegible]ing a [illegible]d thirty-ti[illegible] inju[illegible]ised by auto[illegible]obiles [illegible]at during the same [illegible]wn by horses have [illegible]n sixty-seven deaths The statistics are [illegible] an conclusive, be[illegible] take into account [illegible] of the two kinds of vehicles [illegible]s. But the fact that the automo[illegible]e, whether in Paris or New York [illegible]ty, is less dangerous to passers-by [illegible]an is the horsed carriage can scarcely be doubted. Machinery is always [illegible]ler better control than any living organism, especially when the living organism has high-strung nerves and absolutely no common sense, as in the case with the horse, that scares at an old hat or a vagrant newspaper and goes mad over vain imaginings when it sees a man drawing a buggy or a boy riding a bicycle without holding the handle-bars.

A novel fire-fighting apparatus in the service of the San Francisco fire department, and known as the monitor battery, bears somewhat the appearance of a small cannon mounted on two wheels. It is an effective substitute for a water-tower, with the added advantages that it can be operated in narrow streets or alleys, is not impeded by the overhead wires, and can be used for any fire, from the basement up to the fourth floor. From a point of economy, the machine deserves mention too, because it requires but one man and one horse, whereas a water-tower takes three men and three horses to operate it. Hose from six engines may be concentrated in the battery, and the great force of water is easily handled by the operator with a lever. The total weight of the battery complete is 1650 pounds, and, owing to its construction and free waterway, a solid stream is thrown ranging from 200 to 300 feet, according to the pressure.

Secretary Gold of the Connecticut board of agriculture has issued a second report on the subject of abandoned farms in the state, the first report having been issued seven years ago. The secretary says that later experience shows that there are very few abandoned farms in Connecticut and that many towns report none at all, while a great many farms once abandoned have of late years been taken up. There are, however, he says, many farms in the state for sale at very low prices, and he gives a list of 155 such farms, some of them ranging from $5 to $8 an acre, including farm buildings. He calls attention to the change of industrial conditions in the farm towns of the state during the last half century, especially noting the great decline of sheep-raising and cheese-making and the extinction of small factories, particularly tanneries, in the rural regions.

ROUNTREE'S REPORT

To the Alabama State Fair Association. Reviews Its History.

J. A. Rountree, secretary of the Alabama Fair Association, has made an exhaustive report, including a complete review of the history of the organization, etc., to the board of directors.

After reciting the organization of the association, Mr. Rountree states that of the $15,000 of capital stock subscribed $8,596 were paid in. Of this amount T. G. Hewlett paid, $3,500, L. A. Stubblefield $2,310 and P. G. Bowman $1,000. Donations from the railroad and citizens amounted to $1,665.

The total number of persons passing through the gates were 53,693, of which 45,693 were paid admissions.

Mr. Rountree compliments the Women's Department, and mentions the contracts made with 144 weekly papers of the state for advertising, amounting to $585.95. He recommends that if any creditors can be preferred they be.

The report is quite a lengthy one. It makes no recommendations except that referring to the weekly newspapers.

Work on Mt. Vernon Barracks.

Lt. James T. Searcy, superintendent of the Alabama Bryce Insane Hospital, and S. N. Naylor, supervisor of the Hospital farm, went to Mobile Monday to make arrangements for the commencement of work on the reservation of the old Mt. Vernon barracks, recently given to the state by the government. Dr. Searcy proposes to have the buildings there fixed up for keeping the negroes. They will be there a week, having the plans and everything in shape so as to send down on their return about fifty negroes to commence work on a cleaning and straightening up of the buildings.

McClure Murder Still a Mystery.

The coroner's inquest in the McClure assassination case at Florence held its final session Monday afternoon and examined Marshall Boyle, the man who is held under suspicion of complicity in the killing of McClure. The prisoner was remanded to jail to await further developments and will be given a preliminary hearing during this week. The mystery of the assassination is as far from solution as when the investigation began.

Primary in Dallas.

The Dallas county primaries were held Monday and the election was one of the most hotly contested ever held in Dallas county. From returns received from fifteen of the leading precincts out of thirty-eight, it appears that J. H. Lumpkin, the present sheriff, was elected tax assessor. Frank M. Blackwell swept the county for sheriff. C. P. Morrison succeeds himself for tax collector.

Young Lady Tried for Arson.

A Miss Bramlet was tried at Edwardsville for arson last week and committed to jail in default of $300 bond. She was accused of burning the house occupied by the county paupers. One child was burned to death in the house.

Allegedly Ended His Life.

Mr. C. C. Bates, a prominent [illegible]an of Chambers county, committed suicide by shooting himself through the head. For several years he had been meeting with business reverses, until he lost all he had, and, moving to West Point, himself and family went to work in a cotton factory. Becoming disheartened, he ended his life as stated.

SENATOR John T. Morgan and Governor Johnston are firing at each other at long range, the Senator staying in Washington while the Governor remains in Alabama. The casualities so far are all on the Governor side.

COL. E. L. Russell has written to the Mobile Register fully exonerates, [illegible] as necessary, Governor [illegible] from the charge of [illegible] ment in [illegible] were [illegible] Ohio railroad company making arrangements [illegible] a branch road from Billingsley to Selma, undertaking to have completed by the end of the year. It is much to be hoped, however, that this branch will not stop at Billingsley. It will prove a valuable feeder to the M. & O. system, but it should be continued from Billingsley to Clanton, thus opening up a flourishing part of this county which would largely swell the traffic on that road. We have two of the finest railroad systems in the country crossing Chilton county from north to south, and the western part as well served by the Southern road, but we need direct railroad communication from east to west across the centre of the county, and the branch from Billingsley to Clanton will fill a long-felt want. We hope this matter will receive due consideration from the enterprising management of the M. & O. road.

IT appeared possible, a short time ago, for all the white voters of Chilton county to come together again and nominate one ticket. But from all we can learn there is now no prospect of any such solution, and there will be a straight party fight for the county offices. The Democrats will put out a full ticket and the Populists will do likewise. Under the circumstances we would advise that the Populist Executive Committee meet and form their plan of action. It is probable there will be a considerable number of candidates for each office and this necessarily engenders a certain amount of friction. An early primary or convention gives time to allay all feelings of rivalry, and the fight in the primary being over, all unite in solid phalanx to meet the enemy. It should be borne in mind that the primary is the place to settle all party differences—every man can urge his own particular candidate there, and do his best to secure for him the nomination to the office he covets. But after the primary every man should stand by the party's nominees, and do his best to elect them. That is the object of the primary, to ascertain the strongest men, and then all stand shoulder to shoulder to elect them. If there should be discussion after a primary it is possible for a small minority to elect their men and the great majority be left unrepresented. Let all stand together.

HOME LIFE ON THE FARM.

At the recent session of the Cotton States Association of Commissioners of Agriculture, one of the speakers said: "That anyone who travelled through the cotton raising States would find that the cotton farmers' homes needed improving. These homes had no attractions."

In numberless cases this is unfortunately too true, and to a very great extent it can be easily remedied. The one great drawback to farm life is it is a life of isolation. Each family is thrown on its own resources for amusement and recreation. After a long day of hard work, when all are tired and need relaxation, it is too fatiguing to travel in the dark to visit even the nearest neighbor, who also is so worn out with the day's labor he is not anxious to welcome company.

So the farmers' family must find within its own circle what amusement and enjoyment it can. All human beings need some relaxation from the grinding cares of work. In too many cases after the day's labor is finished at sundown, supper is hastily eaten and the tired laborers go at once to bed, to rise in the morning to go again through the same routine.

Life, under such circumstances, seems hardly worth living. Even if it should suit the older folks, the younger set are entitled to a little [illegible] from work, work work! [illegible] in which an improvement [illegible] ected would be for the [illegible] r supper, to meet to [illegible] well-li ned roo [illegible] hour [illegible] up, and with a [illegible] enjoy [illegible] d newspa [illegible] have [illegible] esh co [illegible] and [illegible] rning e [illegible] ual would [illegible] to work w [illegible] ed vigor.

Illustrated periodicals [illegible] everlasting field of ente [illegible] for those whose educati [illegible] fortunately from any [illegible] ever been neglected, an [illegible] one person in a whole [illegible] can entertain them all by r [illegible] ding aloud. Don't let the reading [illegible] e of too serious a nature all the [illegible] ne, for nothing is truer than "[illegible] ttle nonsense now and then is [illegible] ished by the wisest men."

We would much like some of our readers to give us their experience in passing the evening on the farm; it being understood by evening we mean the time between supper and bed. We know many of our people have very pleasant evenings, and their experience would be of great value to others. "All work and no play" is not good for any of us, and if we can help each other to a greater enjoyment of life we ought to be glad to do so.

THE figures from the State Auditor's office concerning the sale of guano tags are such as should commend the earnest consideration of every farmer. Up to January 10 it appears that the farmers of Alabama are preparing to use fifteen times as much guano this year as they did last year. We are cognizant of the fact that every farmer is going to run his own business to suit himself, but we would respectfully ask each man to carefully figure out for himself how much of the cash he has received for this last crop it will pay him to expend in guano. The better price paid for cotton this fall has been decidedly encouraging, but if the small surplus is to be invested for guano to raise a monster crop the next season it will prove disastrous at the close of the year. But no matter how much cotton is raised we earnestly hope that every man will first of all see that he plants enough corn and other produce to meet the requirements of his own family. Home supplies first of all, then all the cotton you can raise, would seem to be the best plan for this year.

If troubled with Dizziness, Furred Tongue, Bitter Taste in Mouth, Bloated Feeling after eating, Constipation or Sick Headache, use Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine. Sold by Clanton Drug Co.

SPECIAL OFFE[illegible]

FOR THREE WEEKS ONLY.

This year is one of especial interest to everyone. In Chilton county we have to elect a Representative, Sheriff, Tax Assessor, Tax Collector, Treasurer and four Commissioners. In the senatorial district we have to elect a State Senator. In the State we have to elect a Governor and all the rest of the State officers. The legislature will have to elect a United States Senator. Then there is a Congressman to be elected and a President of the United States. Lots of elections, and you want to know all about them.

Two wars are now in progress and stirring events are to be expected. You want to keep posted.

The census is to be taken this year, you will have to be included, and of course want to know how the country is progressing.

To keep up with all this you will have to have a good newspaper, and we make this special offer

Help... Nature

Babies and children need proper food, rarely ever medicine. If they do not thrive on their food something is wrong. They need a little help to get their digestive machinery working properly.

SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME & SODA

will generally correct this difficulty.

If you will put from one-fourth to half a teaspoonful in baby's bottle three or four times a day you will soon see a marked improvement. For larger children, from half to a teaspoonful, according to age, dissolved in their milk, if you so desire, will very soon show its great nourishing power. If the mother's milk does not nourish the baby, she needs the emulsion. It will show an effect at once both upon mother and child.

50c. and $1.00, all druggists.

Our Story [illegible] Calendar.

One of the best calendars of the season is the "Cattle Weather Chart and Calendar for 1900", published by the Chattanooga Medicine Company, the manufacturers of Mc-Elree's Wine of Cardui and Thedford's Black-Draught. The Banner office has just received one from the publishers, which consists of twelve sheets of paper, 13 x 20 inches in size, all fastened together with a gilt tin strip and a brass loop hanger. Each sheet contains the calendar for one month in large figures that can be read across any room. Under the signals patent weather signals indicating Prof. DeVoe's Weather Forecasts for every day in the year appear. The moon's changes and legal holidays are also shown. We understand a few copies of it can be secured by sending 10 one-cent postage stamps to the Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

And Good For Clanton, Too

In urging the building of a cotton mill at Enterprise, the Weekly Enterprise says: The writer was in Eutaula two weeks ago. We were requested to interview Captain Jno. W. Tullis, who is president of the big cotton mill of that city. We asked him pointedly if there was money in the cotton mill business. We gained from him in substance, the following information: "Yes" said he there is money in it for the men who own the stock; money in it for the people of a community in which it is located; money in it for the merchants and money in it for the farmers surrounding the town. Why, yes. We have made 6 per cent net after all expenses are paid, and will clear 8 per cent net quarter." "How many, then, have over [illegible]?" "Hundreds." [illegible] you get this for- [illegible] ch the ea[illegible] mills pos[illegible]n, you are situated in a fine country, where you have easy access to thousands of cords of fine wood for steam purposes. This affords a market for farmers to sell their wastage at a fair price. A well conducted cotton mill at Enterprise will pay even more than one in a larger town, because of these and other advantages which it possesses.

Why Do We Eat?

First, we must build up the tissues in the growing body and reconstruct those worn out by use; second, we must supply nervous, muscular and digestive force to the different parts of the body. Scott's Emulsion plays a very important part as regards both objects. All delicate and rapidly growing children need it.

Mrs. S. E. Allen, Waycooche, Ala., writes: Have taken Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine 12 years. I had a Bad Cough; thought I had consumption; could not do any housework. After using it awhile I got well and strong and can do my work with perfect ease. I would not give one package of it for half-dozen Black Draught. For sale by Clanton Drug Co.

Late Literary News

Good reading for the new year predominates in the January issue of "The Cosmopolitan." Among the sixteen well-known writers who have contributed to its pages are A. T. Quiller-Couch ("Q"), with a stirring bit of fiction entitled "The Lady of the Ship"; John Luther Long, who has furnished a story in a new field, which he entitles "Dizzy Dave"; Kirk La Shelle, who tells of the tricks of "The Theatrical Advance Agent," and Seumas MacManus, who brings forth another of his clever Irish stories under the title of "Pathrick's Proxy."

It has been demonstrated repeatedly in every state in the Union and in many foreign countries that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a certain preventive and cure for croup. It has become the universal remedy for that disease. M. V. Fisher, of Liberty, W. Va., only repeats what has been said around the globe when he writes: "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in my family for several years and always with perfect success. We believe that it is not only the best cough remedy, but that it is a sure cure for croup. It has saved the lives of our children a number of times." This remedy is for sale by Clanton Drug Co.

STATES HIS CASE.

The Secretary of the Treasury Sent to Congress.

ESTABLISHED POLICY.

[illegible] in the Treasury, Mr. Gage De[illegible] is a Menace to Business—Why [illegible]onal City Bank Was Chosen to [illegible] Revenue Collections—The House Purchase.

[illegible] D. C. (Special).—Secretary [illegible] sent to Congress his reply to the [illegible] recently introduced in the Sen[illegible] Allen, of Nebraska, and in the [illegible] Mr. Sulzer, of New York.

[illegible] Secretary gives a number of reasons [illegible] course. He says he utilized Na[illegible] banks as depositories under the law, [illegible] that not to withdraw large sums in[illegible] of doing so would disturb business. The revenues largely exceed the disburse[illegible]ments, and this would be a menace to busi[illegible] if the surplus were not diverted from [illegible] Treasury vaults.

Regarding the choice of the National [illegible] Bank, he says the reason "was that [illegible] the time the order was issued it was one [illegible] but two banks which had offered bonds sufficient to cover the amount of the daily deposit. Its bond deposit was $4,000,000 and that of the Hanover National Bank [illegible]10,500. The National City Bank was [illegible] the one most naturally chosen. [illegible] sixty-eight banks applying for a [illegible] the deposits, the National City [illegible] Hanover National Bank and [illegible]hers, applicants for over $800,000 [illegible] the only ones out of the sixty [illegible] constituting group one, which ha[illegible] supplied the full amount [illegible] had offered security. [illegible] Custom-House property was [illegible] National City Bank as the b[illegible] on July 3, 1899. Under [illegible] it had the option of p[illegible] the purchase money at [illegible] it might elect [illegible] it was absolutel[illegible] this option [illegible] leaving [illegible] be execut[illegible] made." [illegible] matter [illegible] posit, [illegible]

"The [illegible] the Treas[illegible] Nati[illegible] City Bank, [illegible] established custom of [illegible] under the counsel of the [illegible] supported by decisions o[illegible] to con[illegible]sider moneys o[illegible] credit of the Treasurer of [illegible] in desig[illegible]nated depositories [illegible] in the Treas[illegible]ury. This deposit wa[illegible] a depository bank for the same reas[illegible] other deposits have been made in the[illegible] because to withdraw the currency [illegible] the vaults of the Treasury, where it wa[illegible] needed and could not be utilized, woul[illegible] required a withdrawal of credit that [illegible] being ex[illegible]tended in commercial circles, [illegible] to that extent a disturbance to the na[illegible] order of business would have followed.

"To have required its payment by the National City Bank to another des[illegible] depository would have been an un[illegible] discrimination without substantially changing the fact.

"Finally under my administration of the the Treasury Department no discrimina[illegible]tion in favor of one bank against another has been made. Generally speaking, when an increase in depository banks was desired all have been invited to qualify themselves for receiving such money, and have been equally and equitably consid[illegible]ered in their respective relations to the Treasury."

RELEASE AMERICAN FLOUR.

British Authorities Yield to American Representations.

London (By Cable).—The American flour seized off Delagoa Bay has been released.

The United States Ambassador, Joseph H. Choate, had an interview with the Mar[illegible]quis of Salisbury and received a verbal re[illegible]ply to the representations of the Washing[illegible]ton Government. The British note on this subject was sent later to the United States Embassy. The gist of it was cabled to Washington. In brief, foodstuffs are not considered contraband of war unless in[illegible]tended for the enemy.

Several of the Government's advisers wanted to make a regulation regarding canned goods, but this was decided to be impracticable. The decision to make flour and grain in transit to the enemy contra[illegible]band is evidently hedged in by many difficulties of execution. But the Foreign Office believes that investigation will generally determine whether the grain is really meant for consumption at Lorenzo Marques or in the Transvaal.

Mr. Choate cabled Lord Salisbury's note to the State Department at Washington, and Colonel Hay is expected to reply ac[illegible]cepting the terms.

The British authorities, it is announced, also have released the German steamer Herzog, which was seized on January 6 while on her way to Lorenzo Marques.

LORD ROBERTS IN SOUTH AFRICA.

Over 120,000 British Troops on the De[illegible]fensive or Waiting to Attack.

London (By Cable).—General Lord Rob[illegible]erts, the new commander of the British forces in South Africa, and his chief of staff, General Lord Kitchener, have ar[illegible]rived at Cape Town.

With their arrival it is assumed that their clearer vision, supported by 35,000 fresh men who are due to arrive in South Africa within thirty days, will alter the situation, and that the fourth month of the campaign will witness the beginning of victories for the British arms.

They are not, however, expected to pro[illegible]duce definite results for some days; but their mere presence will restore the shaken confidence of the men at the front in their Generals.

Lord Roberts finds 120,000 men on the defensive or watching for an opening.

Lord Methuen's health, according to the Daily Mail, has "broken down," and the Field Marshal may relieve him. Possibly some others will be relieved of important commands. There is certainly plenty of rank in evidence in South Africa. In addi[illegible]tion to the Field Marshal, there are two full Generals, four Lieutenant-Generals and twelve or fourteen Major-Generals.

[illegible]arts as Good as New.

Mrs. E[illegible] Gladstone, aged sixty[illegible] three [illegible] sued Joseph Boardman, a millionaire, aged seventy-three, for dam[illegible]ages for breach of promise of marriage, has been given a verdict for $25,000 by a jury in Judge Hunt's Court at San Fran[illegible]cisco, Cal.

JULIA MORRISON FREED.

Chattanooga Jury Acquits Actress Who Shot Her Stage Manager.

When the Verdict Was Announced There Was Cheering in the Court-Room Woman Makes a Speech.

Chattanooga, Tenn. (Special).—The jury in the trial of Julia Morrison returned a verdict of not guilty. The jurors decided upon their verdict in exactly two minutes. The verdict was based on the plea of emo[illegible]tional insanity and self-defense. Neither of the questions was ever considered, how[illegible]ever, after the jury went out. The court room was crowded. Scores of women were present.

The verdict aroused the crowds in the courtroom to a great demonstration. Cheers and applause rang out, and it was with great difficulty that the Court re[illegible]stored order. As soon as quiet could be had Miss Morrison advanced to the speaker's platform and made a most dramatic speech to the Court and the jury. She said:

"I wish to thank the Court and the gentlemen of the jury and all who were instrumental in my acquittal for your just and generous decision. May God in His mercy be ever as just to you and yours as you have been to me to-day. As for the prosecution, I wish to say that I fully for[illegible]give them, and bear them no malice for their strenuous efforts for my conviction.

"As to my persecutors," she continued, turning toward Mrs. George J. Antz, the beautiful sister of the murdered actor, who was overcome with emotion and suffused in tears, "I leave them to their consciences and their God. To the poor bereaved sis[illegible]ter I say that God knows that were it in my power to restore her brother to her I would certainly do it."

When Miss Morrison had finished her speech, which she rendered in a dramatic style, Attorney-General Donaldson made a demand that she be held for carrying a pistol and the case was entered, but no bail or other formal court recognition was [illegible]orded the action.

[illegible]ss Morrison went shortly after hearing [illegible] verdict to the jail, where she had a [illegible] reception for her friends. Every [illegible] called and shook hands with her, [illegible] for a photograph. She [illegible] and kissed his wife and [illegible] then later Colonel Joe [illegible] of counsel, came into the [illegible] threw herself on his neck [illegible] head an[illegible] wept wit[illegible]

FOUR NEGROES LYNCHED.

Givney Brothers Hanged Without Trial for Shooting Officers on Arrest Duty.

Ripley, Tenn. (Special).—Four ne[illegible]groes have been lynched as a result of the murder of Peace Officerss Marvin Durham and W. D. Turner by the Givney brothers. The Givneys, who are also negroes, shot the two officials as they were escorting a brother of the murderers to jail.

Roger and Henry Givney, who commit[illegible]ted the deed, were at once jailed, but a mob of six hundred men surrounded the jail and demanded the keys. These were surrendered and the Givneys taken out and hanged to the nearest tree. Later on Reuben and Frank Givney, brothers of the murderers, and accused of complicity in the crime, were captured and lynched.

MONEY LOST FROM SUB-TREASURY.

Congress Asked by Assistant-Treasurer Jordan to Reimburse Him.

Washington, D. C. (Special).—Congress has been asked to refund $2,644.75 lost from the Sub-Treasury in New York City. This money has been refunded to the Govern[illegible]ment by Assistant-Treasurer Jordan, and he seeks to have Congress reimburse him for the amount missing.

In a letter transmitted to Congress by the Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Gage, Mr. Jordan incloses affidavits from em[illegible]ployes of the Sub-Treasury, declaring that no clue can be discovered as to how the money was lost. The officials simply know that their accounts are short to the extent announced, and Congress is asked to make this good.

PERSIA MENACED BY RUSSIA.

The Latter Strengthens Her Armaments and Advances Her Outposts.

London (By Cable).—The Calcutta corre[illegible]spondent of the Daily Mail says:

"While the official statement that no alarm is felt concerning Afghanistan is quite true, I have good reason to believe that the Indian Government has received disquieting information regarding Russian movements in the direction of Persia.

"Russia is taking advantage of the Transvaal trouble to strengthen her arma[illegible]ments and to push forward her outposts along the Persian frontier, with a view of ultimate annexation, a design in which Germany would probably acquiesce in con[illegible]sideration of receiving railway conces[illegible]sions."

Fourteen Drowned Off French Coast.

A fishing boat foundered off Boulogne-sur-Mer, France, in a heavy gale, nine of the crew perishing. The bark Jeanne Eugenie sank near Cherbourg and five per[illegible]sons were drowned.

Thirteen Children Frozen to Death.

Thirteen school children while on their way home from school near Neuhaus, Bo[illegible]hemia, were overtaken by a severe snow storm and frozen to death. The searching party discovered the children in a ditch near the highway deeply buried under the snow. They had crept closely together, and their arms hung around each other's necks.

BRITISH REPLY RECEIVED

Secretary Hay's Contentions on the Flour Seizures Conceded.

CONTRABAND OF WAR DEFINED.

Right of Neutrals to Forward Goods is Formally Admitted—British Reply is Called Satisfactory at Washington—Question of Indemnity Will Be Settled Without the Aid of a Commission.

Washington, D. C. (Special).—Not only has Great Britain admitted the right of the United States to trade with the neutral Portuguese possessions in South Africa, but she has officially declared the right of neutrals to sell and forward goods not con[illegible]traband of war to the Transvaal for the use of non-combatants there.

This important declaration was made by the British Government in its reply, hand[illegible]ed to Ambassador Choate, which he for[illegible]warded to the State Department, and which he calls "highly satisfactory." With the recognition of this principle, which the administration has supported from the out[illegible]set of the negotiations; the disavowal of the seizure of the American cargoes on the Mashona and Maria, and the investigation [illegible]ship of the cargo on board the Beatrice, to which the same principle will be applied, the incident is practically close.

The remaining negotiations will concern the question whether the cargoes [illegible] suf[illegible]fered any damage in consequenc[illegible] landing and detention. If the[illegible] authorities are satisfied that [illegible] government will be willing to r[illegible] owners.

ST. LOUIS FIGHTS FOR LIGHT.

Police Called to Protect the House of Delegates From a Mob.

St. Louis, Mo. (Special).—A mob attend[illegible]ed the meeting of the House of Delegates Friday at the City Hall to compel it to take steps to relight the city and public institu[illegible]tions in accordance with resolutions adopt[illegible]ed at Thursday's mass meeting. The crowd marched up and down shouting, "Lynch the scoundrels!"

Messrs. McBeth, Blair, McPheeters, Mc[illegible]Rae and Staunard, the Committee appointed at the Citizens' meeting, were admitted to the chamber. Delegate Kelley, a member of the Committee on Public Improvements, read a statement explaining the action of the majority in failing to pass the lighting bills and promising immediate relief. His remarks were frequently interrupted by shouts of "Boodle!" intermingled with threats of lynching.

A riot alarm was sent out and the police responded. They managed to keep the crowds in the corridors moving and pre[illegible]vented overt acts of violence. The House then read for the first time the Council bill providing for the temporary lighting of the city. On Monday the bill was passed with an emergency clause and the lights turned on again.

REV. DR. TALMAGE.

DISCOURSE BY THE EMINENT DIVINE LAST SUNDAY.

Subject: Capacity to Sleep—It is the Poor Man's Blessing—Words of Comfort For the Victims of Insomnia—Wakefulness a Means of Grace.

[Copyright, Louis Klopsch, 1900.]

Washington, D. C.—In this discourse Dr. Talmage treats of a style of disorder not much discoursed upon and unfolds what must be a consolation to many people; text, Psalms lxxvii., 4, "Thou holdest mine eyes waking."

Sleep is the vacation of the soul; it is the mind gone into the playground of dreams; it is the relaxation of the muscles and the solace of the nerves; it is the hush of ac[illegible]tivities; it is the soft curtaining of the eyes; it is a trance of eight hours; it is a calm[illegible]ing of the pulses; it is a breathing much slower, though far deeper; it is a tempor[illegible]ary oblivion of all carking cares; it is the doctor recognized by all schools of medi[illegible]cine; it is a divine narcotic; it is a com[illegible]plete anæsthetic; it is an angel of the night; it is a great mercy of God for the human race. Lack of it puts patients on the rack of torture, or in the madhouse, or in the grave. O blessed sleep! No wonder the Bible makes much of it. Through sleep so sound that a surgical incision of the side of Adam did not waken him, came the best temporal blessing ever afforded to man—wifely companionship. While in sleep on a pillow of rock Jacob saw a ladder set up, with angels coming down and climbing. So "He giveth His beloved sleep," soliloquized the psalmist. Solomon listens at the door of a tired workman and eulogizes his pillow by say[illegible]ing, "The sleep of a laboring man is sweet." Peter was calmly sleeping be[illegible]tween the two constables that night [illegible] [illegible] his ex[illegible] [illegible]oat on Galilee when [illegible] euroclydon. The annuncia[illegible] made to Joseph in sleep, and death is described as only a sleep and the resurrection as a glorious wakening out of sleep.

On the other hand, insomnia or sleep[illegible]lessness is an old disorder spoken of again and again in the Bible. Ahasuerus suf[illegible]fered from it, and we read, "In that night could not the king sleep." Joseph Hall said of that ruler, "He that could com[illegible]mand a hundred and seven and twenty provinces could not command sleep." Nebuchadnezzar had insomnia, and the record is, "His sleep brake from him." Solomon describes this trouble and says, "Neither day nor night seeth he sleep with his eyes." Asaph was its victim, for he complains in my text that his eyes are open at midnight, some mysterious power keeping the upper and lower lids from joining. "Thou holdest mine eyes wak[illegible]ing."

Of course there is an unrighteous sleep, as when Jonah, trying to escape from duty, slept in the sides of the ship while the Mediterranean was in wrath because of that prophetic passenger; as when Columbus in his first voyage, exhausted from being up many nights, gave the ship in charge of the steersman and the crew, who, leaving the management of the ves[illegible]sel to boys, went to sleep and allowed the ship to strike on the sand banks of St. Thomas; as when the sentinel goes to sleep at his post, endangering the whole army; as when the sluggard, who accom[illegible]plishes nothing the day before he went to sleep and will accomplish nothing the day after he wakes, fills up Solomon's picture of him as he yawns out, "A little sleep and a little slumber and a little folding of the hands to sleep." But sleep at the right time and amid the right circumstances, can you imagine anything more blessed? If sleep, according to sacred and profane literature, is an emblem of death, the morning to all refreshed slumberers is a resurrection.

Remark the first: If you have escaped the insomnia spoken of in the text, thank God. Here and there one can command sleep, and it comes the minute he orders it and departs at the minute he wishes it to go, as Napoleon when he wrote: "Different affairs are arranged in my bed as in draw[illegible]ers. When I wish to interrupt one train of thought I close the drawer which contains that subject and open that which contains another. They do not mix together or in[illegible]convenience me. I have never been kept awake by an involuntary preoccupation of mind. When I wish for repose I shut up all the drawers, and I am asleep. I have always slept when I wanted rest, and al[illegible]most at will." But I think in most cases we feel that sleep is not the result of a res[illegible]olution, but a direct gift from God. You cannot purchase it. A great French finan[illegible]cier cried out, "Alas, why is there no sleep to be sold?"

Remark the second: Consider among the worst crimes the robbery of ourselves or others of this mercy of slumber. Much ruinous doctrine has been inculcated on this subject. Thomas Moore gave poor ad[illegible]vice when he said, "The best way to lengthen our days is to steal a few hours from the night." We are told that, though they did their work at night, Copernicus lived to be seventy-three years of age, and Galilei seventy-eight years, and Herschel eighty-four years. Yes, but the reason was they were all star hunters, and the only time for hunting stars is at night. Prob[illegible]ably they slept by day. The night was made for slumber. The worst lamp a stu[illegible]dent can have is "the midnight lamp." Lord Brougham never passed more than four hours of the night abed, and Justinian, after one hour of sleep, would rise from his couch. But you are neither a Justinian nor a Lord Brougham. Let not the absurd apotheosis of early rising induce you to the abbreviation of sleep. Get up when you are slept out unless circumstances compel otherwise. Have no alarm clock making its nerve tearing racket at 4 o'clock in the morning, unless special rea[illegible]sons demand the forsaking of your pillow at that hour. Most of the theories about early rising we inherited from times when people retired at 8 or 9 o'clock in the even[illegible]ing. Such early retirement is impossible in our own times for those who are taking part in the great activities of life. There is no virtue in the mere act of early rising. It all depends upon what you do after you get up. It would be better for the world if some people never wakened at all.

Remark the third: All those ought to be comforted who by overwork in right direc[illegible]tions have come to insomnia. In all occu[illegible]pations and professions there are times when a special draft is made upon the ner[illegible]vous energy. There are thousands of men and women who cannot sleep because they were injured by overwork in some time of domestic or political or religious exigency. Mothers who, after taking a whole family of children through the disorders that are sure to strike the nursery, have been left physical wrecks, and one entire night of slumber is to them a rarity, if not an im[illegible]possibility. The attorney at law, who, through a long trial in poorly ventilated courtroom, has stood for weeks battling for the rights of widows and orphans or for the life of a client in whose innocence he is confident, though all the circum[illegible]stances are unfavorable. In his room he tries the case all night long and every night when he would like to be slumbering. The physician, in time of epidemic, worn out in saving the lives of whole families and fail[illegible]ing in his attempts to sleep at night be[illegible]tween the janglings of his doorbell. The merchant who has experienced panics, when the banks went down and Wall street became a pandemonium and there was a possibility that the next day he would be penniless—that night with no more possi[illegible]bility of gaining sleep than if such a bless[illegible]ing had never touched our planet.

Remark the fourth: Insomnia is no sign of divine displeasure. Martin Luther had distressing insomnia and wrote, "When I wake up in the night, the devil [illegible] [illegible]ately comes and disputes with me [illegible] [illegible] me strange thoughts until at [illegible] enraged beyond [illegible] [illegible] ill words." The [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] of everything good, Dr. Stephen [illegible] Sr., in his autobiography says that [illegible] encouragement he had to think [illegible] sleep at night was the fact that h[illegible] slept the night before.

Wakefulness may be an opportunity for prayer, opportunity for profitable reflec[illegible]tion, opportunity for kindling bright ex[illegible]pectations of the world, where there is no night and where slumber will have no uses. God thinks just as much of you when you get but three or four hours of sleep as when at night you get eight or nine hours.

Remark the fifth: Let all insomnists know for their consolation that some people sleep more rapidly than others, as much in one hour as others do in two, and hence do not require as long a time in un[illegible]consciousness. In a book on the subject of health years ago I saw this fact stated by a celebrated medical scientist: Some people do everything quick—they eat quick, they walk quick, they think quick, and of course they sleep quick. An express train can go as far in thirty minutes as a way train in sixty minutes. People of rapid temperaments ought not to expect a whole night to do the work of recuperation which slow temperaments require. Instead of making it a matter of irritation and alarm be a Christian philosopher and set down this abbreviation of somnolence as a matter of temperament.

Remark the sixth: The aged insomnists should understand that if their eyes are held waking they do not require as much sleep as once they did. Solomon, who in knowledge was thousands of years ahead of his time in his wondrous description of old age, recognizes this fact. He not only speaks of the difficulty of mastication on the part of the aged, when he says, "The grinders cease because they are few," and of the octogenarian's caution in getting up a ladder or standing on a scaffolding, say[illegible]ing, "They shall be afraid of that which is high," and speaks of the whiteness of the hair by comparing it to a tree that has white blossoms, saying, "The almond tree [illegible] flourish," and speaks of the spinal co[illegible] [illegible] of silver, and which relaxes in old age, giving the tremor to the head, saying, "The silver cord be loosed." But he says of the aged, "He shall rise up at the voice of the bird," that is about half past 4 in the summer time, an appropriate hour for the bird to rise, for he goes to his nest or bough at half past 7 in the evening. But the human mechanism has been so arranged that after it has been running a good while a change takes place, and in[illegible]stead of the almost perpetual sleep of the babe and the nine hours requisite in mid[illegible]life six hours will do for the aged, and "he shall rise up at the voice of the bird." Let all aged men and women remember that they have been permitted to do a great deal of sleeping in their time and that if they do not sleep so well now as they used to it is because they do not require so much sleep.

Remark the seventh: Insomnia is prob[illegible]ably a warning that you had better mod[illegible]erate your work. Most of those engaged in employments that pull on nerve and brain are tempted to omit necessary rest and sleeplessness calls a halt. Even their pleasuring turns to work. As Sir Joshua Reynolds, the great painter, taking a walk with a friend, met a sun browned peasant boy and said, "I must go home and deepen the coloring of my infant Hercules." The sun browned boy suggested an im[illegible]provement in a great picture. By the time most people have reached midlife, if they have behaved well more doors of opportunity open be[illegible]fore them than they ought to enter. Power to decline, power to say "No," they should now cultivate. When a man is determined to be useful and satan can[illegible]not dissuade him from that course, the great deceiver induces him to overwork and in that way get rid of him. We have thermometers to tell the heat, and barom[illegible]eters to tell the air, and ometers hung in engine rooms to tell the pressure of steam, and ometers to gauge and measure almost everything. Would that some genius would invent an ometer which, being hung around the neck and dropped over heart and lung, would by the pulsa[illegible]tion and respiration, tell whether one is under too great pressure or might carry more. All brain workers would want such an ometer and want it right away. For the lack of it how many are dying and how many have died of overwork? A prominent financier who recently departed this life was an officer in over 100 financial and charitable institutions. Thousands of editors, of lawyers, of physicians, of merchants, of clergymen, are now dying of overwork. Do not be in the board of directors of more than three banks and two trust companies and five life and fire insurance establishments. Do not as pastor preach more than three ser[illegible]mons a Sunday and superintend your own Sabbath-school and conduct a Bible class the same day. Do not edit a paper and write for three magazines and go to four public dinners where you will be called to make a speech more than four times a week. Do not go so deep into the real estate business that before spring all the real estate you will really possess will be a piece of ground about six feet long and three feet wide. Your in[illegible]somnia is the voice of nature, the voice of God, saying, "Better slow up!" Stop that long, swift train the wheels of which are taking fire from the velocity and smoking with the hot box. Do not burn the candle at both ends. Do not under too many burdens sweat like a camel trudging from Aleppo to Damascus. Do not commit sui[illegible]cide.

Remark the eighth: All the victims of insomnia ought to be consoled with the fact that they will have a good, long sleep after a while. Sacred and profane litera[illegible]ture again and again speak of that last sleep. God knew that the human race would be disposed to make a great ado about exit from this world, and so He in[illegible]spires Job and David and Daniel and John and Paul to call that condition "sleep." When at Bethany the brother who was the support of his sisters after their father and mother were gone had himself expired, Christ cried out in regard to him, "He is not dead, but sleepeth." Cheer[illegible]ing thought to all poor sleepers, for that will be a pleasant sleep, in[illegible]duced by no narcotic, disturbed by no frightful dream, interrupted by no harsh sound. Better than any sleep you ever took, O child of God, will be the last sleep. In your slumbers your home may be in[illegible]vaded by burglars and your treasures car[illegible]ried off, but while here and there, in one case out of millions, the resurrectionist may disturb the pillow of dust the last sleep is almost sure to be kept from inva[illegible]sion. There will be no burglary of the tomb. And it will be a refreshing sleep. You have sometimes risen in the morning more weary than when you laid down at night, but waking from the sleep of which I speak the last fatigue, the last ache, the last worriment, will be forever gone. Oh, what a refreshing sleep!

So my hearer, my reader, "Good night!" May God give you such sleep to-night as is best for you, and if you wake too soon may He fill your soul with reminiscences and expectations that will be better than slumber. Good night! Having in prayer, kneeling at the bed[illegible] committed your[illegible]self and all yours to the keeping of the slumberless God, fear nothing. The pestilence that walketh in darkness will not cross your doorsill, and you need not be afraid of evil tidings. Good night! May you have no such experience as Job had when he said, "Thou scarest me with dreams and terrifies me through visions." If you dream at all, may it be a vision of reunions and congratulations, and, waking, may you find some of it true. Good night! And when you [illegible] to the last sleep, [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

World's Big Boats.

The English marine publication, the Syren, says: "We British pride ourselves that the aggregate tonnage of British ships approximates to the total merchant tonnage owned by the remaining maritime countries of the world, but there is another phase of the matter where a comparison with other nations places us in a position other than first. It appears we have only eleven vessels of over 10,000 gross tons—headed by the Oceanic, with her 17,000 tons. But Germany has twenty-three vessels in that category. The United States is the only other nation with vessels above 10,000 tons and she has four. The biggest ship owned by France is 8,893 tons, while Norway's greatest ship is of 3,277 tons gross. In speed Great Britain is right ahead of her competitors, having thirty-one vessels with a speed of twenty knots or more; Belgium has six, the United States four, Germany and Holland three each, France two and Russia one. Thus in speed the British flag excels the world, while the disparity between Germany and this country, so far as size is concerned, will soon be lessened, as several big vessels are nearing completion in British yards."

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR JANUARY 21.

Subject: The Preaching of St. John the Baptist, Luke iii., 1-17—Golden Text Luke iii., 4—Memory Verses, 3-6—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

INTRODUCTION.—John the Baptist was six months older than Jesus. Their mothers, Mary and Elizabeth, were cousins. John was born at Juttah, a city five miles south of Hebron, in the hill country of Judea. For thirty years we hear nothing of him except that he was in the deserts. Suddenly he appears as prophet, reformer and the forerunner of Christ. He was an austere Nazarite in appearance, dress, food and mode of life. He was like a reproduction of Elijah of old. He was a priest by birth. He stands out in sharp contrast with the spirit and manners of his time.

CONNECTING LINKS.—A little more than seventeen years have passed since we saw Jesus at the Passover feast in Jerusalem. He is still in seclusion at Nazareth, but His forerunner appears on the scene.

1. "In the fifteenth year." Augustus Cæsar died in August, A. D. 14, but three years before his death, in August, A. D. 11, he called Tiberias to reign with him, and St. Luke evidently reckons from that time. Tiberias was a very bad man, given to drunkenness and cruelty. "Pontius Pilate." Pilate was governor of Judea for ten years, from A. D. 26 to 36. His reign was bad. He was finally banished, and is said to have killed himself. "Herod being tetrarch." Tetrarch meant originally the ruler of a fourth part of a country, but was afterwards used with reference to any tributary ruler. After the death of Herod the Great his dominions were divided. This was Herod Antipas, tetrarch of Galilee, who beheaded John, and to whom Jesus was sent at the time of His trial. "Ituræa [illegible]." Two provinces of Syria north[illegible]

2. "Annas and Caiaphas." [illegible] the son-in-law of Annas, or Ananias. It is supposed that they exercised [illegible] priest's office by turns. The law provided for only one high-priest, and he was to hold office for life, but surely we have two here. Clarke thinks that Caiaphas was only a deputy. "Came unto John." The Holy Spirit came upon him in the desert where he was living. "Son of Zacharias." See chap. 1:5-63. "In the wilderness." "The term wilderness was given to a district which was not regularly cultivated and inhabited."

3. "The baptism of repentance." John was a repentance preacher. This was a baptism requiring and representing an inward spiritual change; the pledge of remission of sins to those who were truly penitent."

4. "As it is written." Luke calls attention to Isaiah's prophecy regarding the character of the coming reformation. "The voice." "The prophecy draws attention to the work rather than to the worker." This voice was clear, distinct, loud. "Prepare ye." The idea is taken from the practice of eastern monarchs, who, whenever they took a journey, sent harbingers before them to prepare the way. The Jewish church was the desert country.

5. "Every valley, etc." This is figurative language. The words illustrate the leveling [illegible] of the Gospel. "There must be a thorough preparation before God, our King, will come to us. The self-life must "be brought low." The crooked, dishonest life must be "straightened." Let us remove the obstructions of unbelief and carnal desires.

6. "All flesh." Gentiles as well as Jews. "Shall see." It will not be necessary to depend on the testimony of others.

7. "The multitude." Matthew mentions Pharisees and Sadducees. "To be baptized." This was a baptism unto repentance; it was not Christian baptism. "Generation of vipers." "Brood" of vipers. "This denotes persons deceitful and malicious." "A terribly expressive speech." He called them snakes. Was he harsh? "Let us remember that love can be severe." John desires that they may escape the impending doom. "Who hath warned you." How came you to think that by complying with an outward sign, you can escape the wrath of God without an inward change?

8. "Fruits worthy of repentance." John did not stop with a profession, but they must show their reformation by their conduct. Repentance includes, (1) conviction; (2) contrition; (3) confession; (4) reformation; and leads to conversion. John, Jesus, Peter and Paul all preached repentance. "And begin not to say, etc." "The natural impulse of the unregenerate heart is to seek out excuses and subterfuges when the conscience is touched," John shatters two common errors. The first, that baptism would be sufficient to turn the wrath of God away, and second, that because they are children of Abraham, therefore they are safe. "These stones." Undoubtedly a reference to the calling of the Gentiles. Out of these hard, unregenerate hearts God is able to make hearts of flesh and children of Abraham.

9. "The axe is laid." There is an allusion here to a woodman, who, having marked a tree for excision, lays his axe at the root, while he lays off his outer garment in order that he may wield more powerful blows. The Jewish nation is the tree, and the Romans the axe, which, by the just judgments of God, was speedily to cut it down.

10. "The people asked." There are three classes of persons here who ask the same question, "What shall we do?" The answers given by John show that he understood the sins they were practicing. They were moved by his faithful preaching and came as honest inquirers, and he does not hesitate to deal faithfully with them.

11. "Let him impart." This is a remarkable answer. Clothe the naked and feed the hungry. Jas. 1:27. That is the true spirit of the Gospel.

12. "Publicans." Tax-gatherers. An office detested by the Jews, yet John does not condemn it.

13. "Exact no more." These tax-gatherers collected taxes for the Roman emperor, and "they exacted more than the government authorized them to do, and the surplus they pocketed."

14. "Do violence to no man." John demands three things of the soldiers. They are not required to quit the business, but they must be just and upright and stop their wicked life if he baptized them: "His exhortation plainly implies the right of war under certain circumstances. It is a destroyer and barbariser, but in the overruling providence of God it may become a civilizer."

15. Whether He were the Christ." John spoke with such authority, eloquence and power that the people began to think he was the Messiah.

16. "One mightier than I." "His baptism will effect what mine is powerless to do." "Not worthy." John shows his greatness by self-abasement. "With fire." Fire is the emblem of the Holy Spirit.

17. "Whose fan." The fan, or the instrument for purging, is the Gospel. "Floor." His church. "Wheat." True believers. "Garner." The kingdom of grace here and of heaven hereafter. "Fire unquenchable." See Matt. 25:46.

WHY HE SUCCEEDS.

A Difference That Sometimes Baffles Detectives.

"It is often difficult to see any difference between the men who succeed and those who fail," says a critic. A man may try to console himself with the unction that lies in the belief that it is all luck; that one man was born to be successful and another to fail. The average man cannot even deceive himself to that extent. He knows, generally, where the trouble is. Observe two men who apparently begin with equal advantages, with equal capital. Unless close attention was paid to their respective careers, you might not perceive the difference in them. One puts a little more rush into his work; he is never satisfied with accomplishing only so much as is expected of him. He is a little more accommodating to his patrons or those of his employer; he manifests more devotion to details; he is more prompt, is not afraid of getting to the office too early or of staying there too late. He makes a study of ways to improve his mind and enlarge his capacity for service, whether to his own direct betterment or indirectly, through having benefited his employers. Right here it might be well to consider the problem one moment from the employer's point of view. "He is utterly lost to gratitude for good service; utterly selfish," you say. Granted—but it is [illegible] for you that he is selfish. That gives you a point of attack. When you become necessary to him that he will [illegible] ing a loss by the discontinuance of your service you are in a position to demand a better position or [illegible]—and his selfishness will [illegible]m to allow you to go.

Within twelve months twenty-seven stones have been found in one placer mine on the Feather river, all but one being in the rough and globular, while the twenty-seventh showed a well defined crystalline structure. The largest of these weighed but a single carat, and the small octahedral brilliant weighed but a quarter of a carat, but all were stones of pure water. The recent discovery of zicron sands close to the limits of Oakland has already been announced in the Chronicle, but the discoverer is not yet prepared to define the locality, probably for commercial reasons. Near Manvel, San Bernardino county, turquoises have been found which in color and quality surpass the Oriental gems.

Hands and Limbs Covered with Blisters and Great Red Blotches. Scratched Until Almost Wild. Burned Like Fire. Sleep Impossible. CUTICURA Remedies Bring Speedy Relief and a Permanent Cure at a Cost of Only $2.

I was a sufferer for eight years from that most distressing of diseases, Eczema. I tried some of the best physicians in the country, but they did me little good. The palms of my hands were covered and would become inflamed, little white blisters at first would appear, then they would peel off, leaving a red, smooth surface which would burn like fire and itch, well, there is no name for it. On the inside of the upper part of both my limbs great red blotches, not unlike hives, would appear, and as soon as I became warm the burning and itching would begin. Night after night I would lie awake all night and scratch and almost go wild. I heard of CUTICURA REMEDIES, got them and gave them a thorough trial, and after a few applications I noticed the redness and inflammation disappear. Before I had used one box there was not a sign of Eczema left. I can truthfully assert that $2.00 worth of CUTICURA REMEDIES cured me. There has been no sign of its return anywhere upon my body since I wrote you I was cured, nearly four years ago. Hardly a month passes but what I receive a letter or some one calls and wishes to know how I got cured, if I had Eczema bad, and if the cure has been permanent, etc., etc. I always take pleasure in enlightening them the best I can.

JOHN D. PORTE, Pittsburg, March 1, 1899.
Of JOHN D. PORTE & Co., Real Estate and Insurance, 428 Fourth Avenue, Pittsburg, Pa.

The agonizing itching and burning of the skin, as in eczema, the frightful scaling, as in psoriasis; the loss of hair and crusting of the scalp, as in scalled head; the facial disfigurement, as in pimples and ringworm, the awful suffering of infants and the anxiety of worn-out parents, as in milk crust, tetter, and salt rheum—all demand a remedy of almost superhuman virtues to successfully cope with them. That

Cuticura

Remedies are such stands proven beyond all doubt. No statement is made regarding them that is not justified by the strongest evidence. The purity and sweetness, the power to afford immediate relief, the certainty of speedy and permanent cure, the absolute safety and great economy, have made them the standard skin cures and humor remedies of the civilized world. The treatment is simple, direct, agreeable, and economical, and is adapted to the youngest infant as well as adults of every age. Bathe the affected parts with hot water and CUTICURA SOAP to cleanse the surface of crusts and scales, and soften the thickened cuticle. Dry, without hard rubbing, and apply CUTICURA Ointment freely, to allay itching, irritation, and inflammation, and soothe and heal, and lastly take CUTICURA RESOLVENT to cool and cleanse the blood. This sweet and wholesome treatment affords instant relief, permits rest and sleep in the severest forms of eczema and other itching, burning, and scaly humors of the skin, scalp, and blood, and points to a speedy, permanent, and [illegible] cure when all other remedies and even the best physicians fail. CUTICURA SOAP, price $1.25; or, CUTICURA SOAP, 25c., CUTICURA OINTMENT, 50c., [illegible] RESOLVENT, 50c., sold throughout the world. "How to Cure Eczema," free. Sole Props., POTTER DRUG AND CHEM. CORP., Boston, Mass.

MILLIONS OF MOTHERS

Use CUTICURA SOAP exclusively for baby's skin, scalp, and hair. It is not only the purest, sweetest, and most refreshing of nursery soaps, but it contains delicate curative properties, obtained from CUTICURA, the great skin cure, which preserve, purify, and beautify the skin, scalp, and hair, and prevent simple skin blemishes from becoming serious. For distressing hot rashes, chafings, inflammations, and eruptions, for crusted, itching irritations of the scalp, with dry, thin, and falling hair, for red, rough hands, and chapped hands, and simple infantile humors, it is absolutely indispensable.

THE AMERICAN MONTHLY REVI... REVIEWS

THE "NECESSARY" MAGAZINE

The best-informed men and women in the world use the AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS to keep well informed, and call it the "necessary" and "indispensable" magazine. In the busy rush of to-day ambitious men and women must know about the important questions of the month, and not only this, they want to know about them at the right time. When the whole country is puzzled over the gigantic combination of trusts, a well-informed article is printed in the AMERICAN MONTHLY, giving the facts, and its editor discusses the theory; when the Dreyfus affair is in everyone's mouth, the best story of Dreyfus and the great case comes out in this magazine.

Every month, in "The Progress of the World," Dr. Albert Shaw gives a comprehensive picture of the world's history during the previous thirty days. In the departments, the valuable articles and books that have been published during the past month are reviewed and quoted from, so that the readers of the AMERICAN MONTHLY can get the gist of them. In every issue nearly a hundred pictures are printed, including the portraits of the men and women who are making the history of the month.

To be thoroughly well informed helps any man or woman in his or her work. A subscription to the AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS represents an investment for the best kind of profit, as ... entertainment. One subscriber has just written: "Count me ... subscriber, and when you send me a number beyond the limit of ... subscription and secure no renewal from me, consider it a notice of my death."

Price 25 cents per number, $2.50 a year.

A sample copy will be sent on receipt of ten cents in stamps.

The Atlanta Constitution's Great Offer of 1900—The Cotton Receipts at New Orleans from September to April—Full Statistics Given for Your Guidance—An Unparalelled Offer for Our Readers.

The Atlanta Constitution offers a $3,000 cash prize contest for January, February and March, 1900, as follows:

To the person sending a yearly subscription to The Weekly Constitution, together with the correct estimate on the cotton receipts at New Orleans during the first seven months of the present cotton year (September 1, 1899, to April 1, 1900)—

$1,500 if estimate is received during January.

$1,000 if estimate is received during February.

The above are for the exact estimates; there are besides these six prizes, ranging along, $500, $400, $300, $100, $125 and $75, amounting to $1,500, that will be paid out sure for the six nearest estimates to the New Orleans cotton receipts at any time during the three months of the contest. But you hit it exactly during January and secure the full $1,500 prize check.

The Constitution believes somebody will hit the figures exactly and expects to pay out the full amount of the prizes offered—$3,000 in all. The Weekly Constitution for 1900 will ...e better than ever before. Its special news features are unsurpassed. The Boer-British war, the Philippine and Cuban ...rations, the busy session of the most important congress that has ever assembled, the beginning of the issues of the presidential campaign of this year and the debates and speeches during its progress; the final result of the November elections, the development of the south's great industrial movements: diversified farm and village industries and thousands of other important things will be found fully and freely discussed in The Weekly Constitution for the year. The Farm and Farmers' page, the Woman's Kingdom, the Southern Pulpit, the Children's Page and other interesting departments will be ably conducted and will be especially adapted to those addressed. The ringing editorials of The Constitution speaking right out in meeting exactly what it means in the advocacy of true democratic doctrine and in behalf of the great interests of the masses of our plain people, and protecting them from the grasping greed of those who would wring their earnings from their helpless hands, are alone worth the subscription price of the paper over and again.

The Constitution has long stood as the champion of the people and has sent its shafts deep into the errors and evils that threaten and beset the masses. Its complete exposé of the methods of Neill, of ... Orleans, and the shattering of the ...fluence of this prophet of big cotton crops and apostle of ruinously low prices, and high priest of robbery, who has cost the southern farmers hundreds of millions of dollars, ought to win fo... ...tution the lasting gratitude ... south. Hemphill as business manager, will remain the same for the new year. The Constitution's long and honorable business course, keeping faith with the people in all its contracts, contests and engagements, as well as in its consistent and conspicuous editorial fairness, places it among these reliable institutions of our country on which the people may depend.

With such a great general newspaper, covering the world news and world and national questions, you will, of course, need the best and livest local paper, giving current local topics and the latest and best news and freshest comments upon events of local interest. We trust this combination secured with The Constitution will be found best suited to all our readers. The price is merely nominal when the service is even half considered, including your estimate in The Constitution's $3,000 cash contest. To get the full benefit of the high prize send in your subscription now so The Constitution may receive it during January and record it to your credit. Make your figures very plain, unmistakably plain.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Jemison, Ala., Jan. 25, 1900

To the people of Chilton County:

My friends are continually asking me if I will be a candidate for Tax Collector for Chilton County, and in order to answer this question I hereby announce myself a candidate for Tax Collector, subject to the action of the People's Party.

I wish to thank the people for their support in my first election. I have made an honest effort to do my duty, and hope that I have succeeded fairly well, but if the people will re-elect me I feel that I am much better qualified for the duties of the office than when I was first elected. However, if the people make choice of some other man I will give to that man my hearty support and vote. Again thanking my friends for past favors I am very respectfully,

T. J. HUBBARD.

NEW YEAR'S GREETINGS

The holiday rush is over, and business men every where are using the breathing-spell for taking account of stock. As you go into some dry goods store and see the clerks measuring off every scrap of lace or ribbon, perhaps you wonder why such expenditure of effort is necessary. A man is not worth any more, we think, for knowing the exact value of his stock.

This may be very true, yet the fact remains that to know what one is worth is a valuable bit of knowledge. Every proprietor needs to be sure whether he has made money or lost during the past year. It pays one to find out what class of goods he sold, and what have remained on his hands. He is a poor business man who does not know the amount of his profit or his loss through the past twelve months, who has not learned something from the mistakes he has

OBITUARY

Thorsby, Ala., Jan. 20, 1900

God has taken away Little Eddie. On the evening of 15th inst., the death angel visited the home of Mr and Mrs. Felix Eiland, and took the spirit of their only child to realms of immortal glory.

Eddie had been placed in his little chair by his mother, and she had left the house a short time. On returning she found her darling child wrapped in flames, and in about five hours his little spirit winged its way to eternal glory. While Eddie was about eight years old his afflictions rendered him as helpless as an infant. Mrs. Eiland received severe burns on her hands while extinguishing the fire.

The bereaved parents express their gratitude to their many sympathizing friends for their assistance and kindness. Don't grieve dear parents, your child has just gone on before you, while you cannot call him back you have the consoling thought that you can go to him.

IN MEMORIAM

Died near Lowndesboro, Ala., Jan. 17d, at the home of he son-in-law, T. J. Howard, Mrs. Nancy Markee age 86 years. She was laid to rest at Bozeman beside her son John as she desired. She was a consistent member of the Methodist Church, a devoted mother, kind friend and a pure spirited woman; was ever ready to minister to the sick and her generous heart emotions never grew cold.

Through the many vicisitudes of life she always leaned on her Saviour's arm. When in her declining years the great sorrow upon her in the sad death of her only son she bore up with a calm Christian fortitude, clinging closer to the cross, resting her hand firmly in her Saviour's, she patiently waited the summons to come up higher; never questioning her Father's will.

Sleep, dear mother, sleep,
Rest your tired spirit now,
Wing your flight to brighter realms
Where Jesus waits to crown your brow.

Four children survive her, and several grand-children; may each one find comfort in a Saviours love: He will bind the bruised hearts and lead gently through the darkness where mother is waiting with other loved ones who have passed through the "Gates ajar."

THE ROBERTS REPORT.

Majority Declares the Utah Man Should Not Be Seated.

The reports of the special committee of investigation in the case of Brigham H. Roberts, of Utah, was presented to the house Saturday. The minority report, signed by Chairman Taylor and six of his assistants, is a voluminous document, and is accompanied by a summary of the law and facts. It gives the details of the hearing, the ample opportunities afforded to Mr. Roberts to present his case, his refusal to testify, and the unanimous finding of the facts heretofore published. It proceeds:

"The committee is unanimous in its belief that Mr. Roberts ought not to remain a member of the house of representatives. A majority are of the opinion that he ought not to remain a member; that the house has the right to exclude him. A minority are of the opinion that the proper course of procedure is to permit him to be sworn in and then expel him by a two-thirds vote under the constitutional provision providing for expulsion."

TO SEAT ALDRICH.

Decision of House Committee on the Fourth Alabama District Contest.

The house committee on election No. 1 divided on party lines Saturday and by a vote of 6 to 2 decided to recommend the seating of Wm. F. Aldrich, republican, who contests the seat now held by Gaston A. Robbins, democrat, for the Fourth congressional district of Alabama. It is the first decision in a contested case at the present session of congress. The contest was based on alleged intimidation and racial prejudices, growing out of appeals for white supremacy.

A minority report will be made in behalf of Mr. Robbins.

CUBAN RECEIPTS

From All Sources for the Past Year Exceeded $15,000,000.

The war department gave out the statement Saturday that the total receipts for the entire island of Cuba for the month of December were $1,738,211.

The total receipts for the entire island for the calendar year ending December 31, 1899, by items were:

Customs, $14,072,114; internal revenue, $757,288; postal receipts from July 1, 1899, to December 31, 1899, 94,514; miscellaneous receipts from July 1, 1899, to December 31, 1899, $293,584; total receipts, $15,217,497.42.

SULLIVAN ISLAND

To be Ceded to the United States for a Government Post.

The lower house of the South Carolina legislature has decided to cede to the government Sullivan's Island, near Charleston for a United States government post. The building of the state capitol, which was stopped by the civil war, will probably be completed at a cost of $250,000. A monument to cost $10,000 will be erected on Chickamauga battlefield.

To Prevent Lynching.

Representative White, of North Carolina, the colored representative in the house, Saturday reported a bill for "the protection of all citizens of the United States against mob violence," etc. It provides that all persons shall be protected from being murdered, tortured or burned to death by mobs known as "lynching bees," whether spontaneous or premeditated and all parties participating, aiding or abetting in such affairs are made guilty of treason against the United States government and subject to prosecuti[on ...] United States [...]

Contract for a New Railroad to Be Let—Fatal Accident at Tuskegee. Efforts to Establish a Paper Mill—Brevities.

Engineer Drowned.

The tug Hero was run into and sunk in Mobile harbor by a barge in tow of the tug Captain Sam. The engineer of the Hero, Robert Dabidson was unable to escape and drowned.

Woman Dropped Dead.

The dead body of Mrs. Susan K. Smith, wife of L. M. Smith, a citizen of Brookside, was found four miles north of Brookside a few days ago. In the arms of the dead woman was clasped her 4-months-old babe. The coroner, assisted by Dr. J. E. Robbins, held an inquest and decided that the deceased came to her death from an attack of heart disease.

Fatal Accident at Tuskegee.

Hale Boyd, in company with Jim Dowdell, went out squirrel hunting on a branch a few miles from Tuskegee, and while there the former met with a very painful, if not serious, accident. It seems that the dog had treed a squirrel, and while Mr. Boyd was stooping over a log with the gun grasped near the center it accidentally discharged, the whole load entering his left side. It is not thought that the young man will recover.

Effort to Establish Paper Mill.

R. Thomas, of Atlanta, wants to erect at Montgomery a paper mill, to manufacture paper out of the natural properties of the pine tree. By this process a cord of wood will make a ton of paper. It requires about $50,000 to erect and purchase a complete outfit for such a mill, and Mr. Thomas has received very much encouragement in Montgomery. The mill will give employment to fifty people, as well as proving a paying investment to the subscribers. E. H. Olcott is interested with Mr. Thomas in getting up subscriptions.

Contract for a New Railroad.

The Louisville and Nashville railroad company will let the contract one day this week for the construction of forty-five miles of new road from Andalusia, in Coffee county, to Geneva, in Geneva county. This forty-five miles of road connecting Andalusia and Geneva is an extension of the Alabama and Florida road, a branch of the Louisville and Nashville, which, when completed, will run from Georgiana, a station on the Mobile and Montgomery division, in Butler county, to Mariana, Fla., a station on the Pensacola and Atlantic railroad, twenty-five miles west of the Chattahoochee river.

Congressman Brewer's Bill.

A Washington special says: The following is the text of the bill introduced by Representative Brewer, of Alabama, regarding the granting of lands to the state of Alabama for the use of public schools:

A BILL

To grant land to the State of Alabama for the use of public schools.

Be it enacted, by the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America in congress assembled, That all the lands of the United States known as public lands, title of which now remains in the United States, shall be, and are hereby granted to the state of Alabama, to have and to hold forever—in trust, however, for the use and benefit of the common schools of said state forever.

Section 2. That nothing in this act shall be understood to prevent the sale of said lands by said state, under such regulations as the general assembly thereof may provide; but the proceeds of such sale shall be [f]orever kept invested in such interest-[bear]ing bonds of the state as are now [outst]anding, the interest on which [... bo]nds, when bought with such [...] be expended in the [...]

MORGAN CARRIES CLARK COUNTY

Will Have [Two]-Thirds of the Delegates. [...] Race Close.

The Clarke county convention will instruct for John T. Morgan for senator. Morgan's popular majority is about 500, or two to Johnston's one, and he will have two-thirds of the delegates in the county convention.

Additional returns from Saturdays primary are as follows: Coffeeville, Johnston 125, Morgan 48, eleven delegates; Gosport, Johnston 12, Morgan 7, four delegates; Good Springs, Morgan 28, Johnston 28, three delegates; Walker Springs, Morgan 48, Johnston 29, five delegates; Salt Works, Morgan 84, Johnston 12, nine delegates; Anderson, four delegates, majority for Morgan; Gates, three delegates, majority for Johnston; Gainestown, eight delegates, all for Morgan; Tallahatta, Morgan 80, Johnston 31, three delegates.

Returns so far received give Morgan the following: Gainstown, 8; Salt Works, 9; Jackson, 6; Suggsville, 6; Walker Springs, 5; Anderson, 4; Good Springs, 3; Bashi, 4; Pleasant Hill, 3; Thomasville, 12; Grove Hill, 11. Total, 71.

For Johnston—Gosport, 4; Coffeeville, 11; Tallahatta, 3; Gates, 3. Total, 21.

There will be 115 delegates in the convention and 58 is a majority.

The gubernatorial race is between Samford and Stallings, and is very close.

This makes the sensational contest to date stand: For Morgan, four members of house, one new senator and nine holdover senators; total fourteen. For Johnson, six members of the house, one new senator and seven holdover senators; total fourteen.

These figures give the two Morgan county representatives recently nominated to Johnson, as they are personally for him, but as they are to be instructed at the second primary in April it is possible they may yet go to Morgan.

Indications are that Massey Wilson and Frank E. Poole have been elected to the legislature. The race between Dunn and Cunningham for the state senate is very close. Samford has probably carried the county for governor, though Stallings is running him a very close race. The county officers are badly scattered.

Race Problem Society Organized.

In Montgomery Saturday there was organized by a committee of twenty-five representative men of different ecclesiastical and political affiliations "a southern society for the study and discussion of race problems in relation to the welfare of the south." The first annual conference to be held under the auspices of the society, will meet in Montgomery in May of this year. Representative speakers from all parts of the south will be asked to speak upon different phases of the problem from the standpoint of the south. The program will be so framed as to be fair to all sides. The speakers will deal with the subject of the franchise, with the relation of the negro to education and religion, and with the relation of the negro to the social order, including a discussion of the lynch question.

Bids for Constructing Locks.

Major William Russell, government engineer, opened bids in Tuskaloosa Saturday for constructing locks 4, 5 and 6, Warrior river. Following were the bids: McCarthur Bros. & Co., Chicago, $538,036.50; Coyne, Cornwell & Monnish, Tuscaloosa, $668,865; Spotswood & Hartwell, Mobile, $599,907.50; Baker & Smith, Syracuse, N. Y., $456,794; Christie, Lowe & Heyworth, Chicago, $417,230.20. Bids have to go to the war department for approval, but the last named firm will doubtless get the contract. The locks must all be done by December 31, 1901.

CLARKE INSTRUCTED FOR MORGAN

After a Hot Fight the Gubernatorial Contest Was [illegible].

Immediately after organization Monday, at Grove Hill, the Clarke county convention took one ballot and instructed its nominees for the legislature to cast their votes for John T. Morgan for United States senator. The vote by delegates gave Morgan 76 and Johnston 38, the endorsement then being made unanimous.

The gubernatorial fight was hotly contested and finally resulted in a draw. Tomlinson's forces held the balance of power throughout the contest and finally forced a division. The convention's vote for governor was as follows: Samford, 56½; Stallings, 52, and Tomlinson, 6½.

The instructions of the convention endorsing Morgan closes the bitterest campaign ever waged in the county.

Talk of New Railroad.

Talk of building the Gurley and Paint Rock Valley railway, which is surveyed and partly built from Gurley, Ala., to Winchester, Tenn., has revived and the projectors hope this time to carry their plans through to successful completion. Captain Frank B. Gurley, president of the old company, has set about to secure options on about forty thousand acres of timber lands, already having options upon sixty thousand acres. Gaunt Orebs, of St. Louis, is back of the scheme and claims that if 100,000 acres of land can be secured the railway will be built.

Result of Tuskaloosa's Primary.

At the democratic primaries held in Tuskaloosa county for the nomination of county officers, the following have received the highest vote, so far as returns now in show: Sheriff, W. C. Kyle; Tax Assessor, J. F. Park; Tax Collector, Sampson D. McGee; Treasurer, Archie Leland; Commissioners, First District, Lee Hagler; Second District, E. S. Durrett; Third District, J. T. Gooner; Fourth District, M. C. Thomas; Coroner, J. H. Fair.

Manganese Ore Discovered.

Mr. M. D. Beck, of Chulafinnee, Cleburne county, reports a rich find of manganese ore beds, which, he claims, extends over three or four hundred acres in that county. He says the ore is rich in quality and great in abundance. He has interested other parties in it, and will at once get out test quantities, and, with his associates, proposes to develop the property.

Killed His Daughter.

A. J. Honeycutt, aged 60, a farmer living near Center, Monday night attacked his wife with a knife. Their children ran to the assistance of their mother, when Honeycutt stabbed Rosa, aged 16, killing her instantly. The wife and two sons, aged 12 and 10, were so badly wounded that they may die. Honeycutt is in jail and precautions have been taken to prevent a lynching.

Another Rail Connection.

The business men of Selma are delighted to know that Camden, in Wilcox county, is at last to be united with that city by rail. The connection will be by a short road joining with the new Selma & Pensacola road, which will require only about twenty miles of track, and about ten miles of this is now graded.

Judge Mitchell Appointed.

Judge John J. Mitchell, of Florence, has been appointed by Governor Johnston to fill the vacancy in the probate office of Lauderdale county caused by the death of Judge McClure.

Jasper Bank Re-opened.

The Jasper Trust Company, the local bank, has re-opened after a suspension of several months. The cause of the closing was trouble among the stockholders. There was never a question of the bank's solvency.

Cotton Seed Selling High.

Cotton seed has taken another flight and the farmers around Athens are now getting 25 cents for the surplus cotton seed, and many cattle are going hungry on account of the high prices being paid for their former feed stuff.

CONVALESCENTS AMBU[SHE]D.

The Men Had Started to Rejoin Their Regiments.

A Manila cablegram says: The escort of fifty men of Company C, Thirtieth Infantry, Lieutenant Ralston commanding, which was ambushed near Lila, as already cabled, consisted of fifty convalescents from the hospital, who were going to rejoin the regiment. The insurgents hid in the bushes along the road and opened fire upon the pack train from three sides.

The Americans, in addition to their casualties, were compelled to abandon the train which consisted of twenty-two horses. The latter, with their packs, all fell into the hands of the insurgents, who pursued the retreating escort for three miles along the road, until the Americans were reinforced.

DESPERATE PRISONERS.

Eight Men Led By Murderer Flanagan, Break Jail.

Edward C. Flanagan, the double murderer, led eight desperate prisoners Saturday night, in an attempt to escape from jail in Decatur, five miles from Atlanta. Flanagan felled Sheriff Talley to the floor with a blow from a heavy piece of iron, but the injured man was game, and drawing his pistol fired into the gang of prisoners. Flanagan was shot through the thigh and fell. The other prisoners, cowed by the fate of their leader, hesitated. The shots attracted the attention of the sheriff's family, and summoning assistance they managed to overcome the prisoners and all were locked up. Flanagan's wound is not dangerous.

EXECUTIVE JUDICIARY.

Mississippi Senate Voted to Insert the Amendment.

The Mississippi senate has voted to insert the Noel amendment providing for an elective judiciary into the state conititution. The amendment was voted on at the polls last November and its opponents claimed that it did not receive the constitutional majority, having received a majority only of all the votes cast on the amendment and not of the number of voters casting ballots. This will take the appointment of a large number of circuit judges and chancellors from the hands of the governor.

A bill was introduced in the upper house providing that the family of any person lynched shall obtain $3,000 damages against the county in which the lynching occurred.

SIX SUFFOCATED.

Sicilians Overcome in New Orleans Fire.

A fire started in a bar room in New Orleans Saturday night. It contained considerable headway before the firemen reached there, and half a dozen people in the adjoining building were suffocated before help reached them. They were mostly Sicilians. Four were taken out dead and the others will hardly live. The family is named Giordano. The origin of the fire has not been traced, but the building is an immense brick structure honey combed with tenants.

An Infernal Machine.

At New Albany, Miss., while the janitor was clearing the criminal court room, he found an infernal machine primed and ready for discharge, ingeniously arranged under the chair provided for witnesses. It is presumed that the builder intended to assassinate in this manner an important witness in one of the big trials scheduled for this term of the court.

Pension Appropriation Bill Passed.

The pension appropriation bill, carrying $145,245,250, was passed by the house Friday. A rider was put in the bill, by unanimous consent, empowering the commissioner in his discretion to withhold the fees of attorneys of record in pension cases where he was satisfied that the attorneys had not prepared their cases under their personal supervision.

John Ruskin Dead.

John Ruskin, the great author, died in London Saturday of influenza, aged 81 years.

Death of Captain Steele.

Captain Charles S. Steele, Twentieth infantry, died at Fort Bayard, N. M., a few days ago. He was born in Mississippi in 1856, was appointed to the military academy from Tennessee, graduating in the class of 1875. In November, 1898, he accompanied his regiment to the Philippines, where he was taken sick and was compelled to return to the United States.

DEFEATED [8]00 INSURGENTS.

Two Americans Wounded and Ten Rebels Slain.

A cable dispatch from Manila says: Two companies of the or the Forty-sixth infantry, under Major Johnson, and three companies of the Thirty-eighth infantry, commanded by Maj. Mult, defeated 800 insurgents at Taal, province of Batangas, Saturday, taking the town. The United States gunboat Marietta also shelled the place.

The insurgents had four cannon, two of which were captured. Two Americans were wounded, and ten dead insurgents were found on the field.

The plague statistics now show a total of fourteen cases and eleven deaths.

One Man Killed and A[nother] Wounded.

A fight occurred near Franklin, Ky., Monday, in which a peacemaker, who attempted to part the belligerents, was killed, and one of the participants was wounded. James Ellegood, while intoxicated, passed a residence where a lady was sick, whistling and making a great noise. Orrie Smith, who was sitting up with the patient, came out and asked him to keep quiet. Ellegood is said to have started after Smith with a knife. Richard Heaton, a neighbor, in endeavoring to part the men was stabbed in the groin by Ellegood and died. Ellegood was struck on the head with a stone by Smith and, it is said, he can live but a few hours. Smith escaped uninjured.

Shipping Business Increasing.

As showing the movement of commodities through the New Orleans port for Europe, it may be stated that eight steamers cleared Monday, the combined cargoes consisting in part of 824,000 bushels of grain, 32,825 bales of cotton, 37,000 sacks of oil cake and cotton seed meal, 5,000 barrels of cotton seed oil, 225,000 oak staves, 140,000 pieces of lumber and 198 logs. The export of grain was the largest on record for any one day.

Will Move Mississippi Penitentiary.

The Mississippi senate has passed the bill removing the penitentiary from Jackson and locating the prison buildings on the state farms. It is the general belief that the legislature will locate the new million dollar state house on the penitentiary site, which is in the heart of the residence district.

House Committee Unanimous That Roberts is a Proved Polygamist.

POPULAR ELECTION OF SENATORS

Special House Committee Reports Against the Seating of Polygamist Roberts—Treaties Favorably Reported to Senate—Socks For Our Soldiers in the Philippines—The Pensions Appropriation.

WASHINGTON, D. C. (Special).—The special committee of the House of Representatives to investigate the case of Brigham H. Roberts, of Utah, on Wednesday reached a final conclusion. The committee was unanimous on the questions of fact and also on the ineligibility of Roberts to hold his seat in the House. Seven of them voted in favor of a report to the effect that the House was within its rights in stopping him at the bar of the House, and the other two in favor of a report that he should have first been seated and then expelled.

Those who voted for the majority report are Chairman Taylor, of Ohio; Landis, of Indiana; Dolliver, of Iowa; Powers, of West Virginia; McPherson, of Iowa; Morris, of Minnesota, Republicans; and Miers, of Indiana, and Lanham, of Texas, Democrats. Representative Littlefield, of Maine, drew up the minority report which was also signed by Representative De Armond, of Missouri. The findings on the fact are as follows:

"We find that B. H. Roberts was elected as a Representative to the Fifty-sixth Congress from the State of Utah, and was at the date of his election above the age of twenty-five years; that he had been for more than seven years a naturalized citizen of the United States and was an inhabitant of the State of Utah.

"We further find that about 1878 he married Louisa Smith, his first lawful wife, with whom he has ever since lived as such, and who, since their marriage, has borne him six children.

"That about 1885 he married as his plural wife Celia Dibble, with whom he has ever since lived as such, and who, since such marriage, has borne him six children of whom the last were twins, born August 11, 1897.

WOULDN'T READ THE BIBLE.

Fifty Catholic Public School Pupils Suspended on That Account.

HARRISBURG, Penn. (Special). — About fifty pupils have been suspended from school attendance at McDonald, Washington County, because they refused to read the Bible in the regular religious exercises of the school.

They are children of Catholic families, and, while they made no objection to the reading of the Bible in the schools, they would take no part in the reading themselves.

James F. Burke, of Pittsburg, representing the parents of the suspended pupils, called at the Department of Public Instruction and submitted the case. An investigation will be made by the Department.

BANK ROBBERS GET $5000.

Safe Blown Open at Philippi, W. Va.—Robbers Escaped on a Hand Car.

PHILIPPI, W. Va. (Special).—The Tygart's Valley Bank Building was entered early Wednesday morning by thieves. The safe was blown open by nitroglycerine and all the money, except a few stray cents and a few notes, which were blown to one side by the concussion, was taken. The amount was about $5000.

No clues have been found. The hand car of the railroad company was stolen and was found at Grafton. The explosive used was in so large a quantity that the heavy safe doors were thrown across the room.

ERIE CANAL WRECKERS.

Thirteen Men Accused of Destroying State Property.

MURDERS LAID TO CONSPIRATORS

The Canal Feeder at Forestport, N. Y., Blown Up to Give Men Employment—Detectives Investigate and Unearth a Remarkable Conspiracy—Evidence Collected is of a Most Positive Nature.

ALBANY, N. Y. (Special).—Practically all the civil power of the State has been used to detect, pursue and indict a remarkable band of conspirators and lawbreakers who have just been brought to book in Oneida County.

The conspiracy consisted in blowing up the bank of the Forestport feeder of the Erie Canal in order that the community should prosper in consequence of the work of repairs. The community was aware of what was going on, but the character of the men engaged in the enterprise was such that they were afraid to tell the authorities.

In the course of the investigation several mysterious disappearances have developed into murders, and the trails of some of the offenders have led detectives all over the United States.

As a result of a systematic effort by the Public Works Department, Attorney-General Davies, District Attorney Timothy Curtin, Jr., of Oneida County, and Emerson Willis, his assistant, thirteen persons have been implicated in the series of outrages, and eight have been arrested and are under indictment.

The persons arrested are William Clark, Walter Baynor, Richard Monohan, John Conley, John Fordett, John Root, Frank Murray and Blank Rudolph. Murray and Rudolph have been released on bail. All the others are in jail in Utica.

The first break on the Forestport feeder occurred on July 21, 1897, the second on September 18, 1898, and the third in the summer of 1899. The breaks all occurred in practically the same place, where the feeder runs along a hillside, a heavy bank of earth supported by piles forming the canal.

Word reached Colonel Partridge last summer that a man in Buffalo had told a strange story about the canal having been blown up in 1897 and 1898 for the purpose of bringing money into the town of Forestport. The cost of repairs was practically all profit for the town. Every man who owned a horse and wagon found employment. The lumbermen sold piling. The saloon and boarding house keepers reaped a golden harvest from the money left there by the laborers, who cashed their pay checks every day and spent all their money at night.

Mr. Partridge consulted with Attorney-General Davies, who advised him to follow the matter up, and the story was being investigated when the Forestport feeder went up for the third time. Incidentally, it may be remarked that the total cost of repairing these three breaks amounted to $129,545.

Colonel Partridge employed detectives who went to Forestport to live. In time the detectives wove a net of incriminating evidence about practically all the persons who were engaged in the conspiracy.

They located and identified the men who used dynamite on the canal banks. They got evidence of the first meeting at which this novel method of enriching a community originated. They discovered the men who carried the subscription paper about the town, raising the fund for the dynamiters. Presently they got one of the conspirators in their clutches, and he promptly turned State's evidence.

Every time they caught a new prisoner he promptly offered to turn State's evidence. In a short time the District Attorney was in possession of more evidence than he needed. If he had adopted the policy the conspirators mapped out for him he would have been long on evidence and short on conviction.

Attorney-General Davies said that the evidence against the band was of the most positive character. He did not think one of them could escape. Under the law the maximum penalty for each offence is seven years' imprisonment and $1000 fine.

The enormity of the crime is increased by the fact that the Forestport feeder provides the larger portion of the water supply for the city of Rome. In consequence of the break in the canal last summer, Rome, during the period of drought, was practically without water, and the engines of the Fire Department had to be used to pump each day's supply from the Erie Canal into the reservoir. If a big fire had occurred in certain sections of the city Rome would probably have been utterly destroyed.

THREE BANK ROBBERIES.

About $10,000 in Cash Stolen in Raids in Indiana.

Sharp Fight Between Citizens and Robbers, But the Latter Escaped on a Hand Car.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (Special).—Bank robbers have made an unusual record in this State. Three country banks were forced, the safes blown open and booty secured to the aggregate amount of about $10,000 in one night. The scene of one of the robberies was enlivened by a fight between citizens and the robbers, in which one policeman was wounded and one of the robbers shot, how dangerously is not known, as he was taken away by his companions.

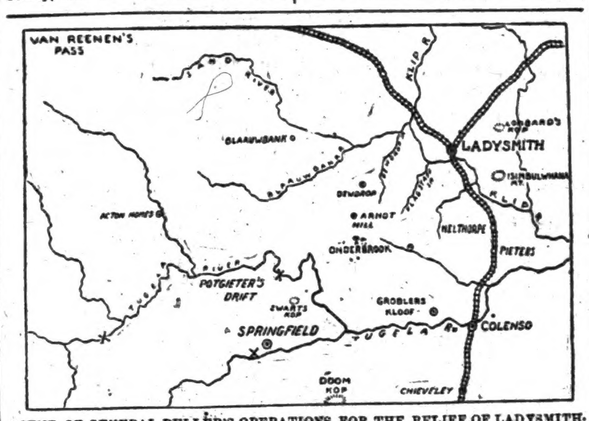
The Commercial Bank at Silver Lake, Kosciusko County, was broken into at 1.30 o'clock. It required two charges of dynamite to force the safe. The first explosion was heard by Night Watchman Burt, who wakened William Price and they went toward the bank. The second explosion occurred before they reached the building and a moment later they were met by five men, whom they commanded to halt.

The robbers opened fire upon them and some thirty shots were exchanged, Price having his hand and arm wounded and the bones in each crushed and splintered. One of the robbers was seen to stagger and heard to exclaim that he was shot, but a companion supported him and he was carried to the Big Four tracks, where the party boarded a hand car. By this time several citizens had appeared on the scene and fifty shots were fired at the escaping thieves.

The robbers went to North Manchester on the handcar and there boarded a Wabash freight train, but left it at Columbia City and took to the woods. When last seen at daybreak two of them were supporting the wounded man, who seemed to be very weak. The bank contained something over $6000, and the robbers secured all the money except about $30 in small change.

About the same hour the bank at Ellettsville, Monroe County, was forced open and the vault door blown open with a charge of dynamite. The explosion aroused the citizens, but before they could reach the scene the robbers had left the bank and boarded a handcar on the Monon Railroad and made their escape. The loss of the bank is between $1500 and $2000. The bank belongs to Edmond Palmer, of Chicago.

The bank at Akron was also robbed about the same time and the same methods were employed as at the other banks, the robbers using dynamite and escaping on a handcar before effective pursuit could be organized. The reports differ as to amount secured, but it is known that the loss will reach $1000.



SCENE OF GENERAL BULLER'S OPERATIONS FOR THE RELIEF OF LADYSMITH.

KILLS HIS ENTIRE FAMILY.

Martin Bergen, Boston's Catcher, a Murderer and Suicide.

NORTH BROOKFIELD, Mass. (Special).—Martin Bergen, one of the best-known ball players in the country and one of the Boston's Club's catchers last season, killed his wife and two children with an axe and then cut his own throat with a razor, at his home, in the eastern portion of North Brookfield.

He caught for the Boston Club last year, playing with the nine up to the close of the season. At times during the summer his action in disappearing from the team without notifying Manager Selee or the other players resulted in considerable friction.

Once he went to his home in North Brookfield and refused to play, alleging that he had not been treated well by some of his fellow-players and his manager.

After much persuasion Bergen was induced to return and join his club. He was five feet ten inches in height and weighed 170 pounds.

Bergen at times had been subject to fits of melancholy and had been the subject of comment among his friends. This was noticeably the case last October, when he showed signs of insanity.

ENTOMBED MINER KEPT DIARY.

Chalk Marks Showed That He Lived Three Days on Oil From Lamp.

POTTSVILLE, Penn. (Special).—The body of William Galloway, fire boss of the Kaska William Mine of the Dodson Coal Company, who was entombed on December 18, was recovered a few days ago.

While he lived Galloway kept a diary on sheet iron with a piece of chalk, and subsisted on the oil in his lamp until it was exhausted.

Galloway wrote on a plank on the side of the chute on which the fall occurred the following words:

"I am in the chute No. 11½. William Galloway.

Before the body was found these words were discovered written on sheet iron on a brattice door. They were addressed to his wife:

"I think I am gone. Goodby, Janie. Be good boys, Guy and Willie. I don't think you will see your father any more. I think this is Wednesday."

It is believed he lived but three days. His body lay prostrate in the chute.

SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY.

The weights of classes of students before and after examination have been made the subject of recent investigation. In high classes, where naturally the examination was most felt, several pounds were lost. In lower classes the loss was not so great.

Coke from Illinois coal is reported as having been successfully made at a cost of $2 per ton, as the result of a series of careful experiments. If this be true, it means fuel for the western iron and steel industries at about half its present cost for Pennsylvania coke.

At the recent meeting of the British Institution of Mining Engineers there was a discussion of a demonstration recently made in an English mine where a dangerous fire, after resisting ordinary methods, was finally put out after liberating in the mine carbonic acid in a liquefied form. It was urged that carbonic acid could be used in many cases of fire, an obvious great advantage being that it does no damage of itself as water does.

Prof. Dewar has at length succeeded in solidifying hydrogen. In its compact form, solid hydrogen is a transparent ice, but owing to rapid ebullition it usually appears as a foamy white mass. Its mean temperature is 16 degrees centigrade above absolute zero. Professor Dewar says, with reference to his latest achievement: "The last doubt as to the possibility of solid hydrogen having a metallic character has been removed, and for the future hydrogen must be classed among the non-metallic elements."

The utilization of the waste from the manufacture of potato flour has been sought by J. Knipers of Lehrans, Holland. The residues are strained to remove the peel, etc., partially freed from water, then treated with glycerine and a mixture of acid at about boiling temperature. The viscid, gummy mass obtained is dried and pulverized. The powder, mixed with four or five per cent. of water, is pressed, molds being used if desired, and the product is a homogenous, solid block of almost metallic ring. It may be said to be a kind of artificial wood. It can be worked with boring and cutting tools, taking the sharpest possible screw threads, and is adapted for most of the purposes for which wood, vulcanite, celluloid and even metal are employed. It is an excellent electrical insulator.

A writer on the subject of plant pathology says that plants need doctors quite as urgently in their way as human beings do. Horticulturists have long admitted that the best way of making plants profitable is to keep them in robust condition. But it is not every one who knows how to do this—in fact, the practice of plant medicine is in its infancy. A horticultural expert expresses the belief that a time must come when every agricultural district will have its plant doctor, and when specialists in animal parasites, cryptogramic botany and bacteriology will be consulted in difficult cases as the medical specialist is now called in by the practitioner.

Our Feet Growing Larger.

Shoemakers and haberdashers who cater to the wants of the elite assert that their patrons this season demand hosiery and shoes averaging from one-half to one and a half sizes larger than they did five years ago. The majority of the dealers believe that the average length and breadth of men's feet have been steadily increasing since the wane of the fashion which demanded a pointed toe and tight fitting shoe.

This they explain by saying that the effect of the style in vogue years ago was to cramp and distort the natural development of the feet. When the style changed and comfort became the criterion of fashion nature again exerted itself. Feet which had become distorted during the reign of the narrow shoe and pointed toe slowly began to broaden and adapt themselves to their new surroundings.

The change, being gradual, went for a long time unnoticed, and not until the merchants recently began to compare their sales of five years ago with those of today was it found that the average increase has been approximately one size.—New York Herald.

Electric Ticket Selling Machine.

There is at present under construction in the workshop of George Kirkegaard an electric machine which will be used on the elevated stations for selling tickets. The machine referred to is to be constructed in such a way that when you drop your nickel in the slot you will receive a ticket in exchange. There will be four of these on each of the larger stations.

The reason why this system has been adopted by the railroad trustees is to do away with the expense of having an agent on each station. It is believed that the machines now under construction will be put into use within a few weeks. This machine was patented by M. Menges of Shepshead Bay.—New York Herald.

Heroes of the Russian Battle.

Even brief descriptions of the territories of the Russian battle, during the past 170 years, would fill a huge volume. It is situated on the Neva, opposite the Winter Palace. In this frowning prison Peter I put his own son to death, Catherine II buried alive some of her foes, and the Princess Tarakanova suffered in unique torture. An inundation flooded her cell and the rats were forced to crawl upon her back and shoulders to save their own lives.

HOUSEHOLD AFFAIRS.

How to Tell a Good Sponge.

Good sponges are always dark in color. The pale yellow ones have been bleached in vitriol, which injures their texture and makes them less durable. To clean sponges soak in strong salt water, knead and rinse in clean water.

Sachets For Bed Linen.

Instead of sprinkling lavender among the bed linen of the linen closet, as their grandmothers did, many housekeepers now keep their sheets and pillow cases between large sachets, which are perfumed with lavender, sweet clover or delicately scented sachet powder. Others, who like the odor of the "piney woods," keep flat sachets filled with pine needles tacked at the corners and sides of the mattresses. This odor is thought by some people to be sleep producing. Other housekeepers suspend dainty sachet bags from the corners of bedstead, bureau and dressing table, in order to obtain a delicate odor in the room.

Olive Oil a Valuable Food.

Many housekeepers consider olive oil so expensive that it must be used sparingly. This is unfortunate, for it is one of the most valuable of foods, especially for delicate and nervous persons and for growing children. Most of us, indeed, need a green salad lightly dressed with oil and lemon juice once a day. A simple way out of the difficulty is to discover a good Italian grocery, where the oil is sure to be found, imported in tins and costing about one-third of its price when sold in bottles. It appears, indeed, to be a different oil, as it has a slightly greenish tinge. Its flavor, however, is delicious and its purity evident. Once used it will not be given up.

Placing Food in the Ice Box.

There is a science in the putting away of food in store room or ice box, that is too often neglected by the otherwise particular housekeeper. The slice of breakfast ham is often carelessly left in juxtaposition with the dinner roast, which spoils the flavor of the latter. A dish of cold boiled onions is thoughtlessly set near the butter, which at once absorbs its distinctive odor without advantage to itself. Celery is laid near the cream pitcher and turnips or boiled cabbage set by the cooling custard for supper. Through such carelessness and ignorance, the loss is sometimes quite great. Milk, cream and butter should be kept as much as possible from all food, as they too readily absorb any flavor at hand. Meat or poultry should not rest against each other, but be arranged so that the air can circulate about them. If meat and poultry are to hang, they should be suspended with the choicest part down that the juices may settle there.

Quickly Made Pudding For Guests.

Ever and again a hostess is surprised by unexpected guests who do not intend to remain for a formal meal, yet whose hours of arrival make it necessary to give them a little luncheon. A dish that is made readily and just fulfils the requirements of such cases may be prepared by passing a few slices of cold salt or roast beef through the mincing machine, adding a little chopped parsley, salt, pepper and a little nutmeg, and moisten with thick white or brown sauce. Mash a half pound of potatoes which have been baked in their skins and put into a basin with an ounce of dripping, salt and pepper and half a well-beaten egg, and mix thoroughly. Add flour enough to make the potato the right consistency to roll out on a pastry board. Cut the paste into rounds, place a small spoonful of the minced meat on the half of each round, then fold the paste over and pinch the edges together after moistening them with a little egg. Cost the puffs with beaten egg and scatter breadcrumbs thickly over them, and after letting them stand for ten minutes fry them in plenty of boiling fat. If preferred, the puffs may be baked in the oven on a tin which has been rubbed with dripping.

Recipes.

Peach Tapioca.—Wash one cupful of tapioca, cover it with cold water and soak over night. In the morning add two cupfuls of boiling water and let it simmer until perfectly clear, then add a quart can of peaches, sweeten to taste, pour into the dish designed for the table and set away to cool. Serve with cream and sugar.

Eggs Upon Toast.—Put a good-sized lump of butter into the frying-pan, and when it is hot stir in four or five well-beaten eggs, with pepper, salt and a little parsley. Stir and toss for three minutes. Have ready some slices of buttered toast spread thickly with chopped boiled lobster. Heap the egg upon these in mounds and garnish with parsley.

Chestnut and Tomato Puree.—One cup of cooked and mashed chestnuts, one cup of cooked tomatoes; mix with two quarts of stock; add a teaspoonful of celery salt, a tablespoonful of onion juice and a dash of cayenne. Let come to a boil; strain; mix in a tablespoonful of flour rubbed into a tablespoonful of butter and thinned with a cupful of the soup; boil three minutes and serve.

Salmon Mayonnaise.—Remove the large leaves from a head of lettuce and lay over the bottom of a platter for a foundation, sprinkle a little oil over them. Upon these lay in a circle small cutlets of salmon which have been dipped into mayonnaise dressing; let them lap over each other. Leave a space in the center, into which put the remainder of the lettuce, finely shredded, a little water cress, and dismember dish with thin slices or strips of pickled beets. Finally, pour some of the dressing on top.

FORMER Congressman M. W. Howard has announced himself a candidate for the U. S. senate to succeed John T. Morgan. We have not heard of any particular reason Mr. Howard may have for entering the race, and in fact to see any prospect of his election. Mr. Howard's entry in the race would seem to be of more benefit to Mr. Morgan's candidacy than any other individual.

THE Elections Committee in Congress having heard the contest case of W. F. Aldrich vs. Gaston A. Robbins has decided to seat Mr. Aldrich. This, of course, is what everyone in the district anticipated, it being known to all that Mr. Aldrich was honestly elected.

One of the most important measures which has come before the present session of Congress is a bill to organize the Weather Bureau. The work of this Bureau is of vital import to nearly if not quite all the personal and property interests of this great country, and the expense of maintaining the Bureau is insignificant as compared with the vast amounts saved annually by its warnings.

This bill was introduced by Hon. James W. Wadsworth, Chairman of the Agricultural Committee of the House; it provides for a reorganization of the Weather Bureau by grading the imployes from the lowest to the highest, provides for rigid examinations as to capacity and fitness for promotion, grade by grade, and also for the retirement on partial pay of officials who have grown old or become disabled in service. This retirement, or rather civil pension, is not to cost the Government one penpy, as the bill provides for the creation of a retirement fund by withholding about 3 per cent of each employe's salary; and it will not be available until the fund shall be self-sustaining. It is an excellent measure, one needed to encourage deserving officials, has the hearty approval of the entire force of the Weather Bureau, and should certainly receive the favorable consideration of the people's representatives in Congress.

T. J. HUBBARD.

The announcement of Mr. T. J. Hubbard for re-election to the important office of Tax Collector which he has so satisfactory filled for the last fodr years is not by any means a surprise to our readers, it having been for some time considered a certainty that he would seek re-election.

Mr. Hubbard is so well known and liked that it is almost superfluous for us to say that his candidacy is a strong one and that his friend, will rally to his support. He has made a good, honest and capable official, and it he is re-elected the county will feel that it has again placed a good honest man as his Tax Collector. His accounts with the State and county have always been settled to the last cent and on time and he can be thoroughly relied upon to continue in the same way.

A COMPARISON.

Buller's task, the relief of Ladysmith, and the capture of Pretoria, is, in respect of some of the conditions, much like the one Sherman confronted when in early May, 1864, he left this city with Johnston's army of nearly 70,000 men in front of him, his objective being Atlanta, Sherman's route was through narrow valleys, across rivers, over foothills and mountains Buller's line of march for a hundred miles and more north of Colenso, near where he was yesterday, is a cross the Drakenberg range, a mountain chain not uplike our Appallachain. Johnston first faced about in a strong position near Dalton. He was flanked by Sherman's Twenty-third corps. General Schofield, and had barely time to pull back his left to Resaca, to check the federal flanking column and fight it until his transportation could be moved toward Kingstown. The confederate general made no serious effort to again check his antagonist until he reached Alatoona. There he was again flanked, and the next halt he made was on the high slope of Kennesaw and the foothills extended off to the west of that peak. Sherman fought his enemy with two corps, and sent a third round to the left, forcing Johnston back to Atlanta.

Johnston was too wise a general to attempt holding river lines, after the ancient style of grand tactics. Modern methods of crossing large bodies of men over streams quickly have made them of small account as obstructions against a larger army.

Sherman's last strategical move was in front of Atlanta, after Johnston was relieved and Hood placed in command of the confederate army, and it had been held by competent critics as the finest flanking movement of the civil war. Some have ranked this specimen of grand tactics as quite the equal of the best generalship displayed by Napoleon.

If Buller has men enough to keep his enemy busy, with a strong division to spare for flanking, he can and will repeat Sherman's campaign of the summer of 1864. Assuming that Joubert falls back from Ladysmith, the British general will have the railway to Durban behind him open. It is 170 miles from Durban by-rail to Ladysmith. That place is well fortified, an excellent sub-base of supplies. Away in the north by west lie Johannesburg and Pretoria, 350 miles by rail, nearly 300 to Kruger's capital, as the crow flies.

But Buller will not be the "whole thing" in the aggressive campaign. Kitchener is rapidly organizing a big corps, made up of infantry, mounted troops, artillery, a brigade of naval batteries. This force is being put into shape at Cape Town. It will soon be on the trek to relieve Mathuen, who is backed up to Orange river near Hope Town, beseiged by Cronje's Free State army. This latter wing of the Boer army must be strengthened, or Kitchener will have his own way, and beat Buller to the objective. From Colesburg to Pretoria is 500 miles. The railroad is almost a bee-line. A dash on Bloemfontein, the Free State capital, would force the abandonment of the siege of Kimberley and Mafeking.

To oppose the converging British columns, starting from points separated by 400 miles of South African mountain and veit, and moving to the meeting point, Pretoria of two great railway lines, the Boers have probably 50,000 men fit for duty. The British now have about 85,000 in South Africa or in transit, and 45,000 in reserv at Aldershot or in more temporary home camps. It is plain that the campaign can have but one end, if the English are as determined as ever to prosecute the war to a "satisfactory conclusion."

But it will take time. It's no small undertaking. Sherman left his camps south of Chattanooga about May 10th. He forced the confederates back to Atlanta by June 13th, and they abandoned the city on September 1st, after inflicting terrible losses and damages on the federal forces.

Buller, at Ladysmith, is nearly four times as far from Pretoria as Sherman was from Atlanta when he started to meet Johnston at Dalton, and Kitchener will be almost six times the distance from Dalton to Atlanta, if he finally concentrates his army on a line drawn east and west within striking distance south of Orange river.—Chattanooga Times.

We understand that the Populist Executive Committee will be called to meet shortly.

Danger Signals!

Do you take cold with every change in the weather? Does your throat feel raw? And do sharp pains dart through your chest?

Don't you know these are danger signals which point to pneumonia, bronchitis, or consumption itself?

If you are ailing and have lost flesh lately, they are certainly danger signals. The question for you to decide is, "Have I the vitality to throw off these diseases?"

Don't wait to try SCOTT'S EMULSION "as a last resort." There is no remedy equal to it for fortifying the system. Prevention is easy.

Scott's Emulsion

prevents consumption and hosts of other diseases which attack the weak and those with poor blood.

SCOTT'S EMULSION is the one standard remedy for inflamed throats and lungs, for colds, bronchitis and consumption. It is a food medicine of remarkable power. A food, because it nourishes the body; and a medicine, because it corrects diseased conditions.

made, and who has not determined to do still more along the lines in which he was most successful.

I believe that most people would be vastly better off for using business methods in their social and christian lives. A great many who honestly mean to do right go from one year to another without trying to find out where they stand, or discovering whether they have gained ground or lost it. In many cases, if not in the majority, this ends in spiritual and social bankruptcy. We should take account of our stock. If every business man in our town or city can afford time for it, so can we. Look over the year that is gone, and look into the depts of your heart. Is your enthusiasm stronger than it was a year ago, or has it become faint? Does the fire of love in your heart burn more brightly as the days go by, or is it half smothered in ashes?

Shall we be wise in temporal affairs, while foolish or reckless in weightier matters. The Psalmist sets a good example for young people when he says, "I thought on my ways." An evidently, as a result, some changes became necessary; for he further says, "I turned my feet into thy testimonies." And it is also evident that there was some urgency which he had not realized before, for he continues, "I made haste to keep thy statutes."

WOMAN'S WORLD.

MIDWINTER FURS.

They Are Generously Used on Hat, Gown and Coat.

It is a season of furs. Not in years have such quantities of beautiful soft sables and feathery chinchilla trimmed so generously hat, gown and coat—to say nothing of the whole frocks lavishly built of baby lamb wool that are regal from a point of expenditure and extremely chic in effect. The many names by which this baby lamb, as we call it, is known, proves rather confusing, and the nationality of your tailor determines under which title you order it. In London it is broad tail; in Paris caracule, and in Berlin breitschwanz. One of the prettiest of these handsome fur gowns was worn at a fashionable tea the other afternoon, The skirt was perfectly plain and exquisitely hung, while the jacket extended below the waist line in one large scallop just in the centre of the back, and then rounded off toward the front, where there was a decidedly pointed dip. Carved ivory buttons that were not very large served as fasteners. Sable revers and Russian cuffs and collar were the final touch of smartness. When the coat opened there was a glimpse of a most beautiful white satin antique shirt waist, appealingly simple. The hat was also of Court sable, fashioned after an English walking hat—may one be bourgeoise and whisper that the hat alone cost $450? With such hats in their trousseau, women are not likely to discard them, as has been predicted, because cheap imitations are bountiful. If anything, vulgarity of the imitations rather enhances the value of the real. Besides fur hats are far too becoming, and when ordered from clever milliners prove the grand chic of almost any costume.

Up to the present time there has been but little need of fur jackets. However, the last few days have determined that the woman of fashion has shown rather a preference for seal, and in the jaunty short coats there is nothing richer or prettier. Of course the baby lamb jackets hold their own in popularity.

Mrs. "Jack" Astor's street baby lamb coat is a very pretty model, with its inlet girdle of velvet overlaid with braid. Tiny cut steel round buttons are seen in the front. With this she wore a simple black cloth skirt, and the daintiest of pale blue tucked velvet hats, trimmed with a black choux at one side. Earrings of turquois surrounded with brilliants gave an extra touch of color that was most becoming.

At Mrs. Anson Phelps Stokes's reception a few days ago one of the prettiest and most distinguished costumes was a sable tail short jacket fastened with blue cameo buttons surrounded with cut steel, and worn with a gray cloth skirt, and a very flat velvet toque, also of gray.

In fancy inexpensive furs there is a large collection to choose from. The grays, though pretty, are rather passe. Cinnamon bear is smart, and makes a good boa and muff. White long-hair boas and muffs are quite the smart touch at the moment. At a recent luncheon just such a set was worn with a pastel-blue costume, and the tout ensemble was good and unusual.

If one is going to order a muff, it is best to stick to the round conventional shape, as it will be found to be more satisfactory in the long run. Some of the fancy fur and velvet muffs are smart, but unless a woman has many such things she will find them tiresome. There has never been a time when clothes were so pretty, if well chosen, but the selection cannot be made too carefully, and in this day of lavish display the woman who knows adheres to simplicity.—New York Times.

As to Noses.

A perfect nose is one of the rarest things to be found in this world. Of the different features of the face the nose is undoubtedly the principal. It can mar or enhance the beauty of a face, no matter how imperfect or perfect the other features may be, and almost always character can be read from the nose. The Roman nose denotes boldness of character, also great business enterprise.

No one envies the possessor of a red nose. This unsightliness is due to many causes, Tight-lacing will eventually cause a red nose; so will some forms of indigestion; also exposure to heat. When the redness is due to indigestion the victim should overcome the cause by careful dieting. For the cure of redness of the nose caused by exposure to the sun or heat a good retiring or cold cream applied and allowed to remain on for a while will soothe irritation and remove the tan.

When the redness is determined and painful then the cause is more serious. A form of cancer begins with irritation and redness of the nose, and it is therefore wise to consult a physician when none of the simple remedies avails.

Black heads and enlarged pores on the nose are the most general troubles. The former are very stubborn and hard to eradicate, but a good penetrating retiring cream put on to remain overnight and washed off with hot water and a chemically pure soap in the morning will be found very beneficial. It is best, though, to consult a reliable skin specialist. To contract enlarged pores of the nose bathe organ in very hot water, and then splash it immediately with cold water. The shape of the nose is something we cannot greatly alter. In babyhood, when the cartilage of the nose are soft and pliable, the mother, by daily molding the nose as she wants it shaped, can assist nature.

Women's Right to Make Wills.

Men usually make wills as a matter of course. Oftentimes a woman neglects to make a will as much on account of her ignorance of the required form as through negligence. And instead of inquiring into the subject, many dismiss it and vaguely believe that at their death their affairs will be conducted quite as satisfactorily as with a written testament.

Wills may be made by any person not disqualified by age or by mental incapacity, excepting in some States married women. A female over twelve years of age in New Mexico and over sixteen in New York may bequeath her personal property. But eighteen is the age fixed for devising real estate in California, Colorado, Connecticut, Dakota, District of Columbia, Illinois, Maryland, Minnesota, Montana, Nevada, Utah and Washington, while in the other States the testatrix must be twenty-one years of age.

Married women may devise their separate estates in Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Connecticut, Dakota, District of Columbia, Idaho, Kentucky, Maine, Missouri, Nevada, North Carolina, Tennessee, Utah, Vermont, Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming. It is necessary in the other States that a married woman have the written consent of her husband before disposing of her property by will.

An unmarried woman's will is legally revoked by marriage, but her property may be arranged in such a manner as to permit her to dispose of it after marriage as she may desire.—Woman's Home Companion.

The New Hats.

It is in the new hats and small bonnets that the greatest departure will immediately take place. While the cry of the fashionables is for the fur toque with plumes of malines and brussels net, still the well-versed realize that that is no longer a new story from the highest standpoint, though it may be from the popular fashionable standpoint.

A Parisian authority of undoubted position shows a maline toque in which are twined small ermine tails in black and white, the maline being white. The tails run horizontally around the hat and are placed at intervals between the maline, but showing the fur distinctly. The hat is unique and peculiar. The great tendency of the moment is toward lower crowns, flatter hats and smaller diameters.

Hats will undoubtedly turn backward from the face, many strings will come into use and big neck bows of malines net, lace and other materials will quickly come to the front. The Empire following, while not strong, is surely coming.

The hats that best suit the confined outlines of costume of to-day are the small affairs, either low or with tall crowns.—Dry Goods Economist.

Fashion's Fads and Fancies.

Crocheted buttons are revived again.

Mistletoe is an adornment newly adopted by the milliners.

A coat back with basque effect and bolero front forms one of the new bodices on an imported gown.

The tops of sleeves continue to be more trimmed either with stitching, cording or some applied decoration.

Some of the corduroy velveteen and cloth gowns are trimmed with bands of white kid edged with beaver fur.

Graduated fringe is one of the novelties, and it is far more graceful than the straight variety. It is found in all lengths with a knotted beading.

Something new in skirt lining, of English make, is called merveline. It is very fine, soft and silky, resembles moire, and comes in a great variety of colors.

Silver fox boas with two feet and the pointed head of the animal at one end and two feet and the bushy tail at the other are decidedly the fashion, for young ladies especially.

Hats with decided and rather high crowns are becoming rather popular, but the latest advices from Paris assure us that it is the hat with the broad, low crown which is the novelty.

A very beautiful example of the ever-popular black and white contrast is an elegant costume of black cloth combined with black and white figured velvet, black silk passementerie and black and white buttons.

The smart form of the fashionable lace sleeve is a mitten finish over the back of the hand, kept in place by a very narrow band around the thumb or one of the fingers. Several small buttons fasten this sleeve at the wrist.

A beaver brown cloth coat stitched with white silk and completed with a collar and revers of grebe, is one of the season's developments in the department of outdoor garments, which has surpassed all previous records in the production of varied styles.

A useful petticoat just received from Paris is built of lavender flannel, closely fitting the hips and reaching to the knees, where it is extended to the proper length, with a deep silk flounce covered with a number of small ruffles edged in turn with lace. This novelty combines warmth and style.

Some of the skirts made with the box-plaited backs and plain fronts are effective, notwithstanding the lilting comment with which they were launched, that they are particularly becoming to bad figures. That was in comparison with the sheath skirt. Perhaps they are, but it would not be safe for a very bad figure to rely upon the plaits alone for style preservers.

FARM AND GARDEN.

Fresh Meat For Poultry.

If you cannot get fresh meat for your poultry, or if the expense is apparently too great, use the commercial ground meat. Fish is also excellent for ducks if the eggs are to be used for hatching, and ground fish will be very acceptable to them. In the winter season, when grain is largely used, meat or fish will serve to supply the deficiency of nitrogen. One cent a pound is about the cost for ground meat or fish, and they are very cheap, even at double the price.

Cause of Decay in Trees.

It really seems that diseases and premature decay of almost every kind of fruit trees are on the increase, despite the efforts and methods employed to promote their health and vigor. New diseases are multiplying or old ones are increasing in virulence and power. This is mainly to be attributed to the vitality of the tree, and this, we believe, mainly arises from improper cultivation or treatment of the tree. Much of this trouble with trees must come from the manner of budding and grafting, the kind of soil in which they are planted and the method of pruning.—The Epitomist.

Annual Crop For the Orchard.

Unless it is desirable to reduce the growth of a too rampant young orchard and set it to bearing, some annual crop is better for the well being of an orchard than seeding it with clover. If the land lacks fertility sow peas on it, and let them be harvested by turning hogs in to feed them down. That will doubly manure the soil, the hogs being left unringed and thus at liberty to cover their excrement with soil, and the nodules on pea roots serving to supply the soil with available nitrogen just as clover would do. If the land is already too rich, keep a buckwheat crop on it in summer, plowing it under very lightly the last of June. This will keep the soil loose and light without enriching it much. But so soon as the young trees get to bearing, the peas will make the soil none too rich, and the trees should have at the same time dressings of potash and phosphate, which all trees that bear fruit every year need in order to produce a crop.

Points in Feeding Stock.

Much of the improvement made in animals by domestication is the effect of the better care and more regular rations which domestic stock secures. It is far less able to care for itself, because of being thus for generations provided with more and better food than it could secure without man's aid. This regular supply of nutritious food increases the animal's digestive powers, so that it can make use of all that is taken into the stomach. Wild animals are seldom fat. When hogs are allowed to run wild as they do in the Southern States, they are long legged, long bodied and always lean. Their flesh is mostly made from wild nuts and roots eaten in the woods, with some corn gained by depredations on the fields of farmers in the neighborhood where the wild hog abounds. This razor-back pork has a high reputation for delicacy of flavor, and its hams are exported in large amounts and sold after being cured at higher prices than can be got for the pork made from localities where corn and other grains are the staple ration. —The Cultivator.

Using a Lantern in a Barn.

The dangers that arise when a lighted lantern is carried into the barn are too manifest to need description. The cut shows a convenient device for use either in the feeding floor or in the tie-up. Suspended at frequent distances from above are small cords. Attached to the lower ends are hooks upon which the lantern may be hung. It will then be up out of the way of any chance blow that might upset it if resting upon the floor. Suspend a set well back toward the rear wall, behind the row of cows also, and there will be no upsetting of the lantern when milking or caring for the animals.—New England Homestead.

THE DEVICE FOR HANGING LANTERNS

Test of Manure vs. Fertilizers.

At the Glasgow Technical College Farm they tried twenty tons of manure against ten tons of the same, and ten tons reinforced by either 112 pounds sulphate of potash, or the same of sulphate of ammonia, or 448 pounds of superphosphate, or the sulphate of ammonia with one of the other two, or the three combined. The twenty tons of stable manure produced one ton eleven hundredweight (reckoning hundredweights there are 112 pounds) more than ten tons of manure. Adding either potash or phosphate to the ten tons of manure increased the crop 896 pounds, while adding nitrogen increased it 1120 pounds. Adding both nitrogen and potash increased it 2016 pounds, adding nitrogen and phosphate increased it 2352 pounds, and adding all the three increased it 3136 pounds; or within 336 pounds of as much as was raised on the twenty tons of manure. Where no manure was used the yield was 4½ tons, or nearly 180 bushels to the acre, which was more than doubled by the use of twenty tons of manure, or by ten tons of manure and the three fertilizers combined, 772 pounds per acre.

Weed Out the Useless Croppers.

The man that produces a variety of vegetables to sell in the cities and towns needs to keep a close account with each crop raised. By this method alone can he know what crops are paying him a profit and what crops are running him into debt. If he keeps a strict account he will find that he has some useless croppers. These useless croppers merely take the fertility from the land, eat up the labor of the farmer and give nothing in return. This is not the blame of the particular crops that are found to be unprofitable. Usually lands differ so greatly in their mechanical construction and in the natural elements they contain that the same set of plants will show up quite differently on different pieces of land. In other words, each lot of land will be found to be specially adapted to only a limited number of plants. It is the business of the farmer to discover what these are and stick to them in his future operations. As in our dairies it has been found that half of the cows are cared for without returning a cent of profit, so in the garden of the farmer, probably half of the kinds of crops grown can be discarded without losing the farmer a penny, but with a saving to him of a great volume of labor and care.—Farm, Field and Fireside.

Inexpensive Winter Hen House.

In regions where the snow does not cover the ground too deeply, a cheap, low structure can be built after the plan shown in the cut, that will answer the purpose very well. Stakes are driven into the ground and rough boards nailed to these to a height of three feet in front and two feet in the rear, leaving spaces for low, wide sash in front. A long and a short roof is put on, with roof doors in the front, short roof. These are made with overlapping edges to secure tightness against the wind and rain. The attendant stands outside and through these roof doors cares for the fowls, securing the eggs from nests that are within reach, putting in water and scattering grain in the litter. The whole structure is covered with tarred or resin-sized paper, the edges being securely tacked or battened with laths. The roof is covered in the same way.

Select a dry location, and put in three inches of gravel upon the ground and keep a thick layer of chaff upon that, and the inmates will scratch away merrily for grain all winter long. Make the building any length desired and part off with boards—or with netting if only females are to be kept in the pens—before the roof is put on. Roosts can be put up just out of the fowls' way when on the floor. With care to make the roof tight, such a building, while it costs but little, will prove very satisfactory.

Moisture in Incubators.

One of the hardest things to learn in artificial incubation is to have the proper amount of moisture. It is true that, as a rule, we use too much moisture, but I think we sometimes use too little. When an egg is formed it is intended that a certain amount of the contents of the egg should evaporate, as it must necessarily do. Now if not enough of this is evaporated the chick becomes overgrown and unable to turn in its shell. Hence, the use of too much moisture will cause almost full grown chicks. Then if not enough moisture is applied too much will be evaporated and the chick will be weakened or the inside membrane of the egg will become dry and tough. The quantity of moisture needed depends upon the season and the location. If in a damp cellar it is quite probable that more will be needed, while in a dry season it is possible that a good deal will be needed. All incubators, I believe, are constructed so that there is a constant change of air going on all the time in the egg chamber. This air, being first cold and then becoming heated, has a greater affinity, as you might call it, for water, and hence the moisture is taken from the eggs if it is not supplied by some other means. Even if the air before entering had been at the dew point, it would, upon being warmed, have a tendency to take in more moisture until the dew point is reached inside the egg chamber. The object should be to let the air evaporate a sufficient quantity of moisture from the egg and then introduce more moisture to keep the air from taking any more.

The moisture should not be thrown on the eggs, as it chills them, but it should be placed where all the air that enters the chamber will become saturated before it has time to take the moisture from the eggs. If you open the draw and find it wet, it shows that too much moisture is being thrown off by the moisture pans. If you have trouble write to your manufacturer and tell him what is wrong, and he will be able to tell you better than any one, or at least he should be able. The pans should be wide and shallow, as the more surface there is, the greater the evaporation. —The Epitomist.

REV. DR. TALMAGE.

DISCOURSE BY THE EMINENT DIVINE LAST SUNDAY.

Subject: Lights of the Face—The Marvels of the Human Eye Prove the Infinite Wisdom of the Creator—Divinely Constructed Lighthouses of the Soul.

[Copyright, Louis Klopsch, 1896.]

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In this discourse Dr. Talmage, in his own way, calls attention to that part of the human body never perhaps discoursed upon in the pulpit and challenges us all to the study of omniscience. Text, Psalm xciv., 9, "He that formed the eye, shall He not see?"

The imperial organ of the human system is the eye. All up and down the Bible God honors it, extols it, illustrates it or arraigns it. Five hundred and thirty-four times is it mentioned in the Bible. Omnipresence—"the eyes of the Lord are in every place." Divine care—"as the apple of the eye." The clouds—"the eyelids of the morning." Irreverence—"the eye that mocketh at its Father." Pride—"oh, how lofty are their eyes." Inattention—"the fool's eye in the ends of the earth." Divine inspection—"wheels full of eyes." Suddenness—"in the twinkling of an eye at the last trump." Oilvetic sermon—"the light of the body is the eye." This morning's text, "He that formed the eye, shall He not see?"

The surgeons, the doctors, the anatomists and the physiologists understand much of the glories of the two great lights of the human race, but the vast multitudes go on from cradle to grave without any appreciation of the two great masterpieces of the Lord God Almighty. If God had lacked anything of infinite wisdom, He would have failed in creating the human eye. We wander through the earth trying to see wonderful sights, but the most wonderful sight we ever see is not so wonderful as the instruments through which we see it.

It has been a strange thing to me for thirty years that some scientist with enough eloquence and magnetism did not go through the country with illustrated lecture on canvas thirty feet square to startle and thrill and overwhelm Christendom with the marvels of the human eye. We want the eye taken from all its technicalities and some one who shall lay aside all talk about the pterygomaxillary fissures, the sclerotica and the chiasma of the optic nerve and in plain, common parlance which you and I and everybody can understand present the subject. We have learned men who have been telling us what our origin is and what we were. Oh, if some one should come forth from the dissecting table and from the classroom of the university and take the platform and asking the help of the Creator demonstrate the wonders of what we are! If I refer to the physiological facts suggested by the former part of my text, it only to bring out in plainer way the theological lessons of the latter part of my text, "He that formed the eye, shall He not see?"

I suppose my text referred to the human eye since it excels all others in structure and adaptation. The eyes of fish and reptiles and moles and bats are very simple things because they have not much to do. There are insects with a hundred eyes, but the hundred eyes have less faculty than the two human eyes. The black beetle swimming the summer pond has two eyes under the water and two eyes above the water, but the four insectile are not equal to the two human. Man placed at the head of all living creatures must have supreme equipment, while the blind fish in the Mammoth cave of Kentucky have only an undeveloped organ of sight, an apology for the eye, which if through some crevice of the mountain they should go into the sunlight might be developed into positive eyesight.

In the first chapter of Genesis we find that God without any consultation created the light, created the trees, created the fish, created the fowl, but when He was about to make man He called a convention of divinity, as though to imply that all the powers of Godhead were to be enlisted in the achievement. "Let us make man." Put a whole ton of emphasis on that word "us." "Let us make man." And if God called a convention of divinity to create man I think the two great questions in that conference were how to create a soul and how to make an appropriate window for that emperor to look out of.

See how God honored the eye before He created it. He cried until chaos was irradiated with the utterance, "Let there be light!" In other words, before He introduced man into this temple of the world He illumined it, prepared it for the eyesight. And so after the last human eye has been destroyed in the final demolition of the world stars are to fail, and the sun is to cease its shining, and the moon is to turn into blood. In other words, after the human eyes are no more to be profited by their shining the chandeliers of heaven are to be turned out. God to educate and to bless and to help the human eye set on the mantel of heaven two lamps—a gold lamp and a silver lamp—the one for the day and the other for the night.

To show how God honors the eye look at the two halls built for the residence of the eyes. Seven bones making the wall for each eye, the seven bones curiously wrought together. Kingly palace of ivory is considered rich, but the halls for the residence of the human eyes are richer by so much as human bone is more sacred than elephantine tusk. See how God honored the eyes when He made a roof for them, so that the sweat of toil should not smart them and the rain dashing against the forehead might not drip into them; the eyebrows not bending over the eye, but reaching to the right and to the left, so that the rain and the sweat should be compelled to drop upon the cheek instead of falling into this divinely protected human eyesight.

See how God honored the eye in the fact presented by anatomists and physiologists that there are 800 contrivances in every eye. For window shutters; the eyelids opening and closing 30,000 times a day, the eyelashes so constructed that they have their selection as to what shall be admitted, saying to the dust, "Stay out," and saying to the light, "Come in." For inside curtain the iris or pupil of the eye, according as the light is greater or less, contracting or dilating. The eye of the owl is blind in the day time, the eyes of some creatures are blind at night, but the human eye so marvelously constructed it can see both by day and by night.

Many of the other creatures of God can move the eye only from side to side, but the human eye, so marvelously constructed, has one muscle to lift the eye, and another muscle to lower the eye, and another muscle to roll it to the right, and another muscle to roll it to the left, and another muscle passing through a pulley to turn it round and round, an elaborate gearing of six muscles as perfect as God could make them.

There is also the retina gathering the rays of light and passing the visual impression along the optic nerve about the thickness of the lampwick, passing the visual impression on to the sensorium and into the soul. What a delicate lens, what an exquisite screen, what soft cushions, what wonderful chemistry of the human eye. The eye washed by a slow stream of moisture whether we sleep or wake, rolling imperceptibly over the pebble of the eye and emptying into a bone of the nostril, a contrivance so wonderful that it can see the sun 95,000,000 of miles away and the point of a pin. Telescope and microscope in the same contrivance. The astronomer swings and moves the telescope and adjusts and readjusts, the microscope until he gets it to the right focus. The microscopist moves this way and that and adjusts and readjusts the magnifying glass until it is prepared to do its work, but the human eye without a touch beholds the star and the smallest insect. The traveler along the Alps with one glance taking in Mont Blanc and the face of his watch to see whether he has time to climb it. Oh, this wonderful camera which you and I carry about with us from the top of Mount Washington we take in New England, so at night we sweep into our vision the constellations from horizon to horizon. So delicately semi-infinite, and yet the light coming 200,000 miles at the rate of 200,000 miles a second is obliged to halt at the gate of the ear, waiting until the portcullis be lifted. Something hurled 93,000,000 miles before striking an instrument which has not the agitation of even winking under the power of the stroke.

There also is the merciful arrangement of the tear gland by which the eye is washed and through which rolls the tear which brings the relief that comes in tears when some bereavement or great grief strikes us. The tear not an augmentation of sorrow, but the breaking up of the mantle of frozen grief in the warm gulf stream of consolation. Incapacity to express gladness or death. Thank God for the tear glands and for the crystal gates which easily opened by the wonderful hydraulic apparatus of the human eye! Divine constructed vision. Two lighthouses at the harbor of the immortal soul under the shining of which the world sails in and drops anchor.

What an anthem of praise to God the human eye! The tongue is speechless as a clumsy instrument of expression when compared with it. Have you not seen the eye flash with indignation or kindle with enthusiasm, or expand with devotion or contract with sympathy, or stare with fright or drop with sheer weariness, or leer with villainy, or droop with sorrow or pale with envy, or beam with love or twinkle with mirth, or flash with anger and pastor is tragedy and comedy in not seen in its lyric turn. Have you not seen it lifted brow of surprise, or its frown of wrath, or its contraction of pain? I say eye say one thing and the lips said another thing, you would believe the eye rather than the lips. The eyes of Archibald Alexander and Charles G. Finney were the mightiest part of their sermons. George Whitefield enthralled great assemblies with his eyes, though they were crippled with strabismus. Many a military captain has with a look hurled a regiment to victory or to death. Martin Luther turned his great eye on an assembly who came to take his life, and the villain fled. Through the glance of the human eye the soul looks with five times a man's strength, shooting back into the African jungle.

But those best appreciate the value of the eye who have lost it. The Emperor Adrian by accident put out the eyes of a servant, and he said to his servant: "How shall I pay you, in money or in lands? Name the thing you ask me? I am so sorry I have put out your eye out." But the servant refused to put any financial estimate on the value of the eye, and when the emperor urged again the matter he said: "Oh, most gracious emperor, I want nothing but my lost eye." Alas for those for whom a thick atmosphere or impenetrable veil is drawn across the [illegible]

Monkeys as Bait for Crocodiles.

Recently a subscriber to the Illustrated London Gazette wrote to that publication for information as to the best method of taking crocodiles. The last issue contains a letter giving the writer this information. With regard to the matter of procuring monkeys for bait, the writer says: "Procure a strong cage, and place in it a few bananas. When some monkeys have entered the cage, fasten the door securely, and drop anchor."

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR JANUARY 21.

Subject: The Preaching of St. John the Baptist, Luke iii., 1-17—Golden Text, Luke iii., 4—Memory Verses, 2-5—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

INTRODUCTION.—John the Baptist was six months older than Jesus. Their mothers, Mary and Elizabeth, were cousins. John was born at Juttah, a city five miles south of Hebron, in the hill country of Judea. For thirty years we hear nothing of him except that he was in the deserts. Suddenly he appears as prophet, reformer and the forerunner of Christ. He was an austere Nazarite in appearance, dress, food and mode of life. He was like a reproduction of Elijah of old. He was a priest by birth. He stands out in sharp contrast with the spirit and manners of his time.

CONNECTING LINKS.—A little more than seventeen years have passed since we saw Jesus at the Passover feast in Jerusalem. He is still in seclusion at Nazareth, but His forerunner appears on the scene.

1. "In the fifteenth year." Augustus Cæsar died in August, A. D. 14, but three years before his death, in August, A. D. 11, he called Tiberias to reign with him, and St. Luke evidently reckons from that time. Tiberias was a very bad man, given to drunkenness and cruelty. "Pontius Pilate." Pilate was governor of Judea for ten years, from A. D. 26 to 36. His reign was bad. He was finally banished, and is said to have killed himself. "Herod being tetrarch." Tetrarch meant originally the ruler of a fourth part of a country, but was afterwards used with reference to any tributary ruler. After the death of Herod the Great his dominions were divided. This was Herod Antipas, tetrarch of Galilee, who beheaded John, and to whom Jesus was sent at the time of His trial. "Iturmea ....Abilene." Two provinces of Syria northeast of Judea.

2. "Annas and Caiaphas." Caiaphas was the son-in-law of Annas, or Ananias, and it is supposed that they exercised the high priest's office by turns. The law provided for only one high-priest, and he was to hold office for life, but surely we have two here. Clarke thinks that Caiaphas was only a deputy. "Came unto John." The Holy Spirit came upon him in the desert where he was living. "Son of Zacharias." See chap. 1:5-63. "In the wilderness." "The term wilderness was given to a district which was not regularly cultivated and inhabited."

3. "The baptism of repentance." John was a repentance preacher. This was "a baptism requiring and representing an inward spiritual change; the pledge of remission of sins to those who were truly penitent."

4. "As it is written." Luke calls attention to Isaiah's prophecy regarding the character of the coming reformation. "The voice." "The prophecy draws attention to the work rather than to the worker." This voice was clear, distinct, loud. "Prepare ye." The idea is taken from the practice of eastern monarchs, who, whenever they took a journey, sent harbingers before them to prepare the way. The Jewish church was the desert country.

5. "Every valley, etc." This is figurative language. The words illustrate the leveling force of the Gospel." There must be a thorough preparation before God, our King, will come to us. The self-life must "be brought low." The crooked, dishonest life must be "straightened." Let us remove the obstructions of unbelief and carnal desires.

6. "All flesh." Gentiles as well as Jews. "Shall see." It will not be necessary to depend on the testimony of others.

7. "The multitude." Matthew mentions Pharisees and Sadducees. "To be baptized." This was a baptism unto repentance; it was not Christian baptism. "Generation of vipers." "Brood" of vipers. "This denotes persons deceitful and malicious." "A terribly expressive speech." He called them snakes. Was he harsh? "Let us remember that love can be severe." John desires that they may escape the impending doom. "Who hath warned you." How came you to think that by complying with an outward sign, you can escape the wrath of God without an inward change?

8. "Fruits worthy of repentance." John did not stop with a profession, but they must show their reformation by their conduct. Repentance includes, (1) conviction; (2) contrition; (3) confession; (4) reformation; and leads to conversion. John, Jesus, Peter and Paul all preached repentance. "And begin not to say, etc." "The natural impulse of the unregenerate heart is to seek out excuses and subterfuges when the conscience is touched." John shatters two common errors. The first, that baptism would be sufficient to turn the wrath of God away, and second, that because they are children of Abraham, therefore they are safe. "These stones." Undoubtedly a reference to the calling of the Gentiles. Out of these hard, unregenerate hearts God is able to make hearts of flesh and children of Abraham.

9. "The axe is laid." There is an allusion here to a woodman, who, having marked a tree for excision, lays his axe at the root, while he lays off his outer garment in order that he may wield more powerful blows. The Jewish nation is the tree, and the Romans the axe, which, by the just judgments of God, was speedily to cut it down.

10. "The people asked." There are three classes of persons here who ask the same question, "What shall we do?" The answers given by John show that he understood the sins they were practicing. They were moved by his faithful preaching and came as honest inquirers, and he does not hesitate to deal faithfully with them.

11. "Let him impart." This is a remarkable answer. Clothe the naked and feed the hungry. Jas. 1:27. That is the true spirit of the Gospel.

12. "Publicans." Tax-gatherers. An office detested by the Jews, yet John does not condemn it.

13. "Exact no more." These tax-gatherers collected taxes for the Roman emperor, and "they exacted more than the government authorized them to do, and the surplus they pocketed."

14. "Do violence to no man." John demands three things of the soldiers. They are not required to quit the business, but they must be just and upright and stop their wicked life if he baptized them. "His exhortation plainly implies the right of war under certain circumstances. It is a destroyer and barbarizer, but in the overruling providence of God it may become a civilizer."

15. Whether He were the Christ." John spoke with such authority, eloquence and power that the people began to think he was the Messiah.

16. "One mightier than I." "His baptism will effect what mine is powerless to do." "Not worthy." John shows his greatness by self-abasement. "With fire." Fire is the emblem of the Holy Spirit.

17. "Whose fan." The fan, or the instrument for purging. "Is the Gospel: "Floor." His church. "Garner." "Wheat." True believers. "Garner." The kingdom of grace here and of heaven hereafter. "Fire unquenchable." See Matt. 25:46.

TEACHINGS.—The preaching of the gospel includes the announcement of the most fearful judgments. Great and good men are always humble men. True humility is one of the marks of true greatness.

The cultivation of fruit trees along the highways of France is being extended each year, the government having adopted this practice as a source of revenue, so that now roadside cultivation has become an important branch of national industry.

Cycling in France.

The cycle tax in France serves one useful purpose—that of illustrating the growth of the pastime in that country. So great has been the rise of automobilism in France that some diminution might have been expected in the Frenchman's enthusiasm for the cycle. The actual figures, however, speak emphatically to the contrary effect. In 1894, the first year of taxation, the number of machines was 203,306; in 1895 it was 256,064; in 1896, 329,816, and in 1897, 408,869. The figures for last year, however, have just been published and show a total of 483,414, or nearly half a million. It may confidently be expected, however, that the figures for the present year will greatly exceed even this total, for not only is the pastime showing no signs of diminution, but regulations introduced this year with respect to the carrying of a plaque will insure a more widespread payment of the imperial tax, which many riders have previously found it possible to evade.

"Yes; because papa says our minister can get money out of anybody."

All except bad ones!

There are hundreds of cough medicines which relieve coughs, all coughs, except bad ones! The medicine which has been curing the worst of bad coughs for 60 years is Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

Here is evidence:

"My wife was troubled with a deep-seated cough on her lungs for three years. One day I thought of how Ayer's Cherry Pectoral saved the life of my sister after the doctors had all given her up to die. So I purchased two bottles, and it cured my wife completely. It took only one bottle to cure my sister. So you see that three bottles (one dollar each) saved two lives. We all send you our heartfelt thanks for what you have done for us."—J. H. BURGE, Macon, Col., Jan. 13, 1899.

Now, for the first time you can get a trial bottle of Cherry Pectoral for 25 cents. Ask your druggist.

NO crop can grow without Potash. Every blade of Grass, every grain of Corn, all Fruits and Vegetables must have it. If enough is supplied you can count on a full crop—if too little, the growth will be "scrubby."

Send for our books telling all about composition of fertilizers best adapted for all crops. They cost you nothing.

Itching Burning Scaly Blotchy Humors

Instantly Relieved and Speedily Cured by

Cuticura

The itching and burning I suffered in my feet and limbs for three years were terrible. At night they were worse and would keep me awake a greater part of the night. I consulted doctor after doctor, as I was travelling on the road most of my time, also one of our city doctors. None of the doctors knew what the trouble was. I got a lot of the different samples of the medicines I had been using. I found them of so many different kinds that I concluded I would have to go to a Cincinnati hospital before I would get relief. I had frequently been urged to try CUTICURA REMEDIES, but I had no faith in them. My wife finally prevailed upon me to try them. Presto! What a change! I am now cured, and it is a permanent cure. I feel like kicking some doctor or myself for suffering three years when I could have used CUTICURA remedies. H. JENKINS, Middleboro, Ky.

Complete Treatment $1.25,

Consists of CUTICURA SOAP (25c.), to cleanse the skin of crusts and scales, and soften the thickened cuticle, CUTICURA Ointment (50c.), to instantly allay itching, irritation, and inflammation, and soothe and heal, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT (50c.), to cool and cleanse the blood. A SINGLE SET is often sufficient to cure the most torturing, disfiguring skin, scalp, and blood humors, rashes, and irritations, with loss of hair, when physicians, hospitals, and all else fail. Sold throughout the world. POTTER DRUG AND CHEM. CORP., Sole Props., Boston. "How to Cure Itching Humors," free.

Millions of Women Use Cuticura Soap

Exclusively for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, for cleansing the scalp of crusts, scales, and dandruff, and the stopping of falling hair, for softening, whitening, and healing red, rough, and sore hands, in the form of baths for annoying irritations, inflammations, and chafings, or too free or offensive perspiration, in the form of washes for ulcerative weaknesses, and for many sanative antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves to women, and especially mothers, and for all the purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery. No amount of persuasion can induce those who have once used it to use any other, especially for preserving and purifying the skin, scalp, and hair of infants and children. CUTICURA SOAP combines delicate emollient properties derived from CUTICURA, the great skin cure, with the purest of cleansing ingredients and the most refreshing of flower odors. No other medicated or toilet soap ever compounded is to be compared with it for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, scalp, hair, and hands. No other foreign or domestic toilet soap, however highly perfumed or expensive, is to be compared with it for all the purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery. The it combines in ONE SOAP at ONE PRICE, viz., TWENTY-FIVE CENTS, the most skin and complexion soap, and the most CURE and most baby soap in the world.

THE AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS

THE "NECESSARY" MAGAZINE.

The best-informed men and women in the world use the AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS to keep well informed, and call it the "necessary" and "indispensable" magazine. In the busy rush of to-day ambitious men and women must know about the important questions of the month, and not only this, they want to know about them at the right time. When the whole country is puzzled over the gigantic combination of trusts, a well-informed article is printed in the AMERICAN MONTHLY, giving the facts, and its editor discusses the theory; when the Dreyfus affair is in everyone's mouth, the best story of Dreyfus and the great case comes out in this magazine.

Every month, in "The Progress of the World," Dr. Albert Shaw gives a comprehensive picture of the world's history during the previous thirty days. In the departments, the valuable articles and books that have been published during the past month are reviewed and quoted from, so that the readers of the AMERICAN MONTHLY can get the gist of them. In every issue nearly a hundred pictures are printed, including the portraits of the men and women who are making the history of the month.

To be thoroughly well informed helps any man or woman in his or her work. A subscription to the AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS represents an investment for the best kind of profit, as well as entertainment. One subscriber has just written: "Count me a life subscriber, and when you send me a number beyond the limit of my subscription and secure no renewal from me, consider it a notice of my death."

Price 25 cents per number, $2.50 a year.

A sample copy will be sent on receipt of ten cents in stamps.

No young person should pass New Year's day without setting apart some time for careful, thoughtful, healthful self examination. There should be a review of the past, a study of the present condition of the heartlife, and a careful noting of the tendencies for the future. They should have a frank, close, personal talk with their Master about their lives. No doubt there will be a sense of failure, and with it will come the impulse to do better. These nobler aspirations are born of our hours of meditation. It is when we wait in His presence that God can talk with us. We become dissatisfied with the past and are glad for the favorable opportunity to do better. With what interest you look upon that new diary, and like the school boy with the bright, clean copy-book, resolve that it shall not contain one blot or blur. What a picture is this! There is not one fairer anywhere. A young man or woman, alone with God, seriously thinking over life, with its defeats, its victories and its possibilities, and perhaps writing out resolution for better things.

Many are inclined to laugh at this seriousness of young people and make light of these good resolutions. But this is wrong. Good resolutions are always an effort towards improvement. No person resolves on New Year's day that he will be a worse man, and such a fact is no light matter in the formation of character. One ought to cherish that within him which wants to do better and seeks to express itself in good resolutions. It is a protest against the wrong, and shows that we are not dead yet. That is a sad condition indeed when one is so lost to all feeling that nothing makes a protest. Sad also is that condition in which, while there is a protest against the wrong, there is no courage to attempt to do better; hence no good resolves. It is as if one were in the current above the falls and growing discouraged, should cease rowing and drift with the current toward sure destruction. Our only hope then is that we may lift our eyes to see the life-line thrown to us for our rescue.

But, says some one, is not Luther's famous Apothegm true?—"The way to hell is paved with good resolutions." Yes, but this is not a protest against making good resolutions, it is a warning against breaking them. We may respond as truly, "The way to heaven is paved with good resolutions and keeping them. Good resolutions then should be regarded as our responses to God's voice. And since there is no improvement in character without them, we should hold them as sacred vows to Him. The peril of breaking them should be another reason why we keep them. It not only defeats a purpose and records a failure, but it greatly weakens one's nature.

The new year upon which we enter has been likened to a desk containing three hundred and sixty five letters addressed to us, one for each day announcing its trials and prescribing its employments, with an order to open daily no letter but the one for the day. Now, we may be strongly tempted to unseal beforehand some of the remainder. This, however, would only serve to embarrass us, while we should violate the rule which our Owner and Master has laid down for us. "Take therefore no thought for the morrow, for the morrow shall take thought for the things of itself."

A happy New Year! How easy it is to wish it all in a lump! What can eat, cordial, loving voices say the simple words! What kindly smiles accompany them! On the first day of January one feels sure that the number of sad faces and heavy hearts is to be wonderfully reduced before the year is over, and he should do all in his power to bring about this reduction. It is all very well to utter that kindly wish on New Year's morning, but that by itself will not materially lessen heartache and sorrow in this world of ours. Happiness is something we need to use continually, and we must have our supply constantly renewed like the air we breathe.

You wished your mother a happy New Year, and doubtless sealed the wish with a kiss. But what are we doing to make her heart light, and chase away that anxious look which sometimes creep into the eyes of mothers? Kind words are very beautiful if the mean anything. But unless there is something in the heart and something in the life corresponding to the spoken wish, it is not worth much after all. If there is a loving purpose back of the words we speak, every day that passes will see us busy helping to make others happy. When we wish our friends a happy New Year, we do not mean a constant round of good things, all gayety and fun without any hard work, or grave thoughts or suffering. But we ask for them that joy may be a constant helper in their work and that hope may share every burden they may have to carry. If you are going into the new year with your hands clasped in the hand of the Father, it is impossible to be too glad of to-day or too confident of the morrow. All that comes is for the best, directed by perfect love and wisdom. What ever the new year brings you there is every reason why you should receive it happily and hopefully.

Now, my friends and members of the club, let us look at the New Year 1900 as a new leaf. The page has been turned. The year lies before us fresh and unstained, and the record will be what we choose to make it. But what is the good of a new leaf if all the mistakes of the old one is to be carried over? We do not want to soil the pages of this bright New Year with the errors of last year, but we want to resolve here and now and greet the New Year with that determination to keep its pages free as much as possible from the errors of our past lives, and to try to be better citizens, pleasanter comrades and more devoted christians, and further to make the Clanton Literary Club the best organization of its kind ever in Clanton.

THE MAN ON THE CORNER

Some of the Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

Whoopee! Say, I have got so much to talk about this week that I don't know which end to start at. Religion, politics, government, law—these are the beginning and end ot all things temporal. It is in my mind right now to tackle each and all of these subjects, but I know if I was to go right ahead what the Editor is going to say: "Yes, that's all right, but I can't find space for all that." So I'll be'n content myself with a few remarks on things in general, and console myself with the reflection that editors don't know what is good for them or else they would print papers of a hundred or more pages so that everyone could say all they wanted to.

Of course, I understand it takes money, and lots of it, to set up the type and print papers, but what does that matter to me—I don't have to pay the bills, and if I write [illegible] it nothing in [illegible]. The development has not been made public, but it is the [illegible] are hungry [illegible] of more coke [illegible] was I am right and [illegible] and if he has not got [illegible] he ought to have it. Anyhow, I am always right and the Editor is always wrong. I don't see much good in edityrs anyway.

There! I feel better now I have eased my mind, and, by Jiminy, I have about used up half my space, and, as that blessed Editor will say, I haven't said anything that is worth reading. That's where the trouble comes in. I write lots of stuff and he says he hasn't got room for it. I write lots of beautiful things (you would enjoy reading them, I know) and he tells me he can't get them in and that I must (he says must) confine myself to the space once he can allow me. Bother his space! What does he publish a paper for if he won't give me all the space I want, and, sometimes, like this week—I want a lot of it. I have got plenty to tell you and—Oh, gracious! I believe I have used up all my space now before I have told you anything. That's just what that fool editor told me, that people use up all the space with the preamble and wherases before they get to the resolutions. As I said before I don't see much use in editors anyway; but as I have used it, I suppose, all the space allotted me, and have not even begun to say what I started to say, it does look to me now as if even fool Editors did know sometimes what it is possible for them to print and what they could not print. But (if you don't throw this in the waste-paper basket) I'll stick to it that editors ain't much good anyway.

There!!

P. S. Dear friends. This is on the morning of Thursday, February 1, and I have just stepped into the BANNER office. If you should happen to come in just now, keep out of the way of the Editor. He's a-rearing. He says he told me to say what I had to say in as few words as possible, and that I have not said anything this week that is worth publishing; that I have exceeded my space and he can't get in without upseting all the arrangement of the paper and throwing him a day late. I am trying to work this poscript in without his knowing anything about it. I had a notty to tell you but I suppose you will have to wait until next week. Editors ain't no good anyway.

Editor BANNER.—Dear sir. Enclosed you will please find one dollar, which you will please accept and send me THE BANNER and the Montgomery Advertiser twelve months, as I notice you agree to send both papers to the same address one year for one dollar.

This is a grand and noble offer, and I think every man who can read a newspaper should take the benefit of your special offer and subscribe at once for any two papers you offer and keep posted.

This is our great political campaign year and it stands people in hand to read the papers so that they may know what is going on in both parties. The Dems. and Pops. are going to do their best to elect their best men this year

There is great preparation being made in these parts for a large crop this year, and I am sorry to say there is going to be too much cotton planted. Farmers are buying and hauling and laying in more guano this year than they have for many years and my advice is for people to keep out of debt, for we may have to take five cents a pound for our next crop of cotton.

Wishing the Banner and its readers great luck and success this year I will close with many thanks for past favors.

Maplesville.

We sincerely hope all your readers have faithfully kept all their good resolutions made at the beginning of this year.

Our community was saddened about two weeks ago by the sudden death of sweet little Nellie Gorden. Her father who lives in Birmingham, did not see his little darling until after death.

Miss Maud Gilmer has returned home to the regret of the many friends she made here by her winning ways.

Mr. English is in Birmingham on business.

Mr. Teague is visiting his sister, Mrs. English.

Miss Jones, of Centerville, has been visiting Miss Lillie Bowline.

Mr. and Mrs. Snead have been on a visit to her brother, Mr. Bowline.

Mr. and Mrs. Hambrick, of Pletchers, have visited friends here.

Everyone seems intent on business; among our farmers log-rollings are very fashionable. Farmers are making preparations for the ten cents cotton the politicians have promised them for their vote. Gardeners are going slow in remembrance of last year's blizzard. SUB.

Messrs. Sam Latham and Capt. Fisher, of Maplesville, visited friends here Sunday.

Mr. Tom Jones, of Ridgeville, paid friends a visit here Sunday.

We are glad to state that Dr. Parnell and W. H Reese are much better.

Mr. S. T. Nelson found on Boyles' creek a hog tusk that measures 10¼ inches.

The singing at Rev. Connells was enjoyed very much the other night.

We had some snow here Sunday night.

Mr. L. C. Dver went to Ridgeville Monday on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson gave us a sociable last week which was enjoyed by a large crowd.

Mr. Cland Culver has secured a position at Probst's mill.

The dinkey was wrecked last week, which caused the mill to stop a few days.

Mr. Quint Maroney was with friends here Sunday. STAN.

IN MEMORIAM

Lomax, Ala., Jan. 30, 1900.

On Jan. 26th the sweet spirit of Miss Mollie Bussey took flight to a home in the "Beautiful Land." Scarce sixteen summers had crowned her life; stricken in the bloom of young girlhood she passed months of painful suffering, when angels came and took this sweet flower to a brighter clime to unfold in purity, sweetness and everlasting bloom.

We knew this lovely young girl, knew the life she lived, her barque was gent'e gliding onward to a noble womanhood; the sweet influences of her pure life are enshrined a cherished gem in our hearts.

We will miss you, dear Mollie, home is shadowed now, the wreath that made our love complete has lost its fairest flower, but its sweet fragrance still breathe upon our lives.

We extend deepest sympathy to the bereaved parents, sisters and brothers; may the grace of Our Father sustain them in these hours of sorrow. He alone can still the anguish sweeping over your hearts and when you are called and stand at heaven's portals, and as the angel swings open the gate, Mollie will be amidst the angel throng to welcome you.

A FRIEND.

There is no better medicine for the babies than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Its pleasant taste and prompt and effectual cures make it a favorite with mothers and small children. It quickly cures their coughs and colds, preventing pneumonia or other serious consequences. It also cures croup and has been used in tens of thousands of cases without a single failure so far as we have been able to learn. It not only cures croup, but when given as soon as the croup cough appears, will prevent the attack. In cases of whooping cough it liquefies the tough mucus, making it easier to expectorate, and lessens the severity and frequency of the paroxysms of coughing, thus depriving that disease of all dangerous consequences. SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY.

The use of silicate of soda in refining heavy petroleums has been recommended. It is useful in making from spindle to cylinder oils. The silicate is used as a neutralizing agent after treatment with sulphuric acid, and it is said to be highly efficacious. It may be used either alone or in connection with caustic soda.

A cyanide leaching vat made of wood which had been in use for four years was recently tested as to the percentage of values absorbed. A hole was bored one half inch deep in the bottom, and the shavings therefrom assayed $13 per ton. Thus the absorption by wooden tanks is shown not to be as great as has been claimed.

Professor Koch found during his recent trip in German East Africa that the natives fear calves as if they were lions. One day he got four natives to hold a calf for him while he inoculated it with the germs of malaria. When he cut the skin the animal kicked, whereupon the natives let it go, howled in terror, and climbed up trees.

The trees on one side of an avenue in Brussels, Belgium, have developed the singular habit of shedding their leaves in August and budding and even blossoming again in October. On the other side, the trees retain their foliage until late in autumn. Botanists are inclined to see in this an effect of current leakage from the electric railway.

The curious fact has been noted that the nitrifying bacterium, which renders such service in purifying sewage and other matter is the greatest destroyer of the works of the water engineer. The gradual crumbling and the turning to mud of cement mortar, an effect formerly attributed to the carbonic acid and other mineral substances of the water, proves to be the work of the nitrifying organism, and is a difficulty not yet easy to overcome. In this case we have helpful bacteria that also do great harm.

A Frenchman, named Faber, proposed to build an electric road up Mont Blanc. In order to avoid the glaciers, he suggests tunnelling just below a ridge which extends along the side of the mountain. The upper station will be located upon a rocky promontory some eight hundred feet below the top, which is simply a mass of ice. The road will be of the rack and pinion type, and about six miles long. Power will be derived from a waterfall. Two million dollars is the estimated cost.

A German paint for giving to wood great resistance to acids and steam under pressure consists of two parts by weight of gypsum and one part of asbestos stirred together with ox-blood into a thick liquid. The paint is applied evenly to wood perfectly dry. After a few hours another coat—with the addition of linseed oil varnish—is given, and the work is dried several days in the open air or more quickly over a wood fire. The paint is then steamed slowly and dried for a considerable time. The coating adheres firmly, is cheap, harmless, odorless and tasteless, and therefore does not affect liquids in vessels covered with it.

Circumstances Altar Cases.

When the Hon. Thomas B. Reed appeared in the supreme court of the United States for the purpose of making a formal motion, he was the subject of congratulation and some pleasant banter in which the members of that dignified bar sometimes indulge. And when it became known that the court could not transact any business whatever on account of the failure of a quorum being present and in attendance, a venerable ex-member of Congress, familiar with the ex-speaker's methods, turned to him and said sotto voce, "Mr. Speaker, don't you think you could count a quorum?" to which a playful smile was the only response.—Washington Reporter.

Crocodiles for the Thames.

That much maligned reptile the crocodile is, in fact, a friend of man, though he tries generally with success—to hide a sentiment of which perhaps he is ashamed as a weakness. He is an active sanitarian, his special line being the purification of rivers and lakes. With such a certificate of character before them, perhaps some of our river conservancies may be stimulated to secure the services of a few vigorous crocodiles. With these in our rivers and a sufficient supply of eels in our reservoirs and cisterns, the difficult problem of water purification might be finally solved.—British Medical Journal.

Defences of Pretoria.

The latest reports of the armament of the circle of forts defending Pretoria is that they are mounted with 24 and 26 centimetre guns besides a number of guns of smaller caliber and quick-firing. The supply of projectiles and explosives is said to be ample for a prolonged siege, and the small arm ammunition that was laid in before the war began amounted to 6,000,000 cartridges.

Andrew D. White, United States ambassador to Germany, says that the criminal classes of Europe are coming to look upon the United States as a "happy hunting ground," and more and more are making it.

CURRENT NEWS IN ALABAMA

Events of Interest Briefly Summarized for Hasty Readers.

HEAVY COAL TRADE WITH NEW ORLEANS.

Cost of United States Court in Birmingham—New Railroad to Stoud Mountain—Cotton Factory for Opelika—The Wheat Crop.

Alabama has entered into active competition with Pennsylvania for the coal trade of the lower Mississippi river, and there is every reason to believe that the Pennsylvania product will eventually be driven from the market. Several days ago a contract was secured by the Alabama Block Coal Company, which represents the leading Walker county coal operators, for 100,000 tons of coal, deliverable by the Southern railway barge line from Greenville southward on the Mississippi river to New Orleans.

This contract was secured through the firm of B. D. Wood & Sons, of New Orleans. The full meaning of it is just apparent. It is an attack on the Pittsburg monopoly in the city of New Orleans itself.

The contract entered into is backed by the Southern railway and gives to Wood & Sons a practically unlimited supply of Alabama coal.

As an opening order the Woods asked for 110,000 tons. Colonel Elmer E. Wood says this is only for a starter and will be followed up by other large orders in rapid succession

Cost of the Law.

The cost of grinding out justice is pretty steep, as will be seen by the following figures, showing the cost of operating the United States court in Birmingham:

The last quarter court, beginning October 9 and ending December 31, cost $35,500. This includes juries, witnesses, bailiffs, court messages, etc. The most expensive case tried was the Price-Melton case, the cost of the closing trial aggregating several thousand dollars.

The cost of the operation of the department for the quarter ending September 30 was much less, being but $8,727.66, but there was no court during this period.

The quarter ending December 31, 1898, cost $18,800. The court was in session during a large part of this quarter, but the term was not so long as the fall term recently ended. The difference in the cost of the last two fall terms is $21,700. The last term was the most expensive ever held in that city, being very long and many cases requiring the attendance of an unusually large number of witnesses. The Price-Melton case required the attendance of nearly one hundred witnesses for many days, each drawing mileage and per diem.

Railroad to Stoud Mountain Mines.

Milton H. Smith, president, and R. Munford, chief engineer of the Louisville & Nashville railroad, will probably let the contract for the construction of a branch line from Hanceville, in Blount county, to the mines of the Stoud Mountain Coal and Coke company, which have just been developed. The branch will be about six or seven miles in length, and will cost something like $40,000 to build. A number of bids have been received.

Republicans Indorse William Vaughan.

Republican county conventions and executive committee meetings were held Saturday in Etowah, Tuskaloosa, Cherokee, Fayette, Lamar and Blount counties and all instructed for William Vaughan for state chairman as against Julian Bingham, the candidate of the Youngblood faction. Bingham has already carried six other counties, but Vaughan people claim division in two of Bingham's counties, which they say puts Chairman Vaughan ahead.

Opelika's Cotton Factory.

At a meeting of the promoters of the cotton factory at Opelika Captain J. L. Dean announced that al of $100,000 capital had been subscribed. On February 2 the stockholders will meet and elect officers and as soon as possible thereafter work will be commenced.

Alabama Appropriations.

The chief of the United States engineers reports the following balances of appropriations for river and harbor work unexpended during the first part of the year:

Mobile harbor, $16,147.88; Black Warrior river, $19,265.55; Warrior river, $211,165.49; Tombigbee river from mouth to Demopolis, $6,274.04; from Demopolis to Columbus, Miss., $66,194.97; Elk river, $113.62.

ROBERTS REJECTED.

House of Representatives Excludes Him by a Big Majority.

The case of Brigham H. Roberts, the Mormon Representative-elect from Utah, which has occupied so much of the attention of the house since the assemblage of congress, was decided late Thursday afternoon by the adoption of a resolution to exclude him by a vote of 268 to 50. The exact wording of the resolution was as follows:

"That under the facts and circumstances of the case, Brigham H. Roberts, representative-elect from the state of Utah, ought not to have, or hold a seat in the house of representatives, and that the seat to which he was elected is hereby declared vacant."

The amendment to expel Mr. Roberts without seating, offered by Mr. Lacy, was ruled out on a point of order and the house only voted upon the resolutions of the majority and minority of the committee. The latter, to seat and then expel Mr. Roberts, was defeated—81 to 244. An analysis of this vote shows that 170 republicans, 72 democrats and 2 populists voted against it, and 71 democrats, 6 republicans, 2 populists and 2 silver republicans for it.

The majority resolutions, to exclude Mr. Roberts and declare the seat vacant, were adopted—268 to 50. The affirmative vote was divided as follows:

Republicans, 168; democrats, 86; populists, 4, and the negative vote, democrats, 47; silver republicans, 2; populists, 1.

THIS WEEK IN CONGRESS.

Currency Bill Continues to Hold the Right of Way in the Senate.

Senators Bacon and Tillman have given notice of speeches during the week on the Philippine question, but beyond these notices no indication has been given of the probable course of events in the senate during the week. The currency bill continues to hold the right of way, and it is not improbable that it will be made the subject of more or less speech-making.

There is no programme mapped out for the house this week. The Indian appropriation bill has been reported and the consular and diplomatic appropriation bill is in preparation. It is said that these bills will occupy the major portion of the week.

RUSHING TO CAPE NOME.

Gold Hunters Expect Some Rich Finds There.

Estimates made by local shipping men at Tacoma show that about 15,000 men are intending to reach Cape Nome by the first steamers from Puget Sound and Dawson. Two-thirds of this number will go from Tacoma, Seattle and San Francisco, and the balance will go down the Yukon river from Dawson and other Yukon towns. A great prospective race is in sight between these two contingents.

First arrivals will secure the best part of the beach, which will be in the greatest demand, because beach claims may be worked without flumes or machinery.

KILLED HIS FAMILY.

Murdered His Wife, Daughter and Son He Then Tried to Burn the House.

In an "overfilled tenement" in Cincinnati, Charles Bartruff, a tanner, murdered his wife, his son Carl, aged 5, his daughter, aged 8, and then tried to set the house on fire by overturning the hot stove and piling furniture on it. The skulls of all the victims were crushed with a blunt instrument. No one saw the deed but its perpetrator. He remained in the burning room until arrested by the police. His intellect was of the lowest type and suffered from dementia, which he seems to have inherited from his father, who died by suicide. His 5-year-old son Carl was imbecile.

Death of a Prominent Confederate.

Major Thomas A. Brander, past grand commander of the Virginia Grand Camp of Confederate Veterans, and who was known throughout the south for his prominence in all Confederate re-unions, died in Richmond, Va., Sunday, aged 60 years.

Will Choose Roberts' Successor.

Governor Wells, of Utah, has issued a proclamation calling for an election April 2 to elect a representative in the Fifty-sixth congress, now existing.

Virginia Wants New State Convention.

The democratic caucus of the Virginia general assembly held a few days ago voted almost unanimously in favor of calling a convention to frame a new state constitution.

CRENSHAW AND MARENGO

Returns Show That Morgan Has Carried Both Counties.

SENATOR'S MAJORITY IN CRENSHAW 429

Miller Has Won Over Wiley—Arrington Was Elected Senator—Two Counties to Act Saturday.

Brief State News.

Returns from Crenshaw county received Sunday night show that Morgan has carried the county by two to one. The vote from eighteen boxes gives the following: Morgan, 950; Johnston. 521,

There are still four or five boxes to hear from, and Morgan's majority will probably be increased by these. The same beats quoted above gave for congress: Miller, 816; Wiley, 686.

It is expected that other beats will bring Miller's majority down to about 100.

Hone has defeated Brooke for tax collector.

Arrington is elected senator by three to one.

Morgan Sweeps Marengo County.

Marengo has cast its vote for Senator Morgan. The twelve beats already heard from give him 65 votes, and that gives him a majority of the county.

There are still nine beats to hear from, and it is more than probable that Morgan will carry more than half of them. It is impossible to get returns from these places, on account of their remoteness, but there is no doubt of Morgan's victory. It is estimated that the vote will be four to one against Governor Johnston.

Up to and including Saturday, eight counties had acted on the senatorial question and two others have nominated candidates for representative, subject to instructions of the primaries to be held April 14. The eight counties that have instructed their nominees will have fourteen votes in the general assembly for a United States senator, and of these fourteen votes Senator Morgan will get 10, Governor Johnston 3 and Gen. Oates 1.

Political interest will be transferred to Russell and Winston counties this week, these two being the only remaining counties to act on the senatorial question prior to April 14. A democratic primary will be held in each of these counties next Saturday for the purpose of naming democratic candidates for county offices and for representatives in the general assembly.

STATE BREVITIES.

Governor Johnston has named Robert W. Cashion as sheriff of Marion county, to succeed Sheriff John D. Hamilton, who died last Wednesday.

The remains of the late Rev. Dr. David Ingram Purser were brought to Tuskaloosa from New Orleans, La., where he died two years ago of yellow fever and were buried.

Greene county farmers have started in for another crop, many of them with meat and bread to last them through the year. The farming interests of the county are in a prosperous condition.

The supreme court is in session and cases from the eighth division are being submitted. This division is composed of the counties of Marshall, Jackson, Madison, Colbert, Limestone, Lauderdale, Lawrence and Morgan.

J. H. Buck, of Tuskaloosa, received a telegram from Buckatunna, Miss., stating that his son, E. J. Buck, had been run over by a freight train on the Mobile and Ohio railroad, cutting both legs off just above the knees. The unfortunate man lived only a few hours.

The internal revenue commissioner reports nineteen retail and two wholesale establishments selling oleomargarine in Alabama, out of a total of 7,055 for the country. The sales in Alabama were 226,058 pounds, out of a total of 79,995,744 for the country for the last fiscal year.

The city council of Talladega has passed a resolution donating a lot in the city cemetery and agreeing to defray the expenses of removing thereto the remains of the seventeen soldiers who were killed in the battle at Talladega, November 9, 1813. The remains are now in a field near the furnace.

Parks & Wilkins will erect a log saw mill at Sunny South.

AMERICANS MURDERED.

Six Men Shot by Order of a Mexican General.

Friends of George Lunt and Charles Burns, of El Paso, Tex., reported to have been killed with six other Americans by Gen. Torres at the recent round up of the Yaqui Indians, made formal application to United States Consul Charles W. Kindrick at Juarez, Mex., for a full investigation of the affair. Consul Kendrick notified the state department and telegraphed the consular agent at Guaymas, Mex., for a complete report. Reports from Narco, Ariz., confirms the killing of the six Americans.

It is said that cowboys and miners in Southern Arizona and New Mexico have organized and are preparing to invade Sonora and avenge the murder of the six prospectors. They will fight against the Mexican troops for the independence of Sonora and the Yaqui Nation, and the opinion is the contemplated movement would be crowned with success.

PHILIPPINE WAR IS OVER.

It Is Feared That Bloody Feuds Will Arise.

A dispatch to the New York Herald from Manila says:

The war in the Philippines is over. No further surrender can be hoped for.

The danger in the present situation is that a bloody fued may arise between the American army and the Filipinos.

This danger can be greatly lessened by action by congress, which is now imperative, outlining the policy of the government in the Philippines. It is likely that many insurgents are still holding out for the very terms which congress will be willing to give.

The time is ripe for a conciliatory policy, allowing the Filipinos to have some say as to the future of the government under which they will be obliged to live.

VICTORY FOR GOEBEL.

First Actual Test of Strength in the Kentucky Legislature.

The first actual test of strength between the Republican and Democratic forces in the Goebel-Taylor contest in Kentucky came Saturday and by the admission of the Republican leaders proved a victory for Goebel. The Democrats claim it was decisive, while the Republicans still have strong hope of retaining Governor Taylor.

The vote was in the contest of Van Meter, of Fayette county, against Berry, Van Meter winning—51 to 45. Every effort was made to get out the largest possible vote.

BRITISH REVERSE.

Boer Head Laager, Ladysmith, Jan. 25.—The British dead left on the battlefield yesterday numbered 1,500.

A London dispatch says: General Buller says that Warren's troops have retreated south of the Tugela river. The Boers say that the British loss is 1,500 killed. It is believed that this includes the wounded. The Boers also claim that 150 of the English troops surrendered at Spion Kop.

Judge Wharton Dead.

Judge Thomas J. Wharton, marshal of the Mississippi supreme court and one of the oldest and most prominent men of the state, died in Jackson of pneumonia. He was 87 years of age, had served two terms as attorney-general, and was circuit judge of the Seventh judicial district for several years.

Mrs. Rich Convicted.

Mrs. John D. Rich, alias Mattie D. Rich, the Chicago woman surrendered to Mexico to be tried for the murder of her husband in Juarez last May, has been adjudged guilty by the Mexican court and sentenced to serve fourteen years in prison.

Cotton Mill for Chattanooga.

The Chattanooga Chamber of Commerce has decided to erect a $100,000 cotton mill. Already $10,000 has been subscribed and the committees anticipate no trouble in securing the entire amount.

War Will Last Long Time.

The Berlin Deutsche Tages Zeitung publishes an interview with Dr. Leyds, which represents him as having said:

"The war will certainly last a very long time. The Transvaal will decidedly not be the first to seek peace and will refuse any proposals on the basis of the status quo."

The Peanut Crop.

The peanut of commerce, Arachis hypogea, is a native of tropical America, having been unknown in the Old World before the discovery of America. It has been cultivated now over two hundred years. There are several different species of arachis and numerous cultural varieties of the cultivated species. All the varieties of commerce are placed in two groups, namely those mainly valuable for their oil and those suitable for edible use. It is the latter kind that is mainly cultivated in America. In Africa, where the pea is extensively grown, it is the oil bearing varieties that are preferred. The Spanish peanut is largely grown in the Southern States for hay and as a pasture for hogs. The peanuts sold on the streets, corners and used extensively for confectionery are the "Red Virginia" variety, chiefly grown, not in Virginia but in the Carolinas and Tennessee. Although the peanut is of tropical origin it has become acclimated to cooler regions and is now a staple crop everywhere along the Atlantic coast from the Potomac southward. The peanut requires a very light loam or sand containing plenty of lime. Rich prairie or heavy clay soils cause the plant to run to vine and produce very few peas.

The peanuts of commerce are sold fruit or pods of the plant. The flowers are borne on slender stems which spring from the base of the plant. After the flowers have been fertilized and set fruit, the flower or fruit stem elongates or buries itself in the ground, usually penetrating two inches below the surface. Then the pod grow to maturity. This is why a light porous soil is required by the peanut, for if the soil is hard or cake the growing fruit is unable to enter the ground and does not mature. The crop is always planted in drills about three feet apart, with a nut or pod dropped every ten or twelve inches in the drill. The seeds contained in the pod are often removed or shelled before planting, but this is not necessary. Usually the pods or nuts are soaked twenty-four hours in water, then they are dropped by hand in shallow furrows. Before dropping, the pods are squeezed [illegible] to crush [illegible] quicker [illegible]

The [illegible] legumines [illegible] form seeds with [illegible] legumines this pla[illegible] pheric nitrogen. This [illegible] large amounts, making the [illegible] of the most valuable of soil restorers for crops. A good yield of peanuts in the Carolinas is two tons per acre, with about the same weight of foliage. A crop of four tons of peanuts will take from the air and soil the following plant foods:

Nitrogen	200.0 lbs, worth $24.00 taken from air
Phosphoric acid	37.6 lbs. worth $1.50 taken from soil
Potash	384.8 lbs. worth $15.39 taken from soil
Lime	238.0 lbs. worth $1.00 taken from soil

A good fertilizer for a peanut crop is as follows, per acre:

Kainit or	3200 pounds
Muriate of potash	800 pounds
Superphosphate	300 pounds
Lime (fresh)	300 pounds

It will be seen that this crop is especially exhausting on the potash in the soil. Most peanut growers fail to give the plant sufficient potash and lime, with the result of poor and low quality crops. No nitrogen is needed in fertilizer for peanuts. The plant itself is able to take $24 worth of nitrogen substance from the air. Even if the nuts are sold away, if the vines are returned to the land about $12 worth of nitrogen will be added to the soil per acre. This will nearly pay for the potash, lime and phosphoric acid the farmer must buy. Stable manure is not good for this crop and should not be used on it. It causes too much vine and hollow pods or "pops."

Views of men everywhere differ in many respects as to extent and direction that public education should take, but all, or nearly all, will agree that if public education is to progress further than providing facilities for rudimentary English education it should be in the direction of industrial training. With a trade or a technical knowledge in some special line a man is always self-supporting, and in nearly every case is sure of lucrative employment. There is a great or greater field for the achievements of labor and wealth in the mechanic arts as in the overcrowded, so-called learned professions.

ANOTHER KENTUCKY MUDDLE.

Taylor Will Not Issue Blackburn's Commission as Senator.

It is not likely that United States Senator-Elect Blackburn will receive a commission from Governor Taylor of Kentucky, until the present gubernatorial contest has been finally settled. Governor Taylor, it is stated on excellent authority, will assume a position that if it is decided he is really the governor of Kentucky the legislators who elected Blackburn, and who were declared elected the same election at which he was a candidate for governor, were actually elected, and have not, therefore, the power to choose a senator. The taking of evidence in the contest ended Monday, and the arguments have commenced.

Edward Blake gives the result of his observation of the growth of finger-nails. At 21 years of age the nail was replaced in 126 days, at 31 years in 159 days, at 32 years in 88 days, at 55 years in 110, at 67 years in 144 days. This great irregularity was due to the various stages of health of the subjects. The growth of the nail was found to be a valuable indication of the progress of different kinds of paralysis.

The theory that the vermiform appendix is a useless rudimentary organ is hardly convincing. A late writer, Dr. Slaughter, contends that it has a useful function in secreting mucus to lubricate the lower intestines, and that inflammation from obstruction of this mucus is the chief exciting cause of appendicitis, a less severe form of the disease being due to impaired circulation in the appendix. Most cases of appendicitis known to this physician have recovered without operation or recurrence.

The following estimate of the number of the recognized species of animals was made three years ago by Dr. David Sharp: Mammals, 2500; reptiles and amphibians, 4400; birds, 12,500; fishes, 12,000; tunicates, 900; mollusks, 50,000; brachiopods, 150; bryozoans, 1800; crustaceans, 20,000; spiders, 10,000; myriapods, etc., 6150; coelenhen, 10,000; insects, 250,000 echinoderms, 3000; worms 6150; coelenterates, 2000; sponges, 1500; protozoans, 6100. Total, 386,000. This estimate is already obsolete, and Dr. L. Stejneger, of the Smithsonian Institute, places the total number of species at 45,000, as he finds the reptiles and batrachians to number about 5500, while Dr. Ashmead sees good reasons for putting the number of known insects at 300,000.

Beets Have Their Troubles.

Professor M. E. Lippman, the great German specialist in beet sugar manufacture, announces that he has made a most curious scientific discovery that beets are subject, like humans, to biliousness, melancholy and fretting or worry. He says that he is not yet prepared to make public all that he has discovered, as he wishes to further confirm his experiments and follow up the subject on the lines he has laid out. He says that beets contain the same substances which form the human bile; that is, cholesterine. Twelve years ago he found this in beets and was able to identify it unmistakably, also the phytosterine of Hesse. At first he was inclined to think that these substances were the result of changes in greasy or oily matter used in the manufacture of the sugar, but as only mineral substances were used, and an examination failed to substantiate his suspicions, he was obliged to accept the facts as he found them.

Pursuing his investigations further, he arrived at surprising conclusions, and has felt loath to make public what seems as unavoidable inferences. These may be broadly stated as follows: That beets are subject to bad humor, worry, biliousness and feelings analogous, at least in their physiological action and effects, to the same sentiments in the human body. That experiments extending over several years only tend to confirm these strange conclusions, and that he is now pursuing a line of research which appears to lead to equally curious inferences.—Philadelphia Record.

The Popularity of Fencing.

As it is scientifically understood fencing dates from the early part of the sixteenth century. Henry III. of France was one of the most noted fencers of his day, and many of his successors were expert swordsmen. It is claimed that it reached the highest point early in the present century, during the years which followed the restoration of the famous house of Bourbon to the French throne. The favorite system now is that of the French school, and was founded on the historical sword-play of Spain. In Italy, where the fencing-masters still retain the long foil with its bell shaped guard, fencing is almost as popular with women as in Paris. The Italian school is also founded on the Spanish system, and its foil is a direct descendant of and closely resembles the old rapier of Spain. In fact, the modern foil is modelled with some changes on this same weapon.—Harper's Bazar.

REV. DR. TALMAGE.

DISCOURSE BY THE EMINENT DIVINE LAST SUNDAY.

Subject: The Affairs of Others—The Busybody Has a Mission to Perform, Whose His Motive is Good—Search Out the Miserable and Offer Them Consolation.

[Copyright, Louis Klopsch, 1899.]

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In this discourse Dr. Talmage shows how we should interest ourselves in the affairs of others for their benefit, but never for their damage; text, I Peter, iv., 15, "A busybody in other men's matters."

Human nature is the same in all ages. In the second century of the world's existence people had the same characteristics as people in the nineteenth century, the only difference being that they had the characteristics for a longer time. It was 500 years of goodness or 500 years of meanness instead of goodness or meanness for forty or fifty years. Well, Simon Peter, who was a keen observer of what was going on around him, one day caught sight of a man whose characteristics were severe inspection and blatant criticism of the affairs belonging to people for whom he had no responsibility, and with the hand once browned and hardened by fishing tackle drew this portrait for all subsequent ages, "A busybody in other men's matters."

That kind of person has been a trouble maker in every country since the world stood. Appointing himself to the work of exploration and detection, he goes forth mischief making. He generally begins by reporting the infelicity discovered. He is the advertising agent of infirmities and domestic inharmony and occurrences that but for him would never have come to the public eye or ear. He feels that the secret ought to be hauled out into light and heralded. If he can get one line of it into the newspapers, that he feels to be a noble achievement to start with. But he must not let it stop. He whispers it to his neighbors, and they in turn whisper it to their neighbors, until the whole town is abuzz and agog. You can no more catch it or put it down than you can a malaria. It is in the air and on the wing and afloat. Taken by itself, it seems of little importance, but after a hundred people have handled it and each has given it an additional twist it becomes a story in size and shape marvelous. If it can be kept going, after awhile it will be large enough to call the attention of the courts or the presbyteries or conferences or associations. The most of the scandals abroad are the work of the one whom Peter in the text styles "a busybody in other men's matters."

First, notice that such a mission is most undesirable, because we all require all the time we can get to take care of our own affairs. To carry ourselves through the treacherous straits of this life demands that we all the time keep our hand on the wheel of our own craft. While, as I shall show you before I get through, we all have a mission of kindness to others, we have no time to waste in doing that which is damaging to others.

There is our worldly calling, which must be looked after or it will become a failure. Who succeeds in anything without concentrating all his energies upon that one thing? All those who try to do many things go to pieces either as to their health or their fortune. They go on until they pay ten cents on the dollar or pay their body into the grave. We cannot manage the affairs of others and keep our own affairs prosperous. While we are inquiring how precarious is the business of another merchant and finding out how many notes he has unpaid and how soon he will probably be wound up or make an assignment or hear the sheriff's hammer smite his counter our own affairs are getting mixed up and endangered. While we are criticising our neighbor for his poor crops we are neglecting the fertilization of our own fields or allowing the weeds to choke our own corn. While we are trying to extract the mote from our neighbor's eye we fall under the weight of the beam in our own eye. Those men disturbed by the faults of others are themselves the depot at which whole trains of faults arrive and from which whole trains of faults start. The men who have succeeded in secular things or religious things will tell you that they have no time for hunting out the defects of others. On the way to their counting room they may have heard that a firm in the same line of business was in trouble, and they said, "Sorry, very sorry." But they went in and sat down at their table and opened the book containing a full statement of their affairs to see if they were in peril of being caught in a similar cyclone.

Gadders about town, with hands in pockets and hats set far back on the head, waiting to hear baleful news, are failures now or will be failures. Christian men and women who go round with mouth and looks full of interrogation points to find how some other church member is given to exaggeration or drinks too much or neglects his home for greater outside attractions have themselves so little grace in their hearts that no one suspects they have any. In proportion as people are consecrated and holy and useful they are lenient with others and disposed to say: "Wait until we hear the other side of that matter. I cannot believe that charge made against that man or woman until we have some better testimony than that given by these scandal mongers. I guess it is a lie."

Furthermore, we are incapacitated for the supervisal of others because we cannot see all sides of the affair reprehended. People are generally not so much to blame as we suppose. It is never right to do wrong, but there may be alleviations. There may have arisen a conjunction of circumstances which would have flung any one of us. The world gives only one side of the transaction, and that is always the worst side. That defaulter at the bank who loaned money he ought not to have loaned did it for the advantage of another, not for his own. That young man who purloined from his employer did so because his mother was dying for the lack of medicine. That young woman who went wrong did not get enough wages to keep her from starving to death. Most people who make moral shipwreck would do right in some exigency, but they have not the courage to say "No."

Furthermore, we make ourselves a disgusting spectacle when we become busybodies. What a diabolical enterprise those undertake who are ever looking for the moral lapse or downfall of others! As the human race is a most imperfect race, all such hunters find plenty of game. There have been sewing societies in churches which tore to pieces more reputations than they made garments for the poor. With their sarcasms and sly hints and depreciation of motives they punctured more good names than they had needles. With their demons they cut character bias and basted, stitched every evil report they got hold of. Meetings of boards of directors have sometimes raised good business men by insinuations against them. The bad work may not have been done so much by words, for they would be libelous, but by a twitch of the eye or a shrug of the shoulder or a sarcastic accentuation of a word. "Yes, he is all right when he is sober." "Have you inquired into that man's history?" "Do you know what business he was in before he entered this?" "I move that the application be laid on the table until some investigations now going on are consummated." It is easy enough to start a suspicion that will never down, but what a despicable man is the one who started it!

All people make mistakes—say things that afterward they are sorry for and miss opportunity of uttering the right word and doing the right thing. But when they say their prayers at night those defects are sure to be mentioned somewhere between the name of the Lord, for whose mercy they plead, and the amen that closes the supplication. "That has not been my conversation," says some one. Well, I am sorry for you, my brother, my sister. What an awful crowd you must have got mixed on, as to mere probable, you are one of the characters that my text sketches. You have not been hunting for partridges and quail, but for vultures. You have been microscoping the world's faults. You have been down in the marshes when you ought to have been on the uplands. I have caught you at last. You are "a busybody in other men's matters."

How is it that you can always find two opinions about any one and those two opinions exactly opposite? I will tell you the reason. It is because there are two sides to every character—the best side and the worst side. A well-disposed man chiefly seeks the best side. The badly disposed seeks chiefly the worst side. So sure the desire to see the best side, for it is healthier for us so to do and stirs admiration, which is an elevated state, while the desire to find the worst side keeps one in a spirit of disquietude and disgust and mean suspicion, and that is a pulling down of our own nature, a disfurnishment of our own character. I am afraid the imperfections of others will kill us yet.

The habit I deplore is apt to show itself in the visage. A kindly man who wishes everybody well soon demonstrates his disposition in his looks. His features may fracture all the laws of handsome physiognomy, but God puts into that man's eyes and in the curve of his nostrils and in the upper and lower lip the signature of Divine approval. And you see it at a glance, as plainly as though it had been written all over his face in rose color: "This is one of My princes. He is on the way to coronation. I bless him now with all the benedictions that infinity can afford. Look at him. Admire him. Congratulate him."

But there is a worthy and Christian way of looking abroad upon others, not for the purpose of bringing them to disadvantage or advertising their weaknesses or putting in "great primer" or "paragon" type their frailties, but to offer help, sympathy and rescue. That is Christlike, and he who does so wins the applause of the high heavens. Just look abroad for the people who have made great mistakes and put a big plaster of condolence on their lacerations. Such people are never sympathized with although they need an infinity of solace. Domestic mistakes. Social mistakes. Ecclesiastical mistakes. Political mistakes.

There is a public man who has made a political mistake from which he will never recover. At the next elections he will be put back and put down into a place of disapproval from which he will never rise. Just go to that man and unroll the scroll of 100 splendid Americans who, after occupying high places of promotion, were relegated to private life and public scorn. Show him in what glorious company he has been placed by the anathems of the ballot box.

There is a man or woman who has made a conjugal mistake, and a vulture has been put into the same cage with a dove or a lion and a lamb in the same jungle. The world laughs at the misfortune, but it is your business to weep with their woe. There is a merchant who bought at the wrong time or a manufacturer whose old machinery has been superseded by a new invention or who under change of tariff on certain styles of fabric has been dropped from affluence into bankruptcy. Go to him and recall the names of fifty business men who lost all but their honesty and God and heaven. Let them know there are hundreds of good men who have gone under that are thought of in heavenly spheres more than many who are high up and going higher. All will acknowledge that good and lovely Arthur Tappan, who failed in business, was more to be admired than William Tweed in possession of his stolen millions.

Hear it! The more you go to busying yourselves in other men's matters the better if you have design of offering relief. Search out the quarrels, that you may settle them; the fallen, that you may lift them; the pangs, that you may assuage them. Arm yourself with two bottles of Divine medicine, the one a tonic and the other an anæsthetic, the latter to soothe and quiet, the former to stimulate, to inspire to sublime action. That man's matters need looking after in this respect. There are 10,000 men and women who need your help and need it right away. They do not sit down and cry. They make no appeal for help, but within ten yards of where you sit in church and within ten minutes' walk of your home there are people in enough trouble to make them shriek out with agony if they had not resolved upon suppression.

If you are rightly interested in other men's matters, go to those who are just starting in their occupations or professions and give them a boost. Those old physicians do not want your help, for they are surrounded with more patients than they can attend to, but cheer those young doctors who are counting out their first drops to patients who cannot afford to pay. Those old attorneys at the law want no help from you, for they take retainers only from the more prosperous clients, but cheer those young attorneys who have not had a brief at all lucrative. Those old merchants have their business so well established that they feel independent of banks, of all changes in tariffs, of all panics, but cheer those young merchants who are making their first mistakes in bargain and sale. That old farmer who has 200 acres in best tillage and his barns full of harvested crops and the grain merchant having bought his wheat at high prices before it was reaped needs no sympathy from you, but cheer up that young farmer whose acres are covered with a big mortgage and the drought strikes them the first year. That builder with contracts made for the construction of half a dozen houses and the owners impatient for occupancy is not to be pitied, but give your sympathy to that mechanic in early acquaintance with hammer and saw and bit and amid all the limitations of a journeyman.

And now my words are to the invisible multitudes I reach week by week, but yet will never see in this world, but whom I expect to meet at the bar of God and hope to see in the blessed heaven. The last word that Dwight L. Moody, the great evangelist, said to me at Plainfield, N. J., and he repeated the message for me to others, was, "Never be tempted under any circumstances to give up your weekly publication of sermons throughout the world." That solemn charge I will heed as long as I have strength to give them and the newspaper types desire to take them. Oh, ye people back there in the Sheffield mines of England, and ye in the sheep pastures of Australia, and ye amid the pictured terraces of New Zealand, and ye among the cinnamon and color infused groves of Ceylon, and ye Armenians weeping over the graves of murdered households in Asia Minor, and ye amid the idolatries of Benares on the Granges, and ye dwellers on the banks of the Mississippi, and the Alabama, and the Mississippi, and the Oregon, and the Shannon, and the Rhine, and the Tiber, and the Danube, and the Nile, and the Euphrates, and the Caspian and the Yellow seas; ye of the four corners of the earth who have greeted me again and again, accept this point blank offer of everything for nothing, of everything of pardon and comfort and illumination and safety and heaven, "without money and without price." What a gospel for all lands, all zones, all ages! Gospel of sympathy! Gospel of hope! Gospel of emancipation! Gospel of sunlight! Gospel of enthronement! Gospel of eternal victory! Take it all ye people, until your sins are all pardoned, and your sorrows all solaced, and your wrongs all righted, and your dying pillow be spread at the foot of a ladder which, though like the one that was let down to Bethel, may be thronged with descending and ascending immortals, shall nevertheless have room enough for you to climb, feet over foot, on rungs of light till you pass clear up out of sight, of all earthly perturbation into the realm where "the wicked cease from troubling and the weary are at rest."

THE SABBATH SCHOOL.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR FEBRUARY 4.

Subject: The First Disciples of Jesus. John i., 35-42—Golden Text: John i., 37—Memory Verses, 35-37—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

INTRODUCTION.—The choice of His disciples was a matter of great moment to Jesus. It was necessary that some of them should be witnesses of His life and work from the beginning of His public ministry. He did not choose those to be His witnesses who were bound by the traditions of the rabbinic schools. He chose men of simple, yet strong mind.

CONNECTING LINKS.—We have here an account of John's testimony concerning Jesus. As soon as Christ was baptized He hurried into the wilderness, where He remained forty days. During His absence John had continued his work, but now at last he sees Jesus returning from the wilderness.

35. "Again, the next day after." On the day before, the day He returned from the wilderness, John had borne testimony of Him. V. 29. The disciples of John did not appear to be greatly impressed until John on the following day (v. 35) repeated his words. Edersheim argues, with seeming accuracy, that this was the Sabbath. "Two of His disciples." Andrew and John, the writer, who carefully avoids using his own name.

36. "Behold the Lamb of God." See v. 29, spoken in reference to Isa. 53:7. All the lambs hitherto offered had been furnished by men; this one was provided by God as the only sufficient sacrifice for the sin of the world. His words would be to them equivalent to a command to follow Him. How faithful John was in his office as forerunner! He did not think of his own decrease, he is anxious to have his followers become true disciples of Christ. He did not reckon that he had lost those who went over from him to Christ.

37. "They followed Jesus." They understood John's meaning and immediately did as they were directed. It would be well if all would immediately follow Christ. We should follow Him as our Redeemer, Pattern, Guide and Shepherd. They may not have intended to leave John's leadership permanently.

38. "What seek ye." Jesus knew, but He desired some expression from them. The meaning is, What is your desire? your petition, or request? "Rabbi." Teacher, master. "Among the Jews this title was a sort of degree." They thus at once recognized His superiority and their ignorance. "Where dwellest Thou." "Where are Thou staying?" He had no permanent place of abode in this locality. In asking this question they intimate a desire to be better acquainted with Him. Where is the inn where you abide? We desire to receive instruction from you.

39. "Come and see." A kind invitation to them to go with Him to His place of abode. If those who know not the salvation of God would come at the command of Christ, they would soon see that with Him is the fountain of life, and in His light they would see light. "The tenth hour." St. John was so impressed with the first interview with Jesus that he remembered the hour. There is a difference of opinion as to whether this was 4 p. m., according to the Jewish reckoning, or 10 a. m., according to the Roman reckoning. If Andrew and John spent the day with Jesus it must have been 10 a. m. This was probably the Sabbath day.

41. "He first findeth his own brother." It is supposed that at the same time Andrew went to find his brother Simon, John also went and found his brother James and brought him to Christ. This was a true missionary spirit. God's salvation is so good that those who experience His love are always anxious to bring others into the same holy relation. "We have found the Messias." He speaks exultingly. Aroused by John's faithful testimony concerning the coming Messiah they were ready to receive Him when they saw a few true marks of his Messiahship. "Being interpreted." Messias is the Hebrew word and Christ is its Greek interpretation.

42. "When Jesus beheld him." Jesus at once knew Simon better than Simon knew himself. "Cephas . . . a stone." See R. V. Petros, or Peter, has the same meaning in Greek that Cephas has in Syriac. The name was given him to describe his character, which was "stiff, hardy and resolute."

43. "The day following." This, according to Farrar, was the fourth day after His return from the wilderness. Jesus started on His return to Galilee, and "on the journey fell in with another young fisherman, Philip of Bethsaida. "Follow Me." This command is, in the gospels, issued only by our Lord Himself. It is addressed to but one outside the circle of the apostles, the rich young man whom Jesus loved. Mark 10:21. How was it that these Galilean youths were brought with one look, one word, to the Savior's feet? In part by what He said, and by what John the Baptist had testified concerning Him, and by His very look.

44. "Bethsaida." "The house of nets," so called because inhabited mostly by fishermen. There were two places by this name. The town where the three disciples, Andrew, Peter and Philip, were born, was on the west shore of the sea of Galilee, just north of Capernaum. The other Bethsaida, where five thousand were fed, is on the northeast shore of the sea. Andrew and Peter lived at Capernaum. Matt. 8: 14; 17:24; Mark 1:29.

45. "Nathanael." Elsewhere called Bartholomew. He lived at Cana in Galilee, where our Lord performed His first miracle. Cana was about nine miles northeast of Nazareth. "Of whom Moses . . . and the prophets did write." See Gen. 3:15; 22:18; Deut. 18:18; Isa. 4:2; 7:14; Jer. 23:5; Ezek. 34:23; Dan. 9:24; Micah. 5:2; Zech. 6:12; Mal. 3:1. These men were familiar with the Scriptures, and surely here was a great array of testimony with reference to the Messiah.

46. "Good . . . out of Nazareth." The question sprang from mere dread of mistake in a matter so vital. He knew that Bethlehem (Micah. 5:2) and not Nazareth was to be the birth-place of the Messiah. It has been usually considered that his answer was proverbial; but it may merely have implied, "Nazareth, that obscure and ill-reputed town in its little, untroddan valley—can anything good come from thence?" Nathanael's objection arose from ignorance. Ordinarily all we need is a better knowledge of Christ and say objections we may have will melt away. "Come and see." The same reply given by Jesus. V. 39. Philip could not answer his objections, but still his faith was unshaken; and Nathanael was not so filled with prejudice that he would not investigate for himself. Some things cannot be explained that we can see are true. He who candidly examines the evidences of the religion of Christ will become a believer. No history ever published has so many internal and external proofs of authenticity as this book. Those who have never read the Bible, or have read it only with a fixed purpose to gainsay it, are the ones who cry out against it.

Two Arrests for the Eyre Murder.

James and Amos Pierce were arrested by Chief of Police Berry of Chester, Penn., and locked up in jail, charged with the recent murder of George R. Eyre, the wealthy resident of Chester. The question of jurisdiction has been disposed of, the New Jersey authorities agreeing that the prosecution shall take place in Pennsylvania.

Loss of Sheep in Australia.

Dispatches from New South Wales and southern Queensland say that it will take from three to five years to make up for the loss of sheep during last year's drought.

SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY.

The use of silicate of soda in refining heavy petroleums has been recommended. It is useful in making from spindle to cylinder oils. The silicate is used as a neutralizing agent after treatment with sulphuric acid, and it is said to be highly efficacious. It may be used either alone or in connection with caustic soda.

A cyanide leaching vat made of wood which had been in use for four years was recently tested as to the percentage of values absorbed. A hole was bored one half inch deep in the bottom, and the shavings therefrom assayed $13 per ton. Thus the absorption by wooden tanks is shown not to be as great as has been claimed.

Professor Koch found during his recent trip in German East Africa that the natives fear calves as if they were lions. One day he got four natives to hold a calf for him while he inoculated it with the germs of malaria. When he cut the skin the animal kicked, whereupon the natives let it go, howled in terror, and climbed up trees.

The trees on one side of an avenue in Brussels, Belgium, have developed the singular habit of shedding their leaves in August and budding and even blossoming again in October. On the other side, the trees retain their foliage until late in autumn. Botanists are inclined to see in this an effect of current leakage from the electric railway.

The curious fact has been noted that the nitrifying bacterium, which renders such service in purifying sewage and other matter is the greatest destroyer of the works of the water engineer. The gradual crumbling and the turning to mud of cement mortar, an effect formerly attributed to the carbonic acid and other mineral substances of the water, proves to be the work of the nitrifying organism, and is a difficulty not yet easy to overcome. In this case we have helpful bacteria that also do great harm.

A Frenchman, named Faber, proposed to build an electric road up Mont Blanc. In order to avoid the glaciers, he suggests tunnelling just below a ridge which extends along the side of the mountain. The upper station will be located upon a rocky promontory some eight hundred feet below the top, which is simply a mass of ice. The road will be of the rack and pinion type, and about six miles long. Power will be derived from a waterfall. Two million dollars is the estimated cost.

A German paint for giving to wood great resistance to acids and steam under pressure consists of two parts by weight of gypsum and one part of asbestos stirred together with ox-blood into a thick liquid. The paint is applied evenly to wood perfectly dry. After a few hours another coat—with the addition of linseed oil varnish—is given, and the work is dried several days in the open air or more quickly over a wood fire. The paint is then steamed slowly and dried for a considerable time. The coating adheres firmly, is cheap, harmless, odorless and tasteless, and therefore does not affect liquids in vessels covered with it.

Circumstances Alter Cases.

When the Hon. Thomas B. Reed appeared in the supreme court of the United States for the purpose of making a formal motion, he was the subject of congratulation and some pleasant banter in which the members of that dignified bar sometimes indulge. And when it became known that the court could not transact any business whatever on account of the failure of a quorum being present and in attendance, a venerable ex-member of Congress, familiar with the ex-speaker's methods, turned to him and said sotto voce, "Mr. Speaker, don't you think you could count a quorum?" to which a playful smile was the only response.—Washington Reporter.

Crocodiles for the Thames.

That much maligned reptile the crocodile is, in fact, a friend of man, though he tries generally with success—to hide a sentiment of which perhaps he is ashamed as a weakness. He is an active sanitarian, his special line being the purification of rivers and lakes. With such a certificate of character before them, perhaps some of our river conservancies may be stimulated to secure the services of a few vigorous crocodiles. With these in our rivers and a sufficient supply of eels in our reservoirs and cisterns, the difficult problem of water purification might be finally solved.—British Medical Journal.

Defences of Pretoria.

The latest reports of the armament of the circle of forts defending Pretoria is that they are mounted with 24 and 26 centimetre guns besides a number of guns of smaller caliber and quick-firing. The supply of projectiles and explosives is said to be ample for a prolonged siege, and the small arm ammunition that was laid in before the war began amounted to 6,000,000 cartridges.

Andrew D. White, United States ambassador to Germany, says that the criminal classes of Europe are coming to look upon the United States as a "happy hunting ground," and more and more are seeking it.

CURRENT NEWS IN ALABAMA

Events of Interest Briefly Summarized for Hasty Readers.

HEAVY COAL TRADE WITH NEW ORLEANS.

Cost of United States Court in Birmingham—New Railroad to Stoud Mountain—Cotton Factory for Opelika—The Wheat Crop.

Alabama has entered into active competition with Pennsylvania for the coal trade of the lower Mississippi river, and there is every reason to believe that the Pennsylvania product will eventually be driven from the market. Several days ago a contract was secured by the Alabama Block Coal Company, which represents the leading Walker county coal operators, for 100,000 tons of coal, deliverable by the Southern railway barge line from Greenville southward on the Mississippi river to New Orleans.

This contract was secured through the firm of B. D. Wood & Sons, of New Orleans. The full meaning of it is just apparent. It is an attack on the Pittsburg monopoly in the city of New Orleans itself.

The contract entered into is backed by the Southern railway and gives to Wood & Sons a practically unlimited supply of Alabama coal.

As an opening order the Woods asked for 110,000 tons. Colonel Elmer E. Wood says this is only for a starter and will be followed up by other large orders in rapid succession

Cost of the Law.

The cost of grinding out justice is pretty steep, as will be seen by the following figures, showing the cost of operating the United States court in Birmingham:

The last quarter court, beginning October 9 and ending December 31, cost $35,500. This includes juries, witnesses, bailiffs, court messages, etc. The most expensive case tried was the Price-Melton case, the cost of the closing trial aggregating several thousand dollars.

The cost of the operation of the department for the quarter ending September 30 was much less, being but $8,727.66, but there was no court during this period.

The quarter ending December 31, 1898, cost $18,800. The court was in session during a large part of this quarter, but the term was not so long as the fall term recently ended. The difference in the cost of the last two fall terms is $21,700. The last term was the most expensive ever held in that city, being very long and many cases requiring the attendance of an unusually large number of witnesses. The Price-Melton case required the attendance of nearly one hundred witnesses for many days, each drawing mileage and per diem.

Railroad to Stoud Mountain Mines.

Milton H. Smith, president, and R. Munford, chief engineer of the Louisville & Nashville railroad, will probably let the contract for the construction of a branch line from Hanceville, in Blount county, to the mines of the Stoud Mountain Coal and Coke company, which have just been developed. The branch will be about six or seven miles in length, and will cost something like $40,000 to build. A number of bids have been received.

Republicans Indorse William Vaughan.

Republican county conventions and executive committee meetings were held Saturday in Etowah, Tuskaloosa, Cherokee, Fayette, Lamar and Blount counties and all instructed for William Vaughan for state chairman as against Julian Bingham, the candidate of the Youngblood faction. Bingham has already carried six other counties, but Vaughan people claim division in two of Bingham's counties, which they say puts Chairman Vaughan ahead.

Opelika's Cotton Factory.

At a meeting of the promoters of the cotton factory at Opelika Captain J. L. Dean announced that all of $100,000 capital had been subscribed. On February 2 the stockholders will meet and elect officers and as soon as possible thereafter work will be commenced.

Alabama Appropriations.

The chief of the United States engineers reports the following balances of appropriations for river and harbor work unexpended during the first part of the year:

Mobile harbor, $16,147.88; Black Warrior river, $49,368.55; Warrior river, $211,165.40; Tombigbee river from mouth to Demopolis, $3,274.04; from Demopolis to Columbus, Miss., $94,191.87; Elk river, $118.02.

ROBERTS REJECTED.

House of Representatives Excludes Him by a Big Majority.

The case of Brigham H. Roberts, the Mormon Representative-elect from Utah, which has occupied so much of the attention of the house since the assemblage of congress, was decided late Thursday afternoon by the adoption of a resolution to exclude him by a vote of 268 to 50. The exact wording of the resolution was as follows:

"That under the facts and circumstances of the case, Brigham H. Roberts, representative-elect from the state of Utah, ought not to have, or hold a seat in the house of representatives, and that the seat to which he was elected is hereby declared vacant."

The amendment to expel Mr. Roberts without seating, offered by Mr. Lacy, was ruled out on a point of order and the house only voted upon the resolutions of the majority and minority of the committee. The latter, to seat and then expel Mr. Roberts, was defeated—81 to 244. An analysis of this vote shows that 170 republicans, 72 democrats and 2 populists voted against it, and 71 democrats, 6 republicans, 2 populists and 2 silver republicans for it.

The majority resolutions, to exclude Mr. Roberts and declare the seat vacant, were adopted—268 to 50. The affirmative vote was divided as follows:

Republicans, 168; democrats, 86; populists, 4, and the negative vote, democrats, 47; silver republicans, 2; populists, 1.

THIS WEEK IN CONGRESS.

Currency Bill Continues to Hold the Right of Way in the Senate.

Senators Bacon and Tillman have given notice of speeches during the week on the Philippine question, but beyond these notices no indication has been given of the probable course of events in the senate during the week. The currency bill continues to hold the right of way, and it is not improbable that it will be made the subject of more or less speech-making.

There is no programme mapped out for the house this week. The Indian appropriation bill has been reported and the consular and diplomatic appropriation bill is in preparation. It is said that these bills will occupy the major portion of the week.

RUSHING TO CAPE NOME.

Gold Hunters Expect Some Rich Finds There.

Estimates made by local shipping men at Tacoma show that about 15,000 men are intending to reach Cape Nome by the first steamers from Puget Sound and Dawson. Two-thirds of this number will go from Tacoma, Seattle and San Francisco, and the balance will go down the Yukon river from Dawson and other Yukon towns. A great prospective race is in sight between these two contingents.

First arrivals will secure the best part of the beach, which will be in the greatest demand, because beach claims may be worked without flumes or machinery.

KILLED HIS FAMILY.

Murdered His Wife, Daughter and Son He Then Tried to Burn the House.

In an "overfilled tenement" in Cincinnati, Charles Bartruff, a tanner, murdered his wife, his son Carl, aged 5, his daughter, aged 8, and then tried to set the house on fire by overturning the hot stove and piling furniture on it. The skulls of all the victims were crushed with a blunt instrument. No one saw the deed but its perpetrator. He remained in the burning room until arrested by the police. His intellect was of the lowest type and suffered from dementia, which he seems to have inherited from his father, who died by suicide. His 5-year-old son Carl was imbecile.

Death of a Prominent Confederate.

Major Thomas A. Brander, past grand commander of the Virginia Grand Camp of Confederate Veterans, and who was known throughout the south for his prominence in all Confederate re-unions, died in Richmond, Va., Sunday, aged 60 years.

Will Choose Roberts' Successor.

Governor Wells, of Utah, has issued a proclamation calling for an election April 2 to elect a representative in the Fifty-sixth congress, now existing.

Virginia Wants New State Convention.

The democratic caucus of the Virginia general assembly held a few days ago voted almost unanimously in favor of calling a convention to frame a new state constitution.

CRENSHAW AND MARENGO

Returns Show That Morgan Has Carried Both Counties.

SENATOR'S MAJORITY IN CRENSHAW 429

Miller Has Won Over Wiley—Arrington Was Elected Senator—Two Counties to Act Saturday. Brief State News.

Returns from Crenshaw county received Sunday night show that Morgan has carried the county by two to one. The vote from eighteen boxes gives the following: Morgan, 950; Johnston, 521.

There are still four or five boxes to hear from, and Morgan's majority will probably be increased by these. The same beats quoted above gave for congress: Miller, 816; Wiley, 686.

It is expected that other beats will bring Miller's majority down to about 100.

Hone has defeated Brooke for tax collector.

Arrington is elected senator by three to one.

Morgan Sweeps Marengo County.

Marengo has cast its vote for Senator Morgan. The twelve beats already heard from give him 65 votes, and that gives him a majority of the county.

There are still nine beats to hear from, and it is more than probable that Morgan will carry more than half of them. It is impossible to get returns from these places, on account of their remoteness, but there is no doubt of Morgan's victory. It is estimated that the vote will be four to one against Governor Johnston.

Up to and including Saturday, eight counties had acted on the senatorial question and two others have nominated candidates for representative, subject to instructions of the primaries to be held April 14. The eight counties that have instructed their nominees will have fourteen votes in the general assembly for a United States senator, and of these fourteen votes Senator Morgan will get 10, Governor Johnston 3 and Gen. Oates 1.

Political interest will be transferred to Russell and Winston counties this week, these two being the only remaining counties to act on the senatorial question prior to April 14. A democratic primary will be held in each of these counties next Saturday for the purpose of naming democratic candidates for county offices and for representatives in the general assembly.

STATE BREVITIES.

Governor Johnston has named Robert W. Cashion as sheriff of Marion county, to succeed Sheriff John D. Hamilton, who died last Wednesday.

The remains of the late Rev. Dr. David Ingram Purser were brought to Tuskaloosa from New Orleans, La., where he died two years ago of yellow fever and were buried.

Greene county farmers have started in for another crop, many of them with meat and bread to last them through the year. The farming interests of the county are in a prosperous condition.

The supreme court is in session and cases from the eighth division are being submitted. This division is composed of the counties of Marshall, Jackson, Madison, Colbert, Limestone, Lauderdale, Lawrence and Morgan.

J. H. Buck, of Tuskaloosa, received a telegram from Buckatunna, Miss., stating that his son, E. J. Buck, had been run over by a freight train on the Mobile and Ohio railroad, cutting both legs off just above the knees. The unfortunate man lived only a few hours.

The internal revenue commissioner reports nineteen retail and two wholesale establishments selling oleomargarine in Alabama, out of a total of 7,055 for the country. The sales in Alabama were 226,058 pounds, out of a total of 79,995,744 for the country for the last fiscal year.

The city council of Talladega has passed a resolution donating a lot in the city cemetery and agreeing to defray the expenses of removing thereto the remains of the seventeen soldiers who were killed in the battle at Talladega, November 9, 1813. The remains are now in a field near the furnace.

Parke & Wilkins will erect a big saw mill at Sunny South.

AMERICANS MURDERED.

Six Men Shot by Order of a Mexican General.

Friends of George Lunt and Charles Burns, of El Paso, Tex., reported to have been killed with six other Americans by Gen. Torres at the recent round up of the Yaqui Indians, made formal application to United States Consul Charles W. Kindrick at Juarez, Mex., for a full investigation of the affair. Consul Kendrick notified the state department and telegraphed the consular agent at Guaymas, Mex., for a complete report. Reports from Narco, Ariz., confirms the killing of the six Americans.

It is said that cowboys and miners in Southern Arizona and New Mexico have organized and are preparing to invade Sonora and avenge the murder of the six prospectors. They will fight against the Mexican troops for the independence of Sonora and the Yaqui Nation, and the opinion is the contemplated movement would be crowned with success.

PHILIPPINE WAR IS OVER.

It Is Feared That Bloody Feuds Will Arise.

A dispatch to the New York Herald from Manila says:

The war in the Philippines is over. No further surrender can be hoped for.

The danger in the present situation is that a bloody feud may arise between the American army and the Filipinos.

This danger can be greatly lessened by action by congress, which is now imperative, outlining the policy of the government in the Philippines. It is likely that many insurgents are still holding out for the very terms which congress will be willing to give.

The time is ripe for a conciliatory policy, allowing the Filipinos to have some say as to the future of the government under which they will be obliged to live.

VICTORY FOR GOEBEL.

First Actual Test of Strength in the Kentucky Legislature.

The first actual test of strength between the Republican and Democratic forces in the Goebel-Taylor contest in Kentucky came Saturday and by the admission of the Republican leaders proved a victory for Goebel. The Democrats claim it was decisive, while the Republicans still have strong hope of retaining Governor Taylor.

The vote was in the contest of Van Meter, of Fayette county, against Berry, Van Meter winning—51 to 45. Every effort was made to get out the largest possible vote.

BRITISH REVERSE.

Boer Head Laager, Ladysmith, Jan. 25.—The British dead left on the battlefield yesterday numbered 1,500.

A London dispatch says: General Buller says that Warren's troops have retreated south of the Tugela river. The Boers say that the British loss is 1,500 killed. It is believed that this includes the wounded. The Boers also claim that 150 of the English troops surrendered at Spion Kop.

Judge Wharton Dead.

The Berlin Deutsche Tages Zeitung publishes an interview with Dr. Leyds, which represents him as having said:

"The war will certainly last a very long time. The Transvaal will decidedly not be the first to seek peace and will refuse any proposals on the basis of the status-quo."

The Peanut Crop.

The peanut of commerce, A[illegible] hypogea, is a native of tropical [illegible]ica, having been unknown in t[illegible] World before the discovery of [illegible]ica. It has been cultivated [illegible] over two hundred years. The[illegible] several different species of [illegible] and numerous cultural varieties [illegible] cultivated species. All the v[illegible] of commerce are placed in two [illegible] namely those mainly valuab[illegible] their oil and those suitable for [illegible] use. It is the latter kind [illegible] mainly cultivated in America [illegible] Africa, where the pea is exte[illegible] grown, it is the oil bearing va[illegible] that are preferred. The Spa[illegible] nut is largely grown in the S[illegible] States for hay and as a past[illegible] hogs. The peanuts sold on the [illegible] corners and used extensively for [illegible] fectionery are the "Red Virg[illegible] variety, chiefly grown, not in Vir[illegible] but in the Carolinas and Tenn[illegible] Although the peanut is of trop[illegible] igin it has become acclimated [illegible] cooler regions and is now a [illegible] crop everywhere along the A[illegible] coast from the Potomac sout[illegible] The peanut requires a very ligh[illegible] or sand containing plenty of [illegible] Rich prairie or [illegible]ckley soils can[illegible] plant to run to vine and produc[illegible] few peas.

CONTRACT AWARDED.

Extension of the Alabama and Florida Railroad to Be Completed.

The Alabama Construction company of Mobile has secured the contract for building the extension of the Alabama & Florida railroad from Andalusia to Geneva, a distance of forty-five miles. The contract calls for the completion of the road October 1, 1900. The price to be paid for the road is understand to be about a half million dollars. The construction company will put a large force of men on the work at once, and push it to an early completion.

This extension is a part of the Louisville & Nashville branch road which is to run from Georgiana, a station on the Mobile and Montgomery division fifty-two miles south of Montgomery, to Mariana, Fla. The road has already been constructed between Georgiana and Andalusia.

Suit to Recover University Lands.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the University of Alabama in Birmingham Phares Coleman and Sterling Wood, the committee of alumni appointed to bring suit against the Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Iron company for recovery of 400 acres of university lands sold through the state authorities at $12.50 per acre, which sale has since been declared to have been inadvisable and null and void by the trustees, a bill was reported which was ordered to be filed after some modifications suggested are made.

It is expected that the legal action for recovery of the lands will begin in a few days. The Sloss company, it is understood, will bitterly resist the suit. That is the sale which caused such a sensation two months ago.

The committee also received a proposition for lease of two tracts of university lands for coal mining purposes in Tuskaloosa and Walker counties, the latter being near lands sold to the Sloss company. The price offered was $40 minimum, with a royalty of 5 cents per ton on coal mined.

Special Day Observance Suggested.

Hon. John W. Abercrombie, state superintendent of education, has addressed a letter to the teachers of the state calling attention to the importance of the observation of "special" days as a part of the school work, and especially of impressing lessons of patriotism and morality upon the young by fitting observances of the birthday anniversaries of great and good men. He suggests, in view of the fact that at the present time much is being said and written about the origin and growth of American institutions, that February 22, the anniversary of the birth of Washington, be set apart as a time for a celebration, and requests that each teacher in the state co-operate in rendering a suitable programme which he has prepared.

At Gate City the 7-year-old daughter of Walter Jones, a prominent rolling mill man of that place, was accidentally shot and killed by the latter. The accident happened with a weapon which was thought to be unloaded. Mr. Jones was examining it while sitting before the fire. He snapped it while pointed toward the fire, which resulted in its discharge, the ball rebounding from the back of the grate and striking the little girl. Death resulted within three hours.

Edward Blake gives the result of his observation of the growth of finger-nails. At 21 years of age the nail was replaced in 126 days, at 31 years in 159 days, at 32 years in 88 days, at 55 years in 110, at 67 years in 144 days. This great irregularity was due to the various stages of health of the subjects. The growth of the nail was found to be a valuable indication of the progress of different kinds of paralysis.

The theory that the vermiform appendix is a useless rudimentary organ is hardly convincing. A late writer, Dr. Slaughter, contends that it has a useful function in secreting mucus to lubricate the lower intestines, and that inflammation from obstruction of this mucus is the chief exciting cause of appendicitis, a less severe form of the disease being due to impaired circulation in the appendix. Most cases of appendicitis known to this physician have recovered without operation or recurrence.

The following estimate of the number of the recognized species of animals was made three years ago by Dr. David Sharp: Mammals, 2500; reptiles and amphibians, 4400; birds, 12,500; fishes, 12,000; tunicates, 900; mollusks, 50,000; brachiopods, 150; bryozoans, 1800; crustaceans, 20,000; spiders, 10,000; myriapods, etc., 6150; coelenhen, 10,000; insects, 250,000 echinoderms, 3000; worms 6150; coclenterates, 2000; sponges, 1500; protozoans, 6100. Total, 386,000. This estimate is already obsolete, and Dr. L. Stejneger, of the Smithsonian Institute, places the total number of species at 45,000, as he finds the reptiles and batrachians to number about 5500, while Dr. Ashmead sees good reasons for putting the number of known insects at 300,000.

Beets Have Their Troubles.

Professor M. E. Lippman, the great German specialist in beet sugar manufacture, announces that he has made a most curious scientific discovery that beets are subject, like humans, to biliousness, melancholy and fretting or worry. He says that he is not yet prepared to make public all that he has discovered, as he wishes to further confirm his experiments and follow up the subject on the lines he has laid out. He says that beets contain the same substances which form the human bile; that is, cholesterine. Twelve years ago he found this in beets and was able to identify it unmistakably, also the phytosterine of Hesse. At first he was inclined to think that these substances were the result of changes in greasy or oily matter used in the manufacture of the sugar, but as only mineral substances were used, and an examination failed to substantiate his suspicions, he was obliged to accept the facts as he found them.

Pursuing his investigations further, he arrived at surprising conclusions, and has felt loath to make public what seems as unavoidable inferences. These may be broadly stated as follows: That beets are subject to bad humor, worry, biliousness and feelings analogous, at least in their physiological action and effects, to the same sentiments in the human body. That experiments extending over several years only tend to confirm these strange conclusions, and that he is now pursuing a line of research which appears to lead to equally curious inferences.—Philadelphia Record.

The Popularity of Fencing.

As it is scientifically understood fencing dates from the early part of the sixteenth century. Henry III. of France was one of the most noted fencers of his day, and many of his successors were expert swordsmen. It is claimed that it reached the highest point early in the present century, during the years which followed the restoration of the famous house of Bourbon to the French throne. The favorite system now is that of the French school, and was founded on the historical sword-play of Spain. In Italy, where the fencing-masters still retain the long foil with its bell-shaped guard, fencing is almost as popular with women as in Paris. The Italian school is also founded on the Spanish system, and its foil is a direct descendant of and closely resembles the old rapier of Spain. In fact, the modern foil is modelled with some changes on this same weapon.—Harper's Bazar.

The Make-Up of a Boer.

This is Max O'Rell's recipe for making a Boer: "Take all that is dirtiest, bravest, most old-fashioned and most obstinate in a Breton; all that is most suspicious, sly and mean in a Norman; all that is shrewdest, most hospitable, most Puritan and most bigoted in a Scot—mix well, stir and serve, and you have a Boer, or, if you will, a boor."—New York Tribune.

REV. DR. TALMAGE.

DISCOURSE BY THE EMINENT DIVINE LAST SUNDAY.

Subject: The Affairs of Others—The Busybody Has a Mission to Perform When His Motive is Good—Search Out the Miserable and Offer Them Consolation.

[Copyright, Louis Klopsch, 1900.]

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In this discourse Dr. Talmage shows how we should interest ourselves in the affairs of others for their benefit, but never for their damage; text, I Peter, iv., 15, "A busybody in other men's matters."

Human nature is the same in all ages. In the second century of the world's existence people had the same characteristics as people in the nineteenth century, the only difference being that they had the characteristics for a longer time. It was 500 years of goodness or 500 years of meanness instead of goodness or meanness for forty or fifty years. Well, Simon Peter, who was a keen observer of what was going on around him, one day caught sight of a man whose characteristics were severe inspection and blatant criticism of the affairs belonging to people for whom he had no responsibility, and with the hand once browned and hardened by fishing tackle drew this portrait for all subsequent ages, "A busybody in other men's matters."

That kind of person has been a trouble maker in every country since the world stood. Appointing himself to the work of exploration and detection, he goes forth mischief making. He generally begins by reporting the infelicity discovered. He is the advertising agent of infirmities and domestic inharmony and occurrences that but for him would never have come to the public eye or ear. He feels that the secret ought to be hauled out into light and heralded. If he can get one line of it into the newspapers, that he feels to be a noble achievement to start with. But he must not let it stop. He whispers it to his neighbors, and they in turn whisper it to their neighbors, until the whole town is abuzz and agog. You can no more catch it or put it down than you can a malaria. It is in the air and on the wing and afloat. Taken by itself, it seems of little importance, but after a hundred people have handled it and each has given it an additional twist it becomes a story in size and shape marvelous. If it can be kept going, after awhile it will be large enough to call the attention of the courts or the presbyteries or conferences or associations. The most of the scandals abroad are the work of the one whom Peter in the text styles "a busybody in other men's matters."

First, notice that such a mission is most undesirable, because we all require all the time we can get to take care of our own affairs. To carry ourselves through the treacherous straits of this life demands that we all the time keep our hand on the wheel of our own craft. While, as I shall show you before I get through, we all have a mission of kindness to others, we have no time to waste in doing that which is damaging to others.

There is our worldly calling, which must be looked after or it will become a failure. Who succeeds in anything without concentrating all his energies upon that one thing? All those who try to do many things go to pieces either as to their health or their fortune. They go on until they pay ten cents on the dollar or pay their body into the grave. We cannot manage the affairs of others and keep our own affairs prosperous. While we are inquiring how precarious is the business of another merchant and finding out how many notes he has unpaid and how soon he will probably be wound up or make an assignment or hear the sheriff's hammer smite his counter our own affairs are getting mixed up and endangered. While we are criticising our neighbor for his poor crops we are neglecting the fertilization of our own fields or allowing the weeds to choke our own corn. While we are trying to extract the mote from our neighbor's eye we fall under the weight of the beam in our own eye. Those men disturbed by the faults of others are themselves the depot at which whole trains of faults arrive and from which whole trains of faults start. The men who have succeeded in secular things or religious things will tell you that they have no time for hunting out the deficits of others. On the way to their counting room they may have heard that a firm in the same line of business was in trouble, and they said, "Sorry, very sorry." But they went in and sat down at their table and opened the book containing a full statement of their affairs to see if they were in peril of being caught in a similar cyclone.

Gadders about town, with hands in pockets and hats set far back on the head, waiting to hear baleful news, are failures now or will be failures. Christian men and women who go round with mouth and looks full of interrogation points to find how some other church member is given to exaggeration or drinks too much or neglects his home for greater outside attractions have themselves so little grace in their hearts that no one suspects they have any. In proportion as people are consecrated and holy and useful they are lenient with others and disposed to say: "Wait until we hear the other side of that matter. I cannot believe that charge made against that man or woman until we have some better testimony than that given by these scandal mongers. I guess it is a lie."

Furthermore, we are incapacitated for the supervisal of others because we cannot see all sides of the affair reprehended. People are generally not so much to blame as we suppose. It is never right to do wrong, but there may be alleviations. There may have arisen a conjunction of circumstances which would have flung any one of us. The world gives only one side of the transaction, and that is always the worst side. That defaulter at the bank who loaned money he ought not to have loaned did it for the advantage of another, not for his own. That young man who purloined from his employer did so because his mother was dying for the lack of medicine. That young woman who went wrong did not get enough wages to keep her from starving to death. Most people who make moral shipwreck would do right in some exigency, but they have not the courage to say "No."

Furthermore, we make ourselves a disgusting spectacle when we become busybodies. What a diabolical enterprise those undertake who are ever looking for the moral lapse or downfall of others! As the human race is a most imperfect race, all such hunters find plenty of game. There have been sewing societies in churches which tore to pieces more reputations than they made garments for the poor. With their sarcasms and sly hints and depreciation of motives they punctured more good names than they had needles. With their scissors they cut character bias and basted stitched every evil report they got hold of. Meetings of boards of directors have sometimes ruined good business men by insinuations against them. The bad work may not have been done so much by words, for they would be libelous, but by a twitch of the eye or a shrug of the shoulder or a sarcastic accentuation of a word. "Yes, he is all right when he is sober." "Have you inquired into that man's history?" "Do you know what business he was in before he entered this?" "I move that the application be laid on the table until some investigations now going on are consummated." It is easy enough to start a suspicion that will never down, but what a despicable man is the one who started it!

All people make mistakes—say things that afterward they are sorry for and miss opportunity of uttering the right word and doing the right thing. But when they say their prayers at night these defects are sure to be mentioned somewhere between the name of the Lord, for whose mercy they plead, and the amen that closes the supplication. "That has not been my observation," says some one. Well, I am sorry for you, my brother, my sister. What an awful crowd you must have got intol Or, as is more probable, you are one of the characters that my text sketches. You have not been hunting for partridges and quail, but for vultures. You have been microscopizing the world's faults. You have been down in the marshes when you ought to have been on the uplands. I have caught you at last. You are "a busybody in other men's matters."

How is it that you can always find two opinions about any one and those two opinions exactly opposite? I will tell you the reason. It is because there are two sides to every character—the best side and the worst side. A well-disposed man chiefly seeks the best side. The badly disposed seeks chiefly the worst side. Be ours the desire to see the best side, for it is healthier for us so to do and stirs admiration, which is an elevated state, while the desire to find the worst side keeps one in a spirit of disquietude and disgust and mean suspicion, and that is a pulling down of our own nature, a disfurement of our own character. I am afraid the imperfections of others will kill us yet.

The habit I deplore is apt to show itself in the visage. A kindly man who wishes everybody well soon demonstrates his disposition in his looks. His features may fracture all the laws of handsome physiognomy, but God puts into that man's eyes and in the curve of his nostrils and in the upper and lower lip the signature of Divine approval. And you see it at a glance, as plainly as though it had been written all over his face in rose color; "This is one of My princes. He is on the way to coronation. I bless him now with all the benedictions that infinity can afford. Look at him. Admire him. Congratulate him."

But there is a worthy and Christian way of looking abroad upon others, not for the purpose of bringing them to disadvantage or advertising their weaknesses or putting in "great primer" or "paragon" type their frailities, but to offer help, sympathy and rescue. That is Christlike, and he who does so wins the applause of the high heavens. Just look abroad for the people who have made great mistakes and put a big plaster of condolence on their lacerations. Such people are never sympathized with although they need an infinity of solace. Domestic mistakes. Social mistakes. Ecclesiastical mistakes. Political mistakes.

There is a public man who has made a political mistake from which he will never recover. At the next elections he will be put back and put down into a place of disapproval from which he will never rise. Just go to that man and unroll the scroll of 100 splendid Americans who, after occupying high places of promotion, were relegated to private life and public scorn. Show him in what glorious company he has been placed by the anathema of the ballot box.

There is a man or woman who has made a conjugal mistake, and a vulture has been put into the same cage with a dove or a lion and a lamb in the same jungle. The world laughs at the misfortune, but it is your business to weep with their woe. There is a merchant who bought at the wrong time or a manufacturer whose old machinery has been superseded by a new invention or who under change of tariff on certain styles of fabric has been dropped from affluence into bankruptcy. Go to him and recall the names of fifty business men who lost all but their honesty and God and heaven. Let them know there are hundreds of good men who have gone under that are thought of in heavenly spheres more than many who are high up and going higher. All will acknowledge that good and lovely Arthur Tappan, who failed in business, was more to be admired than William Tweed in possession of his stolen millions.

Hear it! The more you go to busying yourselves in other men's matters the better if you have design of offering relief. Search out the quarrels, that you may settle them; the fallen, that you may lift them; the pangs, that you may assuage them. Arm yourself with two bottles of Divine medicine, the one a tonic and the other an anæsthetic, the latter to soothe and quiet, the former to stimulate, to inspire to sublime action. That man's matters need looking after in this respect. There are 10,000 men and women who need your help and need it right away. They do not sit down and cry. They make no appeal for help, but within ten yards of where you sit in church and within ten minutes' walk of your home there are people in enough trouble to make them shriek out with agony if they had not resolved upon suppression.

If you are rightly interested in other men's matters, go to those who are just starting in their occupations or professions and give them a boost. Those old physicians do not want your help, for they are surrounded with more patients than they can attend to, but cheer those young doctors who are counting out their first drops to patients who cannot afford to pay. Those old attorneys at the law want no help from you, for they take retainers only from the more prosperous clients, but cheer those young attorneys who have not had a brief at all lucrative. Those old merchants have their business so well established that they feel independent of banks, of all changes in tariffs, of all panics, but cheer those young merchants who are making their first mistakes in bargain and sale. That old farmer who has 200 acres in best tillage and his barns full of harvested crops and the grain merchant having bought his wheat at high prices before it was reaped needs no sympathy from you, but cheer up that young farmer whose acres are covered with a big mortgage and the drought strikes them the first year. That builder with contracts made for the construction of half a dozen houses and the owners impatient for occupancy is not to be pitied, but give your sympathy to that mechanic in early acquaintance with hammer and saw and bit and amid all the limitations of a journeyman.

And now my words are to the invisible multitudes I reach week by week, but yet will never see in this world, but whom I expect to meet at the bar of God and hope to see in the blessed heaven. The last word that Dwight L. Moody, the great evangelist, said to me at Plainfield, N. J., and he repeated the message for me to others, was, "Never be tempted under any circumstances to give up your weekly publication of sermons throughout the world." That solemn charge I will heed as long as I have strength to give them and the newspaper types desire to take them. Oh, ye people back there in the Sheffield mines of England, and ye in the sheep pastures of Australia, and ye amid the pictured terraces of New Zealand, and ye among the cinnamon and color inflamed groves of Ceylon, and ye Armenians weeping over the graves of murdered households in Asia Minor, and ye amid the idolatries of Benares on the Granges, and ye dwellers on the banks of the Androscoggin, and the Alabama, and the Mississippi, and the Oregon, and the Shannon, and the Rhine, and the Tiber, and the Danube, and the Nile, and the Euphrates, and the Caspian and the Yellow seas; ye of the four corners of the earth who have greeted me again and again, accept this point blank offer of everything for nothing, of everything of pardon and comfort and illumination and safety and heaven, "without money and without price." What a gospel for all lands, all zones, all ages! Gospel of sympathy! Gospel of hope! Gospel of emancipation! Gospel of sunlight! Gospel of enthronement! Gospel of eternal victory! Take it all ye people, until your sins are all pardoned, and your sorrows all solaced, and your wrongs all righted, and your dying pillow be spread at the foot of a ladder which, though like the one that was let down to Bethel, may be thronged with descending and ascending immortals, shall nevertheless have room enough for you to climb, foot over foot, on rungs of light till you go clear up out of sight of all earthly perturbation into the realm where "the wicked cease from troubling and the weary are at rest."

THE SABBATH SCHOOL.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR FEBRUARY 4.

Subject: The First Disciples of Jesus. John i., 35-46—Golden Text: John i., 37—Memory Verses, 35-37—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

INTRODUCTION.—The choice of His disciples was a matter of great moment to Jesus. It was necessary that some of them should be witnesses of His life and work from the beginning of His public ministry. He did not choose those to be His witnesses who were bound by the traditions of the rabbinic schools. He chose men of simple, yet strong mind.

CONNECTING LINES.—We have here an account of John's testimony concerning Jesus. As soon as Christ was baptised He hurried into the wilderness, where He remained forty days. During His absence John had continued his work, but now at last he sees Jesus returning from the wilderness.

35. "Again, the next day after." On the day before, the day He returned from the wilderness, John had borne testimony of Him. V. 29. The disciples of John did not appear to be greatly impressed until John on the following day (v. 36) repeated his words. Edersheim argues, with seeming accuracy, that this was the Sabbath. "Two of His disciples." Andrew and John, the writer, who carefully avoids using his own name.

36. "Behold the Lamb of God." See v. 29, spoken in reference to Isa. 53:7. All the lambs hitherto offered had been furnished by men; this one was provided by God as the only sufficient sacrifice for the sin of the world. His words would be to them equivalent to a command to follow Him. How faithful John was in his office as forerunner! He did not think of his own decrease, he is anxious to have his followers become true disciples of Christ. He did not reckon that he had lost those who went over from him to Christ.

37. "They followed Jesus." They understood John's meaning and immediately did as they were directed. It would be well if all would immediately follow Christ. We should follow Him as our Redeemer, Pattern, Guide and Shepherd. They may not have intended to leave John's leadership permanently.

38. "What seek ye." Jesus knew, but He desired some expression from them. The meaning is, What is your desire? your petition, or request? "Rabbi," Teacher, master. "Among the Jews this title was a sort of degree." They thus at once recognized His superiority and their ignorance. "Where dwellest Thou." "Where are Thou staying?" He had no permanent place of abode in this locality. In asking this question they intimate a desire to be better acquainted with Him. Where is the inn where you abide? We desire to receive instruction from you.

39. "Come and see." A kind invitation to them to go with Him to His place of abode. If those who know not the salvation of God would come at the command of Christ, they would soon see that with Him is the fountain of life, and in His light they would see light. "The tenth hour." St. John was so impressed with the first interview with Jesus that he remembered the hour. There is a difference of opinion as to whether this was 4 p. m., according to the Jewish reckoning, or 10 a. m., according to the Roman reckoning. If Andrew and John spent the day with Jesus it must have been 10 a. m. This was probably the Sabbath day.

41. "He first findeth his own brother." It is supposed that at the same time Andrew went to find his brother Simon, John also went and found his brother James and brought him to Christ. This was a true missionary spirit. God's salvation is so good that those who experience His love are always anxious to bring others into the same holy relation. "We have found the Messias." He speaks exultingly. Aroused by John's faithful testimony concerning the coming Messiah they were ready to receive Him when they saw a few true marks of his Messiahship. "Being interpreted." Messias is the Hebrew word and Christ is its Greek interpretation.

42. "When Jesus beheld him." Jesus at once knew Simon better than Simon knew himself. "Cephas . . . a stone." See R. V. Petros, or Peter, has the same meaning in Greek that Cephas has in Syriac. The name was given him to describe his character, which was "stiff, hardy and resolute."

43. "The day following." This, according to Farrar, was the fourth day after His return from the wilderness. Jesus started on His return to Galilee, and "on the journey fell in with another young fisherman, Philip of Bethsaida. "Follow Me." This command is, in the gospels, issued only by our Lord Himself. It is addressed to but one outside the circle of the apostles, the rich young man whom Jesus loved. Mark 10:21. How was it that these Galilean youths were brought with one look, one word, to the Savior's feet? In part by what He said, and by what John the Baptist had testified concerning Him, and by His very look.

44. "Bethsaida." "The house of nets," so called because inhabited mostly by fishermen. There were two places by this name. The town where the three disciples, Andrew, Peter and Philip, were born, was on the west shore of the sea of Galilee, just north of Capernaum. The other Bethsaida, where five thousand were fed, is on the northeast shore of the sea. Andrew and Peter lived at Capernaum. Matt. 8: 14; 17:24; Mark 1:29.

45. "Nathanael." Elsewhere called Bartholomew. He lived at Cana in Galilee, where our Lord performed His first miracle. Cana was about nine miles northeast of Nazareth. "Of whom Moses . . . and the prophets did write." See Gen. 3:15; 22:18; Deut. 18:18; Isa. 4:2; 7:14; Jer. 23:5; Ezek. 34:23; Dan. 9:24; Micah. 5:2; Zech. 6:12; Mal. 3:1. These men were familiar with the Scriptures, and surely here was a great array of testimony with reference to the Messiah.

46. "Good . . . out of Nazareth." The question sprang from mere dread of mistake in a matter so vital. He knew that Bethlehem (Micah. 5:2) and not Nazareth was to be the birth-place of the Messiah. It has been usually considered that his answer was provarbial; but it may merely have implied, "Nazareth, that obscure and ill-reputed town in its little, untrodden valley—can anything good come from thence?" Nathanael's objection arose from ignorance. Ordinarily all we need is a better knowledge of Christ and any objections we may have will melt away. "Come and see." The same reply given by Jesus. V. 39. Philip could not answer his objections, but still his faith was unshaken; and Nathanael was not so filled with prejudice that he would not investigate for himself. Some things cannot be explained that we can see are true. He who candidly examines the evidences of the religion of Christ will become a believer. No history ever published has so many internal and external proofs of authenticity as this has. Those who have never read the Bible, or have read it only with a fixed purpose to gainsay it, are the ones who cry out against it.

Two Arrests For the Ervo Murder.

James and Amos Pierce were arrested by Chief of Police Berry of Chester, Penn., and locked up in jail, charged with the recent murder of George B. Ervo, the wealthy resident of Chester. The question of jurisdiction has been disposed of, the New Jersey authorities agreeing that the prosecution shall take place in Pennsylvania.

Loss of Sheep in Australia.

Dispatches from New South Wales and southern Queensland say that it will take from three to five years to make up for the loss of sheep during last year's drought.

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS.

A X mark under your name on the first page of this paper means that your subscription is due. If we do not hear from you within two weeks we shall conclude that you wish to discontinue, and the paper will be stopped.

READ our special offer on this page, the biggest offer ever made by any county paper in Alabama. Then tell your friends and neighbors about it. Now is the time to subscribe.

THE senatorial contest is increasing in interest as each county lines up. At present Johnston and Morgan are about even, with, if anything, Morgan a little in the lead.

The Populist Executive Committee is called to meet at Clanton on Saturday, Febrrary 10, 1900, at 11 a.m. and we presume the main business before it will be to decide upon the holding of a primary or convention.

IN Kentucky hot-headed party politicians have about brought the State to a condition of anarchy. On Tuesday Senator Goebel, who was contesting the election of Governor Taylor, was shot from a window of the capitul at Frankfort and is not expected to recover. The would-be assassin has not been discovered. While we have no sympathy for the methods of the Goebel faction, murder and assassination will not remedy any wrong, aud we hope that Goebel's assailant will be found and justice meted out to him.

THE State Superintendent of Education has issued a circular to teachers advocating a general school holiday on Washington's birth day. The circular arrived too late for us to print this week but we will publish it in next issue. In the meantime Supt. Abercrombie has had printed in pamphlet form a program and selections to accompany it suitable for the occasion which he will send to teachers on receipt of two cents to cover postage.

THE Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company, being desirous of encouraging the horticultural and truck growing interest of the line of its road, has appointed Mr. E. M. Rumph, Horticultural Agent, with headquarters at Evergreen, Ala.

Mr. Rumph will have special charge of the horticultural interests on the line south of Decatur, Ala. He is desirous of showing to farmers and fruit and truck growers the benefits of our section in this line, and stands ready to assist settlers and all others wishing information and assistance in regard to fruit, vegetable and tobacco growing. He is a gentleman with a practical knowledge of this work, and interested parties who may desire the benefit of Mr. Rumph's experience should write him.

A C MIMS

This gentleman again seeks reelection to the office of Tax Assessor, which he has so well and ably filled the last four years. Quietly and methodically Mr. Mims has gone about his work and the result has been a good and clear record of which any man might be proud. Following the Democratic precedent of a second term to capable officials he hopes to be re-elected and no doubt the experience he has gained would render him of still greater service to the people if he is re-elected.

WORTHLESS FERTILIZERS

A CORRESPONDENT in the Atlanta Constitution, from whose letter we quote extensively below, offers much good advice to farmers that is worthy of their serious consideration.

Our information is much on the same line, that is, much of the so-called fertilizer shipped to our farmers is really of no value and that it is money thrown away to invest in it.'

If a manufactured fertilizer can be depended upon to produce greater crops, that is well and good; but if farmers are induced to buy worthless fertilizers merely in the expectation that they will increase the product, and they simply invest their money on a valueless fertilizer, then the sooner they realize they are throwing their money away the better for them.

"I am with you in your fight against the fertilizer manufacturers when they attempt to advance their price without reason of excuse, especially when I feel that the public has been duped into buying almost worthless goods heretofore and even at the former prices the farmer was simply throwing away the money he paid for them.

"It greatly concerns the welfare, yea, the salvation of the farmer that he should get value received for his hard earned money. God knows it is hard enough for him to make both ends meet at best, but if he is handicapped in the way mentioned he must continue to starve and while he starves he is putting bread in the mouths of rock crushers, the so called manufactuers of acid phosphate, etc.

"It is a farce to talk about an increase in price of these spurious goods. The fact is, they are not worth the freight we pay on them or even the hauling to our fields. Let each and every one of us make our own fertilizer by buying muriate potash, cotton seed meal or nitrate soda, Nova Sotra land plaster and a sand screen and do our own mixing. I have done it in the past and found it paid me, but was duped into buying acid phosphate(?) by the low price and am dollars out where I was dollars in before. One ton of fence corner dirt or yard scrapings is worth two tons acid phosphate in my opinion. Those who differ with me should at least keep samples of the acid phosphate or other fertilizers they buy so that they may have proof of their worthlessness if they prove to be worth less. There is more danger now than ever before because there is but little competition. The time was when if one brand did not suit us we could buy from an other manufacturer, but if you prick one now in South Carolina it squalls in Verginia, and vice versa. Abandon commercial fertilizers to a great extent and plant peas. One bushel peas broadcast is worth more to the land than a half ton fertilizer; save the vines for hay and turn under the roots. Keep doing this and in a few years time you will not hear of any advance in price of fertilizers. You will not want it at any price.

The retreat from Spion Kop has again brought the English people face to face with the heavy task they have assumed for the good of all Central Africa. Heavy as the task may be, regardless of the time and money and even lives it may require, the resources of the empire will be brought into it until peace in South Africa is assured on a permanent basis. Those who think that England is another Spain, ready to surrender at the first reverses, will soon awake from delusion. Every reverse will simply bring the great realm up to a stronger and more determined effort, and in the end affairs will be settled on a basis satisfactory to the race that must carry civilization to Central Africa if it is carried at all in any reasonable length of time.—Age Herald.

"I think I would go crazy with pain were it not for Chamberlain's Pain Balm," writes Mr. W. H. Stapleton, Hemlock, Pa. It's Easy To Take Thin, pale, anæmic girls need a fatty food to enrich their blood, give color to their cheeks and restore their health and strength. It is safe to say that they nearly all reject fat with their food.

SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME & SODA

is exactly what they require; it not only gives them the important element (cod-liver oil) in a palatable and easily digested form, but also the hypophosphites which are so valuable in nervous disorders that usually accompany anæmia.

SCOTT'S EMULSION is a fatty food that is more easily digested than any other form of fat. A certain amount of flesh is necessary for health. You can get it in this way.

We have known persons to gain a pound a day while taking it.

50c. and $1.00, all druggists.

The Necessary Link.

Perhaps we were rash in buying the wagon, and perhaps we ought not to have bought the horse; but having made those investments for better or for worse, let us not now hesitate about buying a set of harness. The way to justify expansion is to make the most effective possible use of what we have acquired. Our altered position in both oceans, coupled with the enormous recent increase of our foreign trade, must require a larger and more expensive navy hereafter than we have maintained in the past. A canal on our own soil, making it possible for us to use the Gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean Sea as great naval centers from our ships can have a quick and safe passage to the Pacific, will almost double the efficency for defensive purposes of a given number of war vessels, and will accordingly save us enough on our yearly naval bills to meet all interest and sinking-fund charges on the cost of the canal. Viewed from a material standpoint and tested as a business proposition, the Nicaragua Canal is as necessary to the completion of our new territorial, commercial, and strategical polices as the harness is necessary to the utilization of the horse and wagon. The indirect opposition that has made itself felt so powerfully at Washington comes, of course, in large part from transcontinental railroad interests. This is natural enough, and it is merely well that the public should know it. We have good reasons for going ahead, and in the end these transcontinental railroads themselves will be the richer for all the business developments that may follow from construction of the interoceanic canal.—From "The Progress of World." in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for February.

No Right to Ugliness.

The woman who is lovely in face form and temper will always have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, sickly and all run down; she will be nervous and irritable. If she has constipation or kidney trouble, her impure blood will cause pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. Electric Bitters is the best medicine in the world, to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvety skin, rich complexion. It will make a good-looking, charming women of a run-down invalid. Only, 50 cents at all drug stores.

An Editor's Life Saved by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

During the early part of October, 1896, I contracted a bad cold which settled on my lungs (and was neglected until I feared that consumption had appeared in an incipient state. I was constantly coughing and trying to expel something which I could not. I became alarmed and after giving the local doctor a trial bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and the result was immediate improvment. and After I had used three bottles my lungs were restored to their healthy state.—B. The Imperial Gas Lamp

Covered by U. S. Patents.

Admittedly the BEST light on the market and the most economical.

The Imperial burns common stove gasoline and gives a 100 candle power light at a cost of one cent per day.

One Gallon will burn 60 hours.

The needle keeps the burner clean, so it will not clog, and the generating tube being in center of flame, insures a light that will not go out. There is no odor, no smoke and no flicker. The light can be raised or turned down just as with a gas jet or lamp. THE IMPERIAL is the most perfect light on the market and everything pertaining to it is the best to be had. IT WILL PAY TO INVESTIGATE.

FARM AND GARDEN NOTES.

NOTES OF INTEREST ON AGRICULTURAL TOPICS.

Large Horses in Demand—May Beetles—Measuring Roses—Whole Corn for Hens—Improving the Soil, etc., etc.

Large Horses in Demand.

There is an increased demand for very large horses for draught purposes and the stock keeper who makes a business of breeding horses for sale may do well to breed such, as they are likely to be wanted in the heavy teams of our cities.

May Beetles.

The white grub of the May beetle, when very abundant, is one of the most destructive of our insect pests. There is scarcely one of our useful plants whose roots it does not feed upon, and we have seen grass roots so eaten off that by taking hold of the tops a space a yard square could be lifted up, if there were roots enough left to hold it together. It begins this feeding almost as soon as hatched, but by November it has attained about half its size, when it burrows down to remain in the ground over winter and appears again the next year to feed all summer. As it burrows usually a foot or more down, it is doubtful if late fall or winter plowing would destroy muy of them.

Manuring Roses.

Plants growing in well prepared quarters do not require the roots disturbed annually by digging in large quantities of manure amongst them, but judiciously applied top dressings are of the utmost advantage. Bone manure is applied by taking a little of the surface soil from around the stem, and shaking a handful or two over the roots, and then return the soil. The finest rose growths and blooms I ever produced were secured in this way. Many persons think their roses will degenerate if the whole of the surface near them is not deeply forked or dug and much natural manure added every spring, but nothing is gained by disturbing the roots very much. Roses properly planted by the beginning of March, rightly pruned and top-dressed, are sure to give their owners satisfaction from the beginning to the end of the flowering season; and after cultivation will be conducted with little or no expense.—Journal of Horticulture.

Whole Corn for Hens.

The practice of feeding whole corn in unlimited quantities to laying hens is a very dangerous one, which not frequently brings on a state of disorder that practically renders the flock worthless.

Especially is this true on the farm, where hens are given the range of the barn and hog and cattle pens.

More or less grains of corn are scattered around, and should an additional daily supply be given the hens are almost sure to become overfat, in which state they will not lay.

Nevertheless, corn, when rightly fed, is a splendid food, and should form a part of the daily meal.

The morning meal should be at least one-third ground corn, while in cold weather a full feed should be given at night. The danger of having the hens become over fat may be lessened by parching the corn to a crisp brown and feeding it while still hot.

Mash for morning feed, oats in scratching shed for midday feed, and all the corn they will eat before roosting time should not be too much, especially so if the hens are kept hustling during the day.—Home and Farm.

Improving the Soil.

Can you make good soil of soil that was not naturally good? was recently asked the writer. Certainly, though the significance of the question would depend upon what we might naturally consider good soil. There are light, sandy soils that are not naturally good soils, because they lack humus. Add humus, and we make a fairly good soil. Land may contain so much alkali that it could not be called a good soil. Get rid of the alkali or a portion of it, and we have made a good soil. A cold clay hill that is so compact that it will not absorb water may have locked up in it all the elements needed for fertility and yet not be productive. It might be called a naturally good soil. We should not so term it. Tile that hill, admit water and air, which drainage and cultivation would do, and the fertility will be unlocked and a good soil will be made. The idea is prevalent in this country—caused by our abundance of good land— that unless soil is naturally rich it is good for nothing. Posterity will have different ideas. When our population crowds, as it does in the old world, land that is not naturally good will be put under cultivation and made good. But land that is exhausted, however fertile it may originally have been, requires precisely the same treatment as soil that never contained the elements which the exhausted land has been deprived of.—Agricultural Epitomist.

The Dog and Sheep.

As a general thing the dog and the sheep do not get along well together. The shepherd dog is, of course, an exception to this, as he has been bred for the purpose of associating with and caring for sheep, but this is rather a reversal of nature. The ordinary dog is a deadly enemy of sheep, and he is the greatest obstacle to the sheep-raising industry in the more thickly settled portions of the country. Nearly all of our States have dog laws relating to sheep, but they are largely inoperative. In the first place, if a dog kills the sheep of a neighbor the owner of the sheep hesitates to go to law about the matter, thinking it not a small matter to make an enemy out of a friend by prosecuting him. Then the lawyer's fee is to be considered, and court expenses are sometimes large. Added to that is the great difficulty of proving that a certain dog did the mischief.

The result is that there are hundreds of thousands of farms, especially in the East and South, where flocks of sheep might be kept with great advantage, but where they are not on account of the terrible ravages of the dogs. Some of our States publish a yearly record of the losses of sheep by dogs, and the reports are often startling. No means has yet been found to obviate the difficulty. Making the dog tax excessive has the opposite effect, for the officers are forced by the pressure of public sentiment to permit the law to go unenforced. The story is told of how a certain Western State passed a law making a heavy tax on dogs, hoping thereby to kill off enough dogs to make sheep raising possible in all parts of the State. When the legislators returned to their homes they found a nice state of affairs as to their relations with their constituents. A very large number owned dogs, and made things lively for their representatives and senators. At the next session of the legislature fifty-one bills to repeal the dog tax were offered on the first day. The law was repealed. The question is still unsettled, and is likely to remain so until the farmers that keep dogs can be educated up to either keeping harmless dogs or no dogs at all. At present the big, strong, sheep-killing dog is popular.—Farm, Field and Fireside.

The Best Farm Manures.

Manure from horses I regard as being worth twice as much as that from cows and hogs. Give the horses plenty of oat straw, and let this become fully saturated with their urine before it is thrown out. This makes the best of all manures for all purposes, but this should not be allowed to heat and burn in piles. Manures of less value, such as cow and hog manure, wood ashes, decayed vegetables, shavings, leaves of trees, in fact, any rubbish that will rot, can be mixed in with the horse manure, the whole being forked over several times to get well mixed. It is generally best to spread manure in the fall and plow in. Coarser manure can then be used than if delayed until spring. Where manure is to be used as a top dressing for grass, clover and strawberry beds, it is also best to spread it on in the fall, as it affords protection to the roots of the plants.

Now, this matter of the value of manures, when and how to apply, is a matter that the farmer must study out largely for himself, being guided by soils and the crops desired. No one rule will hold good for all conditions or crops. But in nearly all cases the manure should be pretty well rotted and mixed in the soil before seeding. Stiff soils with a clay subsoil will retain manure much longer than other soils. Sawdust, although highly recommended by some, has but little have but little value, although if mixed value as a manure. Coal ashes also have but little value, although if mixed splendid top dressing for currant and gooseberry lands, especially if the land is a stiff clay soil.

With many advantages possessed by the Western farmers for improving and keeping up their lands to the highest state of cultivation, there is no excuse for poor or thin lands nor any reason why we should not grow good crops for generations to come. But the time has come when we must begin to look after these matters, for it is much cheaper to improve good land than to build up a poor, worn-out soil. There is no soil, no matter how rich, that will stand repeated cultivation without becoming exhausted. We cannot take from the soil all the time and give nothing back.—F. S. White, in American Agriculturist.

Poultry Notes.

A few drops of tincture of iron will help to tone up the system of laying hens.

Poultry manure makes splendid fertilizer, but should be plowed under when scattered.

A little red pepper in morning mash will help to stimulate the laying hens during extremely cold weather.

Don't let the poultry house become filthy during the winter. It should be nicely cleaned every other day.

A teaspoonful of powdered sulphur in the morning mash once a week will help to keep vermin off the hens.

Don't overlook the dust box during the winter months. Coal ashes that have been sifted answers the purpose.

If the hens huddle around in sunny places and refuse to scratch for food, it is a sure sign that they are being overfed.

Water for the fowls should be slightly warmed during very cold weather, and should be given them at least three times a day.

It requires only about two weeks' time to fatten any kind of poultry, that which requires a longer time is usually unprofitable.

ROBERTS IS EXCLUDED.

House Adopts the Majority Report by a Vote of 268 to 50.

A SEVERE BLOW TO POLYGAMY.

On the Question to Admit Roberts First and Then Expel Him, the Vote Was 81 to 244—The Polygamist Declares When He Hears the Result That He is a "Martyr to a Spasm of Prejudice."

WASHINGTON, D. C. (Special).—The case of Brigham H. Roberts, the Mormon Representative-elect from Utah, which has occupied so much of the attention of the House since the assembling of Congress, has been decided by the adoption of a resolution to exclude him, by a vote of 268 to 50.

BRIGHAM H. ROBERTS.

The exact language of the resolution was as follows:

"That, under the facts and circumstances of the case, Brigham H. Roberts, Representative-elect from the State of Utah, ought not to have or hold a seat in the House of Representatives, and that the seat to which he was elected is hereby declared vacant."

The amendment to expel Mr. Roberts without seating him, offered by Mr. Lacey, was ruled out on a point of order, and the House only voted upon the resolutions of the majority and minority of the committee. The latter—to seat and then expel Mr. Roberts—was defeated 81 to 244.

An analysis of this vote shows that 170 Republicans, 72 Democrats and 2 Populists voted against it, and 71 Democrats, 7 Republicans, 2 Populists and 2 Silver Republicans for it. The majority resolutions—to exclude Mr. Roberts and declare the seat vacant—were adopted by 268 to 50. The affirmative vote was divided as follows:

Republicans, 168; Democrats, 96; Populists, 4, and the negative vote: Democrats, 47; Silver Republicans, 2; Populists, 1.

Mr. Roberts was present throughout the day, and only left the hall after the result of the last vote had been announced. As he did so he gave out a statement justifying his retention of his plural wives on the ground that his moral obligation was more binding upon his conscience than technical obedience to statutory law, and saying that there was little excuse for the extraordinary efforts to crush a system already abandoned and practically dead. He said he was a "martyr to a spasm of prejudice." He would not, he said, attempt to run for Congress again, although he would go back home with a light heart, confident of the future.

The action of the House, it is believed here, will be a blow to polygamy which it will not long survive. It is thought no effort will ever again be made to seat a polygamist in Congress, and that the young men of Utah will realize that if they contract polygamous marriages the avenues of political preferment under the National Government will be closed to them.

SPION KOP ABANDONED.

General Warran Unable to Hold Position He Had Captured.

CHECKED BULLER'S MOVEMENTS.

Seven Days' Fighting Left the Boer Position Intact—General Buller Sends a List of Casualties—Cry in England Now is For More Troops—Methuen on Boer Valor and Strategy.

LONDON (By Cable).—The War Office Friday posted the following dispatch from General Buller, dated Spearman's Camp:

"General Warren's garrison, I am sorry to say, I find this morning had in the night abandoned Spion Kop."

General Buller also reported that the British casualties on the day after the taking of Spion Kop were: Killed—Officers, six; non-commissioned officers and men, eighteen; wounded—officers, twelve; non-commissioned officers and men, 142; missing, thirty-one men, making a total of 209.

The killed include Colonel Buchanan-Riddell, of the Kings Royal Rifles. He served in the Niger war of 1881.

Seven days of fighting left the main Boer positions intact and General Buller's army 706 men weaker, according to the official casualty lists, which seemingly do not include the Spion Kop losses, as those last forwarded do not mention General Woodgate's wounding.

England is possessed by a depressing sense of failure, although not a word in criticism of her generals and soldiers is uttered. Not much effort is made to place a happy construction upon General Buller's bare eighteen words telling of the retirement from Spion Kop, and there is an uneasy impression abroad that worse news is yet to come.

Spencer Wilkinson, in the Morning Post, writes as follows of the Spion Kop loss:

"This is a serious matter, and an attempt will not here be made to minimize it, for no greater wrong can be done to our people at home than to mislead them about the significance of the events of the war. The right way is to tell the truth as far as we know it."

The transport Assaye has arrived at Cape Town with 2127 officers and men. The first portion of the Seventh Division is afloat. Hence, with the 10,000 men of this division and about 9000 others now at sea, it lies in the power of Lord Roberts to reinforce General Buller heavily. This course is advised by several military writers.

Although England's nerves are severely tried, her courage is absolutely unshaken, and probably nothing that can happen in South Africa will change in the slightest degree her intentions. She will continue to receive bad news, if it comes, with dignity, and will maintain her determination to win at last.

French in Touch With Gatacre.

LONDON (By Cable).—A dispatch to the Times from Sterkstroom, Cape Colony, states that a patrol of Brabant's Horse returned to camp from Steynsburg, where a connection was effected with General French's patrol.

This is taken to indicate that General French's recent easterly movement was for the purpose of connecting with Gatacre's force. Sterkstroom is General Gatacre's headquarters.

Methuen Praises the Boers.

LONDON (By Cable).—Lord Methuen forwards by mail the first official recognition of Boer valor and military art. He calls their tactics and their courage "indisputable." In defending frontal attacks, Lord Methuen says: "The mobility of the Boers is such that they can change front in fifteen minutes, so that a flanking operation, when striking home, simply meets a new front."

FORMER CONSUL MACRUM'S STATUS

He is Simply a Private Citizen Now and Has No Official Standing.

WASHINGTON, D. C. (Special).—A statement of the official status of Charles E. Macrum, of Ohio, formerly United States Consul at Pretoria, has been issued by the State Department. It states that he ceased to be an officer of the United States when he left Pretoria on December 18. The State Department has now no control over him and no instructions to refuse to be interviewed have been telegraphed to him.

He is entirely out of the Consular service and could return to his former post in an official capacity only through receiving a new commission. He will not be reinstated unless he gives satisfactory reasons for leaving Pretoria at such a critical period. Even then it is not likely that he will be reinstated.

SWORD OF HONOR FOR WAINWRIGHT

To Commemorate His Work in Sinking the Furor and the Pluton.

WASHINGTON, D. C. (Special).—A sword was presented to Commander Richard Wainwright, who was Captain of the Gloucester in the battle of Santiago when she destroyed the Spanish torpedo boat Furor and Pluton, as a gift of the citizens of the District of Columbia. The presentation took place at the Columbia Theatre.

President McKinley and the members of the Cabinet occupied one of the boxes, and on the stage were seated with Commander Wainwright Secretary Long, through whom the presentation was made, John Joy Edson, who presided, Admiral Dewey and other naval officers and a number of leading citizens. Mr. E. P. B. Sands made an address eulogizing Commander Wainwright's services, and the sword was then presented by Secretary Long.

PHILIPPINE PORTS OPEN.

Restrictions Removed From the Western Coast of Panay.

WASHINGTON, D. C. (Special).—General Otis reported to the War Department that the western coast of the island of Panay is now open for trade, and that the coast of Laguna de Bay and the neighboring sections of the country will also be opened to unrestricted traffic by the end of the week.

He also reported several minor engagements with the insurgents, in which the American arms met with the usual success, the enemy lost heavily and a large amount of arms and ammunition was captured.

HOUSEHOLD MATTERS.

To Clean Carved Furniture.

For cleaning carved furniture use a soft, thick paint brush, which will get into all the interstices of the pattern. When these are clogged take another brush, wet with kerosene oil to clean them out. After using the oil, rub the wood dry with a soft cloth. Feather brushes are of no avail on carved woods.

Fresh Flowers on the Table.

A centre-piece of flowers is an [illegible] valuable addition to the dinner-table. In the winter, when flowers are not to be had for a song, you can sow wheat in saucers. Lay a piece of cotton wool in a saucer, wet it thoroughly and then sprinkle wheat on it. Keep it if damp, but not too wet, and place it in the light. In a short time delicate green shoots will emerge from the wheat ears and make a dainty decoration for the table.

Poached Eggs.

Have ready in a perfectly clean frying-pan a quart of boiling water in which a tablespoonful of salt has been dissolved. Break the eggs one by one in a saucer and slip carefully into the salted water, which should be bubbling but not violently boiling. Dash with a spoon a little water over each egg to make the top white, as the beauty of a delicately poached egg is to see the yolk through a veil of transparent white. Cook until the white is firm but not leathery; lift out with a pancake turner and serve on a warm platter with a sprig or two of parsley for decoration, or on slices of golden brown toast.

If the cook's hand is a trifle unsteady a good way to preserve the perfect symmetry of the eggs is to drop them into muffin rings placed in the water or into the round metal top of fruit cans.

The Emergency Shelf.

Every housekeeper should have an emergency shelf well filled with canned food of all kinds to guard against possible and unfortunate surprises in the way of company. There is a sense of fatality about it, that the unexpected company generally arrives when the larder is not well filled. But the emergency shelf has proved a boon on many such occasions. There is an endless list of the foods that may be prepared from canned goods. Scolloped tomatoes and corn, for instance, make a palatable and simple dish. Begin by covering the bottom of a deep baking dish with bread crumbs. Over these place a layer of canned tomatoes and season with salt, pepper and small pieces of butter. Then add a layer of fine chopped canned corn. Alternate the layers of tomatoes and corn, seasoning until the dish is full. Finish with the crumbs. Bake for half an hour covered, then remove the cover and brown.

A Handy Spool and Thread Holder.

It is surprising that such a useful article as the spool and thread holder here described, has not already become a household possession. The idea is simply to have the six grades of cotton thread, used so much by women folks, always handy by arranging them in a closed box so that only the ends of the thread protrude from little holes ready to be drawn for use, as from a twine holder.

If a small wooden box cannot be found of the proper size, construct one, of rather thin wood, five inches long, four inches wide, and one and a half inches deep. Attach the cover on with any kind of small hinges and have a small hook by which to keep the box closed after the spools are in place.

From any small round sticks of wood the shape of a lead pencil, cut six pieces each one and a quarter inches in length. These are to be fastened to the bottom of the box, one side, and on which the spools will turn. Glue them in place, and make them perfectly secure by driving small brads into them from the bottom of the box.

On the outside of the box, opposite each spool, bore a fine hole, half way from the bottom, on both the front and back of the box. With the spools in place, unwind and pass each end of thread through the small hole opposite. The box may be decorated elaborately or simply varnished, but in either case paste the labels for the spools around each of the three holes on the outside, so that the color will be indicated—20, 30, etc.

The inside of the cover little pockets made of fancy goods may be attached in which to place packages of needles.—New York Sun.

Recipes.

Eggless Pumpkin Pie.—Take a quart of rich milk and the same quantity of stewed pumpkin, sweetened to taste, with light brown sugar, add a pinch of salt, ginger, cinnamon and nutmeg to taste. Bake with one crust.

Calf's Heart Roasted.—Let the heart soak in water for an hour. Clean it carefully, remove the tough membrane; wipe it dry. Fill the cavities with a stuffing made of bread crumbs, finely chopped suet, chopped parsley, salt and pepper. Roll the heart in greased paper, and place in a dripping pan and bake for two hours. When the heart is tender remove it from the pan and serve with a brown gravy.

Sardine Toast.—Butter triangles of toast and set them in the oven. Drain the oil from a box of sardines, and flake the fish to tiny bits with a silver fork. Into a small frying pan put a tablespoonful of salad oil, a dash of onion juice and a teaspoonful of lemon juice. Stir until very hot, then add the flaked sardines into this, season and stir until the fish is thoroughly heated. If it gets too dry add a little more oil and lemon juice. When heated through, spread the fish on the toasted triangles and serve.

The bread-eating world requires more than 300,000,000 bushels of wheat every twelve months to supply its table with bread.

New "Bob" Evans Story.

The following somewhat irreverent story is going the rounds of the press in relation to "Fighting Bob" Evans. Dressed in a plain suit of clothing, he went to church on a recent Sunday and seated himself in a vacant pew about midway up the aisle. Soon afterward a gentleman and a lady walked in and seated themselves in the same pew. The gentleman stood it as long as he could and then, tiring, passed his card over to Bob, who read as follows: "I pay $2,200 annually on this pew." Bob glanced at the card and then passed it back with the following written on the other side: "I pay too damned much. The preacher then announced his text: "It is blessed to dwell together in the house of the Lord."—De Kalb Chronicle.

THE NERVES OF WOMEN

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Relieves the Suffering from Overwrought Nerves.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I am so grateful for the benefit derived from the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I wish you to publish this testimonial that others may know the value of your medicine. I was suffering such tortures from nervous prostration that life was a burden. I could not sleep at all and was too weak to walk across the floor without aid. The disease had reached a condition where my heart was affected by it, so that often I could not lie down at all without almost suffocating. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it worked like magic. I feel that your medicine has been of inestimable benefit to me."—MISS ADELE WILLIAMSON 196 N. Boulevard, Atlanta, Ga.

Thin, Sallow and Nervous

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I was thin, sallow and nervous. I had not had my menses for over a year and a half. Doctored with several physicians in town and one specialist, but did not get any better. I finally decided to try your medicine, and wrote to you. After I had taken three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and three of Blood Purifier, my menses returned, and I feel as well and strong as I ever did, and am gaining flesh."—MISS LENA GAINES, Visalia, Tulare Co., Cal.

TAPE WORMS

"A tape worm eighteen feet long at last came on the scene after my taking two CASCARETS. This I am sure has caused my good health for the past three years. I am still taking Cascarets, the only cathartic worthy of notice by sensible people."

THE MERRY SIDE OF LIFE.

STORIES THAT ARE TOLD BY THE FUNNY MEN OF THE PRESS.

Lucky Birds—He Wasn't Equal to the Occasion—The Modern Youth—Merely a Guess—The Difference—In South Africa—Ready to Quit, Etc., Etc.

Full many a bird with plumes of brilliant hue
Was hatched to waste its songs on desert air;
Ah, lucky warbler, if it only knew
There are no women's hats to trim out there.
—Washington Star.

He Wasn't Equal to the Occasion.

Rose—"Did you ever faint, Isabel?"
Isabel—"Only once; and I bumped my head so hard that I never tried it again."—Indianapolis Journal.

The Modern Youth.

"I started at the bottom and climbed up," said the old gentleman.

"But it's much pleasanter tobogganing," returned the spendthrift son.—Chicago Post.

Merely a Guess.

Man at the Fish Market—"The mackerel are running very small this season, ma'am."

Young Housekeeper—"I suppose it's on account of the dry weather."—Life.

The Difference.

"Detectives in real life are not a bit like the story-book detectives."

"That's so," said the man who hasn't any savoir faire whatever; "the story-book detective invariably catches his man sooner or later."

In South Africa.

First Kaffir—"Say, what's your hurry?"

Second Kaffir—"Don't stop me! I'm the special correspondent of the New York Hustler and I have a batch of startling rumors from the front."—Puck.

Ready to Quit.

First Office Boy—"I call my boss 'Gridley.'"

Second Office Boy—"Why is that?"

First Office Boy—"Because he may fire when he is ready!"—Puck.

The Kind She Wanted.

Mrs. Dooley—"A pound av tay, if ye plaze."

Grocer—"What kind?"

Mrs. Dooley—"Oi'll take a pound av the iced tay Oi hear about."—Judge.

A Coming Sensation.

Deacon Saintly (to wife, as congregation assembles)—"Where is Mrs. Fashuns this morning? She is usually among the early comers."

Mrs. Saintly—"She will be late today. I saw her buying a new hat last week."—Baltimore American.

In an Irish Police Court.

"Are you married?" asked a magistrate in the Dublin police court of a man charged with committing an assault on another man.

"No, your worship," replied the man in the dock.

"That's a good thing for your wife," said the magistrate.—The Green Bag.

Avoiding Trouble With the Tailor.

Dashaway—"Now, if I order any clothes from you I want to be sure beforehand that you won't dun me. I want it understood. Can you suggest any way to avoid this."

Tailor—"Well, you might pay me a deposit now, and the rest when the clothes are delivered."—Detroit Free Press.

At His Word.

Customer—"You sell cracked eggs at half price do you not?"

Clerk—"Yes'm; we always make a fifty per cent. reduction on cracked goods. Anything else to-day?"

Customer—"Yes, you may give me a dollar's worth of cracked wheat. Here's fifty cents."—Columbus (Ohio) State Journal.

Another Sherlock Holmes.

"It was a clever job," said the chief. "How did you spot him through this woman's disguise?"

"I happened to see him sit down," replied the detective, "and noticed he gave his rainy-day skirt a little twitch with both hands, as if to keep it from bagging at the knees. Then I nabbed him."—Chicago Tribune.

Reconciled to the Inevitable.

"An operation for appendicitis," the surgeon assured the sufferer, "is rather a serious thing, of course, but it is necessarily an alarming one, and it will demonstrate, moreover, just how much fortitude you have."

"Yes," replied the patient. "I suppose it will show just what's in me. Go ahead."—Chicago Tribune.

A Regular Colored Supplement.

"Your narrative is too highly colored," remarked the editor, returning the bulky manuscript.

"In what way?" inquired the disappointed author.

"Why," replied the editor, "in the very first chapter you make the old man turn purple with rage, the villain turn green with envy, the hero turn white with anger, the heroine turn red with blushes, and the coachman turn blue with cold."

COOKING A HUSBAND.

A Few Simple Rules for Making Them Tender and Digestible.

In selecting your husband you should not be guided by the silvery appearance as in buying mackerel, or by the golden tint, as if you wanted salmon. Be sure to select him yourself, as tastes differ. Don't go shopping for him, as the best are always brought to your door. When bought, tie him in the saucepan with a strong cord called Comfort—as the kind called Duty is apt to be weak. Husbands sometimes fly out of the saucepan and become burned and rusty on the edges, since, like lobsters and oysters, you have to cook them alive. Make a clear, strong, steady fire out of Love, Neatness and Cheerfulness. Set him as near this as seems to agree with him. If he sputters and fizzles don't be anxious. Some husbands do this until they are quite done. Add a little sugar in the form of Kisses, but no vinegar or pepper. A little spice improves husbands, but it must be used with judgment. Don't stick any sharp instrument into him to see if he is becoming tender. Stir him gently, watching the while lest he should lie too close to the saucepan and so become tasteless. You cannot fail to know when he is done. If thus treated you will find him very digestible, agreeing nicely with you and the children.

HOME OF GEROME.

To most people Leon Gerome is better known as a painter than as a sculptor, but of late years he has achieved some triumphs in marble. His home is on the fashionable heights of Montmartre, Paris. The entrance to the three-story edifice is by a large hall and staircase, on the walls of which are numerous pieces of sculpture by Gerome himself, to say nothing of the bronzes and costly brie-a-brac he has accumulated.

The salon faces the landing on the staircase. The dining room is arranged with a gallery for musicians which gives access to the bedrooms on the floor above. It is upholstered in bright warm red.

The studio is on the third floor, and here for forty years Gerome has worked. An Abyssinian cat is the lord of this studio, and it is well to be on good terms with him, for he resents intrusion. All sorts of studies are scattered about, and the artist's love for ancient armor is betrayed by his fine collection. The most treasured of his trophies are two helmets in beaten silver with Damascus work of fine gold tracery.

When ladies go to buy a dress in Japan they tell the shopkeeper their age, and if they are married or not, because there are special designs for the single and double relations of life, as well as for ages.

Half a Bottle Cured Me

"About thirty years ago I bought a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor to stop my hair from falling out. One-half a bottle cured me. A few days ago my hair began to fall out again. I went to the medicine shelf and found the old bottle of Hair Vigor just as good as when I bought it."—J. C. Baxter, Braidwood, Ill., Sept. 27, 1899.

Keeps Thirty Years

Ayer's Hair Vigor is certainly the most economical preparation of its kind on the market. A little of it goes a long way. And then, what you don't need now you can use some other time just as well.

It doesn't take much of it to stop falling of the hair, restore color to gray hair, cure dandruff, and keep the hair soft and glossy. There's a great deal of good and an immense amount of satisfaction in every bottle of it.

$1.00 a bottle. All druggists.

MILLIONS OF WOMEN USE CUTICURA SOAP exclusively for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, for cleansing the scalp of crusts, scales, and dandruff, and the stopping of falling hair, for softening, whitening, and healing red, rough, and sore hands, in the form of baths for annoying irritations, inflammations, and chafings, or too free or offensive perspiration, in the form of washes, for ulcerative weaknesses, and for many sanative antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves to women, and especially mothers, and for all the purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery. No amount of persuasion can induce those who have once used it to use any other, especially for preserving and purifying the skin, scalp, and hair of infants and children. CUTICURA SOAP combines delicate emollient properties derived from CUTICURA, the great skin cure, with the purest of cleansing ingredients and the most refreshing of flower odors. No other medicated or toilet soap ever compounded is to be compared with it for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, scalp, hair, and hands. No other foreign or domestic toilet soap, however expensive, is to be compared with it for all the purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery. Thus it combines in ONE SOAP at ONE PRICE, viz., TWENTY-FIVE CENTS, the BEST skin and complexion soap, the BEST toilet and BEST baby soap in the world.

COMPLETE EXTERNAL AND INTERNAL TREATMENT FOR EVERY HUMOR $1.25, consisting of CUTICURA SOAP (25c.), to cleanse the skin of crusts and scales and soften the thickened cuticle, CUTICURA OINTMENT (50c.), to instantly allay itching, inflammation, irritation, and soothe and heal, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT (50c.), to cool and cleanse the blood. A SINGLE SET is often sufficient to cure the most torturing, disfiguring, itching, scaly, crusted, scrofulous, and hereditary humors of the skin, scalp, and blood, with loss of hair, when all other remedies fail. Sold throughout the world. POTTER DRUG AND CHEM. CORP., Sole Props., Boston. "How to Cure Skin, Scalp, and Blood Diseases," 64 pages, 50 illustrations, and 100 testimonials, mailed free.

THE AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS

THE "NECESSARY" MAGAZINE

The best-informed men and women in the world use the AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS to keep well informed, and call it the "necessary" and "indispensable" magazine. In the busy rush of to-day ambitious men and women must know about the important questions of the month, and not only this, they want to know about them at the right time. When the whole country is puzzled over the gigantic combination of trusts, a well-informed article is printed in the AMERICAN MONTHLY, giving the facts, and its editor discusses the theory; when the Dreyfus affair is in everyone's mouth, the best story of Dreyfus and the great case comes out in this magazine.

Every month, in "The Progress of the World," Dr. Albert Shaw gives a comprehensive picture of the world's history during the previous thirty days. In the departments, the valuable articles and books that have been published during the past month are reviewed and quoted from, so that the readers of the AMERICAN MONTHLY can get the gist of them. In every issue nearly a hundred pictures are printed, including the portraits of the men and women who are making the history of the month.

To be thoroughly well informed helps any man or woman in his or her work. A subscription to the AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS represents an investment for the best kind of profit, as well as entertainment. One subscriber has just written: "Count me a life subscriber, and when you send me a number beyond the limit of my subscription and secure no renewal from me, consider it a notice of my death."

Price 25 cents per number, $2.50 a year.

A sample copy will be sent on receipt of ten cents in stamps.

THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS COMPANY

New York

$3,000 CASH PRIZE CONTEST.

The Atlanta Constitution's Great Offer of 1900—The Cotton Receipts at New Orleans from September to April—Full Statistics Given for Your Guidance—An Unparalelled Offer for Our Readers.

The Atlanta Constitution offers a $2,000 cash prize contest for January, February and March, 1900, as follows:

To the person sending a yearly subscription to The Weekly Constitution, together with the correct estimate on the cotton receipts at New Orleans during the first seven months of the present cotton year (September 1, 1899, to April 1, 1900)—

$1,500 if estimate is received during January.

$1,000 if estimate is received during February.

$500 if estimate is received during March.

The above are for the exact estimates; there are besides these six prizes, ranging along, $500, $400, $250, $150, $125 and $75, amounting to $1,500, that will be paid out sure for the six nearest estimates to the New Orleans cotton receipts at any time during the three months of the contest. But you hit it exactly during January and secure the full $1,500 prize check.

The Constitution believes somebody will hit the figures exactly and expects to pay out the full amount of the prizes offered—$3,000 in all. In a Constitution contest upon the same subject in 1896 Mr. R. T. Poole, of Capels Mills, N. C., hit the exact figures and received a check for $1,000 as his prize. Mr. Poole did not try to swell himself up at once, but very generously paid off a mortgage on his father's home place and with the balance he very wisely educated himself at Trinity college, Durham, N. C. He is now doing well in business in North Carolina and lives still near his old home. It is needless to say he is a warm friend of The Constitution.

As a guide in making estimates upon the New Orleans port receipts, The Constitution gives the following figures, compiled from statistics of the past four years:

SEASON.	N. O. rects. Sep. 1- Mch. 1.	N. O. rects. whole year.	Total U. S. crop for Sept.-Aug. 31. season.
1895-96	1,620,674	1,812,167	7,157,316
1896-97	1,936,587	2,109,470	8,757,064
1897-98	2,439,315	2,572,165	11,199,091
1898-99	1,854,153	2,130,296	11,274,810

The Constitution's market page will give each week the port receipts for the cotton season from which you can always see the New Orleans port receipts from September 1, 1899, up through the Friday immediately preceding the publication. This will keep you posted to within two or three days of the time you send in your estimate.

It is believed that some of the Texas crop, that as a rule is sent in bulk to New Orleans, will be diverted this year to other points because of the quarantine regulations against New Orleans. The effort of Louisiana to have quarantine raised by injunction from United States courts will not have very soothing effect upon the direction of cotton shipments to New Orleans. This is mentioned simply as a pointer in making an estimate; how much to allow, if anything, for this cause must be left to each man's judgment.

The $2,000 contest is an express contract in which The Constitution will stand in every particular. Yet it is in its nature simply an advertisement by which The Constitution, combined with this paper may be made better known in this community. Send us the subscription to The Constitution and our paper at the advertised price of the two and with it your estimate on the New Orleans port receipts, and we will forward all together for you. On April 1st we trust a $1,500 check will reach some of our subscribers to help make times even more easy round about us.

The Weekly Constitution for 1900 will be better than ever before. Its special news features are unsurpassed. The Boer-British war, the Philippine and Cuban operations, the busy session of the most important congress that has ever assembled, the beginning of the issues of the presidential campaign of this year and the debates and speeches during its progress; the final result of the November elections, the development of the south's great industrial movements; diversified farm and village industries and thousands of other important things will be found fully and freely discussed in The Weekly Constitution for the year. The Farm and Farmers' page, the Woman's Kingdom, the Southern Pulpit, the Children's Page and other interesting departments will be ably conducted and will be especially adapted to those addressed. The ringing editorials of The Constitution speaking right out in meeting exactly what it means in the advocacy of true democratic doctrine and in behalf of the great interests of the masses of our plain people, and protecting them from the grasping greed of those who would wring their earnings from their helpless hands, are alone worth the subscription price of the paper over and again.

The Constitution has long stood as the champion of the people and has sent its shafts deep into the errors and evils that threaten and beset the masses. Its complete expose of the methods of Neill, of New Orleans, and the shattering of the influence of this prophet of big cotton crops, and apostle of ruinously low prices, and high relief of robbery, who has cost the southern farmers hundreds of millions of dollars, ought to win for The Constitution the lasting gratitude of the whole south. The advice to farmers to organize against the trust that would increase the price of fertilizers and fertilizer materials for the home compost heap, and taking up the cudgel in behalf of the farmers against the combination that would put a fresh burden upon them, is sound and valid and ought to be heeded. The bulwark of the people's rights and the best method of defense will often be found in a great paper, ably and fearlessly edited, upon which the people may rely, not only for news of the ordinary events of government, army and political life, but also for an alert foresight of the trend of future events that may operate to one lasting damage. The downfall of Neill; the breaking down of the fertilizer trust; the unbuilding of all southern interests, and the enlightenment of every village, farm and mountain home are among The Constitution's many high aims and great ideas for 1900. That these interests may all be well served, and with the same unswerving fidelity to the people that The Constitution has always shown, goes without saying.

The management of The Constitution, with Mr. Clark Howell as editor-in-chief, and his well disciplined corps of staff writers, brilliant contributors and special correspondents, still under the faithful leadership of Colonel William A. Hemphill as business manager, will remain the same for the new year. The Constitution's long and honorable business course, keeping faith with the people in all its contracts, contests and engagements, as well as in its consistent and conspicuous editorial fairness, places it among those reliable institutions of our country on which the people may depend.

With such a great general newspaper, covering the world news and world and national questions, you will, of course, need the best and livest local paper, giving current local topics and the latest and best news and freshest comments upon events of local interest. We trust this combination secured with The Constitution will be found best suited to all our readers. The price is merely nominal when the service is even half considered, including your estimate in The Constitution's $3,000 cash contest. To get the full benefit of the high prize send in your subscription now so The Constitution may receive it during January and record it to your credit. Make your figures very plain, unmistakably plain.

CHANGE of LIFE

The Time Comes

to every elderly woman when an important functional change takes place. This is called "The Change of Life." The entire system undergoes a change. Dreadful diseases such as cancer and consumption are often contracted at this time.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

strengthens and purifies the entire system, and brings the sufferer safely over these pitfalls. Its effects have been wonderful. It is good for all menstrual troubles, but is especially recommended at this time. Ask your druggist for the famous Wine of Cardui. $1.00 a bottle.

For advice in cases requiring special directions, address the "Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

THOMAS J. COOPER, Tupelo, Miss., says:—"My sister suffered from irregular and painful menstruation and doctors could not relieve her. Wine of Cardui entirely cured her, and also helped my mother through the Change of Life."

had lungs and I tried Mayo's Tester, and I have lungs yet. This is not any patent medicine but, Mr. Mayo is a gentleman of much agricultural information, and has been located in Clanton for several months, engaged in the profitable occupation of buying cotton. When he was not buying cotton he employed his inventive faculties, and the result is "Mayo's Tester"—patent may have applied for, I can't vouch for it. Anyhow, the "Tester" has been on exhibition down at the depot the last week or so, and I believe mighty near everyone in town has tested it, and you can do the same. All the doctors have expended their wind testing it—no, not that, they have kept wind to on their suffering patients all events have tried the "Tester" and, myself, the bottle out. That is my recommendation either for the "Tester." You can see at the depot and try it. I have half a notion to write a novel and call it "The Tried or the Trying Tester." I will wait and see.

For a set of Teeth. Owner can hear them by applying to Dr. Wisehart, Clanton, Ala." That's about the querest adv. seen in some time. But it is explicit enough. What sort of teeth is it? Has Uncle Joe had a set in the Phillipines, has the British Lion lost one in the Transvaal? Is it the jaw of some poor old man, or the ivories of some sweet young thing? Has some greedy man lost his grip trying to bite an extra big chew off his friend's plug, or has some beautiful damsel pulled out with her chewing gum. I'm in a maze and will have to interview Dr. Wisehart and he will give me more particulars.

Some fellow once a boy who imagined himself to be a great artist, no matter how or other his friends failed to recognize what the pictures were intended to represent. One day he drew a picture, and in order there should be no doubt about it he wrote underneath the picture "This is Thor." Mr. Lipic's up the Age-Herald office looked at the "cartoon" I am told, and then, thinking of that boy, and then of the cartoon to see how it was done so that I can understand what was intended to be conveyed, sometimes. I can't even make out what it meant. Can you? I hope the cartoonist will continue to draw pictures and thus help the long-suffering public. Great Scott, Herald and its cartoons.

The surest signs that spring is coming is the fitting up of the trains. I was up in Atlanta a few days ago, and I said to myself, "This space reserved for soda fountain in the future." Oh! said I, that is because I know somebody than that down in the Stanfield drug store and is now under the management of A. J. Johnson purposes running a drug store in every town and Dr. D. A. Campbell to superintend the department himself

CALL FOR POPULIST EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

The Executive Committee of the People's Party of Chilton county is hereby called to meet at Clanton on Saturday, February 10, 1900, at 10 a.m.

W. H. CONWAY, Chairman.

The Farmer's Insurance Association.

The Farmer's Insurance Association for Chilton was organized last Saturday at Littlejohn's schoolhouse with $84,000 of insured property. There was a good attendance of members, and much interest manifested in the business. Several members addressed the Association, in addition to the lecture of Mr. Newton, general agent. S. S. Scott, B. T. Calloway and W. C. Edler have been appointed local agents for the Chilton Association. These gentlemen will soon run the amount to $200,000 in this county. Several churches and school-houses have been insured.

The Evils of a Treasury Surplus

The only certain escape from the embarrassment resulting from the excess of Treasury receipts is the reduction of taxation. Whether this policy will be adopted by Congress depends upon the facility with which the surplus increases during the next few months. The American system differs in several respects from that of European governments. The system of taxation depends very much upon business conditions. There is no adjustable tax, like the English income tax, of the which the rate can be changed from year to year, without disturbance to business, to meet the indications of an excess or deficiency in the public revenues. Every European government, moreover, conducts its fiscal operations through the principal bank of the country rather than by what is called in this country "the independent treasury system." A surplus in a European treasury simply means that the amount to the credit of the treasury in the leading bank of issue is larger than usual. The money, however, remains at the disposal of the bank for loans and is not withdrawn from the use of the money market.—Review of Reviews.

William Fletcher Scroggins died of typhoid fever January 26, 1900, at the home of his uncle, W. F. Jones, after grappling with the disease thirty-four days.

A loving, dutiful son to his parents, nineteen years old, robust, hale and healthy, the beau ideal of the family which he leaves, an afflicted mother and father, several brothers and sisters, besides a host of friends mourn his loss.

After all was done that tender hands could do his remains were left in the cemetery at Chestnut Creek church, and we trust his spirit is resting at the beautiful gate waiting and watching for loved ones who are to follow on. Rest, sweet boy, till we come.

There is no better medicine for the babies than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Its pleasant taste and prompt and effectual cures make it a favorite with mothers and small children. It quickly cures their coughs and colds, preventing pneumonia or other serious consequences. It also cures croup, and has been used in tens of thousands of cases without a single failure so far as we have been able to learn. It not only cures croup, but when given as soon as the croup cough appears, will prevent the attack. In cases of whooping cough it liquefies the tough mucus, making it easier to expectorate, and lessens the severity and frequency of the paroxysms of coughing, thus depriving that disease of all dangerous consequences. Republican Committee Meets.

The Republican executive committee of Chilton county met at Clanton last Saturday and decided to hold a county convention on the 24th inst. at Lomax. The following resolutions were adopted:

"Resolved, that we have a high regard for Hon. William Vaughan, chairman of the Republican State committee, but we deprecate the fact that he has ignored party law by insisting on being re elected Chairman of the State committee for the third term, which is in direct violation of a resolution unanimously adopted by him and his friends at the Republican State convention in 1896, for the purpose of preventing a condition of affairs which then existed and which is now being forced to exist in direct violation of party law by Mr. Vaughan and his friends.

"Resolved, that we condem the action of Chairman Vaughan in securing the appointment of Democrats and Populists to numerous Federal positions in this State to the detriment of Alabama Republicans, who have been loyal to the party in this State for years.

"Resolved, that we heartily endorse the candidacy of Hon. Julian H. Bingham for the Chairmanship of the Republican State Committee, and we pledge him our earnest support."

REACHED AN AGREEMENT.

England and America Settle Nicaraguan Canal Question.

The United States and Great Britain, have reached an amicable agreement respecting the operations of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty as affecting the right of construction and control by the United States of the proposed Nicaragua canal. Great Britain agrees to a modification of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty by which she practically releases any claims respecting a legal control of the Nicaragua canal after it shall have been constructed.

The result, therefore, is to eliminate that feature of the treaty bearing on the subject of dual control and to leave the United States free to construct and thereafter control this great interoceanic waterway.

The campaigning will be renewed immediately in the western and northwestern states. As soon as Mr. Bryan ends his present eastern trip in New Jersey next week, he will start for Texas to rejoin his wife and children. He will rest for a week or two and will be ready for the national battle.

WAVES GIVE UP THE DEAD.

Four More Bodies Washed Ashore From Wrecked Schooner.

The four remaining bodies of the schooner McInnis, which was wrecked about a week ago, sailing from Galveston, were washed ashore on the Mexican coast Sunday, making six in all.

Three are identified as Andrew Anderson, captain, Galveston; Joe LaRoche, sailor, of Isable, and Paul D. Wreford, commission merchant of Brownsville, Tex.

The ship and cargo were valued at $8,000, belonged to Brownsville merchants and are a total loss.

Judge Key Dead.

Judge D. M. Key died in Chattanooga Saturday, aged 76. Judge Key was born in Green county, Tennessee, and was one of the most distinguished men in the south. He was a colonel in the confederate army. He was in 1870 elected chancery judge of the Third district of Tennessee and held that position until 1875, when he was appointed United States senator to fill the unexpired term of Andrew Johnston. At one time he was postmaster-general, and has filled various important offices. He was always a pronounced democrat.

Double Murder in Louisiana.

A double murder was committed on the farm of Mr. Bush, one mile below Grosse Tete Station, Louisiana. A colored man named Levy Jones and one of his sons, while at supper, were shot by some party or parties unknown, and died shortly afterwards. Jones was a peaceable colored man, and no reason is known for the shooting.

Engineer Killed.

At Paragould Ark., the Cotton Belt freight engine collided with the Iron Mountain passenger engine. The freight engine was totally disabled, and Engineer Grant, who went down in the debris, met a horrible death.

STATE BREVITIES.

A splendid office building, to cost not less than $25,000, will be erected by the Louisville & Nashville railroad company, on the lot directly in front of the present freight office, fronting Twentieth street, in Birmingham.

While cleaning out a well at the Pepper Hotel at Athens the diggers found at the bottom a box filled with old shells and cannon balls and a fine sword badly rusted. It is supposed the things were thrown in when Forest took the town from Union forces during the civil war.

A New Mexico judge has decided there is no libel law in that territory, and recently dismissed a number of cases against editors. Pistols are good enough law in that section it seems.

Events of Interest Briefly Summarized for Hasty Readers.

HORRIBLE TRAGEDY IN MADISON COUNTY

Cotton Sells at Eight Cents—Town of Collinsville Destroyed—Col. Roquemore Paralyzed—Young Lady Burned to Death—Brevities.

Daniel Paterick, a leading citizen, residing near Hazelgreen, Madison county, was killed by Bob Downing, near the home of the latter. The homicide was the result of a long standing family fued, which had its origin in a fight several years ago, when one of the Paterick family was killed. Subsequently a Downing was killed, and bad blood has existed ever since.

Downing and Paterick met on the highway. Both were armed. A few words passed regarding the old trouble. Paterick became enraged, and placing his hand in an inside coat pocket, said: "We'll just settle this matter right here. The next man that comes along will find one of us dead."

Downing leveled his shotgun at Paterick and sent a charge of buckshot near the region of his heart.

At last accounts Downing had not been arrested. Both parties are prominent and are well known in Northern Alabama.

Cotton Sells at Eight Cents.

The fond expectation of the cotton growers around Montgomery has been attained, for cotton is selling there at 8 cents. Mr. W. I. Thompson sold to Johnstone & Hammond, local buyers, 100 bales of the staple for 8 cents per pound. Other smaller sales are reported at the same price.

It is feared, however, that there is danger that the satisfactory price the staple is bringing will encourage the farmers to plant too much cotton. The excessive sale of fertilizers appears to confirm this fear. Up to this date last year 276,210 fertilizer tags had been sold, the amount received from them having been $18,810.50. This year the sales have aggregated 617,100 tags, or $32,855 in money. This increase is interpreted to mean that the farmers are planing for a $15,000,000 bale crop, and consequently an exceedingly low price.

Horrible Death of a Lady.

A special from Riverside tells of a horrible death which befell a prominent young lady of that place a few days ago. Miss Sallie Scisson, aged 25, had been left at home alone while her father and brothers had gone away on business and her sister had gone to school. The mother had spent the night with a neighbor and upon returning home had found the charred corpse of her daughter lying upon the floor. The clothing had been entirely consumed, one leg had been burned off and the body frightfully roasted. The floor was on fire where the accident had occurred. Miss Scisson was subject to fainting spells.

Town of Collinsville Destroyed.

Fire destroyed almost the entire town of Collinsville a few days ago, only three business houses being left standing. Over eighteen buildings were destroyed, and the losses will reach $20,000. Among the buildings destroyed were the postoffice, leading hotel, eight storehouses, Knights of Pythias hall and two livery stables. The insurance will be about one-half of the losses.

Colonel Roquemore Paralyzed.

Col. John D. Roquemore, one of the ablest lawyers in Alabama and a prominent aspirant for senatorial honors, is in a serious condition. From the family residence in Montgomery it was announced Friday that Colonel Roquemore had, during the night, suffered a stroke of paralysis in the right side, followed by apoplexy.

Hunter Found Not Guilty.

At Selma the jury in the case of the state vs. Mr. James Hunter for the killing of a negro named Jake Stover about a year ago, returned a verdict of not guilty.

Accidental Killing.

At Hartselle, Ben Newbourne was run over and killed by a wagon loaded with cross-ties. Newbourne leaves a wife and several children. The wagon ran across his breast, and he died almost instantly.

Largest Pipe Plant in the South.

The Central Foundry Company will erect in Gadsden the largest pipe plant in the south. It will cover six acres, employing 600 men and will cost $175,000.

SATURDAY'S PRIMARIES.

Johnston Carries Russell, While Morgan is Victorious in Winston.

Returns from the Democratic primary in Russell county show that outside of the town of Girard Senator Morgan has a majority of eighty-four. Governor Johnston's supporters claim 100 majority in Girard, which would give Johnston the county by sixteen majority. Winston county went for Morgan. It is a small mountain county which elects a republican to the legislature more often than a democrat. Russell county has two members of the house and Winston one. Conceding Russell to Johnston he is assured to date of thirteen members of the legislature and also claims three uninstructed members from Morgan and Macon counties. With Winston in Morgan's column he has twenty democratic legislators and one populist.

The majority of the precincts in Winston county are remote from any railroad or telegraph station and all have not been heard from, but sufficient returns are in to make the county safe for Senator Morgan by an overwhelming majority. It was estimated by the Morgan campaign committee that the senator had carried Winston by at least five to one over Governor Johnston.

Complete returns from Russell county give Johnston a majority in the county of 61. The count in Girard beat was finished early Sunday morning and the vote resulted: Johnston, 869; Morgan, 224.

There is great dissatisfaction in the county over the outrageous methods pursued at the Girard beat, and it is said that there will be three contests before the executive committee at Seale as a result of it.

Martin will contest the election of Vann for assessor, H. L. Dudley contests the vote of Ware for treasurer and Ragland contests the vote of Bellamy for sheriff.

Republican Conventions.

Republican county conventions were held Saturday in Etowah, Chambers, Fayette and Greene counties. Etowah divided its delegation of four to the state convention equally between Bingham and Vaughan; the rival candidates for state chairmanship. Chambers, with six delegates, is claimed by both sides. Greene sends two uninstructed delegates, but they are claimed by Vaughan. Fayette has not been heard from. Of twenty-six delegates so far Bingham claims twenty-two. Vaughan supporters dispute this, saying Vaughan has at least thirteen. The race seems close.

Remarkably Prosperous.

An officer of the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railway company, in speaking of the condition of the company, said: "Our business is nothing short of remarkable. We have already on our books iron orders enough to show a clear surplus of $8,000,000 for 1900, provided we did not take another single order. Our profits, that is, our net surplus for 1899, will show between $1,800,000 and $1,400,000, and we estimate conservatively more, and for all of 1900 the figures will be between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000, which will be 20 per cent. on our common stock.

Negro Blown 400 Feet In the Air.

The horrible death of a negro, Dan Mimms, occurred near Brookside a few days ago. It is said the body of the negro was blown 400 feet in the air by the explosion of twenty-six sticks of dynamite beneath him. The body fell near where it ascended and was a horribly crushed mass of humanity. His clothing was tatters, and there was probably not a bone in the body which was not broken.

Roberts Arrested.

Brigham H. Roberts arrived at St. Lake, Utah, Tuesday, and was driven from the depot to the office of his attorney, J. M. Moyle. While in the office he was arrested for unlawful cohabitation with Dr. Maggie Skipp. He was released on his own recognizance to appear for a preliminary hearing.

Big Fire in Houston.

The wholesale grocery house of Thedore Keller, of Houston, Tex., burned Sunday. Loss on stock, $100,000; insurance, $40,000; loss on building, $25,000; insurance, $15,000.

Prisoners Escape.

Three prisoners effected their escape from the county jail in Huntsville by making a hole through a sand stone wall. The men were all white. Their names are Lee Chandler, charged with grand larceny; John McMunn, burglary; Jake Blevins, grand larceny.

Will Johnson, a miner at New Pound, near Birmingham, was killed by falling rock Saturday afternoon.

WILLIAM GOEBEL IS DEAD

Succumbed to the Assassin's Bullet Saturday Evening.

BECKHAM TAKES OATH AS SUCCESSOR

Taylor Releases Alonzo Walker, and Trouble is Temporarily Averted. Democrats Select Louisville as Seat of Government.

The bullet fired by an unknown assassin last Tuesday morning ended the life of Governor Goebel at 6:40 Saturday evening. The only persons present at the deathbed were Governor Goebel's sister, Mrs. Braunacker, and his brother, Arthur Goebel, of Cincinnati, who have been in constant attendance at Governor Goebel's bedside, and Dr. McCormack.

Justus Goebel, another brother, who has been hurrying from Arizona as fast as steam could carry him, in a vain hope of reaching his dying brother in time for some token of recognition, arrived forty minutes too late. Oxygen was frequently administered the dying man during the afternoon in an effort to keep him alive at least until his brother arrived, but in vain. By the cruel irony of fate, the train on which Justus Goebel was traveling to Frankfort was delayed several hours from various causes, and when Mr. Goebel finally reached Frankfort it was only to learn that his brother was dead.

Among bitter partisans of both parties deep grief is manifested, and already a movement has been started to erect a fitting monument for Governor Goebel's memory on the spot in the state house grounds where he was shot.

Beckham Takes Oath of Office.

Exactly one hour after the death of Mr. Goebel Acting Governor J. C. W. Beckham was sworn in as governor of the state, the oath being administered by S. J. Shackelford, clerk of the court of appeals.

J. C. W. Beckham, who was sworn in as democratic governor of Kentucky Saturday, is a young man, having been born August 5, 1869, at Bardstown, Ky. He was elected a member of the Kentucky house of representatives in 1893. He was re-elected in 1897 and made the speaker of the house in 1898. In 1899 he was nominated for lieutenant-governor on the same ticket with Wm. Goebel at the Louisville convention. In person Governor Beckham is of slight physique and of a somewhat boyish appearance. He is gifted with exceedingly pleasant manner and is very popular personally with all who know him.

Armed Conflict Avoided.

Armed conflict between the civil authorities of Franklin county and the national guard of the state of Kentucky has been averted, and unless new causes should come to the front there is small likelihood that the political situation will again become as threatening as it has been during the last thirty-six hours.

Governor Taylor Sunday morning ordered the release of Alonzo Walker for the possession of whom Judge Moore had declared that Sheriff Suter would swear in a posse and take possession of the capitol grounds, if such an extreme was necessary. While not recognizing in his action the existence of the writ of habeas corpus which had been sworn out in behalf of Walker, Governor Taylor by releasing the man removed the most threatening sign of trouble.

Louisville is the Democratic Seat.

Louisville is to be the seat temporarily at least of the democratic state government. Governor Beckham and several of his chief advisers are in the city. It is proposed to make Louisville the headquarters of the executive and legislative branches of this state government as long as the presence of troops keeps them from Frankfort, or until the present conflict of authority in the state is settled.

Castleman Appointed.

Gov. Beckham, of Kentucky, has appointed General John B. Castleman, of Louisville, adjutant general of the state.

Transports With Dead.

A cable from Manila received from the quartermaster's department states that the Hancock sailed for San Francisco, January 19, with the bodies of 402 dead soldiers. The Indiana is expected in immediately with 200 bodies, and the Ohio, with 188, arrived at San Francisco Saturday.

THE PHILIPPINE REPORT

Plan of Government is Recommended For the Islands.

NO WITHDRAWAL IS POSSIBLE.

The Province Should Be Turned Into Counties and a Large Measure of Home Rule Given the Towns—Men of Integrity and Ability Needed to Teach the Natives Self-Rule.

WASHINGTON, D. C. (Special).—The President has submitted to Congress the first volume of the report of the Philippine Commission. It is a volume of 26[illegible] including the appendix, and is signed by Professor Schurmann, Admiral Dewey, Professor Worcester, Colonel Denby and Professor Worcester.

The principal subject dealt with is the plan of government proposed by the commission, which includes a discussion of the Spanish Government existing prior to the war, the various reforms desired by the Filipinos, and the Constitutions proposed by them, together with the conclusions and plans suggested by the commission.

The report covers many other matters connected with the social administration of the islands, racial characteristics, education, secular and religious orders, the Chinese in the islands, the public health, currency, etc., as well as the condition and needs of the United States in the Philippines from a naval and maritime standpoint.

The second volume of the report, which will not be ready for several weeks, will contain a detailed description of the climate and natural resources of the islands.

The chief interest in the report naturally centres in the plan of Government proposed by the commission. The commission announces itself unqualifiedly in favor of a Government of the Philippines analogous (to that of a Territory of the United States with a Governor appointed by the President. They say it is desirable that the inhabitants of the archipelago should enjoy a large measure of home rule in local affairs, the towns to enjoy substantially the rights and privileges of towns in a Territory.

The provinces should be vested with substantially the functions of [illegible] Territory; this system [illegible] Luzon and the Visayan [illegible] and a beginning [illegible] coast of Mindanao. [illegible] calling for special [illegible] Sultan, the commission considered in this [illegible] the Filipinos could [illegible] town and county [illegible] own officers, with [illegible] no help from Americans [illegible] such as would be involved [illegible] local government at Manila [illegible] should be restricted by [illegible] property qualifications or by [illegible].

This system would necessitate the [illegible] body of American officials of great ability and integrity, and of patience and tact in dealing with other races, and on account the commission recommend that they should be paid high salaries. The commission say they could be called upon [illegible] visors or commissioners, and that one for every 250,000 natives would suffice.

It would be the duty of such commissioners to report upon their work to the central Government at Manila. Their principal function would be to advise town and county councils in discharge of their duties and to watch the collection of revenues and its expenditures. Our government in the Philippines, the commission says, must be adapted to the Filipino.

The commission, while not underrating the difficulty of governing the Philippines, is disposed to believe the task easier than is generally supposed. The Filipinos, they say, are of unusually promising material, possessing admirable personal and domestic virtues and being naturally peaceful, docile and deferential to constituted authority. The educated among them though constituting a minority, they say, are far more numerous than is generally supposed, and the commission bears strong testimony to their high range of intelligence and natural refinements.

These picked Filipinos would be of definite value to the United States in the work of establishing and maintaining a good government throughout the archipelago.

HOME AND CHILDREN BURNED

Four Little Ones Cremated at a Farmhouse Near Bourtonville.

KATONAH, N. Y. (Special).—The home of George Finans, at Bourtonville, about two miles west of this village, was destroyed by fire and four of Finans's children were burned to death. The children were Jessie, aged five years; Jennie, aged seven years; Warren, aged two years, and an infant aged nine months. The parents were away from the house at the time.

The supposition is that some of the children, while playing with fire, started the blaze, and that they were overcome by smoke before they realized their danger. Only a few charred bones were found in the ashes of the building. Mrs. Finans was badly burned by approaching the burning structure in her anxiety to save her children.

BRITISH ARMY FOR SOUTH AFRICA

It is the Largest Force England Ever Put in the Field.

LONDON (By Cable).—Mr. Wyndham's remarkable declaration in the House of Commons that Great Britain will have by the fortnight 180,000 regulars in South Africa, 7000 Canadians and Australians and 10,000 South African volunteers is receiving wonderment. Of this total 213,000 men with 452 guns, all are now there, with the exception of about 18,000 that are on the way.

Beyond comparison, this is the largest force Great Britain has ever put in the field. At the end of the Crimean war she had scraped together 80,000 men. Wellington had 25,000 men.

TREASURY SURPLUS.

Receipts Exceed Expenditures for Fiscal Year to Date About $30,000,000.

WASHINGTON, D. C. (Special).—The surplus of Government receipts over expenditures for the current fiscal year to date is now about $30,000,000. The total receipts were $443,012,164, the customs being $222,694,278, internal revenue $236,956 and miscellaneous sources $33,080,930. The expenditures for January alone were $39,189,097.

Cuban Census Figures.

The census supervisors have completed the preliminary enumeration of the population of Cuba and Puerto Rico. The census of Cuba [illegible] 1,572,840, about 60,000 less than in 1887, and Puerto Rico 807,878, a gain of 106,708 in 1897.

PEACE REIGNS IN KENTUCKY

Conference Between Democrats and Republicans Results in Agreement.

BECKHAM TO BE RECOGNIZED AS GOVERNOR

Order Convening Legislature at Louisville Revoked, and Troops Will Be Withdrawn From State Buildings—Taylor Will Arbitrate.

If the agreement drawn up Monday at the conference of representatives of the republican and democratic administrations, held at the Galt house in Louisville, is accepted and carried out the strife which has rent Kentucky from end to end for the past few weeks will be ended. The agreement was reached shortly after midnight and arrangements were immediately made to have it drawn up and signed. This was slow work, however, and it was after 2 o'clock when the conferees separated. The democrats gained nearly every point they contended for, and the republican representatives, Lieutenant Governor John Marshall, General Daniel Lindsay and Attorney David Fairleigh gave assurance that the agreement would be accepted by Governor Taylor.

The agreement provides in order to leave no question as to the title of William Goebel and J. C. W. Beckham to the offices of governor and lieutenant governor respectively, that the general assembly shall pass a resolution in joint assembly validating the acts on that subject since the legislature has been prevented by [illegible] its regular sessions [illegible] ture does this [illegible] the office of governor [illegible] to be questioned. The [illegible] grant immunity to Governor Taylor and his associates from prosecution for treason, usurpation of office or contempt of court for what has been done since the shooting of Goebel. These matters are to be held in abeyance until next Monday. The republican legislature is to be withdrawn from London immediately and no filibustering or other attempts of this character is to be resorted to by the republicans to obstruct the carrying out of this agreement in the legislature.

It was agreed that the board of election commissioners sitting as a contest board should be allowed to meet at Frankfort without molestation.

The republicans asked that some provision for a repeal or modification of the Goebel election law be included in the agreement. The democrats insisted that two leading republicans and two leading democrats should be left the matter of changes in the Goebel law.

The acceptance of this agreement by the principals is the only element of uncertainty now remaining in the situation.

Taylor Willing to Arbitrate.

Governor Taylor Monday night made a distinct and positive offer to submit the merits of his claim to the gubernatorial chair of Kentucky to three fair-minded men in the state, these three men to be selected by the United States supreme court. He will allow them to arbitrate the matter and will abide by their decision.

PEACE REIGNS IN KENTUCKY

Conference Between Democrats and Republicans Results in Agreement.

BECKHAM TO BE RECOGNIZED AS GOVERNOR

Order Convening Legislature at London Revoked, and Troops Will Be Withdrawn From State Buildings—Taylor Will Arbitrate.

If the agreement drawn up Monday at the conference of representatives of the republican and democratic administrations, held at the Galt house in Louisville, is accepted and carried out the strife which has rent Kentucky from end to end for the past few weeks will be ended. The agreement was reached shortly after midnight and arrangements were immediately made to have it drawn up and signed. This was slow work, however, and it was after 2 o'clock when the conferees separated. The democrats gained nearly every point they contended for, and the republican representatives, Lieutenant Governor John Marshall, General Daniel Lindsey and Attorney David Fairleigh, gave assurance that the agreement would be accepted by Governor Taylor.

The agreement provides in order to leave no question as to the title of William Goebel and J. C. W. Beckham to the offices of governor and lieutenant governor respectively, that the general assembly shall pass a resolution in joint assembly validating the acts on that rubject since the legislature has been prevented by its regular ses-

[illegible]ture does this [illegible] the office of gov- [illegible]o be questioned. The [illegible] grant immunity to Governor Taylor and his associates from prosecution for treason, usurpation of office or contempt of court for what has been done since the shooting of Goebel. These matters are to be held in abeyance until next Monday. The republican legislature is to be withdrawn from London immediately and no filibustering or other attempts of this character is to be resorted to by the republicans to obstruct the carrying out of this agreement in the legislature.

It was agreed that the board of election commissioners sitting as a contest board should be allowed to meet at Frankfort without molestation.

The republicans asked that some provision for a repeal or modification of the Goebel election law be included in the agreement. The democrats agreed that to two leading republicans and two leading democrats should be left the matter of changes in the Goebel law.

The acceptance of this agreement by the principals is the only element of uncertainty now remaining in the situation.

Taylor Willing to Arbitrate.

Governor Taylor Monday night made a distinct and positive offer to submit the merits of his claim to the gubernatorial chair of Kentucky to three fair-minded men in the world, these three men to be selected by the United States supreme court. He will allow them to arbitrate the case and will abide by their decision.

Should Go Above Eight Cents.

Lice, McCormick & Co., cotton men of New York, sent their constituents and newspapers the following telegram Saturday night, relative to the cotton price outlook: "Remnant of crop should command 8½ cents to-day."

Two Guards Shot.

Two state convict guards, W. W. Hanlan and A. J. Raiford, attempted to terrorize the town of Portland, Lonoke county, Arkansas. They resisted the local officers and both of them were shot and killed. Hanlan was from Columbus, Ga., and Raiford from White county, Arkansas.

A Cold-Blooded Murder.

A cold-blooded murder occurred at Mansfield, Tex. An assassin named James Jarman, a farmer, took a shotgun and shot him as he stood by the side of his wife. Two Winchester bullets passed through the man's head.

Texas Wants to Honor Goebel.

A movement was set on foot Monday in the Texas legislature to erect a monument the memory of Governor Goebel, of Kentucky. The money is to be raised by popular subscription, and legislators to head the list, and the fund is to be sent to Kentucky with the understanding that Texas is to have the credit of erecting the monument as a mark of respect and sympathy to the widowed and his relatives.

CHARGES OF FRAUD.

Committee Held Session and Decided to Have Full and Thorough Investigation.

Some of the electors of Russell county, enraged at the methods of certain candidates at the Girard box last Saturday, are determined to right the wrong, and the democratic committee, which met in Seale Monday decided to sift the alleged fraud to the very bottom.

The better element of both factions of the party say that the corruptible element of Girard beat shall not longer control in the politics of the county and the wholesale purchase of votes in that precinct last Saturday is scathingly denounced.

The committee held a very harmonious session and decided to have a full and thorough investigation of the charges made by four candidates for county offices that many illegal votes had been cast in the county last Saturday. The contestants are granted till February 15 to gather and submit their evidence, and the contestees are then given until the 21st to rebut it.

If it is found that sufficient illegal votes were cast at Girard box to change the result in any county office, then it is most probable that the whole vote of the precinct will be thrown out and a new primary election ordered in the county. This seemed to be the sentiment of the committee, and in case it is carried out the next primary will be held under the Pettus primary election law, so that the fraudulent voting may be reached by the laws of the state, and the instigators properly punished.

Supreme Court Settles Controversy.

The United States supreme court Monday decided the controversy between the United States and the Tennessee & Coosa Railroad company over the land grant of that company in the state of Alabama. The court held that the decision of the circuit court of appeals for the Fifth circuit had been correct in awarding the land to the railroad company, so far as the road had been completed, but it remanded the case for further investigation of the award of the grant on six miles of the proposed road which had not been completed within the time required.

The University's Enrollment.

The enrollment at the University of Alabama for the present session has now reached 245 net. This is the largest enrollment in any one session since the close of the war between the states. The highest enrollment since the surrender up to this time was 241, in 1885-86. There will be between fifty and sixty graduates turned out at the approaching commencement in June.

The foregoing refers to the attendance at the University proper. The figures from the medical department at Mobile will doubtless swell the total to 400 or over.

Morgan Wants to Honor Soldiers.

Senator Morgan has introduced a joint resolution in the United States senate appropriating $10,000 to erect a monument to the soldiers who fell in the battle at Talladega, November 9, 1818, under General Andrew Jackson, commanding the Tennessee volunteers.

Saw Mill Burned.

The main saw mill of the Indiana Lumber company, near Byrd Spring, south of Huntsville, was destroyed by fire. The loss is $8,000, partly covered by insurance. Fifty men are thrown out of employment. A. O. Hamilton, manager of the company, and others are positive that the mill was set on fire.

Kidnapped Child Restored to Parent.

After an absence of nearly eight years, little Dorsey Young, who was kidnapped by her father, Jack Young, from her grandfather's home in Birmingham, returned to Birmingham Monday, having been restored to her mother and relatives through a series of most exciting incidents. During this long separation this little girl has undergone many strange experiences. The child has endured hardships and vicissitudes which are almost startling in their nature.

Calhoun Populists.

The populist executive committee of Calhoun county held a meeting at Jacksonville Saturday and decided to make a fight for county offices. Beat meetings will be held on the 25th of March to select delegates to the county convention, which will be held in Jacksonville on the first day of April.

FOR THE HOUSEWIVES.

Novel Lamp Shade.

For a lamp shade a new idea calls for four Japanese fans. The handle is cut just outside of the bamboo, which passes through it, and the fans are fastened in an upright position to a square shade frame of wire, so as to have the edges touching. This over a bright light gives a very pretty effect if the fans have been well chosen—the palm leaf fans are excellent for this purpose when a strong, steady light is desired without glare. For a round shade it is likely that five or six fans may be needed.

Perfumed Beds.

While many a housewife has made it her habit to lay away the bed linen in lavendar scented closets, it was not until recently that the perfumed pad invaded the bed itself. This pad is a thin quilted affair, which has one layer of cotton plentifully besprinkled with the favorite scent—either rose, lavender or violet—in a sachet powder. From time to time the powder is renewed around the edges. The pad is laid between the mattress and the lower sheet.

Pillows are also opened at the corners and sachet powder shaken into the feathers. Those who are fond of the smell of pine woods gather pine needles during the summer and use them about the wide hems of the pads and pillows, making special little sacks for the needles and filling them in flat.

Keeping the Hands in Condition.

It is a difficult thing to keep the hands in good condition when the details of housework must be personally attended to. Sweeping and dusting have a bad effect, but that may be speedily offset by the wearing of a loose pair of kid gloves. Rubber gloves have never quite met the demands of the kitchen work. They are clumsy and very destructible. At times they are advocated for use in dishwashing. But a few trials will prove that the inevitable greasiness of the dishwasher will soften the gloves and necessitate a new pair. It would be much easier to hire a special dishwasher than to keep one's self in rubber gloves. There are no real preventives for stained hands; but the stains may be quickly removed. Lemon juice is the best agent, and is quite sure to accomplish its work if salt is rubbed on the hands afterward until all the stains disappear.

How to Take Care of Glass.

The care of glass is a small feature of housekeeping. Water jugs, decanters, vinegar and oil bottles often become discolored and need careful attention. If the inside of these articles could be reached as easily as the outside, soap and water would be sufficient to cleanse them. But, as this is impossible, a satisfactory result may be obtained by using a bent wire and a piece of soft linen. Fill the bottle half full of soapsuds, push the cloth with the wire into the bottle. Use the wire to carry the cloth about the inside of the bottle, rubbing it well until thoroughly cleansed. Rinse in clean water, wipe the outside and turn upside down to drain. If the stains cannot be removed by soap and water, a little muriatic acid will produce the desired effect. Fill the bottle with water, add about one tablespoonful of the acid and let it stand for a day. Shake the bottle well, turn out the acid and wash as previously directed. As the acid is very poisonous, every care should be taken lest someone might mistake it for drinkable liquor. Well-soaped soft paper, torn into bits and a few beans or shot put into a bottle half filled with suds and thoroughly shaken will often cleanse it. Table glass needs as much care as the foregoing articles. Many people do not realize this, but wash their goblets and dry them in the quickest and easiest way. A mere scratch on glass will cause it to crack very easily. A grain of sand in the bottom of the dishpan may be the cause of breaking a very valuable dish. Wooden or paper tubs are preferable for washing glassware. Soft clothes for washing and soft linen towels for wiping are indispensable. The water should be cool enough to bear the hand in comfortably. Make a strong suds. Wash well with the soft cloth, rinse, and when four or five glasses are washed they should be wiped before they become cold. With a little rubbing they may be highly polished. The fingers should not be allowed to touch them after they are polished, as the slightest touch will cause a blemish. Where the glass is cut or pressed, a silver brush should be used to cleanse all the grooves. Cut glass cannot always be thoroughly dried, so it should be allowed to stand on a soft cloth for [illegible] ten minutes before it is put away.

Recipes.

Biddle Pudding—Beat well together one pint of sweet milk; four large tablespoonfuls of flour, four eggs, one teaspoonful of baking powder; butter the bake dish, pour in the batter and bake 25 minutes. Send to the table immediately.

Tongue on Toast—Put the beaten yolk of an egg in milk or cream, a sufficient quantity of the latter to moisten the minced boiled tongue. Mix thoroughly. Let it simmer for five or six minutes. Meanwhile toast some bread, butter and place on a hot platter. Pour over the tongue, and garnish with thin slices of lemon.

Sanders—Chop some beef, chicken or mutton very fine; also chop one small onion and add it to the meat, season with salt and pepper, mix a little gravy with it. Butter some escalop dishes or shells; fill them two-thirds full with the mixture and spread over them mashed potato that has a little cream added to it. Brush over with melted butter; brown in the [illegible]

REV. DR. TALMAGE.

DISCOURSE BY THE EMINENT DIVINE LAST SUNDAY.

Subject: The Wonders of the Human Hand—Our Physical Structure Proof of Divine Wisdom—The Extended Hand the Symbol of Infinite Mercy.

[Copyright, Louis Klopsch, 1899.]

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The discourse of Dr. Talmage is a lesson of gratitude for that which none of us fully appreciate and shows the Divine meaning in our physical structure; text, I Corinthians xii., 21, "The eye cannot say unto the hand, I have no need of thee."

These words suggest that some time two very important parts of the human body got into controversy, and the eye became insolent and full of braggadocio and said: "I am an independent part of the human system. How far I can see, taking in spring morning and midnight aurora! Compared with myself what an insignificant thing is the human hand! I look down upon it. There it hangs, swinging at the side, a clump of muscles and nerves, and it cannot see an inch either way. It has no luster compared with that which I beam forth." "What senseless talk," responds the hand. "You, the eye, would have been put out long ago but for me. Without the food I have earned you would have been sightless and starved to death years ago. You cannot do without me any better than I can do without you." At this part of the disputation Paul of my text breaks in and ends the controversy by declaring, "The eye cannot say unto the hand, I have no need of thee."

Fourteen hundred and thirty-three times, as nearly as I can count by aid of concordance, does the Bible speak of the human hand. We are all familiar with the hand, but the man has yet to be born who can fully understand this wondrous instrument. Sir Charles Bell, the English surgeon, came home from the battlefield of Waterloo, where he had been amputating limbs and binding up gunshot fractures, and wrote a book entitled "The Hand: Its Mechanism and Vital Endowments as Evidencing Design." But it is so profound a book that only a scientist who is familiar with the technicalities of anatomy and physiology can understand it.

So we are all going on opening and shutting this divinely constructed instrument, the hand, ignorant of much of the revelation it was intended to make of the wisdom and goodness of God. You can see by their structure that shoulder and elbow and forearm are getting ready for the culmination in the hand. There is your wrist, with its eight bones and their ligaments in two rows. That wrist, with its bands of fibres and its hinged joint and turning on two axes—on the larger axis moving backward and forward and on the smaller axis turning nearly around. And there is the palm of your hand, with its five bones, each having a shaft and two terminations. There are the fingers of that hand, with fourteen bones, each finger with its curiously wrought tendons—five of the bones with ending roughened for the lodgment of the nails. There is the thumb, coming from opposite direction to meet the fingers, so that in conjunction they may clasp and hold fast that which you desire to take. There are the long nerves running from the armpit to the forty-six muscles, so that all are under mastery. The whole anatomy of your hand as complex, as intricate, as symmetrical, as useful, as God could make it. What can it not do? It can climb, it can lift, it can push, it can repel, it can menace, it can cluch, it can deny, it can affirm, it can extend, it can weave, it can bathe, it can smite, it can humble, it can exalt, it can soothe, it can throw, it can defy, it can wave, it can impreeate, it can pray.

A skeleton of the hand traced on blackboard or unrolled in diagram or hung in medical museum is mightily illustrative of the Divine wisdom and goodness, but how much more pleasing when in living action all its nerves and muscles and bones and tendons and tissues and phalanges display what God invented when He invented the human hand! Two specimens of it we carry at our side from the time when in infancy we open them to take a toy till in the last hour of a long life we extend them in bitter farewell.

With the Divine help I shall speak of the hand as the chief executive officer of the soul, whether lifted for defense, or extended for help, or busied in the arts, or offered in salutation, or wrung in despair, or spread abroad in benediction. God evidently intended all the lower order of living beings should have weapons of defense, and hence the elephant's tusk, and the horse's hoof, and the cow's horn, and the lion's tooth, and the insect's sting. Having given weapons of defense to the lower orders of living beings, of course He would not leave man, the highest order of living beings on earth, defenseless and at the mercy of brutal or ruffian attack. The right—yea, the duty—of self defense is so evident it needs no argumentation. The hand is the Divinely fashioned weapon of defense. We may seldom have to use it for such purposes, but the fact that we are equipped insures safety. The hand is a weapon sooner loaded than any gun, sooner drawn than any sword. Its fingers bent into the palm, it becomes a bolt of demolition.

What a defense it is against accident! There have been times in all our experiences when we have with the hand warded off something that would have extinguished our eyesight or broken the skull or crippled us for a lifetime. While the eye has discovered the approaching peril the hand has beaten it back or struck it down or disarmed it. Every day thank God for your right hand, and if you want to hear its eulogy ask him who in a swift revolution of machinery has had it crushed or at Chapultepec or South Mountain or San Juan Hill or Sedan lost it.

And in passing let me say that he who has the weapon of the hand uninjured and in full use needs no other. You cowards who walk with sword cane or carry a pistol in your hip pocket had better lay aside your deadly weapon. At the frontier or in barbarous lands or as an officer of the law about to make an arrest such arming may be necessary, but no citizen moving in these civilized regions needs such reinforcement. If you are afraid to go down these streets or along these country roads without dagger or firearms, better ask your grandmother to go with you armed with scissors and knitting needle. What cowards, if not what intended murderers, uselessly to carry weapons of death! In our two hands God gave us all the weapons we need to carry.

Again, the hand is the chief executive officer of the soul for affording help. Just see how that hand is constructed! How easily you can lower it to raise the fallen! How easily it is extended to feel the invalid's pulse, or gently wipe away the tear of orphanage, or contribute alms, or smooth the excited brow, or beckon into safety! Oh, the helping hands! There are hundreds of thousands of them, and the world wants at least 1,000,000,000 of them. Hands to bless others, hands to rescue others, hands to save others. What are all these schools and churches and asylums of mercy? Outstretched hands. What are all those hands distributing tracts and carrying medicines and trying to cure blind eyes and deaf ears and broken bones and disordered intellects and wayward sons? Helping hands. Let each one of us add to the number, if we have two, or if through casualty only one add that one. If these hands which we have so long kept thrust into pockets through indolence or folded in indifference or employed in writing wrong things or doing mean things or hearing up obstacles in the way of righteous progress might from this hour be consecrated to helping others out and up and on, they would be hands worth being raised on the resurrection morn and worth clapping in eternal gladness over a world redeemed.

The great artists of the ages—Raphael and Leonardo da Vinci and Quentin Matsys and Rembrandt and Albert Durer and Titian—have done their best in picturing the face of Christ, but none except Ary Scheffer seems to have put much stress upon the hand of Christ. Indeed, the mercy of that hand, the gentleness of that hand, is beyond all artistic portrayal. Some of His miracles He performed by word of mouth and without touching the subject before Him, but most of them He performed through the hand. Was the dead damsel to be raised to life? "He took her by the hand." Was the blind man to have optic nerve restored? "He took him by the hand." Was the demon to be exorcised from a suffering man? "He took him by the hand." The people saw this and besought Him to put His hand upon their afflicted ones.

His own hands free, see how the Lord sympathized with the man who had lost the use of his hand. It was a case of atrophy, a wasting away until the arm and hand had been reduced in size beyond any medical or surgical restoration. Moreover, it was his right hand, the most important of the two, for the left side in all its parts is weaker than the right side, and we involuntarily in any exigency put out the right hand because we know it is the best hand. So that poor man had lost more than half of his physical armament. It would not have been so bad if it had been the left hand. But Christ looked at that shriveled up right hand dangling uselessly at the man's side and then cried out with a voice that had omnipotence in it, "Stretch forth thy hand," and the record is, "He stretched it forth whole as the other." The blood rushed through the shrunken veins, and the shortened muscles lengthened, and the dead nerves thrilled, and the lifeless fingers tingled with resumed circulation, and the restored man held up in the presence of the skeptical Pharisees one of Jehovah's masterpieces, a perfect hand. No wonder that story is put three times in the Bible, so that if a sailor were cast away on a barren island or a soldier's New Testament got mutilated in battle and whole pages are destroyed the shipwrecked or wounded man in hospital would probably have at least one of those three radiant stories of what Christ thought of the human hand.

How often has the hand decided a destiny! Mary, Queen of Scots, was escaping from imprisonment at Lochlever in the dress of a laundress and had her face thickly veiled. When a boatman attempted to remove the veil, she put up her hand to defend it and so revealed the white and fair hand of a queen, and so the boatman took her back to captivity. Again and again it has been demonstrated that the hand hath a language as certainly as the mouth. Palmistry, or the science by which character and destiny are read in the lines of the hand, is yet crude and uncertain and unsatisfactory, but as astrology was the mother of astronomy and alchemy was the mother of chemistry it may be that palmistry will result in a science yet to be born.

Again, as the chief executive officer of the soul, behold the hand busy in the arts! What a comparatively dull place this world would be without pictures, without statuary, without music, without architecture! Have you ever realized what fifty seeming miracles are in the five minutes' fingering of piano or harp or flute? Who but the eternal God could make a hand capable of that swift sweep of the keys or that quick feeling of the pulses of a flute or the twirl of the fingers amid the strings of the harp? All the composers of music who dreamed out the oratorios and the cantatas of the ages would have had their work dropped flat and useless but for the translations of the hand. Under the deft fingers of the performer what cavalries gallop and what batteries boom and what birds carol and what tempests march and what oceans billow! The great architects of the earth might have thought out the Alhambras and the Parthenons and the St. Sophias and the Taj Mahals, but all those visions would have vanished had it not been for the hand on hammer, on plummet, on trowel, on wall, on arch, on pillar, on stairs, on dome.

In two discourses, one concerning the ear and the other concerning the eye, I spoke from the potent text in the Psalms, "He that planted the ear, shall He not hear?" and "He that formed the eye, shall He not see?" but what use in the eye and what use in the ear if the hand had not been strung with all its nerves and moved with all its muscles and reticulated with all its joints and strengthened with all its bones and contrived with all its ingenuities! The hand hath forwarded all the arts and tunneled the mountains through which the rail train thunders and launched all the shipping and fought all the battles and built all the temples and swung all the cables under the sea as well as lifted to midair the wire tracks on which whole trains of thought rush across the continents and built all the cities and hoisted the pyramids.

Do not eulogize the eye and ear at the expense of the hand, for the eye may be blotted out, as in the case of Milton, and yet his hand writes a "Paradise Lost" or a "Samson Agonistes;" as in the case of William H. Prescott, and yet his hand may write the enchanting "Conquest of Peru." Or the ear may be silenced forever, as in the case of Beethoven, and yet his hand may put into immortal cadences the "Ninth Symphony." Oh, the hand! The God fashioned hand! The triumphant hand! It is an open Bible of Divine revelation, and the five fingers are the Isaiah and the Ezekiel and the David and the Micah and the Paul of that almighty inspiration.

A pastor in his sermon told how a little child appreciated the value of his hand when he was told that on the morrow it must be amputated in order to save his life. Hearing that, he went to a quiet place and prayed that God would spare his hand. The surgeon, coming the next day to do his work, found the hand so much better that amputation was postponed, and the hand got well. The pastor, telling of this in a sermon, concluded by holding up his hand and saying, "That is the very hand that was spared in answer to prayer, and I hold it up, a monument of Divine mercy."

Again, the hand in the chief executive officer of the soul when wrung in agony. Tears of relief are sometimes denied to trouble. The eyelids at such time are as hot and parched and burning as the brow. At such time even the voice is suppressed, and there is no sob or outcry. Then the wringing of the hand tells the story. At the close of a life wasted in sin sometimes comes that expression of the twisted fingers—the memory of years that will never return, of opportunities the like of which will never again occur, and conscience in its wrath pouncing upon the soul, and all the past a horror, only to be surpassed by the approaching horror. So a man wrings his hands over the casket of a dead wife whom he has cruelly treated. So a man wrings his hands at the fate of sons and daughters whose prospects have been ruined by his inebriety and neglect and depravity. So the sinner wrings his hands when, after a life full of offers of pardon and peace and heaven, he dies without hope. When there are sorrows too poignant for lamentation on the lip and too hot for the tear glands to write in letters of crystal on the cheek, the hand relates the tragedy with more emphasis than anything in "Macbeth" and "King Lear."

But it is not always in such glad gesture that we can employ our right hand. Alas that so often we have to employ the hand in farewell salutation! If your right hand retained some impress of all such uses, it would be a volume of bereavements. Oh, the goodbys in which your right hand has participated! Goodby at the steamboat wharf. Goodby at the rail train window. Goodby before the opening of the battle. Goodby at the dying pillow. We all needed grace for such hand-clutchings, though our hand was strong and their hand was weak, and we will need grace for the coming goodbys, and that grace we had better work while amid the infection of health and home unbroken. Thank God there will be no goodby in heaven!

THE DEFENSE OF THE GOOSE BONE.

A Good Word in Favor of an Ancient Weather Prophet.

A correspondent sends us the following defense of the goose bone as a weather prophet: To show that the popularity of the goose breast-bone has some scientific foundation it should be remembered that the goose lives to be one hundred years old, unless it meets with some melancholy accident. Such an extended sphere of observation gives the goose an instinct for atmospheric probabilities. It becomes as familiar with indications of air currents and thermal conditions as man is with Prince Albert or Tuxedo coats, and this instinct it transmits from generation to generation; hence it anticipates climatic conditions and supplies itself with nitrogenous food, which enriches the blood and colors the breast-bone. Again, as the breast-bone of the gobbler is the bow of the ship that breaks the storm, its blood rushes to the part which most requires it, and this colors the breast-bone. Farmers who are in close contact with nature nearly all believe the prediction of the goose bone, and there is a legend that in General Washington's famous crossing of the Delaware he was influenced by the views of local agriculturists as to the freezing of the river, and that those opinions were founded upon observation of the breast-bone of a wild goose. Was this the reason that Benjamin Franklin once proposed the goose as the emblematic bird of the United States?—Philadelphia Record.

Well Brought Up Little Japs.

From one end of Japan to the other a child is treated like a sacred thing. Each little one is put at birth under "the protection of the public." Each little one carries its name and address clearly marked on a ticket worn around the neck. This is useful not only in case the child is lost or wanders away, but in case of the conflagrations which suddenly lay low the modern villages of Japan. In case of the outbreak of a fire, it is customary for some one to go from house to house, calling out the little folks, who are then removed in a body to some place of safety, leaving the elders to protect their property untrammeled by the harrowing thought that some child is missing in a corner of the house. The first duty in case of fire is to protect the little folks.

The beautiful behavior of Japanese children is always commented upon by English and American travellers. It is the result of a system of careful education, which clothes boys and girls, rich and poor, with "a garment of perfect courtesy." "The lesson is inculcated without robbing infancy of a moment of thoughtless happiness. A great deal can be said in praise of this system of domestic education which gains the desired end without snubbing, weary scolding or punishments. —Philadelphia Inquirer.

Wars for a Trifle.

Mr. Chamberlain's Parliamentary apology for the Transvaal War on the ground that he meant to grant the Boer concessions but was misunderstood recalls the war between Poland and Sweden in 1654. In that year, a Polish nobleman became obnoxious to the laws of his country, by reason of his having committed a crime. He fled to Sweden, whereupon John Casimir, king of Poland, wrote to Charles Gustavus, king of Sweden, demanding the surrender of the criminal. The king of Sweden, on reading the dispatch, noticed that his own name and titles were followed by two "etceteras," while the name of the king of Poland was followed by three. The missing "etcetera" so enraged the king of Sweden that he at once declared war against Poland. The war was carried on with great bitterness until 1660, when a peace was signed at Oliva, near Dantzig. A contemporary writer (Kochowsky) poured out his lamentations on the war in these terms: "How dear has this 'etcetera' been to us. With how many lives have these two potentates paid for these missing eight letters. With what streams of blood has the failure of a few drops of ink been avenged."—Collier's Weekly.

Character in Finger Nails.

In days when superstition was more prevalent than it is now the shape and appearance of the finger nails were considered to have reference to one's destiny.

To learn the message of the finger nails it was necessary to rub them over with a compound of wax and soot, and then to hold them so that the sunlight fell fully on them.

Then, on the horny, transparent substance certain signs and characters were supposed to appear from which the future could be interpreted.

Persons having certain kinds of nails were credited with the possession of certain characteristics. Thus a man with red and spotted nails was supposed to have a hot temper, while pale, lead-colored nails were considered to denote a melancholy temperament.

Narrow nails were supposed to betray ambition and a quarrelsome nature, while round-shaped nails were the distinguishing marks of lovers of knowledge and people of liberal sentiment.

Conceited, narrow-minded and obstinate folk were supposed to have small nails, indolent people fleshy and those of a gentle, retiring nature broad nails.

A fire extinguisher which may easily be made and kept stored in bottles ready for use consists of three pounds of salt and one and one-half pounds of sal ammoniac, dissolved in a gallon of water.

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS.

A X mark under your name on the first page of this paper means that your subscription is due. If we do not hear from you within two weeks we shall conclude that you wish to discontinue, and the paper will be stopped.

READ our special offer on this page, the biggest offer ever made by any county paper in Alabama. Then tell your friends and neighbors about it. Now is the time to subscribe.

HON. JESSE F. STAILINGS, candidate for governor, will address the people of Chilton county, at Clanton, on Thursday, February 15, at 11 a.m. Mr. Stallings is a good, entertaining speaker, and will probably have a good crowd.

WE are glad to note that the Banner's suggestion of Jan. 18, respecting the continuation of the branch railroad from Billingsley to Clanton is receiving consideration. The Montgomery correspondent of the Atlanta Constitution, writing on railroad matters in Alabama, says: "The prospect is the Company (the M. & O.) will continue the proposed road ten miles on from Billingsley to Clanton, the county site of Chilton, where it will strike the main line of the Louisville & Nashville." We sincerely hope the matter will be pushed to completion.

THERE was a fair attendance of ladies and gentlemen at the courthouse last night to hear Hon. Chas. E. Waller, of Tuskaloosa, candidate for governor. Mr. Tipton Mullins introduced the speaker, who spoke for one hour.

Mr. Waller declared himself to be Democrat, who had had considerable experience in the General Assembly of Alabama, and advanced the opinion that the governor should be elected for four years and then be ineligible to hold any office for the same length of time.

He said Alabama had been dishonest in the treatment of its own citizens and if he is elected would try and remedy that wrong, and if any county offices had to be filled by appointment during his administration he would appoint none but straight-out Democrats like himself.

He declared he was in favor of a new constitution, and condemned much that had been done in the State, admitting that "he had been so environed he had had to take his part in the work he was condemning."

He said he was opposed to trusts of all kinds, but sometimes combinations of capital were both right and necessary.

We desire to urge upon the planting community of the south the wisdom of restricting the acreage devoted to next year's crop, and would repeat the mathematical formula which we hope all farmers will keep continually before them this planting season, namely, 11,000,000 bales of cotton at 5 cents yields $275,000,000; 10,000,000 bales of cotton at 6 cents yields $300,000,000; 9,000,000 bales of cotton at 7 cents yields $315,000,000; 8,000,000 bales of cotton at 8 cents yields $320,000,000. What is true of 11,000,000 bales as compared with 8,000,000 bales is equally true of eleven bales as compared with eight bales, in addition to which the reduced cost of producing the smaller quantity and the opportunity of planting a profitable crop on the acreage not seeded in cotton will probably make the measure of comparative profit much larger than is shown by the above figures.

R. W. GARNER

This gentleman announces himself a candidate for Tax Assessor and asks the support of the voters irrespective of party. Mr. Garner is a home product, having been born and lived all the sixty years of his life in the same neighborhood in Chilton county; he married a Chilton county lady, and altogether can claim he is an out-an-out Chiltonian. He spent four years in the Confederate service, and marched out at Appomattox. He has been a consistent Democrat all his life, and was appointed County Register under the Sayre election law, that being the only office he has ever held, and he did not seek that. Mr. Garner is a member of the M. E. church, a thorough gentleman, and if elected will no doubt prove to be an excellent official.

THE MAN ON THE CORNER.

and that means you can depend upon your prescription being properly filled. I am told that everything kept in the best drug stores in Birmingham or Montgomery is going to be put in at the Campbelle store including an A No. 1 soda fountain, so all you young fellows can get your nickels and dimes saved up so that you can treat all your young lady friends when they come to town. Success to the new drug store.

Politics are warming up. Charley Waller is to speak at the court house to-night (Wednesday) and next Thursday morning (Feb. 15) that genial candidate for the governorship, Jesse Stallings, will endeavor to convince you he is the right man for the office. The Republican county committee met last Saturday and called a convention at Lomax on Saturday the 17th inst. I hear it is probable they will put out a straight county ticket. Then the Pops. committee meets next Saturday (Feb. 10) and I reckon that fairly starts the ball to rolling. One candidate, T. J. Hubbard, has announced for tax collector, and two, A. C. Mims and B. W. Garner, for tax assessor, and I learn there are several more to come. From now on I expect to have lots of politics to talk about.

TO COTTON GINNERS.

The past ginning season again demonstrated the incomparable superiority of The American Cotton Company's Roundlap bale. Not only were farmeas benefited who had their cotton put up in Roundlap bales, but even the patrons of old style gins profited by the presence of Roundlap competition.

Although last year The American Cotton Company largely increased the number of its presses in the Sounh—installing all that it was able to build—the demand in New England and abroad for cotton baled by this process greatly exceeds the supply. The Company is preparing this year to add largely to the number of its presses. The Company's works are running day and night building presses, which will be leased to responsible gingers, who own or are pacpared to build modern gin houses in good cotton districts, on a rental which is ultimately prepaid by the cotton buyer in the premium for cotton in Roundlap bales

Information concerning leases will be supplied by Mr. T. W. PRATT, HUNTSVILLE, ALA.; or Mr. A. R. NININGER, MONTGOMERY, ALA.

FEARFUL ACCIDENT AT TACOA

Wednesday night as the mail from Birmingham came around the curve and crossed the Cahaba bridge, James Cycles, with his wife and four children, who were returning from the burial of his daughter, age 15, were overtaken by the train on the bridge.

With remarkable presence of mind Mr. Cycles laid down on the crossties and with a child in each hand led them over the side of the bridge until the train passed. His wife also laid down and he'd another child clear of the train, and all escaped injury. The boy, age 14, tried to run in front of the train, but was caught about ten feet from the end of the bridge and was killed. The remains were carried to the Tacoa depot.

Only last week Mr. Cycles buried his mother.

OUR SPECIAL OFFER.

FOR THREE WEEKS ONLY.

This year is one of especial interest to everyone. In Chilton county we have to elect a Representative, Sheriff, Tax Assessor, Tax Collector, Treasurer and four Commissioners. In the senatorial district we have to elect a State Senator. In the State we have to elect a Governor and all the rest of the State officers. The legislature will have to elect a United States Senator. Then these is a Congressman to be elected and a President of the United States. Lots of elections, and you want to know all about them.

Two wars are now in progress and stirring events are to be expected. You want to keep posted.

The census is to be taken this year, you will have to be included, and of course want to know how the country is progressing.

To keep up with all this you will have to have a good newspaper, and we make this special offer for 3 weeks only:

Is Baby Too Thin?

If so, there must be some trouble with its food. Well babies are plump; only the sick are thin. Are you sure the food is all right? Children can't help but grow; they must grow if their food nourishes them. Perhaps a mistake was made in the past and as a result the digestion is weakened. If that is so, don't give the baby a lot of medicine; just use your every-day common sense and help nature a little, and the way to do it is to add half a teaspoonful of to the baby's food three or four times a day. The gain will begin the very first day you give it. It seems to correct the digestion and gets the baby started right again. If the baby is nursing but does not thrive, then the mother should take the emulsion. It will have a good effect both upon the mother and child. Twenty-five years proves this fact.

A PATRIOTIC SUGGESTION.

To Teachers in Public Schools:

Permit me to call your attention to the importance of the observance of special days as a part of school work. It is an essential part of such work, and in some States is so recognized by law.

The good of pupils demands an occasional change. The ordinary public school branches become uninteresting and irksome, unless accompanied by moral truths, æsthetic principles, and patriotic sentiments. While every lesson in the daily studies may suggest some idea not contained in the text-book, it has come to be considered a necessity that special attention should be given to the teaching of æsthetics, morality, and patriotism by the observance of the birthdays of great and good men.

Such occasions should be the means of bringing together patrons, neighbors, and friends, that everybody may be made to participate in the exercises, and to partake of the interest, enthusiasm, and fraternal feeling which always comes from the mingling of people at such meetings.

At this time when so much is being spoken and written about the origin and growth of American institutions and the men who have performed a conspicious prat in establishing and maintaining our government, I have thought it to be altogether appropriate for the public schools of the State to observe, with becoming ceremonies, the anniversary of the birth of George Washington, the great central, guiding force of the Revolutionary Period. This day claims observance equally with the 4th of July, for the ends proposed by the Declaration of Independence were accomplished mainly by Washington's military skill, firmness, and patriotism. The government his sword was instrumental in establishing, he governed wisely as its chief magistrate, and when he retired from public life, without a stain of his sword, without a blot on his name, without a blemish on his soul, he left as a legacy an address which will be the golden rule of governmental policy and of civic duty in all republics for all time. We cannot too often direct the attention of our children to the life and character of such a man. His memory should be treasured and the anniversary of his birth should be celebrated as long as there is a voice left among men to shout the praises of freedom.

I therefore earnestly request that you will set a part Thursday February 22, 1900, as a time for celebration, and that you will co-operate with me in an endeavor to have the pupils of every public school to render a suitable program.

In this connection, permit me, also, to remind you of the joint resolution, introduced by the patriotic member from Madison county, Hon. John W. Wallace, and adopted by the last General Assembly, recommending that teachers in the public schools encourage their pupils to raise funds for the purchase of United States flags, that the same may wave over every public school building in Alabama. Let me suggest that a flag raising would be a suitable part of the program for this occasion.

I have prepared and had printed in phamphlet form a program and selections to accompany it, which will be forwarded to teachers who will send two cents to cover postage

Yours truly,
JOHN W. ABERCROMBIE,
Supt. of Education.

An Editor's Life Saved by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

During the early part of October, 1896, I contracted a bad cold which settled on my lungs and was beyond control. I feared that consumption had appeared in an incipient state. I was constantly coughing and trying to expel something which I could not. I became alarmed and after giving the local doctor a trial bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and the result was immediate improvment, and after I had used three bottles my lungs were restored to their healthy state.—B. S. Edwards, publisher of the Review, Wyant, Ill. For Sale by the Clanton Drug, Co.

READ our special offer on this page, the biggest offer ever made by any county paper in Alabama. Then tell your friends and neighbors about it.

"After doctors failed to cure me of pneumonia I used One Minute Cough Cure and three bottles of it cured me. It is also the best remedy on earth for whooping cough. It cured my grand children of the worse cases," writes Jno. Berry, Logapton, Pa. It is the only harmless remedy that gives immediate results Cures coughs, colds, croup and throat and lung troubles. It prevents consumption. Children always like it. Mothers endorse it. J. B. Downs.

The Imperial Gas Lamp

Covered by U. S. Patents.

Admittedly the BEST light on the market and the most economical.

The Imperial burns common stove gasoline and gives a 100 candle power light at a cost of one cent per day.

One Gallon will burn 60 hours.

The needle keeps the burner clean, so it will not clog, and the generating tube being in center of flame, insures a light that will not go out. There is no odor, no smoke and no flicker. The light can be raised or turned down just as with a gas jet or lamp. THE IMPERIAL is the most perfect light on the market and everything pertaining to it is the best to be had. IT WILL PAY TO INVESTIGATE.

If not sold in your town write us for catalogue.

NEWS AND NOTES FOR WOMEN.

New Style in Bows.

The bows this winter have ends not much longer than the loops, the long ends of the summer having departed with the chilly weather, although in soft, expensive silk ties knotted about the throat the long ends are most liked.

Young Women Conductors.

In Santiago, Chili and other South American cities the street cars have young women for conductors. They wear a neat uniform, and are said to perform their duties in a most satisfactory manner. They are seldom in trouble with their passengers, but when trouble occurs they blow a whistle and summon the police.

Mrs. Stowe's Pecan Trees.

Many years ago Harriet Beecher Stowe and her sister bought a place a few miles from Tallahassee, Fla. Soon after settling there they planted a grove of small pecan trees. The trees have now grown to considerable size and bear abundantly. The pecan industry is particularly profitable, because of the prolific character of the nut-bearing trees.

A Baby's Cry.

A moderately intimate acquaintance with infants enables one to distinguish, almost from birth, three cries—the healthy yell by which the child exercises its lungs, the fretting of moderate discomfort, and the acute cry of pain, the latter two including at first hunger, thirst and dissatisfaction. By the end of three months the nurse or mother should be able to distinguish the fretting of actual physical discomfort from that of restlessness, and the sharp cry of pain from the less acute announcement of thirst, hunger, etc., while anger imparts a characteristic quality to the cry. If the baby is comfortably dressed and properly fed he will be less likely to be fretful and crying.—Dr. A. L. Benedict, in Woman's Home Companion.

A Few Notes About Fur.

More fur is worn this winter than ever before. The fur hats which just came in this season are now widely worn, and the fashionable woman has several sets of furs for different occasions. Another new note in furs is the combination of two kinds. A beautiful collarette, which is almost large enough to be called a cape, is made of ermine and white fox, with long fox tails hanging down in front. The muff is of ermine, bordered with fox and ornamented with little ermine heads.

Broadtail or baby lamb combined with chinchilla have a look of elegance and comfort, while broadtail and ermine are a striking combination. With seal are used sable and mink.

A few new velvet coats are shown with collars of grebe's breast, but these downy, fur-like feathers look better on a hat.

Very little adornment is needed for the fur hats. Full chiffon rosettes of pink, pale blue or violet are lovely on a chinchilla turban, and violets are the floral favorites to go with this fur. On a mink hat a pink rosette is equally appropriate, but deep crimson roses seem to belong with this beautiful brown fur.

A Boer Girl's Wedding.

"A wedding is always an event of almost national importance and is really a most picturesque ceremony," writes the author of "Oom Paul's People," of "The Boer Girl of South Africa," in the Ladies' Home Journal. "The friends and relatives may arrive a day or two ahead of time, according to the distance to be traveled, and the Boer homestead becomes a most animated scene. Scores of ox-teams are scattered about the surrounding plain; negro servants are bustling around; guns are fired promiscuously whenever more guests arrive; dancing, feasting and coffee-drinking are carried on in the cottage and everywhere around it; impromptu shooting-matches and horse-races are decided, and joy is unconfined. After the ceremony, and after all the guests have kissed the bride and bridegroom, the wedding feast is eaten, and then the guests spend the night in dancing and playing games. It would be a breach of etiquette for any of the guests to depart before the dawn, and, indeed, the fiddler's music and the sound made by the dancing feet are often heard until noon of the following day. The wedding tour consists of a journey to the cottage and farm which the husband has secured from his father and which adjoins the old homestead."

Grace and Long Coats.

Draped skirts still threaten, but very few of them are seen among the dressmaker's models. The deep, panel-shaped pleat at the back and the group of tiny tucks across the back just below the waist line, are welcomed by most women, but other innovations do not seem to gain a foothold. Grace is to be the chief charm of the winter costumes. One may be plain, tall, short, fat or thin, but one must somehow contrive to be graceful if one would be in the fashion. There are to be no angles. Even the hair is to be dressed to suit the toques and the one must melt, so to speak, into the other. For the street, short, trim little coats are the smartest, but for carriage wear and for evenings the long, loose-backed light cloth coats with fur collars are comfortable and very handsome. One of these long coats is of soft, dove-colored box-cloth, and is cut to show the lines of the figure without being tight. It fastens down one side—where it finishes with a scalloped stitching—with palest blue enamel buttons, covered with a fine network of gilt. A double collar falls over the shoulders, and the lining of lovely pink satin shading into deep rose is striped with white moire.

Paint and Powder.

An increasing tendency to the use of paint and powder has been observed among the leaders of society. Not a few years ago the employment of these cosmetics would have raised an interrogation point as to respectability. The decoration of the human face with paint has been a custom from the earliest times. And at present the chromes, the greens and the vermilion decorate the faces of savages, who would feel that their brave adornment was far from complete without these additions. In the seventeenth century the employment of rouge was a matter of education, as by it the wearer could convey and interpret the most delicate sentiments. All women painted their faces. The more important the occasion, the brighter the tint. The higher the social position, the more brilliant the color on the lady's cheek. The inferior classes were only permitted a very slight decoration from the rouge-pot. Even at night, upon retiring, the make-up was not left off.

Aside from any ethics in the matter, the use of rouge, with its substratum of grease, is injurious to the complexion, as it blocks up the pores of the skin. That a custom so generally employed should ever be set aside shows the variableness of the goddess Fashion. It was a happy turn. That there can be any serious thought of the adoption of so meretricious a mode, or one which does such violence to the texture of the skin of the face, must be deplored.—Harper's Bazar.

Queen Victoria still sweeps off the principal prizes at the English cattle shows. In the summer her stock took practically all the first prizes at Norwich and Birmingham, and recently at the big Smithfield show in London she took four firsts, three seconds and one third.

Frills of Fashion.

Panels on skirts are proving to be popular.

Most of the handsomest wraps are made of broadtail, trimmed either with sable or Peruvian chinchilla.

Silk gimp of the same color as the material is used to simulate hemstitching on some of the new woolen waists.

The new pliable silk-back velvets are tucked, quilted, kilted, accordion-plaited, and machine-stitched, exactly like silk or wool fabrics.

Broad turbans and toques are worn with all costumes, from morning frocks of dark cloth to the elaborate reception costumes of velvet and lace.

With a perfectly plain cashmere waist the ultra-stylish girl wears a long cashmere crossover, with puntings of Persian palm leaves of crescents. The Oriental effect is very pretty.

A delicate odor of sandalwood is one of the perfumes one notices now occasionally when one meets handsomely dressed women. More sandalwood boxes are used now than for a good many years.

The ready-made "silk-drapery skirts" are exquisitely embroidered, and some have an applique of fine lace, preferably Chantilly. The lower edge is scalloped out and embellished with a deep silk fringe.

A handsome and becoming style of dress hat is in toque shape made of Lyons velvet in pansy color, Russian green, or dark ruby-red, with a brim of sable fur, and a standing trimming of real lace and sable tails, and a cluster of pink crush roses set at one side and partly falling on the hair.

A new idea is the veil roll, which can be made any size desired, but is better when about one inch in diameter and eight inches long. These rolls resemble the long pincushions, being stuffed with cotton, and they are perfumed with sachet powder. They can be covered with any material desired, and the idea is to roll one's veils about them, instead of folding or leaving loose in bureau drawer and hat box.

"JACK THE CUTTER."

A Remarkable Type of the Class Known as Human Degenerates.

The medical fraternity of Washington has a puzzling problem before it in the behavior of Max Krebs, a young German who has confessed that he is the "Jack the Cutter" who has been slashing women's dresses in New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington and other cities during the last two years. His confession was made to Dr. Shellhausen, a scientist of Washington, who has given much attention to the psychology of criminals, and he regards Krebs as a remarkable type of that class of human beings known as "degenerates." From a medical standpoint his mind is diseased; from a police standpoint he is a mischievous criminal; but so far as can be learned from his own confession and from a thorough inquiry into his record Krebs has never been guilty of any offense but the destruction of clothing. He declares that he suffers from an irresistible tendency to injure and destroy fine dresses and other garments and has gratified this unnatural perversity four or five times every day for months. He has carried a sharp knife in his pocket and has done his work in street cars, crowded retail stores, in the lobbies of theaters while the audiences were leaving and at other places where well-dressed women are to be found crowded together. With his knife in his hand he says he would pass through such crowds and slash cloaks and dresses on either side as often as he could do so without detection. It was usually necessary for him to destroy three or four before his unnatural passion was satisfied, then he would feel a dizziness, followed by a violent headache, on every occasion.

The doctors believe that Krebs is telling the truth and that he is afflicted with a destructive mania which should send him to an insane asylum rather than a prison. He has done a great deal of mischief in this city as well as in the other cities named. Every day for months before his arrest complaints were made to the police, and it was noticed that no cutting was done in other cities while such complaints were made in Washington. It was therefore concluded that the work was being done by one man who went from place to place, and since the arrest of Krebs here have been no cases reported.

Chinese Prayer Book.

The Chinese are not addicted to the use of machinery, but they know something about labor saving devices. A man who got so well acquainted with a laundryman that he dropped into his place to chat, one day noticed a queer little pad of rice paper over his bunk. Each sheet was inscribed with numerous heiroglyphics, and the Celestial was asked what it mean. He replied that it was a prayer book, and went on to explain that he tore off a leaf every night before going to bed, so as to expose a fresh supplication for the ensuing day. Seeing that the American was shocked, the Chinaman assured him that the prayers were first class in every particular, and much better than he could compose himself. He added that these queer prayer books came from Pekin, and the Chinese Government allows none other than this brand to be issued.

French Use Armored Trains.

Perhaps the most effective use of armored trains, up to recent years, was made by the French during the siege of Paris. In these trains both engines and carriages were bullet-proof, and contained a number of loopholes. Each train, carrying four small cannon which could be readily and expeditiously manoeuvred from the train, was capable of holding 500 men. Considerable use was made of these trains in bringing in provisions to the beleaguered Frenchmen, and they were turned to account by the Communists afterward against the Government troops until their position was outflanked by heavy naval guns.

Matter of Length.

"How long should mourning gowns be worn by a widow of twenty-two?" was the question that came sobbing through the mails.

Now it chanced to be the sporting editor's day off, and the religious editor, therefore, was attending to the Side Talks with Young Persons.

"There is no hard and fast rule," wrote the religious editor, confidently, "but they ought to come down to the boottops, at least."

This illustrates the occasional awkwardness of a newspaper standing as a bulwark of morals to the exclusion of everything else.—Detroit Journal.

Why the Cook Gave Notice.

"I see you printed something the other day about the disadvantages of myopia—near-sightedness, you know," said the man with glasses. "Now, I'm afflicted that way myself. A few nights ago when I went home it was raining hard. My umbrella was wet and I carried it immediately to the kitchen to drain. Casting about for something to stand it in my eye caught some sort of receptacle on the floor near the stove, which I took to be the coalhod, so I stood the umbrella in it and went to bed. The next morning the cook gave notice. She had found my umbrella standing in her shoe."—Syracuse Post-Standard.

What He was After.

"The man who expects to get something for nothing," said the moralist, "is bound to be disappointed."

ENGLAND'S HARD TASK.

AN EXPERT PREDICTS THAT BOERS WILL SLAUGHTER 20,000 BRITISH.

Burghers Force the Enemy to Fight in the Open While They Shield Themselves in Trenches—Face to Face With the Century's Toughest Military Problem.

"In the deadly fire-zones of the Boers a score of thousands of Englishmen must fall before the Transvaal is conquered." This is the opinion of a distinguished American military authority with whom I talked a few days ago, writes Walter Wellman, the Washington correspondent of the Chicago Times-Herald.

"Great Britain is face to face with the most difficult military proposition of the century," continued this officer. "It is a remarkable fact that the difficulty which the English army is now encountering in South Africa was foreshadowed in a book published before the outbreak of hostilities. It was written by a Polish banker named Blioki. He had never had military education or experience. He had not even seen a battle fought or a campaign manœuvred. Yet over a year ago he wrote a book, called 'The Future of War,' which described just such conditions as those which now surround the British army.

"That book attracted profound attention among students of military science throughout the world, but no one dreamed that its remarkable prophecy was to be realized in such a short time.

"M. Blioki's studies led him into a critical examination of the effect of modern small caliber high velocity magazine rifles, when handled by skillful and brave troops, and he laid down the axiom that such troops, when properly intrenched, could hold their positions against all comers. By carefully selecting their positions, he pointed out, they could sweep the zone in front of them with a fire so deadly that no troops in the world could live in it, while remaining practically out of danger themselves.

"At short ranges one of their small caliber balls, driven at great velocity, could disable from three to five men. At longer range from two to three would fall by the same bit of lead. In such a fire-zone, he said, attack would be suicide. Men would go down with appalling rapidity, and the surviving remnants of the bravest troops that ever walked could do nothing but retreat as rapidly as possible. They could not recover their wounded, and the hit must lie where they fell till firing ceased and flags of truce covered the rescue.

"This is precisely what has happened in South Africa," continued the military student. "The Boers take up commanding positions on the sides of hills. They intrench themselves, and from cover sweep the open before them with a fire so deadly that even the reckless daring and enthusiasm of the British army is unable to do more than dash into that hell-zone and then dash back again.

"Except in rare instances, where the conditions were unfavorable, have the Boers failed to hold their entrenchments. On only few occasions have the combatants come to hand-to-hand fighting.

"You will remember that after our campaigns in Cuba Inspector-General Breckenridge said the bayonet might as well be thrown away, and that it was only useful to grind up coffee with, for which purpose a small hammer would serve better. He was almost right. The English have had a few opportunities to give the Boers 'cold steel,' but only a few, and by small bodies rushing some outlying position.

"The great problem for the English commanders is how to make an advance. Their troops have fought with a bravery which fills the whole world with admiration, but they have almost nothing to show for their sacrifices.

"The character of the country aids the Boers' tactics. It is for the most part hilly and broken. The Boers take up position on a hillside. Following the usual tactics, the English shell them out with their artillery and then advance their infantry to take the position. But the moment the artillery fire ceases—and it must stop before the British line can move far into the open—the Boers move back from the other side of the hill, where they have been in cover, and resume their places in the trenches.

"The artillery has wasted its strength on empty rifle pits. But before the advancing troops can get far on their way the Boers are ready for them, and when the opportune moment comes that deadly rain of little bullets sweeps the open like a simoon.

"More than once," continued this officer, "the brave British have walked into just such destruction; have fallen by scores, rallied, advanced again, received another deadly fire, and have then broken and retreated, baffled and beaten, without once seeing their enemy, and probably without hitting one of him. Men were never born that can keep up much of this sort of fighting.

"The Boers have demonstrated that with modern weapons a small force can defend any favorable position against five times their numbers. Up to date the Boer losses are probably not one-tenth that of the English. Front attacks are things of the past, unless commanders have men by the thousand to throw away. Flanking is the only thing that will win, and flanking is hazardous and almost impossible against troops as mobile and alert as the Boers, operating in a country favorable to that line of defense.

"These are the problems which the British leaders have to work out, and every military man in the world is curious to see how they are going to do it. In my opinion the British will find the way to do it, but only by making good Kruger's prophecy that conquest of the Transvaal, if achieved at all, will be at a cost which will appall humanity."

SCIENTIFIC AND INDUSTRIAL.

Australian olives will probably soon abound in the markets. The tree, which elsewhere is slow in maturing, grows in Queensland almost with the astonishing rapidity of the eucalyptus, and needs no more care than a willow.

At the request of the State Poultry Association of California, M. E. Jaffa made a series of experiments which led him to the conclusion, both from a chemical and physical point of view, that "there are practically no differences, so far as the food value is concerned, between the white-shelled and brown-shelled eggs."

The director of the Royal Vesuvian Observatory has just issued a report in which he announces that Mount Vesuvius is now perfectly quiet, and that the eruptive period of 1895-'99 is definitely closed. No lava is flowing, and even the fumaroles or smoke-holes give forth no sign. The mass of lava ejected since 1895 amounted to 64,000,000 cubic metres.

An interesting experiment is being made by the British army medical service in the inoculation of the troops leaving for Africa, says the Medical Review. The endeavor is made to confer immunity from typhoid fever. The inoculations are not made compulsory, but the officers urge it upon the men. The results of this measure will be watched with great interest, and after the campaign in the Transvaal is closed comparisons based on the prevalence of enteric fever in our late war with Spain and the South African trouble may furnish some interesting data.

A lamp chimney manufacturer in Anderson, Ind., has discovered a new process of melting the sand used in glass making. While passing through his plant he saw a globe on an arc light break, and a piece of the glass fell on the carbon. It was only a second until it was reduced to a liquid. He directed the construction of a big vat with sides and bottom composed of carbon, over which he could turn a current. An arrangement was made to run sand through this vat. It worked perfectly, and the best molten glass is being turned out in as many seconds as it required hours for the old fuels to melt it. The process has been patented.

The latest advancement in practical science is artifical coal. Much speculation has been indulged in by unduly apprehensive persons as to what humanity would do for fuel when the world's coal is gone. Now, centuries before it will actually be needed, a substitute has been made. A workman named Montag, residing in Mannheim, has manufactured artificial coal, the component parts being earth and mineral residual substances. The exact composition is a secret. It is reported that the heat producing properties of the artificial coal are wonderful. A kilogramme when burned leaves only nine pennyweights of ashes.

The Way the Filipinos Fight.

As surely as war is the art which our chosen young men study at West Point, the campaign in the Philippines is not war, but a chase where the prey, more cunning than the fox, leaves neither track nor scent and carries the best of modern quick-firing rifles.

"You can't wrestle when you can't lay hands on the other fellow," said my comrade, the private, while we lay on our stomachs at dawn waiting for the order to charge, as we had often done. "It's hike, hike, hike (march) till you stick in the mud, and then you hike back again a little slower than you went, 'cause you're tired and ugly, and mebbe you're sick. With every hike there's a few laid out with their hands crossed—and no gugu's (native's) blood atones for that."

He raised himself up on his hands and looked across the paddy field toward the line of red at the edge of a bamboo grove, the enemy's trenches. We might get a few volleys from them or they might be evacuated already.

"Come out, Mister Aguinaldo!" he exclaimed. "Come out in the open and bring your whole army! If our regiment can't lick you before dinner you can have our rifles and the islands, and we'll quit. H-m, yes, but you know better, don't you!"—Frederick Palmer, in Scribner's.

Why He Did Not Want to Go.

A German peasant family had made all their arrangements to emigrate to the United States. On the day before the family was to take its departure the eldest son, Hans, who was an enormous eater, indicated that he did not care to go West.

"Has some village maiden beguiled thee to remain behind?" asked the father.

"Nothing of the kind."

"Why, then, dost thou not wish to go with us?"

"I've been talking to the school-master, and——"

"Well, what did he say?"

"He says that when it is 12 o'clock with us here in Germany, in——"

"Well!"

"He says that when it is 12 o'clock with us here, in America it is 4 in the morning."

"Well, what of that?"

"I don't want to go to a place where I have to wait so long for my dinner," and the poor fellow completely broke down at the mere thought of it.—Tit Bits.

SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY.

The use of silicate of soda in refining heavy petroleums has been recommended. It is useful in making from spindle to cylinder oils. The silicate is used as a neutralizing agent after treatment with sulphuric acid, and it is said to be highly efficacious. It may be used either alone or in connection with caustic soda.

A cyanide leaching vat made of wood which had been in use for four years was recently tested as to the percentage of values absorbed. A hole was bored one half inch deep in the bottom, and the shavings therefrom assayed $13 per ton. Thus the absorption by wooden tanks is shown not to be as great as has been claimed.

Professor Koch found during his recent trip in German East Africa that the natives fear calves as if they were lions. One day he got four natives to hold a calf for him while he inoculated it with the germs of malaria. When he cut the skin the animal kicked, whereupon the natives let it go, howled in terror, and climbed up trees.

The trees on one side of an avenue in Brussels, Belgium, have developed the singular habit of shedding their leaves in August and budding and even blossoming again in October. On the other side, the trees retain their foliage until late in autumn. Botanists are inclined to see in this an effect of current leakage from the electric railway.

The curious fact has been noted that the nitrifying bacterium, which renders such service in purifying sewage and other matter is the greatest destroyer of the works of the water engineer. The gradual crumbling and the turning to mud of cement mortar, an effect formerly attributed to the carbonic acid and other mineral substances of the water, proves to be the work of the nitrifying organism, and is a difficulty not yet easy to overcome. In this case we have helpful bacteria that also do great harm.

A Frenchman, named Faber, proposed to build an electric road up Mont Blanc. In order to avoid the glaciers, he suggests tunnelling just below a ridge which extends along the side of the mountain. The upper station will be located upon a rocky promontory some eight hundred feet below the top, which is simply a mass of ice. The road will be of the rack and pinion type, and about six miles long. Power will be derived from a waterfall. Two million dollars is the estimated cost.

A German paint for giving to wood great resistance to acids and steam under pressure consists of two parts by weight of gypsum and one part of asbestos stirred together with ox-blood into a thick liquid. The paint is applied evenly to wood perfectly dry. After a few hours another coat—with the addition of linseed oil varnish—is given, and the work is dried several days in the open air or more quickly over a wood fire. The paint is then steamed slowly and dried for a considerable time. The coating adheres firmly, is cheap, harmless, odorless and tasteless, and therefore does not affect liquids in vessels covered with it.

GETTING THE NEWS.

Not Restricted by Any Question of the Cost of Obtaining It.

The collection of news is not restricted by any question of the cost of obtaining it. Fifty years ago it was considered a remarkable feat for one newspaper to obtain information of an important event in advance of competitors. Today it is a matter of comment if any paper fails to publish all the news desired by its readers. If a war is fought on any part of the earth there are reporters on the firing line, and no expense is spared in collecting and transmitting by the quickest method available full reports of any event of world-wide importance. Today the hiring of special trains, the stringing of a special line of telegraph wire, the charter of a ship, the fitting out of an exploring expedition, or any other great enterprise in the way of collecting information for the papers of the United States, is so much a part of the every day business of journalism that such things are accepted as a matter of course, or cause no more than a passing comment.

Half a century ago the result of a national convention or election was not known all over the country for weeks afterward. In the case of a national convention today telegraph wires lead from the convention hall into the offices of all the newspapers in the larger cities. An operator sits near the platform of the presiding officer, and with a muffled key he sends over the wire a full report of the proceedings, with a description of every incident of interest. At the other end of the line is an operator at a typecasting machine receiving the report and putting it into lines as fast as received. When a candidate for president has been nominated, extra editions of the daily papers are selling on the streets of cities a thousand miles away almost before the applause for the winning man has died out in the convention hall. The people of every city and town in the United States where a newspaper is published would feel themselves cheated of their rights if they failed to receive news of the result of an election by midnight of the day on which the ballots were cast.—Walter L. Hawley in Appletons' Popular Science Monthly.

The cultivation of fruit trees along the highways of France is being extended each year.

LIKE MOLTEN SILVER.

Bering Sea Phosphorescence Surpasses All Description.

"I have often heard of the wonderful phosphorescence of the southern seas," remarked a traveler from the north, "and I have seen some pretty fair samples of it in the Atlantic between New York and English ports, but I did not know it prevailed to any great extent in northern waters until during the past summer. In August last I was on board the revenue cutter McCulloch, in the Bering sea, about 63 degrees north latitude, bound north, when one night about 10 o'clock I happened to go on deck, and I was almost frightened by the sight of the sea. The wind was blowing sharp enough to raise the white caps, and the whole sea looked as if it were lighted from its depths by a million arc lights, throwing their whitest rays upward and under the flying foam. The hollows of the waves were dark, but every crest that broke, showered and sparkled as if it were filled with light. From the sides of the ship great rolls of broken white light fell away, and she left a broad pathway of silvery foam as far back as the eye could reach. But about this hour was the most striking display. Here it was as if the ship were plowing through a sea of white light, and as the water was thrown back from her prow it fell in glittering piles of light upon the dark surface beyond, and was driven far down below, lighting the depths as if all the electricity of the ocean were shooting its sparkles through the waves and turning itself into innumerable incandescents that flashed a second and then shut out forever. I stood on the forecastle deck looking down into the brilliant white turmoil of the waters until I began to feel as if it were afloat upon some silver sea, and a really uncanny feeling took possession of me. The white ship was lighted by the phosphorescence of the waters, so that as high up as the deck there was a pale, weird white, that made one feel as if the 'Flying Dutchman' were abroad upon the seas and had passed by us. The masts towering in ashy gray above the decks, and every rope and line stood out distinctly in the light, but cast no shadows. It was all as ghostly as if we had gone up against the real thing, and it was a positive relief to get back into the ward room, where there was something more human. I don't know how long it lasted, but when I went to bed at 11 o'clock I could still see the silver shining through the air port in my state room."—Washington Star.

QUARTERS WERE SCARCE.

The average householder who protests twelve months out of each year that his gas meter is out of order and is trying to make a race with time to bankrupt him, when the end of the month comes around will be interested in the fate that sometimes overtakes the individual who resorts to the drop-a-quarter-in-the-slot meter for relief.

One of the champions of the latter system gave a party to a number of friends the other evening at his flat, and the merriment was at its height when suddenly the place was shrouded in darkness. When the alarm, occasioned by the suddenness of the transformation had subsided, the voice of the anxious housewife was heard announcing that the 25-cent allowance of gas had been exhausted and that she had not a piece of money of that denomination in the house. In vain the guests gathered under the gaslight in the hall, fed from another meter, and searched their pockets for a silver 25-cent piece. There was plenty of money in the crowd, but no quarters, and the situation had grown distressing when volunteers offered to go forth and try to secure the coveted piece of silver.

Until one has tried it, the difficulty of securing a specific coin is hard to realize, especially in the evening when the stores are closed. After making a canvass of the neighborhood without result an expedition was formed and two or three of the men made their way to the nearest street-car line, where they boarded a car and secured a stock of quarters from the conductor. Then they returned to the gathering of guests in the hallway and, after feeding the hungry slot, succeeded in securing light for the balance of the evening. But the popularity of the ever-present slot device had sunk twenty points in as many minutes.

SCENERY

Now Painted Upon Tough Brown Paper for Portability.

Except as regards the part that mechanism plays, the scenic artists of Italy are the best in the world, as effective painters, and the fact is so well recognized in these days of almost all scenery being done by contract—a resident scenic artist is getting to be a rarity—that a great trade of this sort has sprung up between the painters of Italy and the managers everywhere. And this is particularly so as regards companies that come to America. So heavy has been the cost of transporting tons of scenery, and so exacting have the customs officials been of late years, that the generality of managers at one time found it cheaper to have new scenes painted after they arrived. But the Italian system has largely done away with all this, for it includes the painting of the scenery on large sheets of a peculiarly tough sort of brown paper, these being numbered and joined together with unerring accuracy. A recent grand opera production in this country depended scenically upon these sheets of paper alone, and not even the oldest playgoer in the house could distinguish any peculiarity. Of course, the sheets are spread upon canvas in the ordinary way, and a "toucher-up" is required after they are spread, but the system is immenseful when a new production is taken from one capital to another at a great distance, and the Italian artists are sending their sheets to managers all over the world.

Automobile Weddings.

Betrothed couples who go with the times now drive motor cars to church for the wedding ceremony. The latest of these up-to-date marriages has been celebrated at St. Germain l'Auxerrois. The bridal party drew up to the porch, not in stately equipages, but in a long procession of some twenty horseless vehicles of the newest pattern. A large crowd had gathered to witness the arrival. Cheers went up, mingled with humorous remarks, when the cortege of motors appeared. The bride's and bridegroom's carriages were decked out with white lilac, chrysanthemums and ferns.

I am Past 80 and Not a Gray Hair

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for a great many years, and although I am past eighty years of age, yet I have not a gray hair in my head."—Geo. Yellott, Towson, Md., Aug. 3, 1899.

Have You Lost It?

We mean all that rich, dark color your hair used to have. But there is no need of mourning over it, for you can find it again.

Ayer's Hair Vigor always restores color to gray hair. We know exactly what we are saying when we use that word "always."

It makes the hair grow heavy and long, too; takes out every bit of dandruff, and stops falling of the hair. Keep it on your dressing table and use it every day. $1.00 a bottle. All druggists.

Write the Doctor

If you do not obtain all the benefits you desire from the use of the Vigor, write the Doctor about it. He will tell you just the right thing to do, and will send you his book on the Hair and Scalp if you request it. Address,

SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY.

The use of silicate of soda in refining heavy petroleums has been recommended. It is useful in making from spindle to cylinder oils. The silicate is used as a neutralizing agent after treatment with sulphuric acid, and it is said to be highly efficacious. It may be used either alone or in connection with caustic soda.

A cyanide leaching vat made of wood which had been in use for four years was recently t sted as to the percentage of values absorbed. A hole was bored one half inch deep in the bottom, and the shavings therefrom assayed $13 per ton. Thus the absorption by wooden tanks is shown not to be as great as has been claimed.

Professor Koch found during his recent trip in German East Africa that the natives fear calves as if they were lions. One day he got four natives to hold a calf for him while he inoculated it with the germs of malaria. When he cut the skin the animal kicked, whereupon the natives let it go, howled in terror, and climbed up trees.

The trees on one side of an avenue in Brussels, Belgium, have developed the singular habit of shedding their leaves in August and budding and even blossoming again in October. On the other side, the trees retain their foliage until late in autumn. Botanists are inclined to see in this an effect of current leakage from the electric railway.

The curious fact has been noted that the nitrifying bacterium, which renders such service in purifying sewage and other matter is the greatest destroyer of the works of the water engineer. The gradual crumbling and the turning to mud of cement mortar, an effect formerly attributed to the carbonic acid and other mineral substances of the water, proves to be the work of the nitrifying organism, and is a difficulty not yet easy to overcome. In this case we have helpful bacteria that also do great harm.

A Frenchman, named Faber, proposed to build an electric road up Mont Blanc. In order to avoid the glaciers, he suggests tunnelling just below a ridge which extends along the side of the mountain. The upper station will be located upon a rocky promontory some eight hundred feet below the top, which is simply a mass of ice. The road will be of the rack and pinion type, and about six miles long. Power will be derived from a waterfall. Two million dollars is the estimated cost.

A German paint for giving to wood great resistance to acids and steam under pressure consists of two parts by weight of gypsum and one part of asbestos stirred together with ox-blood into a thick liquid. The paint is applied evenly to wood perfectly dry. After a few hours another coat—with the addition of linseed oil varnish—is given, and the work is dried several days in the open air or more quickly over a wood fire. The paint is then steamed slowly and dried for a considerable time. The coating adheres firmly, is cheap, harmless, odorless and tasteless, and therefore does not affect liquids in vessels covered with it.

GETTING THE NEWS.

Not Restricted by Any Question of the Cost of Obtaining It.

The collection of news is not restricted by any question of the cost of obtaining it. Fifty years ago it was considered a remarkable feat for one newspaper to obtain information of an important event in advance of competitors. Today it is a matter of comment if any paper fails to publish all the news desired by its readers. If a war is fought on any part of the earth there are reporters on the firing line, and no expense is spared in collecting and transmitting by the quickest method available full reports of any event of world-wide importance. Today the hiring of special trains, the stringing of a special line of telegraph wire, the charter of a ship, the fitting out of an exploring expedition, or any other great enterprise in the way of collecting information for the papers of the United States, is so much a part of the every day business of journalism that such things are accepted as a matter of course, or cause no more than a passing comment.

Half a century ago the result of a national convention or election was not known all over the country for weeks afterward. In the case of a national convention today telegraph wires lead from the convention hall into the offices of all the newspapers in the larger cities. An operator sits near the platform of the presiding officer, and with a muffled key he sends over the wire a full report of the proceedings, with a description of every incident of interest. At the other end of the line is an operator at a type-casting machine receiving the report and putting it into lines as fast as received. When a candidate for president has been nominated, extra editions of the daily papers are selling on the streets of cities a thousand miles away almost before the applause for the winning man has died out in the convention hall. The people of every city and town in the United States where a newspaper is published would feel themselves cheated of their rights if they failed to receive news of the result of an election by midnight of the day on which the ballots were cast.—Walter L. Hawley in Appletons' Popular Science Monthly.

The cultivation of fruit trees along the highways of France is being extended each year.

LIKE MOLTEN SILVER.

Bering Sea Phosphorescence Surpasses All Description.

"I have often heard of the wonderful phosphorescence of the southern seas," remarked a traveler from the north, "and I have seen some pretty fair samples of it in the Atlantic between New York and English ports, but I did not know it prevailed to any great extent in northern waters until during the past summer. In August last I was on board the revenue cutter McCulloch, in the Bering sea, about 63 degrees north latitude, bound north, when one night about 10 o'clock I happened to go on deck, and I was almost frightened by the sight of the sea. The wind was blowing sharp enough to raise the white caps, and the whole sea looked as if it were lighted from its depths by a million arc lights, throwing their whitest rays upward and under the flying foam. The hollows of the waves were dark, but every crest that broke, showered and sparkled as if it were filled with light. From the sides of the ship great rolls of broken white light fell away, and she left a broad pathway of silvery foam as far back as the eye could reach. But about this hour was the most striking display. Here it was as if the ship were plowing through a sea of white light, and as the water was thrown back from her prow it fell in glittering piles of light upon the dark surface beyond, and was driven far down below, lighting the depths as if all the electricity of the ocean were shooting its sparkles through the waves and turning itself into innumerable incandescents that flashed a second and then shut out forever. I stood on the forecastle deck looking down into the brilliant white turmoil of the waters until I began to feel as if it were afloat upon some silver sea, and a really uncanny feeling took possession of me. The white ship was lighted by the phosphorescence of the waters, so that as high up as the deck there was a pale, weird white, that made one feel as if the 'Flying Dutchman' were abroad upon the seas and had passed by us. The masts towering in ashy gray above the decks, and every rope and line stood out distinctly in the light, but cast no shadows. It was all as ghostly as if we had gone up against the real thing, and it was a positive relief to get back into the ward room, where there was something more human. I don't know how long it lasted, but when I went to bed at 11 o'clock I could still see the silver shining through the air port in my state room."—Washington Star.

QUARTERS WERE SCARCE.

The average householder who protests twelve months out of each year that his gas meter is out of order and is trying to make a race with time to bankrupt him, when the end of the month comes around will be interested in the fate that sometimes overtakes the individual who resorts to the drop-a-quarter-in-the-slot meter for relief.

One of the champions of the latter system gave a party to a number of friends the other evening at his flat, and the merriment was at its height when suddenly the place was shrouded in darkness. When the alarm, occasioned by the suddenness of the transformation had subsided, the voice of the anxious housewife was heard announcing that the 25-cent allowance of gas had been exhausted and that she had not a piece of money of that denomination in the house. In vain the guests gathered under the gaslight in the hall, fed from another meter, and searched their pockets for a silver 25-cent piece. There was plenty of money in the crowd, but no quarters, and the situation had grown distressing when volunteers offered to go forth and try to secure the coveted piece of silver.

Until one has tried it, the difficulty of securing a specific coin is hard to realize, especially in the evening when the stores are closed. After making a canvass of the neighborhood without result an expedition was formed and two or three of the men made their way to the nearest street-car line, where they boarded a car and secured a stock of quarters from the conductor. Then they returned to the gathering of guests in the hallway and, after feeding the hungry slot, succeeded in securing light for the balance of the evening. But the popularity of the ever-present slot device had sunk twenty points in as many minutes.

Eczema in the Feet.

In fact, tetter, ringworm and all skin diseases are cured by Tetterine. Mr. Lee D. Martin, of San Antonia, Texas, says; "I am suffering with a violent case of eczema in my feet. SCENERY

Now Painted Upon Tough Brown Paper for Portability.

Except as regards the part that mechanism plays, the scenic artists of Italy are the best in the world, as effective painters, and the fact is so well recognized in these days of almost all scenery being done by contract—a resident scenic artist is getting to be a rarity—that a great trade of this sort has sprung up between the painters of Italy and the managers everywhere.

Dr. Bull's COUGH SYRUP
Cures Croup and Whooping-Cough
Unexcelled for Consumptives. Gives quick, sure results. Refuse substitutes.
Dr. Bull's Pittsburg Billousness. Trial, 10 for 5c.

And this is particularly so as regards companies that come to America. So heavy has been the cost of transporting tons of scenery, and so exacting have the customs officials been of late years, that the generality of managers at one time found it cheaper to have new scenes painted after they arrived. But the Italian system has largely done away with all this, for it includes the painting of the scenery on large sheets of a peculiarly tough sort of brown paper, these being numbered and joined together with unerring accuracy. A recent grand opera production in this country depended scenically upon these sheets of paper alone, and not even the oldest playgoer in the house could distinguish any peculiarity. Of course, the sheets are spread upon canvas in the ordinary way, and a "toucher-up" is required after they are spread, but the system is imenseful useful when a new production is taken from one capital to another at a great distance, and the Italian artists are sending their sheets to managers all over the world.

Automobile Weddings.

Betrothed couples who go with the times now drive motor cars to church for the wedding ceremony. The latest of these up-to-date marriages has been celebrated at St. Germain l'Auxerrois. The bridal party drew up to the porch, not in stately equipages, but in a long procession of some twenty horseless vehicles of the newest pattern. A large crowd had gathered to witness the arrival. Cheers went up, mingled with humorous remarks, when the cortege of motors appeared. The bride's and bridegroom's carriages were decked out with white lilac, chrysanthemums and ferns.

I am Past 80 and Not a Gray Hair

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for a great many years, and although I am past eighty years of age, yet I have not a gray hair in my head."—Geo. Yellott, Towson, Md., Aug. 3, 1899.

Have You Lost It?

We mean all that rich, dark color your hair used to have. But there is no need of mourning over it, for you can find it again.

Ayer's Hair Vigor always restores color to gray hair. We know exactly what we are saying when we use that word "always."

It makes the hair grow heavy and long, too; takes out every bit of dandruff, and stops falling of the hair. Keep it on your dressing table and use it every day. $1.00 a bottle. All druggists.

Write the Doctor

If you do not obtain all the benefits you desire from the use of the Vigor, write the Doctor about it. He will tell you just the right thing to do, and will send you his book on the Hair and Scalp if you request it. Address,
Dr. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Mass.

CALL FOR POPULIST EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

The Executive Committee of the People's Party of Chilton county is hereby called to meet at Clanton on Saturday, February 17, 1900, at 11 a.m

W. H. CONWAY, Chairman.

Cane Creek, Feb. 10, 1900.

Editor BANNER. I wish to say a few words to the readers of the Banner in regard to my candidacy.

I have been strongly solicited to make a race for the position of Sheriff for the ensuing term and after consulting many of my friends I have decided to enter the race. I want to say in the outset I expect to enter the race with clean hands and end it with the same. I do not want any unfairness used for or against me. I had rather be defeated fair, than elected unfair. So I hope we will have a pleasant time in our campaign.

But if there should be anyone that is disposed to shoot candidates, you can begin loading your guns, for I guess there will be plenty of them; so much for that.

Now, then, gentlemen, if there is any question any man wants to ask me, public or private, I will answer them with pleasure, although I reckon no man questions my political platform. So, for fear I weary the Editor, I will close by saying that I will appreciate anything anyone does in my behalf in this campaign.

Respectfully,
MOSES A. KILLGORE.

Maplesville.

The almanac man and our old colored weatherwise ones, who predicted rough weather certainly made good guesses; all farm and garden work has been at a standstill the past week. All fears of our planet drying up are gone now.

A four year child of Jim and and Minnie Abney, (col.) was burned to death lately; the clothes were sewed on tightly and catching on fire, the mother's hands were badly burned in putting out the fire.

Miss Ada Blalack has enjoyed a visit to her brother at Riderville.

Mr. Allison, of Chattanooga, has been prospecting for saw-mill timber here.

Mr. James Baisemore, of Selma, is on a visit to his parents here.

Mrs. N. A. Goodwin is on a visit to Selma with relatives.

Misses Shoults and Lawrence, of Oakmulgee, two beautiful young ladies, have been visiting Miss Lilley Bowline.

Mr. Knupp has returned from his bridal tour and we feel honored to have his intelligent wife with us.

Macedonia.

When we last wrote we reported the roads in good condition, but not so now since the rain storm.

The Macedonia cemetery has been nicely enclosed with wire, which adds much to its appearance and speaks well for the community.

Mr. Felix Fitts and wife, of Stanton, are visiting homefolks near this place.

There is to be a valentine party at Mr. M. Nix's the 14th inst.

Now and then we can see a bale of cotton going on its way to the city of Randolph, and is selling for eight cents.

The meeting was rained out to some extent at Macedonia last Saturday.

Tabbath-school at this place is still moving of as usual.

The new bridge between Uncle James Rasberry's and Mr. Ben Rasberry's has been completed. CLINT.

There is no better medicine for the babies than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Its pleasant taste and prompt and effectual cure make it a favorite with mothers and small children. It quickly cures their coughs and colds, preventing pneumonia or other serious consequences. It also cures croup, and has been used in tens of thousands of cases without a single failure so far as we have been able to learn. It not only cures croup, but when given as soon as the croup cough appears, will prevent the attack. In cases of whooping cough it liquches the tough mucus, making it easier to expectorate, and lessens the severity and frequency of the paroxysms of coughing, thus depriving that disease of all dangerous consequences. THE WEEK IN CONGRESS.

Both Branches Will Be Kept Busy With Important Matters.

The first four days of the week will be given up to the currency bill in the senate and after that measure is disposed of there will be a contest for precedence in the interest of several measures. These include the bills for providing forms of government for Hawaii and Porto Rico, the Nicaragua canal bill, and the resolution for the seating of Senator Quay upon the appointment of the governor of Pennsylvania. The currency bill will be voted on Thursday.

The time of the house will be completely occupied this week. Monday, under the rules, will be devoted to District of Columbia business. On Tuesday the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill, which will be reported to the house Monday, will be taken up. It is to consume Tuesday and Wednesday, and on Thursday the house will enter upon a week's discussion of the Porto Rican tariff bill.

SENATORIAL ABERRATION.

Boer Resolution Passed Through Before It Was Noticed.

A resolution expressing sympathy with the Boers in their struggle against Great Britain and urging mediation on the part of the United States between the belligerents was adopted by the senate Saturday in a fit of temporary aberration of attention. The resolution was offered by Mr. Allen, of Nebraska, and went through without attracting the slightest comment from any one of the dozen or more senators present.

A minute later, however, at the request of the chair (Mr. Frye), Mr. Allen consented to a reconsideration of the vote by which the resolution was passed and the incident passed amid much quiet laughter.

HANGING IN TEXAS.

Man Who Had Been Acquitted Taken Out and Lynched.

A special from Port Arthur, Tex., says:

When the 12:30 train arrived here Saturday night a mob of 100 armed men met it, and as Peter Sweeney stepped off he was seized and taken to a telephone pole near by, to which he was shortly afterward strung up. The rope broke and he fell heavily to the ground. It was patched and Sweeny was again swung up; his feet were tied to a post behind him. He met death by strangulation. On February 1 Sweeny, who was a noted character of Port Arthur, stabbed to death Gus Krumbach. He was tried and acquitted at Beaumont Saturday and came back.

NEW PHILIPPINE COMMISSION.

President Will Probably Select One Democrat From the South.

Ex-Governor Roger Wolcott, of Massachusetts, has wired the president his inability to accept a position on the new Philippine commission. The three commissioners already selected are Judge Taft, Prof. Worcester and Col. Charles Denby, the last two having served on the old commission. It is altogether probable that the president will select one member from the south, and presumably a democrat.

Special Coaches for Negroes.

The South Carolina legislature has adopted changes in its "Jim Crow car law," which provides separate coaches for the white and colored races. Instead of having separate compartments in one coach and first and second coaches, with different fares, as at present, the new law provides for one coach for each race, at a uniform rate of fare—3 cents a mile. The law goes into effect in sixty days.

At White Haven, Pa., there is an auxiliary fire system. The borough owns a fire engine, but the streets are so steep that delay follows any attempt to get it to the fire. It is therefore utilized as a stationary engine. In the centre of the town there is a small reservoir holding about 1800 gallons of water, and it is connected with the city mains. From this engine house radiate separate lines of four-inch pipes, covering the area of the town with hydrants at the intersections of the streets. In case of fire the engine is connected with the pipe system, the suction pipe is dropped into the reservoir and water is allowed to run into the reservoir from the city mains. The system has proved very effective.

STATE NEWS SUMMARY.

Current Events From all Parts of Alabama Briefly Chronicled.

THE TREASURY OVERFLOWING WITH MONEY

Largest Balance in a Quarter of a Century—Increase is Over Half a Million—Railroad Assessments. Mine Inspector's Report.

The heavy increase in the tax rate by the last general assembly is having a telling effect on the condition of the state treasury. There is probably the largest balance in the treasury now in the history of the state, or at least for the last quarter century. At the close of business Thursday the balance in the treasury was $1,018,716.07. On the corresponding date last year the balance in the treasury was $500,172.92, showing a gain this year over last of $518,543.15. This big increase is largely due to the special tax levied by the last legislature for the soldiers and public schools. Of the increase $262,000 comes from this source. Also included in the estimate is $56,000 received from the sale of university lands, and $24,840 unexpected interest money. These items foot up a total of $342,340, and makes a showing for all of the increase save $171,208. This balance in the increase is made up by the unexpected balances of the several departments. There are $17,566 to the credit of the agricultural department, and $18,605 to the credit of the convict fund, among the special funds mentioned above.

Tax payers have been unusually prompt this year in settling with the state. The per cent of payments is much greater than at this date a year ago. Up to the close of business Thursday the receipts from October 1, 1899, were as follows:

State tax	$ 926,969.98
Special soldiers' tax	172,722.25
Special school tax	172,472.70
Poll tax	104,270.88
Licenses and other sources	414,013.86
Total	$1,790,448.62

The total receipts to the corresponding date last year from all sources were $1,345,761.21.

The total disbursements since October 1, 1899, have been $948,314.28, as against $920,831.58 to the corresponding date a year ago, showing an increase this year over last of $27,482.70.

Mine Inspector's Report.

Chief Mine Inspector Hooper has filed his January report with the governor. The inspector makes the very gratifying report that no serious accidents occurred in the mines during the month. In the text of the report he says:

"For the month of January I have no fatal accidents to report, and but three minor accidents occurred durthe month. The convict mines continue their unprecedented record of absence from fatal accidents.

Hibernians to Aid the Boers.

The Ancient Order of Hibernians, Dominion of Alabama, will show their practical sympathy for the Boers in the war which the latter are now waging with the British. A per capita tax of 50 cents will be sent from the state to the national treasurer of the Hibernians at Washington for the purpose of adding to the fund that is now being gotten up to equip a hospital corps for sick and wounded Boers. There are several hundred members of the organization in this state, and between $300 and $500 will be raised for the fund.

Railroad Assessments.

The state board of railway assessment has concluded its work of asment for the next year. The board is composed of the governor, the secretary of state, the auditor and the treasurer, with the attorney general as legal adviser. The work of the board shows an increase in the assessments of the railroad property of the state of about three-quarters of a million dollars.

Appropriation Recommended.

The secretary of the interior has recommended an appropriation of $25,000 for the Alabama Agricultural and Mechanical college.

Two Men Killed By an Explosion.

At the iron mines of Wilson & Worthington, at Rock Run, Foreman G. W. Cross and a negro named Gus Leach were killed by a premature explosion. Mr. Cross and the negro were preparing to make a blast when the explosion occurred. Both of them were horribly mangled and instantly killed.

Alabama's Coal Output for 1899.

State Mine Inspector J. B. Hooper has almost completed the work of compiling figures on last year's coal production in Alabama. From the official figures already at hand, 6,613,526 tons of coal are accounted for. This coal came from eighty-six mines, which employ 11,529 men. There are about fifteen more mines yet to be heard from and their returns will add fully 600,000 more tons to the above figures. The out of 1898 was 6,466,741 tons. It is thus shown that last year's production as accounted for up to date has exceeded that of 1898 by 146,785 tons. This increase will go to three-quarters of a million tons, so it is expected when complete returns come in. Jefferson county shows the greatest production, turning out almost two-thirds of the state's output. So far as accounted for its production last year amounted to 4,150,879 tons, against 4,082,720 during the year 1898, showing, with incomplete figures in, an increase of 117,659 tons. There are yet several Jefferson county mines to be heard from.

Addition to Dallas Cotton Mills.

The contract for the erection of the addition to the Dallas mills in Huntsville, has been let to George B. Hinman, of Atlanta. The addition will be as large as the present building, and will accommodate 25,000 spindles, as well as 1,250 Draper looms of the latest pattern. It is understood that the building will be completed by October 1. The addition will make the Dallas one of the largest mills in the south. The new machinery will be devoted almost exclusively to the manufacture of cloth for the Oriental trade, a number of orders already having been placed with brokers for China and Japan.

Republican Conventions.

The republican convention of Tuskaloosa county met Saturday. The six delegates were instructed for McKinley as president and William Vaughan, of Birmingham, as state chairman. Franklin county gave Bingham three delegates and Vaughan one. Vaughan also carried Crenshaw, Geneva and Covington counties.

Another Cotton Mill for Anniston.

The splendid success of the three large cotton mills which Anniston already has in operation has caused the inauguration of a movement to build a fourth mill, to cost $100,000, by home capital. L. H. Kaplan already has a $1,000 check up for his part, and many others have expressed their willingness to take stock.

Negro Burned to Death.

Amos McElderry, a negro who is said to be 111 years old, was burned to death at McElderry's station, Talladega county. He lived alone in a three-room cottage, and being very feeble his simple wants has been provided for for several years by members of the McElderry family, to which he formerly belonged.

New Enterprise in New Decatur.

A Greater New York company has purchased the site and buildings of the old United States Rolling Mill Stock company at New Decatur and will erect thereon a large bridge manufactory. An ordinance has been passed granting the company exemption from taxation for five years.

Cut to Death.

At Swanson coal mines, Blount county, Adam Jefferson and John Hogan, miners, became involved in a difficulty in which Hogan was cut to death by Jefferson. Jefferson surrendered and claimed that the deed was done in self defense.

Negro Preacher Killed.

While cutting timber in a swamp near Cuba, Joe Govin, a negro preacher, was struck on the head by a falling limb. His skull was crushed, death resulting in about two hours.

BRIEFLY TOLD.

The Marion county grand jury returned twenty-five true bills.

A switch engine ran over Joe Rodgers, a negro, at Blocton, and killed him instantly.

Will Golson, the slayer of Chief Deputy Sheriff Warnock, was executed in Birmingham Friday.

At the regular monthly meeting of Tuscumbia's City Council an ordinance was passed providing a tax of $1 on every male and $2 on every female dog within the city limits.

The Chattahoochee river is higher than it has been before in twenty-five years. The river showed a rise of 26 feet Sunday, and the gauge showed it was still rising at the rate of 18 inches per hour.

TAYLOR WILL NOT SIGN

Refuses to Subscribe to the Louisville Agreement.

THE GOVERNOR ISSUES A PROCLAMATION

Decides to Allow the Controversy to Take Its Course—Calls a Session of of the General Assembly at Frankfort FRANKFORT, KY. (Special).—"I have only this to say: After mature deliberation, and conference with my friends from every section of the state, I have concluded to let this controversy take its due course, vigorously contesting every inch of ground, and upholding the rights of the people to the uttermost. If these rights be destroyed, the responsibility must rest with those who sit in judgment. It is due to say that eminent gentlemen at the Louisville conference acted in the most perfect good faith, from the highest motives of patriotism.

(Signed.) "W. S. TAYLOR,
"Governor of Kentucky."

The foregoing proclamation was issued by Governor Taylor Saturday night. The decision not to sign the Louisville agreement was reached by Governor Taylor in the afternoon. For over two hours he had been in conference with fully 150 prominent republicans from all parts of the state, including county committeemen and four republican members of the legislature. The meeting was secret in the extreme.

From the capitol Governor Taylor passed to the executive building, where he at once made up and signed the following proclamation reconvening the legislature at Frankfort:

The excitement recently prevailing in this city having to some extent subsided, and there appearing to be no necessity for the general assembly to remain in session in London, I do hereby by this proclamation reconvene the same in Frankfort February 12, 1900, at 12 o'clock noon.

W. S. TAYLOR,
Governor of Kentucky.

Troops Leaving Frankfort.

All day long Sunday troops poured out of Frankfort on special trains, and only the soldiers from Covington, Newport, Lexington and Morgantown are camped in the capitol square. Only a few companies of infantry will be kept on duty to do police work around the capitol square and guard the public building.

THE PLAGUE CONTINUES.

Several American Soldiers Stricken With the Disease.

The plague in Manila continues. Eight cases were reported last week among the natives and Chinese. There is no excitement, however, and business and social life are undisturbed. Small pox is prevalent among the natives along the railroad and in the towns on the northern coast. Two officers of the Thirty-sixth infantry have died of the disease and another officer and several soldiers have been stricken.

FARMER'S WIFE MURDERED.

She Refused to Give a Negro Money—Her Husband Kills Him.

At Cherry Station, Tenn., Jim Gordon, a negro farm hand, enraged because Mrs. George Rollins, a white farmer's wife, refused to give him some money, savagely attacked her with a butcher knife. Her screams were heard by her husband, who shot the negro twice and beat out his brains with the gun butt. Mrs. Rollins died in a few minutes.

Texas Wants to Honor Goebel.

A movement was set on foot Monday in the Texas legislature to erect a monument the memory of Governor Goebel, of Kentucky. The money will be raised by popular subscription, the legislators to head the list, and will be sent to Kentucky with the understanding that Texas is to have the credit of erecting the monument out of respect and sympathy to the deceased and his relatives

Bryan to Tour the South.

Hon. W. J. Bryan is in the south this week. He was in Washington Saturday and saw Senator Martin, of Virginia, and Senator Butler, of North Carolina, concerning his proposed visit to the former state Monday and to the latter Tuesday. After leaving North Carolina, he expects to visit several other of the southern states. He will also visit points in Florida, Georgia and Alabama.

Committed Suicide.

C. E. Christenson, a young civil engineer from Spencer, Tenn., killed himself at Pikeville by cutting his throat.

VIRGINIANS HEAR BRYAN.

He Says the Democratic Party Is in Better Fighting Trim Than for Years.

William J. Bryan addressed an audience at the Academy of Music, Richmond, Va., Monday, made up of the members of the legislature and many other people.

Mr. Bryan began with an eloquent tribute to Virginia as having been a leader in all the great movements that have taken place in this country. He took occasion to eulogize Robert E. Lee and to compliment General Fitzhugh Lee, the latter for his good management of affairs at Havana just before the outbreak of the war with Spain. He then defined the duties of the legislator, in view of the character of his audience, as those of a servant and not the master of the people he represents, and discussed the income tax, the currency and trust questions and the Philippine problem.

He aroused much enthusiasm. Particularly was his audience demonstrative when he expressed the hope that the British would never get to Ladysmith, and when he pointed out the unchecked growth of the trust evil.

In an interview today Mr. Bryan said he thought the democratic party was in better fighting trim than he had seen it in years. He said the battle of 1900 would be fought out on three issues—money, imperialism and trusts, but he would not say which would be brought to the front. He had found the situation in the north and east much improved. Many gold democrats were coming back to the party, he said, and a number of republicans would refuse to support the old party on account of its position on expansion. Mr. Bryan announced the following other engagements:

Chapel Hill, Wednesday, February 14; Columbus, S. C., February 15; Tampa, Fla., February 20; Jackson, Miss., February 21; Columbus, Ga., February 22; Atlanta, Ga., February 23; Nashville, February 24 and Memphis, Tenn., February 25.

U. S. FLAG RAISED

Over Islands Not Included in the Paris Treaty.

A cable dispatch from Manila says: It is reported that the United States gunboat Princeton visited the Tatanes and Calagan Islands, which were omitted from the Paris treaty of peace, being north of 20 degrees of latitude, raised American flags and appointed native governors. It is added that the Pinceton found the Japanese flag flying at Bayat Island and refrained from landing there pending orders.

The natives willingly substituted the American for the insurgent official and took the oath of allegiance.

Reports from native sources which are not confirmed, say General Pio Del Pilar, the insurgent commander, died of fever recently.

Republican Legislators Hold Session at Frankfort.

Monday was another day of unbroken calm in Frankfort. The republican members of the legislature met at noon and appointed committees to inform Governor Taylor that pursuant to the terms of his proclamation adjourning the legislature at London and calling it to Frankfort to transact such business as might come before them, they had adjourned.

The republican leaders say they expect nothing new to transpire until after Judge Taft in Cincinnati has rendered his decision.

Bank Robbed of $3,000.

B. C. Bowman, banker, at Las cruces, N. M., telephoned to El Paso, Tex., that his bank had been held up by two unknown men and robbed of $3,000. The robbers rode into town and hitched their horses at the Rio Grande Hotel, on the opposite side of the street. Then they crossed over and entered the bank, covering Cashier Freeman and the young lady bookkeeper with six shooters. The cashier was forced to open the safe and the men took all the available cash, amounting to $3,000. They then quietly left the building.

Democratic Convention in June.

A special from Washington says: "Senator Jones, of Arkansas, admitted Monday that as a result of Mr. Bryan's recent visit to Washington it had virtually been decided to hold the democratic national convention early in June, before the meeting of the republican national convention in Philadelphia. Mr. Bryan wants to get his anti-trust platform before the country ahead of the republicans.

"IN THE FACE OF DEATH."

BRITISH SOLDIERS HAVE WON THE VICTORIA CROSS.

Lieut Ian Hamilton of the Gordon Highlanders Was the First to Be so Decorated in the Boer-British War—The American Medal of Honor.

Every soldier who earns the Victoria Cross or its American medal valent lived to wear it the decoration through its very commonness would lose much of its significance and value. One man in ten wins it and lives, the other nine die in the striving. It has been said authoritatively that after the institution of the Legion of Honor, the Victoria Cross and the Congressional Medal of Honor, individual deeds of daring increased nearly fourfold. It is perhaps probable that the existence of the decorations and the known fact that they were to be worn simply called the attention of officers more promptly to the duty of reporting all acts of valor which came under their notice, and that this more than anything else for reward accounted for the apparent increased enforcement of courage.

The intrinsic value of these badges of honor is about one cent, yet for the privilege of wearing them the soldiers of these countries seem always ready to [illegible] Gray's "paths of glory."

The French decoration was first created under Napoleon in the early part of the present century, the Victoria Cross was instituted during the Crimean war, and the American medal was first struck off to reward acts of heroism performed during the war of secession. The French cross may be won by civilians, the English and American crosses are pinned only upon the breasts of soldiers and sailors. In the armies of all three nations officer and private, peasant and prince, have equal chances of wearing that which nothing but attested bravery can buy.

The first Victoria Cross granted for bravery in the present South African war was given two weeks ago to Lieutenant Ian Hamilton of the Gordon Highlanders for conspicuous gallantry at the battle of Elandslaagte.

[illegible] gazette list, which [illegible] leeds for which [illegible] been awarded, [illegible] of the most [illegible] of heroism have [illegible] men whose shoulders [illegible] ns of rank. One English[illegible] states that perhaps with [illegible] eption the bravest thing done [illegible] British soldier was the act of a [illegible] mer boy. That drummer boy, [illegible] living, is now a man 60 years old, [illegible] for 15 years of that time he has [illegible] wearing the Victoria Cross, and [illegible] and the right—which, by the way, [illegible] has never exercised—of writing V. [illegible] after his name. The boy, in the [illegible] 1857, amid a perfect shower of [illegible] and shell fastened bags of gun[illegible] der on the gates of Delhi. He [illegible] died death in his arms that day [illegible] carried it in other forms all along [illegible] way. Others helped him and [illegible] killed; he lived and wore the [illegible] was another British drummer [illegible] who, while acting as a field bu[illegible] for Lord Napier of Magdala in [illegible] byssinian war, left the general's [illegible] and dashed first into the strong [illegible] of "Theodore the Tyrant."

[illegible] would seem that by common con[illegible] the British authorities give the [illegible] for surpassing bravery to a pri[illegible] named Kavanagh, who succeeded [illegible] reaching Colin Campbell's column [illegible] by telling of the dire need of [illegible] now spurred that officer to it[illegible] Lucknow was besieged and [illegible] garrison was starving. The little [illegible] of devoted men, with the women [illegible] children who were cooped up at [illegible] residency, expected soon to be at [illegible] mercy of 60,000 savages, for the [illegible] grew that the place [illegible] not much longer hold out. The [illegible] commandant called for a volunteer [illegible] would disguise himself as a [illegible], mingle with the enemy and [illegible] his chance, escape to carry [illegible] news of the garrison's straits [illegible] Lord Colin Campbell. The com[illegible] commandant said that the service almost [illegible] certainly meant death. Many men [illegible] volunteered. Kavanagh was chosen [illegible] because he knew the language of the [illegible] sepoys. He stained his skin, changed [illegible] costume and reached the enemy's [illegible] camp. Breaking away from the im[illegible] mediate besiegers, he made across [illegible] country. On the way he fell in[illegible] many bands of the enemy. He [illegible] kept with them, marched with them [illegible] ate with them, escaping sus[illegible] cate with him. He states in [illegible] ter, as it were, by a miracle [illegible] finally, leaving the last of them be[illegible] hind, he went into the jungle and [illegible] suffered starvation and the tiger's lair [illegible] for days. He reached the English [illegible] outposts, and, being mistaken for a [illegible] ful, was shot at and almost killed. [illegible] Kavanagh told his story to General [illegible] Campbell and the relief of Lucknow [illegible] followed. A year afterward Private [illegible] Kavanagh, at the foretront of a battle [illegible] with the Sepoys, was killed by a [illegible] bullet, which, in entering his breast [illegible] pierced the edge of the ribbon which [illegible] will in place the Victoria Cross given [illegible] "For Valor."

[illegible] Private Kavanagh's deed has a par[illegible] in the American army. In the [illegible] 1876, during the Sioux uprising [illegible] General Terry, whose camp was on [illegible] Big Horn, wished to communicate [illegible] with General Crook on the Powder [illegible]. The country between the two [illegible] commands was infested with hostile [illegible] Indians. Trained plainsmen [illegible] who had been Indian fighters [illegible] risk their lives, abandoned the courier [illegible] as hopeless. Then Private James [illegible] C. Z. Seventh infantry, came [illegible] forward and told General Terry that [illegible] he would carry the dispatches. Terry [illegible] told the papers and told him he [illegible] was riding to his death. The scout [illegible] "no suicide," Bell said nothing, but [illegible] started. He rode principally at night [illegible] and hid in the daytime. Twice he was

The country between the two mands was infested with hostile x Indians. Trained plainsmen, ts who had been Indian fighters heir lives, abandoned the courier as hopeless. Then Private James Co. E, Seventh infantry, came ard and told General Terry that ould carry the dispatches. Terry Bell the papers and told him he riding to his death. The scouts "suicide," Bell said nothing, but He rode principally at night, g in the daytime. Twice he was within earshot of the thumping hoofs of the Indian ponies bearing their riders by his hiding-place. A neigh from his horse meant capture and death. Yet Bell got through and gave Terry's message to Crook.

Some years ago, when the Comanches, Cheyennes and Kiowas were on the warpath along the Wichita river, Texas, Sergeant Zachariah T. Woodhall, with four privates of Troop L, Sixth cavalry, agreed to carry dispatches through the very heart of the redskins' country. The troopers were attacked by a band of 125 warriors of the allied tribes. Woodhall and his men held an advantageous place, with water and food and with an abundance of ammunition. They could have held off the reds probably until relief arrived, but Woodhall said to his men: "Those dispatches must go through." Accordingly the little band cut its way through the circling horde. Woodhall was desperately wounded but clung to his horse and his dispatches and succeeded with his followers in reaching their destination. They pinned a medal of honor on his blouse while it was hanging alongside his cot in the hospital.

Space forbids us giving detailed accounts of the courageous deeds which won medals for other enlisted men in the United States army. There was Charles Bessy, a musician, who, though wounded himself, went out under a scathing fire and tended two wounded comrades. There was Sergeant Forsythe of the cavalry, who, though dangerously wounded by the Indians, left cover and rescued his commanding officer, who had been shot down by the Sioux in the open. This Forsythe did under the direct fire of 50 rifles. There are some 25 other cases, all of them well worth the reading.

It has been said before that the right to put V. C. after his name is given every man, officer or private, who wins the Victoria Cross. There is no case on record where a British enlisted man, sailor or soldier, has made use of the privilege. The officers use it invariably. The English papers and magazines say that the officers have always discouraged the use of V. C. by the men. As a result of this action by the men of rank they have been called upon to undergo as scathing a fire of British press criticism as those of them who wear the Cross stood from the enemy's rifles when winning the decoration.—Edward B. Clark, in the Chicago Times-Herald.

LIMITS OF SEED VITALITY.

No Truth in the Stories of Germination After Thousands of Years.

Some time ago an article appeared in the Chicago newspapers which was written at Anderson, Ind., and dealt with the longevity of seeds. In substance the article states that archæologists had but recently explored near Anderson some of the mounds of the mound builders who inhabited this country some 3000 years ago and found, among other things, corn in jars hermetically sealed. Dr. Cullen, a prominent scientist of Anderson, obtained some of the corn and planted it, and was surprised to see it grow. This not only to him proved its longevity, but by its wonderful growth in comparison with other corn, it also proved that corn is degenerating.

This statement was shown to Prof. L. H. Pammel, in charge of the department of botany in the Iowa state college, and botanist for the government experiment station here. In discussing it, he says:

"The statement is frequently made in the popular press that seeds have retained their vitality for a long time. Thus it is stated that wheat under some conditions has preserved its vitality for fifty or one hundred years. It has frequently been stated that wheat taken from Egyptian monuments germinated, but in not a single case is this germination authenticated. Not a single grain taken from an ancient Egyptian sarcophagus and sown by various persons has ever been known to germinate, and the conditions for preserving the seed in these Egyptian monuments is far better than in the soil. They are protected from the air and variations of temperature. The experiment which has been most talked of is that of the Count of Sternberg at Prague. He had received the grains from a trustworthy traveler, who told him that they were taken from a sarcophagus. It is said that two of these seeds germinated, but it is a well known fact that impostures are perpetrated by the people who dispose of these seeds. In some cases they have even stripped corn or maize into these sarcophagi.

"Many experiments have been made not only in this country, but in Europe, to determine the vitality of various grain seeds. Thus, barley retains its vitality better than any other cereal, and this is said to retain its vitality from eight to ten years. In the case of wheat 90 to 100 per cent. germinates in from one to four years, in five to seven years, 75 to 87 per cent. In the case of rye the percentage of germination in five years dropped to 55 per cent.; in seven years, 36 per cent.; nine years, 13 per cent. In the case of corn, I made some experiments a few days ago to determine the vitality and found that corn which was kept in tightly closed vessels at the age of twenty years had lost all its power of germination. Experiments also indicate that corn kept even a few years became largely deteriorated and lost much of its power of germination. Even grass seeds which have been buried at some depth in the soil and in vessels tightly sealed failed to germinate after a dozen or fifteen years."

HINTS FOR HOUSEWIVES.

New Way to Thread Needles.

An ingenious lady has suggested an improvement in the method of holding a needle for the purpose of threading it. It is to be held between the third and little fingers of the left hand instead of by the thumb and forefinger, palm uppermost. The advantage of this is that the thumb and first finger can be used to grip the smallest end of the thread as soon as it protrudes from the eye, a method preferable to that of letting go the thread and endeavoring to get hold of the end with the right hand. This prevents the weight of the cotton from dragging the end out of the eye again.

Furnishing the Kitchen Completely.

It is a mistake to lavish money on drawing rooms and sacrifice the kitchen. Kitchen utensils are of the first importance. The cook cannot do her work well without proper tools and proper environment.

A kitchen outfit costs little. New oilcloth for the floor, table and sink are cheap and immeasurably to the contentment of the maid. An attractive kitchen bespeaks the good housekeeper. It is easier to convince the servants of the desirability of keeping it clean.

Neat tin and wooden boxes with labels are a delightful acquisition to the kitchen closets and much more pleasant to handle than leaky paper bags. Colored paper with pinked edges for the shelves will work wonders for the general effect, and a growing plant or two gives an air of luxury which surprises those who have never tried it.

To Have a Pretty Picture Frame.

A pretty conceit for a picture frame that may also be made at home is modelled after the new imported photograph fans. A small palm-leaf fan is selected (one of the Japanese variety is apt to have the prettiest handle) and covered with a scant shirring of thin silk in any color desired. White or art green is most effective. The silk is cut out in the centre to admit the photograph, and is shirred by a thread in a square, a circle, or an oval as preferred. The outer edge of the fan is finished with a narrow Tom Thumb fringe the color of the silk, and the same fringe with the selvedge edges laid together is put double around the centre opening as a finish for the photograph. A ribbon loop attached to the handle by a small bow suspends the frame. If white silk is used care should be taken to select a white fan or one of very delicate coloring, as the design ought not to show through.

A Piemaking Secret.

A certain housekeeper announces that she has discovered the secret of having the upper and lower crusts of a pie adhere to each other. "Do not," she says, "grease your pie plates, because it causes the crust to cling to the plate, and becomes sodden, especially in fruit pies. Dry some slices of bread in the oven until they are a light brown, and while hot roll them into fine dust. Put it in a canister and use to strew over the bottom of the pie plate; the sides do not require anything. Lay in the bottom crust, trim as usual; then with your fingers push the edge of the crust so that it stands up nearly straight from the edge of the plate, leaving a space between it and the edge of the plate.

Put in the filling and put on the upper crust, in which plenty of air holes should have been made. Now, with the palms of your hands press the paste up against the rim of the plate with enough force to cut the paste off. Give an upward motion to the hands while doing it and the crust will go on full. Now take the point of a knife and place the upper edge neatly into the space between the lower crust and the plate, and you will have the pie completely covered, as a lid covers a box. With your finger tip softly spread, but do not press, the edge of the pie toward the edge of the plate, and if you have followed the directions you will not take a leaky pie from the oven."—Washington Star.

Recipes.

Favorite Cookies—Two eggs, two cupfuls of light brown sugar, two-thirds of a cupful of butter, one-third of a cupful of lard and one tablespoonful of soda, dissolved in eight tablespoonfuls of water. Mix soft with flour, roll very thin and bake.

Potato Puree—Two cups mashed potatoes, four cups boiling water, one cup of celery cut up, one cup of milk. Boil together one-half hour. Rub together one teaspoonful of flour and one teaspoonful of butter; let come to a boil and pour on, stirring briskly the boiled ingredients. Season with pepper and salt.

Apple Puffs—Beat two eggs. Add to them one pint of milk and flour enough to make a batter as thick as for waffles. Add one teaspoonful of baking powder to each cupful of flour. Put a little salt in the batter. Pour a little of the batter in earthen cups. Then a layer of chopped apple, then of batter again. Steam one hour. Serve with a rich lemon sauce.

Veal Pudding—Put a hind shank of veal in nearly a gallon of water, salt slightly and let boil until nearly done. Take the shank from the kettle to cool, remove the bones and chop fine. Strain the liquor through a colander, skim off the fat and let the broth come to the boiling point; add a heaping tablespoonful of gelatine, dissolved in water, to the boiling broth and add pepper and salt if needed. Now add the chopped veal and let boil for 15 minutes; stir well. Pour out in forms and place in a cool place to get stiff. When ready to serve, dip the form quickly into hot water and the contents will fall out into the platter. Garnish.

ACCUSED OF MAIL FRAUD.

Mrs. Jones, of Brooklyn, Arrested at Antrim, N. H.

IT IS ALLEGED SHE GOT $50,000.

Federal Officials Claim that Mrs. Jones Fleeced the Public by Clever Advertising—Received From 500 to 1000 Letters Daily—Investigations Made in Brooklyn—The New Hampshire Place.

NEW YORK CITY (Special).—As the result of investigations by postal inspectors in Brooklyn and New Hampshire, Helena Franklin Jones, of Brooklyn, a handsome woman of thirty-five, otherwise known as Mrs. W. H. Jones, manager of the Brookside Supply Company and the New Hampshire Silk Company, is under arrest in Antrim, N. H., charged with having used the mails for fraudulent purposes.

From information obtained by the Federal authorities they believe that the Brookside Supply and New Hampshire silk concerns are annexes of a rapidly growing Brooklyn business. They say Mrs. Jones and her associates have received as much as $50,000 through the mails in amounts ranging from ten cents to $1.

For some time the Postoffice Department at Washington has been receiving complaints from persons in all parts of the country that they have sent money to the Brookside Supply Company, Antrim, N. H., in reply to advertisements published in papers which have a wide circulation in the country towns, and have received no replies.

Postoffice Inspector H. L. Willis, of Warner, N. H., was detailed to investigate the New Hampshire case, and it was at his request the warrant for Mrs. Jones's arrest was issued. She was held in $1500 bail for the March term of the United States Court in Portsmouth.

Mrs. Jones is no stranger to the people of Antrim, having visited there frequently during the past few years, so when she arrived in the town a few months ago little was thought of it. Her advent, however, soon made a great difference in the amount of mail received at the postoffice in that town.

For two months she has received at the Antrim and North Branch Postoffices between 500 and 1000 letters a day. They are not addressed to her, but to the Brookside Supply Company and the New Hampshire Silk Company. She informed the officials that they were intended for her and took them away daily. She also signed money orders and receipted for registered letters addressed to the two concerns, sometimes as "H. Franklin Jones" and sometimes as "Mrs. W. H. Jones."

The scheme in which the United States officials allege Mrs. Jones had used the mails fraudulently is regarded as clever. Advertisements were inserted in various newspapers that have a large circulation in the smaller towns of the country, which read:

"You play at sight any song ever written for the Piano or Organ by Pratt's chart. If you want to play now, right away, send to-day. Regular price, $1. We give it free with our Home Paper six months for 10 cents. Brookside Supply Co., Department Z, Antrim, N. H."

The chart is said to be the bait which caught the greatest number. It is printed on a large sheet of paper and has the musical chords in the different keys marked with figures. This is to be fixed on the piano over the keyboard, and from it one is supposed to know which note to strike. Musicians declare that it is worthless.

JUDGE WILLIAM H. TAFT.

Head of the New Philippine Commission Appointed by the President.

WASHINGTON, D. C. (Special).—Judge William H. Taft, who has been appointed by President McKinley as the President of the new Philippine Commission which is to establish a civil government in the islands, is a resident of Cincinnati, and is about forty-five years old. He is a son of the late Alphonso Taft, who was Attorney-General of the United States under President Grant, and Minister to Austria. He has held the offices of Collector of POLICE HAVE W. F. MILLER.

Franklin Syndicate Man Surrenders and is Put in Jail.

NEW YORK CITY (Special).—William F. Miller, manager of the Franklin Syndicate in Brooklyn, who fled after the newspapers had exposed his 520 per cent. "investment" scheme, surrendered himself to the police, and was locked up in Raymond Street Jail in default of $12,500 bail.

When Miller was asked if he had any statement to make, he replied that he had nothing to say. He was arraigned on the two indictments found against him some time ago by the Grand Jury. The indictments charge him with grand larceny in the first and second degree. His lawyer asked the court for time to enter a plea and Judge Hurd fixed bail on the two indictments at $12,500.

The news of Miller's arrest had spread rapidly and about two hundred persons gathered in the court house to get a glimpse of the financial wizard.

EXCITEMENT IN NICARAGUA.

Indemnity Claims by Norway May Lead to Hostilities.

KINGSTON, Jamaica (By Cable).—According to mail advices from Bluefields popular excitement in Nicaragua is increasing in consequence of the urgency of Norway in demanding a settlement of the claims growing out of the alleged treatment of Norwegians by the Nicaraguan Government during the Reyes rebellion last spring.

It is believed that President Zelaya intends to resist the payment of indemnity, and that he is occupying strategic points along the coast with Nicaraguan troops.

REV. DR. TALMAGE

DISCOURSE BY THE EMINENT DIVINE LAST SUNDAY

Subject: A Warning Sounded—The Talent of the Church of Christ is Undeveloped and Its Energy Dormant—The Enemy Profits by This.

[Copyright 1900.]

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In this discourse Dr. Talmage shows how the cause of righteousness has lost many of its weapons and how they are to be recaptured and put into effective operation; text, I. Samuel xiii., 19-21: "Now there was no smith found throughout all the land of Israel, for the Philistines said, Lest the Hebrews make them swords or spears. But all the Israelites went down to the Philistines, to sharpen every man his share, and his coulter, and his ax, and his mattock. Yet they had a file for the mattock, and for the coulters, and for the forks, and for the axes, and to sharpen the goads."

What a galling subjugation for the Israelites! The Philistines had carried off all the blacksmiths and torn down all the blacksmiths' shops and abolished the blacksmiths' trade in the land of Israel. The Philistines would not even allow these parties to work their valuable mines of brass and iron, nor might they make any swords or spears. There were only two swords left in all the land. Yea, these Philistines went on until they had taken all the grindstones from the land of Israel, so that if an Israelitish farmer wanted to sharpen his plow or his axe he had to go over to the garrison of the Philistines to get it done. There was only one sharpening instrument left in the land, and that was a file, the farmers and mechanics having nothing to whet up the coulter and the goad and the pickax save a simple file. Industry was hindered and work practically disgraced. The great idea of these Philistines was to keep the Israelites disarmed. They might get iron out of the hills to make swords of, but they would not have any blacksmiths to weld this iron. If they got the iron welded, they would have no grindstones on which to bring the instruments of agriculture or the military weapons up to an edge.

Oh, you poor, weaponless Israelites, reduced to a file, how I pity you! But these Philistines were not forever to keep their heel on the neck of God's children. Jonathan, on his hands and knees, climbs up a great rock, beyond which were the Philistines, and his armor bearer, on his hands and knees, climbs up the same rock, and these two men, with their two swords, hew to pieces the Philistines, the Lord throwing a great terror upon them. So it was then; so it is now. Two men of God on their knees mightier than a Philistine host on their feet!

I learn, first, from this subject that it is dangerous for the church of God to allow its weapons to stay in the hands of its enemies. These Israelites might again and again have obtained a supply of swords and weapons—as, for instance, when they took the spoils of the Ammonites—but these Israelites seemed content to have no swords, no spears, no blacksmiths, no grindstones, no active iron mines, until it was too late for them to make any resistance. I see the farmers tugging along with their pickaxes and plow, and I say, "Where are you going with those things?" They say, "Oh, we are going over to the garrison of the Philistines to get these things sharpened!" I say, "You foolish men! Why don't you sharpen them at home?" "Oh," they say, "the blacksmiths' shops are all torn down, and we have nothing left us but a file!"

So it is in the church of Jesus Christ today. We are too willing to give up our weapons to the enemy. The world boasts that it has gobbled up the schools, and the colleges, and the arts, and the sciences, and the literature, and the printing press. Infidelity is making a mighty attempt to get all our weapons in its hand and then to keep them. You know it is making this boast all the time, and after awhile, when the great battle between sin and righteousness has opened, if we do not look out we will be as badly off as these Israelites, without any swords to fight with and without any sharpening instruments. I call upon the superintendents of literary institutions to see to it that the men who go into the classrooms to stand beside the Leyden jars, and the electric batteries, and the microscopes and telescopes, are children of God, not Philistines.

The Tyndallean thinkers of our times are trying to get all the intellectual weapons in their own grasp. We want scientific Christians to capture the science, and scholastic Christians to capture the scholarship, and philosophic Christians to capture philosophy, and lecturing Christians to take back the lecturing platform. We want to send out against Schenkel and Strauss and Renan a Theodore Christlieb of Bonn and against the infidel scientists of the day a God-worshiping Silliman and Hitchcock and Agassiz. We want to capture all the philosophical apparatus and swing around the telescopes on the swivel until through them we can see the morning star of the Redeemer, and with mineralogical hammer discover the Rock of Ages, and amid the flora of all psalms find the Rose of Sharon and the Lilly of the Valley. We want some one able to expound the first chapter of Genesis, bring to it the geology and the astronomy of the world, until, as Job suggested, "the stones of the field shall be in league" with the truth and the stars in their course shall fight against Sisera. Oh, church of God, go out and recapture these weapons!

Let men of God go out and take possession of the platform. Let any printing presses that have been captured by the enemy be recaptured for God, and the reporters, and the typesetters, and the editors, and the publishers swear all allegiance to the Lord God of truth. Ah, my friend, that day must come, and if the great body of Christian men have not the faith or courage or the consecration to do it, then let some Jonathan on his busy hands and on his praying knees climb up on the rock of hindrance and, in the name of the Lord God of Israel, slash to pieces those literary Philistines. If these men will not be converted to God, then they must be overthrown.

Again, I learn from this subject what a large amount of the church's resources is actually hidden and buried and undeveloped. The Bible intimates that that was a very rich land, this land of Israel. It says, "The stones are iron, and out of the hills thou shalt dig brass," and yet hundreds and thousands of dollars' worth of this metal was kept under the hills. Well, that is the difficulty with the church of God at this day. Its talent is not developed. If one-half of its energy could be brought out, it might take the public iniquities of the day by the throat and make them bite the dust. If human eloquence were consecrated to the Lord Jesus Christ, it would in a few years persuade the whole earth to surrender to God. There is enough undeveloped energy in this city to bring all the United States to Christ, enough of undeveloped Christian energy in the United States to bring the whole world to Christ, but it is buried under strata of indifference and under whole mountains of sloth. Now, is it not time for the mining to begin and the pickaxes to plunge and for this buried metal to be brought out and put into the furnaces and turned into howitzers and carbines for the Lord's host?

The vast majority of Christians in this day are useless. The most of the Lord's battalion belong to the reserve corps. The most of the crew are asleep in the hammocks. The most of the metal is under the hills. Oh, is it not time for the church of God to rouse up and understand that we want all the energies, all the talent and all the wealth enlisted for Christ's sake? I like the nickname that the English soldiers gave to Blucher, the commander. They called him "Old Forwards." We have had enough retreats in the church of Christ; let us have a glorious advance. And I say to you as the general said when his troops were affrighted—rising up in his stirrups, his hair flying in the wind, he lifted up his voice until 30,000 troops heard him crying out, "Forward, the whole line!" We want all the laymen enlisted. Ministers are numerically too small. They do the best they can. They are the most overworked class on earth. Many of them die of dyspepsia because they cannot get the right kind of food to eat or, getting the right kind, are so worried that they take it down in chunks. They die from consumption coming from early and late exposure.

If a novelist or a historian publishes one book a year, he is considered industrious. But every faithful pastor must originate enough thought for three or four volumes a year. Ministers receive enough calls in a year from men who have maps and medicines and lightning rods and pictures to sell to exhaust their vitality. They are bored with agents of all sorts. They are set in drafts at funerals and poisoned by the unventilated rooms of invalids and waited upon by committees who want addresses made until life becomes a burden to bear. It is not hard study that makes ministers look pale. It is the infinity of interruptions and botherations to which they are subjected. Numerically too small! It is no more the work of the pulpit to convert and save the world than it is the work of the pew. If men go to ruin, there will be as much blood on your skirts as on mine.

Let us quit this grand farce of trying to save the world by a few clergymen, and let all hands lay hold of the work. Give us in all our churches two or three aroused and qualified men and women to help. In most churches today five or ten men are compelled to do all the work. A vast majority of churches are at their wits' end how to carry on a prayer meeting if the minister is not there, when there ought to be enough pent up energy and religious force to make a meeting go on with such power that the minister would never be missed. The church stands working the pumps of a few ministerial cisterns until the buckets are dry and choked, while there are thousands of fountains from which might be dipped up the waters of eternal life. Before you and I have the sod pressing our eyelids we will under God decide whether our children shall grow up amid the accursed surroundings of vice and shame or come to an inheritance of righteousness. Long, loud, bitter will be the curse that scorches our grave if, holding within the church to-day enough men and women to save the city, we act the coward or the drone. I wish I could put enough moral explosives under the conventionalities and majestic stupidities of the day to blow them to atoms and that then, with 50,000 men and women from all the churches knowing nothing but Christ and a desire to bring all the world to Him, we might move upon the enemy's works. For a little while heaven would not have trumpets enough to celebrate the victories.

Again, I learn from this subject that we sometimes do well to take advantage of the world's grindstones. These Israelites were reduced to a file, and so they went over to the garrison of the Philistines to get their axes and their goads and their plows sharpened. The Bible distinctly states it—the text which I read at the beginning of the service—that they had no other instruments now with which to do this work, and the Israelites did right when they went over to the Philistines to use their grindstones. My friends, is it not right for us to employ the world's grindstones? If there be art, if there be logic, if there be business faculty on the other side, let us go over and employ it for Christ's sake. The fact is we fight with too dull instruments. We hack and we maul when we ought to make a clean stroke. Let us go over among sharp business men and among sharp literary men and find out what their tact is and transfer it to the cause of Christ. If they have science and art it will do us good to rub against it.

In other words, let us employ the world's grindstones. We will listen to their music, and we will watch their acumen, and we will use their grindstones, and will borrow their philosophical apparatus to make our experiments, and we will borrow their printing presses to publish our Bibles, and we will borrow their rail trains to carry our Christian literature, and we will borrow their ships to transport our missionaries. That was what made Paul such a master in his day. He not only got all the learning he could get of Dr. Gamaliel, but afterward, standing on Mars hill and in crowded thoroughfare, quoted their poetry, and grasped their logic, and wielded their eloquence, and employed their mythology until Dionysius, the Areopagite, learned in the schools of Athens and Heliopolis, went down under his tremendous powers.

That was what gave Thomas Chalmers his power in his day. He conquered the world's astronomy and compelled it to ring out the wisdom and greatness of the Lord until, for the second time, the morning stars sang together and all the sons of God shouted for joy. That was what gave to Jonathan Edwards his influence in his day. He conquered the world's metaphysics and forced it into the service of God until not only the old meeting house at Northampton, Mass., but all Christendom, felt thrilled by his Christian power. Well, now, my friends, we all have tools of Christian power. Do not let them lose their edges. We want no rusty blades in this fight. We want no coulter that cannot rip up the glebe. We want no axe that cannot fell the trees. We want no goad that cannot start the lazy team. Let us get the very best grindstones we can find, though they be in possession of the Philistines, compelling them to turn the crank while we bear down with all our might on the swift revolving wheel until all our energies and faculties shall be brought up to a bright, keen, sharp, glittering edge.

Again, my subject teaches us on what a small allowance Philistine iniquity puts a man. Yes, these Philistines shut up the mines, and then they took the spears and the swords; then they took the blacksmiths; then they took the grindstones, and they took everything but a file. Oh, that is the way sin works! It grabs everything. It begins with robbery and ends with robbery. It despoils this faculty and that faculty and keeps on until the whole nature is gone. Was the man eloquent before, it generally thickens his tongue. Was he fine in personal appearance, it mars his visage. Was he affluent, it sends the sheriff to sell him out. Was he influential, it destroys his popularity. Was he placid and genial and loving, it makes him splenetic and eross, and sometimes he is changed that you can see he is sarcastic and rasping and that the Philistines have left him nothing but a file.

I learn from this subject what a sad thing it is when the church of God loses its metal! These Philistines saw that if they could only get all the metallic weapons out of the hands of the Israelites all would be well, and therefore they took the swords and the spears. They did not want them to have a single metallic weapon. When the metal of the Israelites was gone, their strength was gone. This is the trouble with the church of God to-day. It is surrendering its courage. It has not enough metal.

Oh, is it not high time that we awake out of sleep? Church of God, lift up your head at the coming victory! The Philistines will go down, and the Israelites will go up. We are on the winning side. I think just now the King's horses are being hooked up to the chariot, and when He does ride down the sky there will be such a hosanna among His friends and such a wailing among His enemies as will make the earth tremble and the heavens ring. I see now the plumes of the Lord's cavalry tossing in the air. The archangel before the throne has already furnished his trumpet, and then he will put its golden lips to his own, and he will blow the long, loud blast that will make all the nations free. Clap your hands, all ye people! Hark! I hear the falling thrones and the dashing down of demolished idolatries. "Hallelujah, the Lord God omnipotent reigneth! Hallelujah, the kingdoms of this world are become the kingdoms of our Lord Jesus Christ!"

READ our special offer on this page, the biggest offer ever made by any county paper in Alabama. Then tell your friends and neighbors about it. Now is the time to subscribe.

We have much pleasure in announcing that we have perfected arrangements by which we can extend our Special Offer until Thursday March 1, 1900. It affords us much gratification that our Special Offer should have been so much appreciated, and if there is any person who wishes to take advantage of it, we shall be glad to have them do so on or before March 1, after which date the offer will positively be withdrawn.

IT will be remembered that the Legislature at its last session passed a bill concerning the Commissioners' districts of Chilton county, and for the convenience of voters we summarise the measure.

The First district comprises Beats 1 and 2; the Second district Beats 3 and 9; the Third district Beats 7 and 8; and the Fourth district Beats 4, 5 and 6.

At the coming election four commissioners are to be elected. The commissioners from the First and Second districts will serve for two years, and those from the Third and Fourth districts will serve for four years.

The effect of this law is that two old commissioners will remain in office and initiate the new commissioners in their duties. It is a good law and will prove beneficial to the county.

HON. Jesse F. Stallings, candidate for governor, spoke to a good audience at the court house this morning. He made a strong democratic speech speaking at length upon the suffrage question and the school system. His speech lasted for nearly two hours, but the ladies and gentlemen present were so interested that they were sorry when he closed.

Chilton county has now heard two of the gubernatorial candidates, both Democrats, but there is a wide difference between the democratic doctrine of Mr. Waller and that of Mr. Stallings, and we have no hesitation in saying that the democracy of the latter is far more in accord with the views of the great majority of the people of Chilton than that presented to their consideration by Mr. Waller.

Mr. Waller argues for a new constitution mainly on the ground that under the present constitution the ring democrats are losing their hold on the reins of government, and proposes to disfranchise the negro without disfranchising the poor white man. Under the federal constitution it can not be done, and is a mere electioneering device.

Mr. Stallings thoroughly exposed the fallacy of Mr. Waller's argument, and was heartily applauded when, referring to the old confederate soldier who thirty-five years ago was debarred from acquiring an education by the exciting events then happening, he declared that any party who would disfranchise those men deserved to be forever damned, and he would quit the party before he would consent to any such action.

His remarks on the school system of Alabama were highly appreciated and his suggestions for improvement were fully agreed in. Altogether Mr. Stallings made a good impression.

The Ladies' Aid Society will give an Oyster Supper at Prof. McNeel's school house on next Friday night, Feb. 16, beginning at 6:30 o'clock. Proceeds to be appropriated to the Methodist church. Charges moderate.

W. A. MIMS.

This gentleman celebrates his fiftieth birth day by announcing himself a candidate for the office of Tax Collector of Chilton county. He is a thorough Chiltonian, having been born and raised in Beat 1. Mr. Mims has never held any office, and this is the first time he has been a candidate. He was a member of the Farmers' Club previous to the formation of the Farmers' Alliance, of which he was a staunch member from the start to the finish. He is a deacon and clerk in the Baptist church of which he is a member, and a highly popular man in the Collins Chapel community where he has resided for about seventeen years. It is a foregone conclusion that if he is elected he will make an efficient and popular tax collector.

MOSES A. KILLGORE.

For the second time Mr. Killgore submits himself as a candidate for the Sheriff's office. Four years ago he made a capital race for the office and made many friends while canvassing the county, and by his genial manner in accepting defeat. For seventeen years he has lived in Chilton county and has taken a leading part in public affairs. When the Farmers' Club was organized he was one of the first to join, and afterwards took an active part in the Alliance, and was for some time president of the Cane Creek Alliance. Mr. Killgore is a member and deacon of the Baptist church. He is of the people, by the people and for the people, and if elected sheriff can be depended upon to prove his faith by his works.

J. J. LETCHER.

Thirty years is a good part of a man's life, and gives ample opportunity for the development of his character. For thirty years Mr. J. J. Letcher has been a highly respected citizen and taxpayer of Chilton county, and has never asked the people for office before. He now announces himself a candidate for Tax Collector, being encouraged so to do by many of his friends and neighbors who appreciate his worth. Mr. Letcher served four years in the Confederate cause and was wounded in the hand, making him a cripple for life. He is a member of the Baptist church, and also of the Masonic fraternity. He has some acquaintance with the duties of the Tax Collector, having served as a deputy for some time, and if he is elected will devote his best energies to efficiently serve the people.

BUCKNER HARRIS, JR.

In seeking the support of the people for the responsible position of Sheriff, Buckner Harris, Jr., can claim some very important qualifications—he is young and energetic, has a clear head, even temper, and good judgment. Born in Chilton county about twenty-eight years ago he is thoroughly acquainted with the people among whom he has been raised, and his many good qualities have created for him a large number of friends who promise to make him a strong candidate for the office he seeks. He has been identified with the Populist party since the commencement, and this is the first occasion he has sought any recognition for the services he has rendered. Mr. Harris will, if elected, doubtless prove an able and fearless sheriff.

W. A. GREENE.

One of—in many respects, the most important—offices to be filled is that of County Commissioner, and Mr. Greene in submitting himself to the suffrage of the voters offers to them a man of mature age and vigor, a man who knows what they need and what the resources of the county can provide. Changes have been many and various since Mr. Greene first became many years ago, a citizen of Chilton county, but he has noted and observed all these changes and knows what the county needs. He has always been a strong Populist, and if elected Commissioner will carry out the great Populist principle of the greatest good to the greatest number.

OUR SPECIAL OFFER,

FOR THREE WEEKS ONLY.

This year is one of especial interest to everyone. In Chilton county we have to elect a Representative, Sheriff, Tax Assessor, Tax Collector, Treasurer and four Commissioners. In the senatorial district we have to elect a State Senator. In the State we have to elect a Governor and all the rest of the State officers. The legislature will have to elect a United States Senator. Then there is a Congressman to be elected and a President of the United States. Lots of elections, and you want to know all about them.

Two wars are now in progress and stirring events are to be expected. You want to keep posted.

The census is to be taken this year, you will have to be included, and of course want to know how the country is progressing.

To keep up with all this you will have to have a good newspaper, and we make this special offer for 3 weeks only:

You Can't Dodge Them

Did you ever try to dodge the rain-drops? Did not succeed very well, did you? It's just as useless to try to escape from the germs of consumption. You can't do it. They are about us on every hand and we are constantly taking them into our lungs.

Then why don't we all have this disease? Simply because these germs cannot gain a foothold in a strong throat and lungs. It is when these are weak that the germs master.

The body must be well supplied with fat. The danger comes when the blood is poor and the body is thin. If your cough does not yield, and your throat and lungs feel raw and sore, you should not delay another day. Take of Cod-Liver Oil with Hypophosphites at once. It will heal the inflamed membranes and greatly strengthen them as well. The digestion becomes stronger, the appetite better and the weight increases. The whole body becomes well fortified and the germs of consumption cannot gain a foothold.

It's this nourishing, sustaining and strengthening power of SCOTT'S EMULSION that has made it of such value in all wasting and exhausting diseases.

50c. and $1.00, all druggists.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.

CHICAGO GLEE CLUB.

The people of Clanton and vicinity will have an opportunity next Thursday night to hear some of the best musical talent now traveling in the United States. The celebrated Chicago Glee Club, consisting of a male quortette, o soprano soloist and a pianist, which is now filling a weeks engagement at the Chautauqua at DeFuniak Springs, Florida, has been secured for one night here and will sing under the auspicies of the Baptist church. This is a high priced attraction that has never before sung in the smaller towns. The Club will be the guests of Governor Johnston at Montgomery Wednesday and will come directly here from that city.

Besides the regular program, the club will sing a number of songs dressed in sailor costume, and will also give several recitations. The yong folks will especially enjoy their rendition of Eugene Field's, "A Seein' Things at Night."

THE COTTON SITUATION.

The Mobile Daily Register, reviewing the cotton situation, and accepting 8,500,000 bales as a conservative estimate of this season's crop, and calling attention to the fact that there is more money in the crop at 8 cents than in last year's big crop at 5 cents, aside of profit being in the saving in cultivating and handling a small crop, as compared with a large one, urges that the planters refrain from over cropping next season, as they seem disposed to do.

"All this" says the Register, "is strong argument against making an effort to raise a huge crop the coming season. If the south is to make the price for cotton, as it has been able to do for quite awhile this season, it must refrain from raising more cotton than the world can consume. It is inevitable that if a staple is pushed upon a slow market the buyers make the price.

For years the complaint has come that the planters have been at the mercy of the Liverpool buyers. The sufferers have gone so far as to charge that there has been a conspiracy to keep prices down, but it is evident—and the experiences of this year prove it—that the planters themselves, by raising entirely too much cotton have put the power of dictating the price into the hands of the buyers ro, in other words, have been co-conspirators in keeping prices down, and they have had themselves alone to blame. Let them take warning and not do over again next year's crop what they have reason to know is greatly to their disadvantage."

It would be fortunate for the farmers of the South and for the South, if the crop could be kept at about 10,500,000 bales for awhile. A crop of that size for two or three years would bring the price of cotton up to where cotton would yield the farmers an excellent profit. It is better from any point of view to have a small crop and a big price than a big crop and a low price, because a big crop and a low price leave the farmers little or no profit. The cost of producing a big crop is about what the crop brings in the market. The crop for the season of 1899-1900 is a short one and the price of cotton is better than it has been for a long while. As a consequence the South is more prosperous than she has been in years. —Savannah News.

An Editor's Life Saved by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

During the early part of October, 1896, I contracted a bad cold which settled on my lungs and was neglected until I feared that consumption had appeared in an incipient state. I was constantly coughing and trying to expel something which I could not. I became alarmed and after giving the local doctor a trial bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and the result was immediate improvment, and After I had used three bottles my lungs were restored to their healthy state.—B. S. Edwards, publisher of the Review, Wyant, Ill. For Sale by the Clanton Drug, Co.

READ our special offer on this page, the biggest offer ever made by any county paper in Alabama. Then tell your friends and neighbors about it.

"After doctors failed to cure me of pneumonia I used One Minute Cough Cure and three bottles of it cured me. It is also the best remedy on earth for whooping cough. It cured my grand children of the worst cases," writes Jno. Berry, Loganton, Pa. It is the only harmless remedy that gives immediate results. Cures coughs, colds, croup and throat and lung troubles. It prevents consumption. Children always like it. Mothers endorse it. J. B. Downs.

The Imperial Gas Lamp

Covered by U. S. Patents.

Admittedly the BEST light on the market and the most economical.

The Imperial burns common stove gasoline and gives a 100 candle power light at a cost of one cent per day.

One Gallon will burn 60 hours.

The needle keeps the burner clean, so it will not clog, and the generating tube being in center of flame, insures a light that will not go out. There is no odor, no smoke and no flicker. The light can be raised or turned down just as with a gas jet or lamp. THE IMPERIAL is the most perfect light on the market and everything pertaining to it is the best to be had. IT WILL PAY TO INVESTIGATE.

If not sold in your town write us for catalogue.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Only three States in the Union pay their Governors $10,000 per annum. They are New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

While Mr. Roberts of Utah is "walking the earth as angels walk the clouds," the three Mrs. Robertses will probably tag along behind, as usual, with the perambulators.

It is gratifying to notice that a large and increasing number of men, especially young men, are finding out for themselves the relative value of the different articles of their apparel.

A Boston church has purchased a farm near Shirley, Mass., which will be used as a vacation home for working mothers, young men and women and children connected with the congregation.

In two articles on the development of the United States which have just appeared in the Vossische Zeitung, one of the leading German Newspapers, that journal declares that no people has a better right to bless the nineteenth century than has the American nation.

The Cuban census shows a surprisingly small population, only about 1,200,000, being only three-fourths of what it was, or was said to be, in 1894. This is in part due to the sufferings of the last decade, when thousands of the poor died, but hardly four hundred thousand.

The business of college education is one of the greatest business in the United States. The 426 colleges and universities, in which are enrolled 175,000 students, represent an invested capital of $250,000,000, and give employment to 25,000 persons as teachers and officers.

The rule of the South African war has been that to attack meant defeat and to defend meant victory to either side. The only way to restore the balance thus profoundly disturbed is to invent artillery that will destroy entrenched troops from beyond rifle range. This was expected of lyddite, but the British have been disappointed.

The New Jersey bureau of labor statistics has gathered some facts relative to the existence of company stores in the state. Fifteen such institutions were found, and the statistician estimates that on an average the person obliged to deal at a company store pays thirteen cents on the dollar more than if he could purchase where he pleased.

There are more Indians to-day in the United States than would equal those living east of the Mississippi when the white man set foot upon American shores 400 years ago. The present Indian population is something over 243,000, while it is said there were never more than 200,000 Indians in the United States east of the Mississippi River.

Wars and war debts have to be paid for by the common people, who are the principal taxpayers. The wars of the nineteenth century cost the world, mainly Europe, directly or indirectly, over one hundred billion dollars. This is enough, if devoted to commerce and the arts of peace, to build one thousand ship canals at a cost of one hundred million dollars each.

During 1899 there were 570 cases of suicide reported in the papers, in comparison with 808 the year before. Of this number 78 per cent. were men and 22 per cent. women. Of the causes assigned the following, in order, were the most frequent: lack of work, love, domestic troubles, sickness, business troubles. The number of lynchings reported in 1899 was 107, which is the smallest number in any year so far recorded. In 1892 the number was 235 and in 1893, 200, since when a steady decline has been noted.

Japan is taking another important step toward the higher plane of modern civilization by separating the church from the state. A bill is now before the House of Peers abolishing Buddhism as the officially recognized religion of the state and placing all creeds on an equal footing, and it is said that it will surely pass. Thus within the brief period of thirty years or so Japan has emerged from a state of complete heathen barbarism and established her right to a place in the front rank of the most liberal and enlightened of the civilized nations of the earth.

The use of electricity is becoming more appreciated in almost every walk of life, remarks the London Electrical Engineer. For instance, a man was recently arrested charged with being found on the roof of a jeweler's shop, for the purpose of committing a felony. On being searched, besides some very fine specimens of housebreaking implements, there was also found a portable electric light set. This we should suppose was a great improvement on the usual means of lighting by members of this profession, comments our contemporary, owing to the ease with which it could be switched on and off, and the entire absence of smell.

Charles McCarthy, the first man to turn a double somersault, dropped dead of heart disease in Chicago. The immoderate circus aspirations of youth are restrained by the information that circus performers always die young; and to the natural interest of the clown is added the pathetic knowledge of his early doom. Double somersaulting seems to be different from other circusing, or else Charles McCarthy lived to spite the wise saws of age; for he was sixty years old, which is quite as long as the average man can expect to live, even if he eschews the dreams of his youth and curbs his desire for spangled tights and jumping over camels and elephants.

The Irish Agricultural Organization Society is a society of philanthropic men and women for the promotion of co-operation among the Irish farmers. The society does not contribute to the expense of sustaining the co-operative organizations or supply their directors or managers, but it does pay the cost of original organization, including the literature and the services of an organizer. As the result of the work of the society there were at the date of the last annual meeting 412 societies, with 40,000 members. The majority of these farmers' societies are probably creameries, but there are companies for almost all rural purposes, including marketing societies, co-operative stores and co-operative banks. The work is effecting a great change in the habits of Irish farmers and in their financial condition.

Perhaps it is not too much to say that the Boer is the best shot in the world. As soon as he is strong enough to carry a rifle the Government presents one to him; such has been its custom for several years (the old Boers required no training in marksmanship), and no doubt the genius who originated the idea had a struggle with the British in mind. The Government, moreover, provides the boy with ammunition, and he is encouraged to hunt on the veldt and to shoot at a target at a measured distance. It is not surprising, then, that he takes the field an excellent sharpshooter. At Colenso, and also at the Modder River, the British found white stones set up to establish ranges which had been carefully measured by the Boers, an illustration of their grim, business-like capacity for war—the modern war of the deadly magazine rifle.

There are diplomatists in Washington who even dare to hope, not for the millennium, but for a rapprochement between England and Russia. Now that Germany, England and the United States have a friendly understanding, but one first-class power remains out of the combination, and that one, Russia, is friendly with both the United States and Germany. If the relations between England and Russia could be improved, if their foreign offices could first establish better feeling and then agreement concerning some of their points of difference in China and Asia generally the last menace to the peace of the world, so far as any great wars are concerned, would be removed. There are indications that the trend of modern diplomacy is in this wholesome direction and that th's dream may yet come true. But even if it does not, it may already be said with truth that the entrance of the United States fairly to the field of world politics has lifted the spirit of nations in their relations one to another and made for peace and progress.

Coffee was the principal source of wealth in Cuba during the early part of this century, and at one time the value of this product amounted to nearly $20,000,000 in a single year. The industry was established by French refugees from Santo Domingo. The plantations afterward fell into the hands of the Spaniards and Americans, but in 1830 the price of coffee declined and the planters took to raising sugar. The great area devoted to the raising of coffee in Brazil and Central America has increased the world's product of coffee and lowered prices, and similar conditions as regards sugar prevail. This reduction is shown by the fact that in the United States the average import price of sugar has fallen from 5.06 cents in 1878 to 2.01 cents in 1897. Consequently, although larger areas for the production of sugar and coffee may be opened in our new dependencies, it is doubtful if the price which obtained in former years will ever be realized.

The Fresa Second Lieutenant.

The following story of General Lawton was told by a sergeant in the regular Army who served under Lawton in Cuba and afterward went to Manila, being now the oldest enlisted man in the Eighth Army Corps. After the surrender of Santiago the General was standing in the main street of the city looking into the windows of a shop, his tall, massive form making him even more conspicuous than usual. He wore a blue shirt and campaign hat, and was without any indications of his rank. A young Second Lieutenant just from West Point, and so belonging to the class known in the army as "Johnny-come-lately" was walking down the street, and having a high sense of his own importance, tapped the General on the shoulder, taking him for a non-commissioned officer. As the General turned around he was addressed thus by the young officer:

"Sergeant, are you a soldier?"

"Yes sir," replied the General.

"Then why don't you salute an officer when you see him?"

The General saluted, but with so abrupt and flippant an air that the anger of the Lieutenant was aroused, and he further asked:

"Sergeant, what's your name?"

"Well," replied the General, assuming a slight drawl that was sometimes characteristic, "my name is Major-General Henry W. Lawton. What's your name?" leaving the Lieutenant crestfallen and stammering out some lame apology.

THE SABBATH SCHOOL.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR FEBRUARY 18.

Subject: Jesus at Jacob's Well, John iv., 5-26—Golden Text: John iv., 24—Memory Verses, 11-14—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

INTRODUCTION.—Sychar, formerly Shechem, now Nablus, is at the foot of Mount Gerizim, between Gerizim and Ebal. It is noted in the Scriptures as the place where Abraham first stopped on his coming from Haran to Canaan, where God appeared to him and promised to give the land to his seed; and where he first built an altar to the Lord. In the fourth century B. C. (about 332) Sanballat erected a temple on Gerizim in opposition to the Jewish temple.

CONNECTING LINES.—After the interview with Nicodemus at the time of the Passover feast, Jesus and His followers left Jerusalem and spent about eight months in Judea. Jesus taught the people and His disciples baptized them. Vs. 1, 2. When Jesus heard of the imprisonment of John (Matt. 4: 12; Mark 1: 14), and that the Pharisees were endeavoring to stir up the disciples of John against His disciples, He determined to leave the Jews and go into Galilee.

5. "Sychar." Or Shechem, at the foot of Mount Gerizim. "Parcel of ground." Purchased of the children of Hamor (Gen. 33: 19), and given to Joseph. Gen. 48: 22; Josh. 24: 32.

6. "Jacob's well." The well Jacob dug. The word for well in the Greek means fountain. At the beginning of the last century it was 105 feet deep, but at present it is only seventy-five feet deep. It is seven and one-half feet in diameter and is walled with masonry. "Jesus ....being weary." He was a man, as well as God, and became weary and hungry. He journeyed on foot, sharing with His disciples the fatigues and hardships of the way. "The sixth hour." Noon. There is a difference of opinion here; several good authorities think it was six o'clock in the evening.

7. "Woman of Samaria." This woman lived in the country. "Give Me to drink." In this latitude the weather is sometimes exceedingly hot at noon even in December, when it is cold at night. Jesus asks a favor and thus opens the way to grant one.

8. "To buy meat." Food. John, it is thought, had remained with Jesus.

9. "Being a Jew." His dress and dialect disclosed His nationality. "No dealings with the Samaritans." The Samaritans were the descendants of the Ethiopian and Babylonish colonists upon whom the Assyrian conqueror of the ten tribes bestowed the lands of the captive Israelites. See 2 Kings 17: 24-33. Between these people and the Jews a deadly hatred existed.

10. "The gift of God." John 3: 16. The Messiah, and the salvation He is bringing to man. "Thou wouldst have asked of Him." Spiritually, our positions are reversed. It is thou who art weary, and footsore, and parched, close to the well, yet unable to drink; it is I who can give thee the water from the well, and quench thy thirst forever. "Living water." The gift of the Holy Spirit. John 7: 37-39. Also called "the water of life." Rev. 21: 6; 22; 1, 17. "Clean water." Ezek. 36, 26, 27. See also Isa. 55: 1; 58: 11.

11. "Nothing to draw with." The wells had, oftentimes, no implements for drawing water.

12. "Our father Jacob." They were not the descendants of Jacob, although some of the ancient blood might have been in their veins.

13. "Shall thirst again." Jesus does not discuss the question of greatness, but turns her thought towards spiritual truth, as He did Nicodemus.

14. "Shall never thirst." He does not mean that one draught shall satisfy us, but that we will always have in the soul a well of living water. "Shall be in Him." The religion of Jesus has to do with the inner life. Christ puts new principles and affections within us. "A well of water." A fountain of water. The supply is exhaustless. Here is an unfailing fulness of love, joy, peace and spiritual strength—a full salvation. "Springing up." Whoever has this living water in the soul already has eternal life. The water of life is, 1. Given by Jesus. 2. It is pure. 3. It satisfies the soul. 4. There is a never failing supply. 5. It is free. 6. It is for all who thirst.

15. "Give me this water." She did not understand His meaning fully, but she was anxious to receive any good He might be able to impart.

16. "Go, call thy husband." These words were spoken, 1. To make the woman consider her own state. 2. To show her that He knew her heart and secret life. Before she can receive living water she must be convinced of her depravity.

18. "Five husbands." The five had either divorced her for immorality, or were dead; to the sixth she was not married. At this time divorces were very common, and a man put away his wife for any fault.

19. "Thou art a prophet." She speaks respectfully and recognizes Him as one with a divine mission.

20. "Our fathers worshiped." Abraham and Jacob. The Samaritans pretended to be descendants of these patriarchs. This woman here introduced the question that was causing the dispute between the Jews and Samaritans. If He were a prophet He could tell her whether Mount Gerizim or Jerusalem were the proper place for public worship. To the Samaritans, Gerizim was the most sacred spot on earth. It had been, as they believed, the seat of Paradise.

21. "The hour cometh." The hour has come in which spiritual worship is about to be established, and "the Jewish rites and ceremonies abolished."

22. "Ye know not what." You are ignorant not only of the place, but also of the object and nature of true worship. The Samaritans believed in God, but they rejected the prophetical writings and all other books of Scripture except the five books of Moses. Their worship was a mixed worship. They feared the Lord, and served their own gods. "We know what we worship." We, Jews, acknowledge God and Him only, and offer to Him the sacrifices prescribed in the law. "Of the Jews." The Messiah is of the Jews. Even the Samaritans believed this.

23. "True worshipers." In opposition to false worshipers whose worship consists in external acts. "In spirit." In heart, with sincere love and devotion. "In truth." In sincerity, and in obedience to the truth. "Seeketh such." Desires such worshipers.

24. "God is a Spirit." God is an infinite Spirit, filling the heavens and the earth. He pervades, governs and upholds all things.

25. "All things." Necessary for us to know.

26. "I....am He." This was the first direct disclosure of Himself as the Messiah.

TEACHINGS.—As water quenches the thirst, refreshes and invigorates the body, purifies things defiled, and renders the earth fruitful, so the Holy Spirit satisfies and purifies the soul.

BULLER AGAIN ADVANCES

His Army Succeeds in Recrossing the Tugela River.

Attacks Boers at Two Points, Being Checked at One Place, But Taking a Hill at the Other.

LONDON (By Cable).—General Buller recrossed the Tugela River on Monday morning and assailed the Boer positions on the north side. The British carried several positions, and at last accounts were still holding them.

A dispatch to the Standard from Spearman's Camp says:

"The force under General Buller is again advancing to the relief of Ladysmith, and, after two days of severe fighting, it may fairly be said to have made a good first step on the road to the besieged town.

"The movement was begun at an early hour on Monday morning by way of Potgieter's Drift. The Eleventh Brigade, forming a part of the Fifth Division under General Warren, made a feint attack upon the kopjes immediately on our front. The assault was delivered at the outset under cover of naval guns on Mount Alice, and subsequently under that of field batteries.

"The infantry advanced steadily toward the Boer intrenched position at Brakfontein, and kept the enemy busily employed. While this diversion was being made the remainder of the infantry told off for the attack, who had bivouacked Sunday night under Mount Alice, moved along at the foot of Zwart's Kop in the direction of our right.

"A pontoon bridge was thrown across the Tugela by the engineers under the fire of the enemy. The first battalion to move across in the forenoon was the Durham Light Infantry, of General Lyttleton's brigade. They advanced against Vaal Krantz, which lies on the most direct road to Ladysmith, and after two hours' splendid work they got within charging distance of the Boers.

"The first of the kopjes was carried by them at the point of the bayonet with the utmost gallantry. Almost simultaneously the First Battalion Rifle Brigade cleared the second kopje, and, after moving across the long ridge, the bivouacked on the spot.

"The feint attack at Potgieter's Drift, having served its purpose in preventing the concentration of the enemy at the critical point, the Eleventh Brigade fell back to the river.

"In the course of the operation both the infantry and the artillery had been subjected to a severe shell fire.

"Yesterday (Tuesday) at 4 in the afternoon, the enemy, encouraged doubtless by their success at Spion Kop, endeavored to recapture the position taken by us at Vaal Krantz. They were beaten back, however, with loss.

"The shell and maxim fire poured in by the Boers has been extremely severe, but our losses are, comparatively speaking small. The Durham Light Infantry took a few prisoners in the course of their charge.

"The enemy, as usual, fought with the utmost stubbornness. The British manœuvring and the accuracy of aim on the part of the British artillery during the fighting on Monday were beyond praise. There is not the slightest likelihood that the Boers will succeed in dislodging us from the positions we have gained, and the prospects of the relief of Ladysmith are decidedly hopeful."

BOER STORY OF THE FIGHTING.

It Claims That the British Were Beaten Back in Great Confusion.

BOER HEAD LAAGER, Ladysmith, via Lorenzo Marques (By Cable).—Since Monday the British with naval and other guns have bombarded our positions on the Upper Tugela. The troops crossed the river at the Pont and at Molen Drift with the object of storming our positions, At the former General Burger beat them back, and they recrossed in great confusion.

The fighting continues at Molen Drift with the Standerton and Johannesburg commandos. There were no casualties on our side. The cannonade was the fiercest yet experienced. There was a continuous roaring all day long. Tuesday morning it commenced with an increased number of guns.

Further reports of Monday's fighting at the Upper Tugela River show that the British lost heavily at Pont Drift, but took an unimportant position on a small kopje on the Molen Drift side. Four Boers were killed. The British loss is unknown. They are still in possession of the kopje and the big guns have ceased firing.

TO BUY THE ERIE CANAL.

Bill Introduced at Washington For Its Purchase For Warships.

WASHINGTON, D. C. (Special).—Representative McClelland introduced in the House a bill to authorize the Secretary of War to treat with the State of New York for the purchase of the Erie Canal, and appropriating $10,000,000 therefor. The bill authorizes the Secretary of War to enlarge the canal sufficiently to permit of its use by United States war vessels of a displacement of 15,000 tons.

The Secretary is also authorized to contract for materials and work necessary for the enlargement of such canal, to be paid for as appropriated from time to time, not to succeed in the aggregate $75,000,000, provided that the compensation paid to the State of New York for its right and title shall be paid out of fees collected from vessels using the canal after the Government has purchased it, and provided that compensation so paid the State shall never in any one year exceed twenty-five per cent. of the net amount of such fees received during that period. The bill went to committee on railways and canals.

A LIVE MAN DEAD LEGALLY.

Georgia Court Decides That One Indifferent to His Rights Dies Presumptively.

ATLANTA, Ga. (Special). — Judge J. H Lumpkin, of the Atlanta Circuit, has decided that a claimant for an estate who is alive and was present in the court is dead legally. The Judge said:

"Plaintiff testified that he had been living in Texas and did not know until 1896 of his father's death or the division of the estate, but where one leaves a State and cuts off all communication with friends and relatives he becomes, presumptively at least, dead to the world. I scarcely think the statute of relations will stop and fruit on him any more than the village of Falling Water awaited the awakening of Rip Van Winkle or the wife of Enoch Arden awaited his return. Besides he returned in 1896 and knew the facts or could have known them fully but did not sue till 1899."

POPULAR SCIENCE.

A blackbird will stand at the side of a hanging wasp's nest and deliberately tear it in pieces in order to get at the larvæ, apparently undisturbed by the swarm of angry insects.

The German exploring vessel Mowa stopped on its last cruise at two small isolated islands, Matty and Durour, the inhabitants of which strikingly resemble the Japanese, though the islands are only a short distance from New Guinea.

In a recent paper by Francis Galton on "Finger-prints of Young Children," he demonstrated that clear prints of all ten fingers of a baby would suffice for after-identification by an expert, but by an expert only. Although new ridges may appear in infantile life, the type of each pattern persists all through life, and is never doubtful to a practised eye.

The Arctic Ocean, says Nansen, is a kind of lagoon separated from the Atlantic by a submarine ridge, stretching from Spitzbergen to Greenland. To this ridge is due a curious condition. The Arctic is covered with a layer of slightly salt water from the Siberian rivers and Bering Strait, and under this is the normally salt Gulf Stream water. If the two layers were mixed, the average temperature would fall, but this average would not be as cold as the surface layer. This accounts for the enormous formation of polar ice.

There is a wonderful spider in the Transvaal, which has apparently been discovered for the first time by Mr. Distant. It lives, we are told, in large communities, and builds itself a nest like a bird's. The nest is of irregular form, and in the interior are several artistically constructed galleries, which serve as homes for all the spiders of that particular family. One of these nests may be seen in the London Zoological Garden. It is very large, and is deftly covered with dry leaves. The spider in constructing a nest takes the utmost pains to make it of such a color that it will escape the eyes of its enemies, and in this laudable task the ingenious little creature almost always succeeds.

Astronomy in the nineteenth century has not only successfully cultivated, but has greatly enlarged, every field of investigation which it inherited from the proceeding century. The instruments and the methods of research have been greatly improved and to them have been added celestial photography and spectroscopy, which are distined to prove no less potent and efficacious than the telescope. Photography has shown itself to be a valuable adjunct to the telescope, and the application of the spectroscope has not only rectified the ideas of preceding centuries as to the constitution of the universe, but has created an absolutely new branch of science—that is to say, the chemistry of celestial bodies.

Cats Can Swim.

"Can cats swim? was asked of an old fisherman.

"Why, certainly," was the reply, "and that reminds me of a cat I once tried to drown that swam ashore. Surely there must have been hundreds or thousands of people who have drowned cats in the same way, but nevertheless this was an experience of my own. We had a cat that we wanted to get rid of, and as humane a way as any to kill it was by drowning. So I put a couple of bricks in the bottom of an old grain sack, and put in the cat, and tied the bag up carefully and securely and walked down to the end of a wharf and stood there and swung the bag with the cat and the bricks in it round like a sling until I could give it a good momentum and then let it go, and slung it out to fall and sink in the water, I should say twenty feet away.

"I supposed, of course, that that was the last of the cat; but the next morning the first thing I saw when I went out of the house was the cat sitting on the veranda.

"I suppose the bag had a weak spot in it somewhere, the bricks were heavy and sharp-cornered and swinging the bag round that way started it more, and the cat was desperate; and with the bag that way it scratched and tore its way out and got to the wharf and clawed its way up and came ashore.

"Can a cat swim? Why, sure!"—New York Sun.

Superstitions About Toads.

It is related of the American Indians that they believe that a council of the gods was held for producing light at night. The whip-poor-will made the moon out of a large frog, and the coldness of the moon is attributed to the frog's natural coldness.

Another tradition related of savage tribes is that the toad quarreled with the woodpecker and caused the deluge. It is said that they disputed over honey which the toad was induced to climb a tree in order to obtain. Then the woodpecker knocked the toad out of the tree, and in revenge the toad drank up all the water on the earth, leaving the birds dry and thirsty. In a subsequent quarrel the toad incautiously danced about until it burst, and the water covered the earth in a flood.

In Maryland the bite of the toad is considered poisonous, if not deadly. An old superstition is that handling toads will cause warts to grow on the hands.

A Very Beautiful Pearl.

The most beautiful pearl in existence is in the crown of one of the former Czars of Russia and is on exhibition in the Kremlin at Moscow. It is a perfect sphere, and so pure as to appear almost transparent. It weighs ninety grains.

After an experimental study of more than five years at the psychological laboratory of the Saltpetriere, M. Vaschide has concluded that the brain is always active, and there is no such thing as dreamless sleep. He has watched the sleep of 36 subjects ranging in age from 12 months to 80 years, and his own observations have been checked by those of 46 other persons. He finds that the dreams of deep sleep differ from the hallucinations that come at the moment of falling asleep and that of waking. The superficial sleep reflects more the sensations of every day, while the dreams of deep sleep are more continuous, more logical, farther from reality, and have more to do with one's earlier existence.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury,

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure to get the genuine. It is taken internally, and is made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

I Had a Bad Cough

"I had a bad cough for six weeks and could not find any relief whatever. I read what a wonderful remedy Ayer's Cherry Pectoral was for coughs and I bought a bottle. Before I had taken a quarter of it my cough had entirely left me."—L. Hawn, Newington, Ont., May 3, 1899.

Quickly Cures Colds

Neglected colds always lead to something serious. They run into chronic bronchitis which pulls down your general health and deprives you of sleep: or they end in genuine consumption with all its uncertain results.

Don't wait, but take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral just as soon as you begin to cough. A few doses will cure you then. But it cures old colds, too, only it takes a little more time. We refer to such diseases as bronchitis, asthma, whooping-cough, consumption, and hard winter coughs.

If you've just taken cold a 25 cent bottle is all you'll need. For harder cases a 50 cent bottle is better. For chronic troubles, and to keep on hand, the $1.00 bottle is most economical.

FALLING HAIR

Save Your Hair with Shampoos of Cuticura SOAP

And light dressings of CUTICURA, purest of emollient skin cures. This treatment at once stops falling hair, removes crusts, scales, and dandruff, soothes irritated, itching surfaces, stimulates the hair follicles, supplies the roots with energy and nourishment, and makes the hair grow upon a sweet, wholesome, healthy scalp when all else fails.

Millions of Women

Use CUTICURA SOAP exclusively for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, for cleansing the scalp of crusts, scales, and dandruff, and the stopping of falling hair, for softening, whitening, and healing, red, rough, and sore hands, in the form of baths for annoying irritations and chafings, or too free or offensive perspiration, in the form of washes for ulcerative weaknesses, and for many antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves to women, and especially mothers, and for all the purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery. No amount of persuasion can induce those who have once used it to use any other, especially for preserving and purifying the skin, scalp, and hair of infants and children. CUTICURA SOAP combines delicate emollient properties derived from CUTICURA, the great skin cure, with the purest of cleansing ingredients, and the most refreshing of flower odors. No other medicated soap ever compounded is to be compared with it for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, scalp, hair, and hands. No other foreign or domestic toilet soap, however expensive, is to be compared with it for all the purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery. Thus it combines, in ONE SOAP at ONE PRICE, viz., TWENTY-FIVE CENTS, the BEST skin and complexion soap, the BEST toilet and BEST baby soap in the world.

All that has been said of CUTICURA SOAP may be said with even greater emphasis of CUTICURA Ointment, the most delicate, and yet most effective of emollients, and greatest of skin cures. Its use in connection with CUTICURA SOAP (as per directions around each package), in the "ONE NIGHT CURE FOR SORE HANDS," in the "INSTANT RELIEF TREATMENT FOR DISFIGURING ITCHINGS AND IRRITATIONS," and in many uses too numerous to mention, is sufficient to prove its superiority over all other preparations for the skin.

Cuticura Complete External and Internal Treatment for every Humor, consisting of CUTICURA SOAP (25c.), to cleanse the skin of crusts and scales and soften the thickened cuticle, CUTICURA OINTMENT (50c.), to instantly allay itching, inflammation, and irritation, and soothe and heal, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT (50c.), to cool and cleanse the blood. A SINGLE SET is often sufficient to cure the most torturing, disfiguring, and humiliating skin, scalp, and blood humors, with loss of hair, when all else fails. POTTER DRUG AND CHEM. NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Only three States in the Union pay their Governors $10,000 per annum. They are New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

While Mr. Roberts of Utah is "walking the earth as angels walk the clouds," the three Mrs. Robertses will probably tag along behind, as usual, with the perambulators.

It is gratifying to notice that a large and increasing number of men, especially young men, are finding out for themselves the relative value of the different articles of their apparel.

A Boston church has purchased a farm near Shirley, Mass., which will be used as a vacation home for working mothers, young men and women and children connected with the congregation.

In two articles on the development of the United States which have just appeared in the Vossische Zeitung, one of the leading German Newspapers, that journal declares that no people has a better right to bless the nineteenth century than has the American nation.

The Cuban census shows a surprisingly small population, only about 1,200,000, being only three-fourths of what it was, or was said to be, in 1894. This is in part due to the sufferings of the last decade, when thousands of the poor died, but hardly four hundred thousand.

The business of college education is one of the greatest businesses in the United States. The 426 colleges and universities, in which are enrolled 175,000 students, represent an invested capital of $250,000,000, and give employment to 25,000 persons as teachers and officers.

The rule of the South African war has been that to attack meant defeat and to defend meant victory to either side. The only way to restore the balance thus profoundly disturbed is to invent artillery that will destroy entrenched troops from beyond rifle range. This was expected of lyddite, but the British have been disappointed.

The New Jersey bureau of labor statistics has gathered some facts relative to the existence of company stores in the state. Fifteen such institutions were found, and the statistician estimates that on an average the person obliged to deal at a company store pays thirteen cents on the dollar more than if he could purchase where he pleased.

There are more Indians to-day in the United States than would equal those living east of the Mississippi when the white man set foot upon American shores 400 years ago. The present Indian population is something over 243,000, while it is said there were never more than 200,000 Indians in the United States east of the Mississippi River.

Wars and war debts have to be paid for by the common people, who are the principal taxpayers. The wars of the nineteenth century cost the world, mainly Europe, directly or indirectly, over one hundred billion dollars. This is enough, if devoted to commerce and the arts of peace, to build one thousand ship canals at a cost of one hundred million dollars each.

During 1899 there were 570 cases of suicide reported in the papers, in comparison with 808 the year before. Of this number 78 per cent. were men and 22 per cent. women. Of the causes assigned the following, in order, were the most frequent: lack of work, love, domestic troubles, sickness, business troubles. The number of lynchings reported in 1899 was 107, which is the smallest number in any year so far recorded. In 1892 the number was 235 and in 1893, 200, since when a steady decline has been noted.

Japan is taking another important step toward the higher plane of modern civilization by separating the church from the state. A bill is now before the House of Peers abolishing Buddhism as the officially recognized religion of the state and placing all creeds on an equal footing, and it is said that it will surely pass. Thus within the brief period of thirty years or so Japan has emerged from a state of complete heathen barbarism and established her right to a place in the front rank of the most liberal and enlightened of the civilized nations of the earth.

The use of electricity is becoming more appreciated in almost every walk of life, remarks the London Electrical Engineer. For instance, a man was recently arrested charged with being found on the roof of a jeweler's shop, for the purpose of committing a felony. On being searched, besides some very fine specimens of housebreaking implements, there was also found a portable electric light set. This we should suppose was a great improvement on the usual means of lighting by members of this profession, comments our contemporary, owing to the ease with which it could be switched on and off, and the entire absence of smell.

Charles McCarthy, the first man to turn a double somersault, dropped dead of heart disease in Chicago. The immoderate circus aspirations of youth are restrained by the information that circus performers always die young; and to the natural interest of the clown is added the pathetic knowledge of his early doom. Double somersaulting seems to be different from other circusing, or else Charles McCarthy lived to spite the wise saws of age; for he was sixty years old, which is quite as long as the average man can expect to live, even if he eschews the dreams of his youth and curbs his desire for spangled tights and jumping over camels and elephants.

The Irish Agricultural Organization Society is a society of philanthropic men and women for the promotion of co-operation among the Irish farmers. The society does not contribute to the expense of sustaining the co-operative organizations or supply their directors or managers, but it does pay the cost of original organization, including the literature and the services of an organizer. As the result of the work of the society there were at the date of the last annual meeting 412 societies, with 40,000 members. The majority of these farmers' societies are probably creameries, but there are companies for almost all rural purposes, including marketing societies, co-operative stores and co-operative banks. The work is effecting a great change in the habits of Irish farmers and in their financial condition.

Perhaps it is not too much to say that the Boer is the best shot in the world. As soon as he is strong enough to carry a rifle the Government presents one to him; such has been its custom for several years (the old Boers required no training in marksmanship), and no doubt the genius who originated the idea had a struggle with the British in mind. The Government, moreover, provides the boy with ammunition, and he is encouraged to hunt on the veldt and to shoot at a target at a measured distance. It is not surprising, then, that he takes the field an excellent sharpshooter. At Colenso, and also at the Modder River, the British found white stones set up to establish ranges which had been carefully measured by the Boers, an illustration of their grim, business-like capacity for war—the modern war of the deadly magazine rifle.

There are diplomatists in Washington who even dare to hope, not for the millennium, but for a rapprochement between England and Russia. Now that Germany, England and the United States have a friendly understanding, but one first-class power remains out of the combination, and that one, Russia, is friendly with both the United States and Germany. If the relations between England and Russia could be improved, if their foreign offices could first establish better feeling and then agreement concerning some of their points of difference in China and Asia generally the last menace to the peace of the world, so far as any great wars are concerned, would be removed. There are indications that the trend of modern diplomacy is in this wholesome direction and that this dream may yet come true. But even if it does not, it may already be said with truth that the entrance of the United States fairly to the field of world politics has lifted the spirit of nations in their relations one to another and made for peace and progress.

Coffee was the principal source of wealth in Cuba during the early part of this century, and at one time the value of this product amounted to nearly $20,000,000 in a single year. The industry was established by French refugees from Santo Domingo. The plantations afterward fell into the hands of the Spaniards and Americans, but in 1830 the price of coffee declined and the planters took to raising sugar. The great area devoted to the raising of coffee in Brazil and Central America has increased the world's product of coffee and lowered prices, and similar conditions as regards sugar prevail. This reduction is shown by the fact that in the United States the average import price of sugar has fallen from 5.06 cents in 1878 to 2.01 cents in 1897. Consequently, although larger areas for the production of sugar and coffee may be opened in our new dependencies, it is doubtful if the price which obtained in former years will ever be realized.

The Fresa Second Lieutenant.

The following story of General Lawton was told by a sergeant in the regular Army who served under Lawton in Cuba and afterward went to Manila, being now the oldest enlisted man in the Eighth Army Corps. After the surrender of Santiago the General was standing in the main street of the city looking into the windows of a shop, his tall, massive form making him even more conspicuous than usual. He wore a blue shirt and campaign hat, and was without any indications of his rank. A young Second Lieutenant just from West Point, and so belonging to the class known in the army as "Johnny-come-lately" was walking down the street, and having a high sense of his own importance, tapped the General on the shoulder, taking him for a non-commissioned officer. As the General turned around he was addressed thus by the young officer:

"Sergeant, are you a soldier?"

"Yes sir," replied the General.

"Then why don't you salute an officer when you see him?"

The General saluted, but with so abrupt and flippant an air that the anger of the Lieutenant was aroused, and he further asked:

"Sergeant, what's your name?"

"Well," replied the General, assuming a slight drawl that was sometimes characteristic, "my name is Major-General Henry W. Lawton. What's your name?" leaving the Lieutenant crestfallen and stammering out some lame apology.

THE SABBATH SCHOOL.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR FEBRUARY 18.

Subject: Jesus at Jacob's Well, John iv., 5-26—Golden Text: John iv., 24—Memory Verses, 11-14—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

INTRODUCTION.—Sychar, formerly Shechem, now Nablus, is at the foot of Mount Gerizim, between Gerizim and Ebal. It is noted in the Scriptures as the place where Abraham first stopped on his coming from Haran to Canaan, where God appeared to him and promised to give the land to his seed; and where he first built an altar to the Lord. In the fourth century B. C. (about 332) Sanballat erected a temple on Gerizim in opposition to the Jewish temple.

CONNECTING LINES.—After the interview with Nicodemus at the time of the Passover feast, Jesus and His followers left Jerusalem and spent about eight months in Judea. Jesus taught the people and His disciples baptized them. Vs. 1, 2. When Jesus heard of the imprisonment of John (Matt. 4: 12; Mark 1: 14), and that the Pharisees were endeavoring to stir up the disciples of John against His disciples, He determined to leave the Jews and go into Galilee.

5. "Sychar." Or Shechem, at the foot of Mount Gerizim. "Parcel of ground." Purchased of the children of Hamor (Gen. 33: 19), and given to Joseph. Gen. 48: 22; Josh. 24: 32.

6. "Jacob's well." The well Jacob dug. The word for well in the Greek means fountain. At the beginning of the last century it was 105 feet deep, but at present it is only seventy-five feet deep. It is seven and one-half feet in diameter and is walled with masonry. "Jesus....being weary." He was a man, as well as God, and became weary and hungry. He journeyed on foot, sharing with His disciples the fatigues and hardships of the way. "The sixth hour." Noon. There is a difference of opinion here; several good authorities think it was six o'clock in the evening.

7. "Woman of Samaria." This woman lived in the country. "Give Me to drink." In this latitude the weather is sometimes exceedingly hot at noon even in December, when it is cold at night. Jesus asks a favor and thus opens the way to grant one.

8. "To buy meat." Food. John, it is thought, had remained with Jesus.

9. "Being a Jew." His dress and dialect disclosed His nationality. "No dealings with the Samaritans." The Samaritans were the descendants of the Ethiopian and Babylonish colonists upon whom the Assyrian conqueror of the ten tribes bestowed the lands of the captive Israelites. See 2 Kings 17: 24-33. Between these people and the Jews a deadly hatred existed.

10. "The gift of God." John 3: 16. The Messiah, and the salvation He is bringing to man. "Thou wouldst have asked of Him." Spiritually, our positions are reversed. It is thou who art weary, and footsore, and parched, close to the well, yet unable to drink; it is I who can give thee the water from the well, and quench thy thirst forever. "Living water." The gift of the Holy Spirit. John 7: 37-39. Also called "the water of life." Rev. 21: 6; 22; 1, 17. "Clean water." Ezek. 36, 26, 27. See also Isa. 55: 1; 58: 11.

11. "Nothing to draw with." The wells had, oftentimes, no implements for drawing water.

12. "Our father Jacob." They were not the descendants of Jacob, although some of the ancient blood might have been in their veins.

13. "Shall thirst again." Jesus does not discuss the question of greatness, but turns her thought towards spiritual truth, as He did Nicodemus.

14. "Shall never thirst." He does not mean that one draught shall satisfy us, but that we will always have in the soul a well of living water. "Shall be in Him." The religion of Jesus has to do with the inner life. Christ puts new principles and affections within us. "A well of water." A fountain of water. The supply is exhaustless. Here is an unfailing fulness of love, joy, peace and spiritual strength—a full salvation. "Springing up." Whoever has this living water in the soul already has eternal life. The water of life is, 1. Given by Jesus. 2. It is pure. 3. It satisfies the soul. 4. There is a never failing supply. 5. It is free. 6. It is for all who thirst.

15. "Give me this water." She did not understand His meaning fully, but she was anxious to receive any good He might be able to impart.

16. "Go, call thy husband." These words were spoken, 1. To make the woman consider her own state. 2. To show her that He knew her heart and secret life. Before she can receive living water she must be convinced of her depravity.

18. "Five husbands." The five had either divorced her for immorality, or were dead; to the sixth she was not married. At this time divorces were very common, and a man put away his wife for any fault.

19. "Thou art a prophet." She speaks respectfully and recognizes Him as one with a divine mission.

20. "Our fathers worshiped." Abraham and Jacob. The Samaritans pretended to be descendants of these patriarchs. This woman here introduced the question that was causing the dispute between the Jews and Samaritans. If He were a prophet He could tell her whether Mount Gerizim or Jerusalem were the proper place for public worship. To the Samaritans, Gerizim was the most sacred spot on earth. It had been, as they believed, the seat of Paradise.

21. "The hour cometh." The hour has come in which spiritual worship is about to be established, and "the Jewish rites and ceremonies abolished."

22. "Ye know not what." You are ignorant not only of the place, but also of the object and nature of true worship. The Samaritans believed in God, but they rejected the prophetical writings and all other books of Scripture except the five books of Moses. Their worship was a mixed worship. They feared the Lord, and served their own gods. "We know what we worship." We, Jews, acknowledge God and Him only, and offer to Him the sacrifices prescribed in the law. "Of the Jews." The Messiah is of the Jews. Even the Samaritans believed this.

23. "True worshipers." In opposition to false worshipers whose worship consists in external acts. "In spirit." In heart, with sincere love and devotion. "In truth." In sincerity, and in obedience to the truth. "Seeketh such." Desires such worshipers.

24. "God is a Spirit." God is an infinite Spirit, filling the heavens and the earth. He pervades, governs and upholds all things.

25. "All things." Necessary for us to know.

26. "I....am He." This was the first direct disclosure of Himself as the Messiah.

TEACHINGS.—As water quenches the thirst, refreshes and invigorates the body, purifies things defiled, and renders the earth fruitful, so the Holy Spirit satisfies and purifies the soul.

BULLER AGAIN ADVANCES

His Army Succeeds in Recrossing the Tugela River.

Attacks Boers at Two Points, Being Checked at One Place, But Taking a Hill at the Other.

LONDON (By Cable).—General Buller recrossed the Tugela River on Monday morning and assaulted the Boer positions on the north side. The British carried several positions, and at last accounts were still holding them.

A dispatch to the Standard from Spearman's Camp says:

"The force under General Buller is again advancing to the relief of Ladysmith, and, after two days of severe fighting, it may fairly be said to have made a good first step on the road to the besieged town.

"The movement was begun at an early hour on Monday morning by way of Potgieter's Drift. The Eleventh Brigade, forming a part of the Fifth Division under General Warren, made a feint attack upon the kopjes immediately on our front. The assault was delivered at the outset under cover of naval guns on Mount Alice, and subsequently under that of field batteries.

"The infantry advanced steadily toward the Boer intrenched position at Brakfontein, and kept the enemy busily employed. While this diversion was being made the remainder of the infantry told off for the attack, who had bivouacked Sunday night under Mount Alice, moved along at the foot of Zwart's Kop in the direction of our right.

"A pontoon bridge was thrown across the Tugela by the engineers under the fire of the enemy. The first battalion to move across in the forenoon was the Durham Light Infantry, of General Lyttleton's brigade. They advanced against Vaal Krantz, which lies on the most direct road to Ladysmith, and after two hours' splendid work they got within charging distance of the Boers.

"The first of the kopjes was carried by them at the point of the bayonet with the utmost gallantry. Almost simultaneously the First Battalion Rifle Brigade cleared the second kopje, and, after moving across the long ridge, the bivouacked on the spot.

"The feint attack at Potgieter's Drift, having served its purpose in preventing the concentration of the enemy at the critical point, the Eleventh Brigade fell back to the river.

"In the course of the operation both the infantry and the artillery had been subjected to a severe shell fire.

"Yesterday (Tuesday) at 4 in the afternoon, the enemy, encouraged doubtless by their success at Spion Kop, endeavored to recapture the position taken by us at Vaal Krantz. They were beaten back, however, with loss.

"The shell and maxim fire poured in by the Boers has been extremely severe, but our losses are, comparatively speaking small. The Durham Light Infantry took a few prisoners in the course of their charge.

"The enemy, as usual, fought with the utmost stubbornness. The British manœuvring and the accuracy of aim on the part of the British artillery during the fighting on Monday were beyond praise. There is not the slightest likelihood that the Boers will succeed in dislodging us from the positions we have gained, and the prospects of the relief of Ladysmith are decidedly hopeful."

BOER STORY OF THE FIGHTING.

It Claims That the British Were Beaten Back in Great Confusion.

BOER HEAD LAAGER, Ladysmith, via Lorenzo Marques (By Cable).—Since Monday the British with naval and other guns have bombarded our positions on the Upper Tugela. The troops crossed the river at the Pont and at Molen Drift with the object of storming our positions. At the former General Burger beat them back, and they recrossed in great confusion.

The fighting continues at Molen Drift with the Standerton and Johannesburg commandos. There were no casualties on our side. The cannonade was the fiercest yet experienced. There was a continuous roaring all day long. Tuesday morning it commenced with an increased number of guns.

Further reports of Monday's fighting at the Upper Tugela River show that the British lost heavily at Pont Drift, but took an unimportant position on a small kopje on the Molen Drift side. Four Boers were killed. The British loss is unknown. They are still in possession of the kopje and the big guns have ceased firing.

TO BUY THE ERIE CANAL.

Bill Introduced at Washington For Its Purchase For Warships.

WASHINGTON, D. C. (Special).—Representative McClelland introduced in the House a bill to authorize the Secretary of War to treat with the State of New York for the purchase of the Erie Canal, and appropriating $10,000,000 therefor. The bill authorizes the Secretary of War to enlarge the canal sufficiently to permit of its use by United States war vessels of a displacement of 15,000 tons.

The Secretary is also authorized to contract for materials and work necessary for the enlargement of such canal, to be paid for as appropriated from time to time, not to succeed in the aggregate $75,000,000, provided that the compensation paid to the State of New York for its right and title shall be paid out of fees collected from vessels using the canal after the Government has purchased it, and provided that compensation so paid the State shall never in any one year exceed twenty-five per cent. of the net amount of such fees received during that period. The bill went to committee on railways and canals.

A LIVE MAN DEAD LEGALLY.

Georgia Court Decides That One Indifferent to His Rights Dies Presumptively.

ATLANTA, Ga. (Special). — Judge J. H Lumpkin, of the Atlanta Circuit, has decided that a claimant for an estate who is alive and was present in the court is dead legally. The Judge said:

"Plaintiff testified that he had been living in Texas and did not know until 1896 of his father's death or the division of the estate, but where one leaves a State and cuts off all communication with friends and relatives he becomes, presumptively at least, dead to the world. I scarcely think the statute of relations will stop and wait on him any more than the village of Falling Water awaited the awakening of Rip Van Winkle or the wife of Enoch Arden awaited his return. Besides he returned in 1896 and knew the facts or could have known them fully but did not sue till 1899."

POPULAR SCIENCE.

A blackbird will stand at the side of a hanging wasp's nest and deliberately tear it in pieces in order to get at the larvæ, apparently undisturbed by the swarm of angry insects.

The German exploring vessel Mowe stopped on its last cruise at two small isolated islands, Matty and Durour, the inhabitants of which strikingly resemble the Japanese, though the islands are only a short distance from New Guinea.

In a recent paper by Francis Galton on "Finger-prints of Young Children," he demonstrated that clear prints of all ten fingers of a baby would suffice for after-identification by an expert, but by an expert only. Although new ridges may appear in infantile life, the type of each patteru persists all through life, and is never doubtful to a practised eye.

The Arctic Ocean, says Nansen, is a kind of lagoon separated from the Atlantic by a submarine ridge, stretching from Spitzbergen to Greenland. To this ridge is due a curious condition. The Arctic is covered with a layer of slightly salt water from the Siberian rivers and Bering Strait, and under this is the normally salt Gulf Stream water. If the two layers were mixed, the average temperature would fall, but this average would not be as cold as the surface layer. This accounts for the enormous formation of polar ice.

There is a wonderful spider in the Transvaal, which has apparently been discovered for the first time by Mr. Distant. It lives, we are told, in large communities, and builds itself a nest like a bird's. The nest is of irregular form, and in the interior are several artistically constructed galleries, which serve as homes for all the spiders of that particular family. One of these nests may be seen in the London Zoological Garden. It is very large, and is deftly covered with dry leaves. The spider in constructing a nest takes the utmost pains to make it of such a color that it will escape the eyes of its enemies, and in this laudable task the ingenious little creature almost always succeeds.

Astronomy in the nineteenth century has not only successfully cultivated, but has greatly enlarged, every field of investigation which it inherited from the proceeding century. The instruments and the methods of research have been greatly improved and to them have been added celestial photography and spectroscopy, which are distined to prove no less potent and efficacious than the telescope. Photography has shown itself to be a valuable adjunct to the telescope, and the application of the spectroscope has not only rectified the ideas of preceding centuries as to the constitution of the universe, but has created an absolutely new branch of science—that is to say, the chemistry of celestial bodies.

Cats Can Swim.

"Can cats swim? was asked of an old fisherman.

"Why, certainly," was the reply, "and that reminds me of a cat I once tried to drown that swam ashore. Surely there must have been hundreds or thousands of people who have drowned cats in the same way, but nevertheless this was an experience of my own. We had a cat that we wanted to get rid of, and as humane a way as any to kill it was by drowning. So I put a couple of bricks in the bottom of an old grain sack, and put in the cat, and tied the bag up carefully and securely and walked down to the end of a wharf and stood there and swung the bag with the cat and the bricks in it round like a sling until I could give it a good momentum and then let it go, and slung it out to fall and sink in the water, I should say twenty feet away.

"I supposed, of course, that that was the last of the cat; but the next morning the first thing I saw when I went out of the house was the cat sitting on the veranda.

"I suppose the bag had a weak spot in it somewhere, the bricks were heavy and sharp-cornered and swinging the bag round that way started it more, and the cat was desperate; and with the bag that way it scratched and tore its way out and got to the wharf and clawed its way up and came ashore.

"Can a cat swim? Why, sure!"—New York Sun.

Superstitions About Toads.

It is related of the American Indians that they believe that a council of the gods was held for producing light at night. The whip-poor-will made the moon out of a large frog, and the coldness of the moon is attributed to the frog's natural coldness.

Another tradition related of savage tribes is that the toad quarreled with the woodpecker and caused the deluge. It is said that they disputed over honey which the toad was induced to climb a tree in order to obtain. Then the woodpecker knocked the toad out of the tree, and in revenge the toad drank up all the water on the earth, leaving the birds dry and thirsty. In a subsequent quarrel the toad incautiously danced about until it burst, and the water covered the earth in a flood.

In Maryland the bite of the toad is considered poisonous, if not deadly. An old superstition is that handling toads will cause warts to grow on the hands.

A Very Beautiful Pearl.

The most beautiful pearl in existence is in the crown of one of the former Czars of Russia and is on exhibition in the Kremlin at Moscow. It is a perfect sphere, and so pure as to appear almost transparent. It weighs ninety grains.

After an experimental study of more than five years at the psychological laboratory of the Saltpetriere, M. Vaschide has concluded that the brain is always active, and there is no such thing as dreamless sleep. He has watched the sleep of 36 subjects ranging in age from 12 months to 80 years, and his own observations have been checked by those of 46 other persons. He finds that the dreams of deep sleep differ from the hallucinations that come at the moment of falling asleep and that of waking. The superficial sleep reflects more the sensations of every day, while the dreams of deep sleep are more continuous, more logical, farther from reality, and have more to do with one's earlier existence.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury,

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure to get the genuine. It is taken internally, and is made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

I Had a Bad Cough

"I had a bad cough for six weeks and could not find any relief whatever. I read what a wonderful remedy Ayer's Cherry Pectoral was for coughs and I bought a bottle. Before I had taken a quarter of it my cough had entirely left me."—L. Hawn, Newington, Ont., May 3, 1899.

Quickly Cures Colds

Neglected colds always lead to something serious. They run into chronic bronchitis which pulls down your general health and deprives you of sleep; or they end in genuine consumption with all its uncertain results.

Don't wait, but take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral just as soon as you begin to cough. A few doses will cure you then. But it cures old colds, too, only it takes a little more time. We refer to such diseases as bronchitis, asthma, whooping-cough, consumption, and hard winter coughs.

If you've just taken cold a 25 cent bottle is all you'll need. For harder cases a 50 cent bottle is better. For chronic troubles, and to keep on hand, the $1.00 bottle is most economical.

FALLING HAIR

Save Your Hair with Shampoos of

Cuticura SOAP

And light dressings of CUTICURA, purest of emollient skin cures. This treatment at once stops falling hair, removes crusts, scales, and dandruff, soothes irritated, itching surfaces, stimulates the hair follicles, supplies the roots with energy and nourishment, and makes the hair grow upon a sweet, wholesome, healthy scalp when all else fails.

Millions of Women

Use CUTICURA SOAP exclusively for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, for cleansing the scalp of crusts, scales, and dandruff, and the stopping of falling hair, for softening, whitening, and healing, red, rough, and sore hands, in the form of baths for annoying irritations and chafings, or too free or offensive perspiration, in the form of washes for ulcerative weaknesses, and for many antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves to women, and especially mothers, and for all the purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery. No amount of persuasion can induce those who have once used it to use any other, especially for preserving and purifying the skin, scalp, and hair of infants and children. CUTICURA SOAP combines delicate emollient properties derived from CUTICURA, the great skin cure, with the purest of cleansing ingredients, and the most refreshing of flower odors. No other medicated soap ever compounded is to be compared with it for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, scalp, hair, and hands. No other foreign or domestic toilet soap, however expensive, is to be compared with it for all the purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery. Thus it combines, in ONE SOAP at ONE PRICE, viz., TWENTY-FIVE CENTS, the BEST skin and complexion soap, the BEST toilet and BEST baby soap in the world.

All that has been said of CUTICURA SOAP may be said with even greater emphasis of CUTICURA Ointment, the most delicate, and yet most effective of emollients, and greatest of skin cures. Its use in connection with CUTICURA SOAP (as per directions around each package), in the "ONE NIGHT CURE FOR SORE HANDS," in the "INSTANT RELIEF TREATMENT FOR DISFIGURING ITCHINGS AND IRRITATIONS," and in many uses too numerous to mention, is sufficient to prove its superiority over all other preparations for the skin.

Cuticura Complete External and Internal Treatment for every Humor, consisting of CUTICURA SOAP (25c.), to cleanse the skin of crusts and scales and soften the thickened cuticle, CUTICURA OINTMENT (50c.), to instantly allay itching, inflammation, and irritation, and soothe and heal, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT (50c.), to cool and cleanse the blood. A SINGLE SET is often sufficient to cure the most torturing, disfiguring, and humiliating skin, scalp, and blood humors, with loss of hair, when all else fails. POTTER DRUG AND CHEM. AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS

THE "NECESSARY" MAGAZINE,

The best-informed men and women in the world use the AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS to keep well informed, and call it the "necessary" and "indispensable" magazine. In the busy rush of to-day ambitious men and women must know about the important questions of the month, and not only this, they want to know about them at the right time. When the whole country is puzzled over the gigantic combination of trusts, a well-informed article is printed in the AMERICAN MONTHLY, giving the facts, and its editor discusses the theory; when the Dreyfus affair is in everyone's mouth, the best story of Dreyfus and the great case comes out in this magazine.

Every month, in "The Progress of the World," Dr. Albert Shaw gives a comprehensive picture of the world's history during the previous thirty days. In the departments, the valuable articles and books that have been published during the past month are reviewed and quoted from, so that the readers of the AMERICAN MONTHLY can get the gist of them. In every issue nearly a hundred pictures are printed, including the portraits of the men and women who are making the history of the month.

To be thoroughly well informed helps any man or woman in his or her work. A subscription to the AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS represents an investment for the best kind of profit, as well as entertainment. One subscriber has just written: "Count me a life subscriber, and when you send me a number beyond the limit of my subscription and secure no renewal from me, consider it a notice of my death."

Price 25 cents per number, $2.50 a year.

A sample copy will be sent on receipt of ten cents in stamps.

new constitution to carry that scheme out. That was the sum and substance of his talk. I reckon I am as good a Democrat as there is going, but I don't believe in stealing a man's vote any more than I believe it is right to steal his shirt. I might steal a clean man's vote or a dirty man's shirt, but if I am to start in the stealing business I'll take the shirt before I will the vote, and then think I am a honester man than he who steals the vote.

A Life And Death Fight.

Mr. W. A. Hines of Manchester, Ia., writing of his almost miraculous escape from death, says: "Exposure after measles induced serious lung trouble, which ended in Consumption. I had frequent hemorrhages and coughed night and day. All my doctors said I must soon die. Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which completely cured me. I would not be without it even if it cost $5.00 a bottle. Hundreds have used it on my recommendation and all say it never fails to cure Throat, Chest and Lung troubles." Regular size 50c and $1.00. Look in Your Mirror

Do you see sparkling eyes, a healthy, tinted skin, a sweet expression and a graceful form? These attractions are the result of good health. If they are absent, there is nearly always some disorder of the distinctly feminine organs present. Healthy menstrual organs mean health and beauty everywhere.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

makes women beautiful and healthy. It strikes at the root of all their trouble. There is no menstrual disorder, ache or pain which it will not cure. It is for the budding girl, the busy wife and the matron approaching the change of life. At every trying crisis in a woman's life it brings health, strength and happiness. It costs $1.00 of medicine dealers.

For advice in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, "The Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

MRS. ROZENA LEWIS, of Ocnawffle, Texas, says:—"I was troubled at monthly intervals with terrible pains in my head and back, but have been entirely relieved by Wine of Cardui."

To the Voters of Chilton county:

As it is not probable, nor hardly possible, that I shall see all the voters of the county, I take this medium by which to render my sincere thanks and hearty appreciation for your support in electing me County Seperintendent of Education, and should you see fit to again nominate me I assure you that my appreciation will be no less, though should you nominate someone else I will help to elect him by my vote and influence.

I feel confident that I could perform the duties of the office, and that to the credit of myself and to the county; my past experience in the work gives me this assurance.

Very truly,

J. W. MOORE.

Clanton, Feb. 20, 1900.

To the People of Chilton county:

I have been asked by many of my friends as to whether I would again enter the race for Commissioner, and after giving it much thought I have decided to announce and once more ask the voters for their support. I wish to thank the people for their very liberal support four years ago, and hope no one has seen cause to regret having given me their support. I have made an honest effort to do my duty as commissioner; and though I may have made some mistakes it was an error of the head and not of the heart. I have endeavored to be a servant of the people, and not a master, as I understand that all officials should be. So again thanking my friends for past favors and soliciting a continuance of the same, I am very respectfully.

To the Citizens of Chilton county:

I am very grateful for the confidence reposed in me by the people of Chilton county in electing me to the office of County Treasurer, and with the assurance that I shall endeavor to the best of my ability discharge the duties of the office if re-elected I beg to announce my candidacy for another term.

Yours respectfully,

ALEX. G. DAKE.

To the Public:

In entering the field for re-election to the office of County Superintendent of Education it is with an appreciation of the responsible duties belonging thereto. The Superintendent of Education is connected with the most vital question that concerns the development of our country—the education of our citizenship. Owing to these facts I think it but right that the people should have a short statement of the condition of our public schools during the past and present year.

One of the great evils in the way of our public school system has been lack of economy. That we might overcome this evil to some extent, by the co-operation of the township trustees, and in accordance with a suggestion from the State Superintendent of Education, we have cut down the number of schools from 80 in 1899 to not more than 65 the present year. In consequence of which change, and the increased appropriation, we have three schools contracted to run 6 months and longer, 9 for 5 months, and nearly all the others run 4 months. The three months school bids soon to be a thing of the past. This is owing to three causes mainly—an increased appropriation, a growing centiment for education, and last, but not least, better teachers.

If desired, I will take pleasure in giving a more thorough review of our situation in the future.

In making my announcement I would ask a critical review of my

Editor BANNER. I notice we have already four aspirants to the office of Tax Collector, and three of them are my especial friends. As for Brother Hubbard his promptness and correctness in filling the office for the last four years is enough to acquaint him with the people; and Brother Mims is very well known. I have known him some time and I find him the same every time I meet him. He is true and brave. Brother Littlejohn, who has been a playmate and an associate of mine from childhood, may not be so well known in the county as the others. I can say for him he has always been a pious, good boy, and has as clear a record as any man, and if he was to be the choice of the people he would, (like the others) fill the office to the best of his ability; and he is well qualified. I want the voters of the Populist party to attend the primary and vote for the one of their choice, and whoever is the nominee, go to the general election and elect him, and all others be satisfied. I, for one, am willing for the majority to rule.

A startling incident of which Mr. John Oliver of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, Eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides. No appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying "Electric Bitters" and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents per bottle at J. S. Johnson's Drug Store.

THE SENATORIAL CAMPAIGN.

The Result to Date of the Counties That Have Acted.

All the early counties have now acted, Walker and Dale being the last to have primaries before April 14. Twelve counties have so far voted on the Federal senatorship, and these will send sixteen representatives to the next general assembly of Alabama. Of these twelve counties Senator Morgan carried six, Governor Johnston three, and Gen. Oates two. The face of the returns in Russell county gave Governor Johnston a majority of 61, but a contest was filed, and the two county's representatives are for that reason not included in the table of either candidate. Morgan and Macon counties have also held primaries and nominated candidates for the legislature, but they are to be instructed for senator at another primary on the 14th of April, so they are not included in the table. So far as instructed the nominees for representatives are as follows: For Senator Morgan—Limestone 1, Colbert 1, Clarke 2, Marengo 2, Crenshaw 1, Walker 1, total 8. For Governor Johnston—Marshall 1, Jackson 2, Winston 1, total 4. For General Oates—Coffee 1, Dale 1, total 2. To be instructed—Morgan 2, Macon 1, total 3. Contested—Russell 2.

The Russell contest comes up before the executive committee of the county Tuesday.

Miss Wheeler to be Married.

The announcement of the engagement of Lieutenant W. W. Fiscus, Nineteenth United States Infantry, now stationed in the Philippines, to Miss Annie Wheeler, the youngest daughter of Gen. Joe Wheeler, has just been received by the lieutenant's sister, Dr. Blanche F. Graves, of Philadelphia. Lieutenant Fiscus' engagement with Miss Wheeler dates from the time he was a cadet at West Point, where General Wheeler's two sons were his classmates.

Cherokee Primaries.

The democratic and populite parties have each ordered primaries for officers of Cherokee county, the democrats for April 14 and the populist about two weeks later. The indications are that there will be three tickets in the field—two party tickets and one independent.

The report of County Treasurer Whorton, just published, shows $4,836.29 in the county treasury.

Senatorial Campaign Opens in Jefferson.

The senatorial campaign opened in Jefferson county Monday night with a large meeting at Lewisburg, the principal speakers being Hugh Morrow in the interest of Senator Morgan, and Felix Blackburn and C. P. Bedlow in the interest of Governor Johnston.

Col. Wyley Urged for Appointment.

The appointment of Lieutenant-Colonel A. H. Wyley, of Alabama, as a member of the Philippine commission is being urged in Washington. Wyley's experience in Santiago, where he codified the laws of that province, is regarded as making him a desirable candidate.

Child Burned to Death.

The 16-months-old child of Mrs. W. H. Fruiticher, of Birmingham, was burned to death a few days ago. The little one had in some manner gotten too near the grate and caught on fire.

Alabama Man Consul.

The president has sent the following nominations to the senate:

John A. Mulky, of Alabama, to be consul at Tuxpan, Mexico.

Navy Commander William C. Gibsono, to be captain; Lieutenant Commander R. G. Davenport, to be commander; Medical Inspector J. C. Wise, to be medical director; Surgeon F. Z. Derr, to be medical inspector.

To be second lieutenant, signal corps: William C. Harles, of Florida; Lee Hart Ghooker, of Nevada, and Hugh L. Matthew, of Tennessee.

All on Board Were Lost.

It is reported that the schooner Hardcastle capsized last Friday at Roanoke, Va., marshes, and all on board, with the exception of the captain, were lost. The Hardcastle was a small schooner and did not carry a crew of more than seven men.

Woman Accidentally Killed in Jackson County—Conductor Graham Drops Dead—Verdict for $25,900—Other State News.

Captain Graham Dies Suddenly.

Captain J. P. Graham, conductor on the Southern railway, between Florence and Tuscumbia, dropped dead in a barn at his home in Florence.

Henry County for Vaughan.

The Henry county Republican convention has instructed its delegation to the State Republican convention for Wm. H. Vaughan for chairman of the state executive committee.

Verdict for $25,900.

The fifth trial of the celebrated case of Danforth and Armstrong vs. The Tennessee and Coosa Railway was concluded in the circuit court at Gadsden Friday, the jury rendering a verdict for $25,900.

The Ensley Southern.

All of the $200,000 stock in the Ensley Southern railroad, which will be constructed between Parrish, Walker county, and Ensley, Jefferson county, about thirty miles in length, has been subscribed and the perfecting of the organization will occur within another week.

Woman Accidentally Killed.

A sad accident occurred on Lowo Johnson's farm, near Hollywood, a few days ago, a young lady being shot and killed. The young lady was a daughter of Mr. Reuben Carter, a farmer of Jackson county. She went to pay a call to the family of Mr. Crawford. Mr. Crawford's little boy went to get a gun to show her, when it was accidentally discharged, the load entering her face. She lingered in great agony until next day, when death relieved her of her suffering.

Accident Caused Dr. Green's Death.

Correct information as to the death of Dr. D. C. Green, who was reported to have committed suicide at his home near Florence, shows that his death was the result of an accident. The doctor had gone to the roof of his kitchen to repair some loose shingles, and in coming down his foot slipped and he fell off the ladder, striking on a brick on the ground. He was assisted into the house and died within a few minutes.

Dispensary a Live Issue.

The following resolutions were adopted at a meeting held in the rooms of the Young Men's Christian association, Birmingham, and it means that the dispensary question will be made a very live issue during the forthcoming campaign:

"Whereas, Under the existing plan for holding the primary election by the democratic party in Jefferson county on April 14 next, the voters are not permitted to vote direct for candidates for the house of representatives and senate of Alabama; and

"Whereas, This plan is very unsatisfactory to a large number of voters; and

"Whereas, The democratic executive committee of Jefferson county is called to meet February 21; therefore

"Be it resolved, That the friends of the dispensary system respectfully but earnestly request the said committee to so change the plan under which the primary will be held as to permit a direct vote on all candidates for the general assembly of Alabama.

Robbins-Aldrich Contest.

The committee on elections of the house has submitted a report on the election contest case of Robert F. Aldrich vs. Gaston F. Robbins, from the Fourth congressional district of Alabama. The report recommends the seating of Aldrich, the republican. The majority report is signed by the six republicans of the committee, while the minority report is favored by the three democrats. This is the third time Aldrich has contested, and every time he alleged fraud in Dallas county. No date has been fixed for argument of the case.

New Mining Company.

The Tredegar Brown Ore and Mining company was organized at Anniston with $10,000 capital. J. W. Comer, of Savannah, is president and treasurer, and R. H. Cobb, of Anniston, vice president and general manager. The company has purchased extensive iron ore properties near Jacksonville.

BACK TAXES ON SCHOOL LANDS.

Property of the University in Jefferson Held Liable.

Tax Commissioner R. P. Wetmore has instituted proceedings to collect taxes on the university lands in Jefferson county for the last five years, which, if sustained by law, will amount to almost $10,000. In accordance with the act creating his office, he has notified J. B. Francis, tax collector of the county, to collect from the board of trustees of the University of Alabama taxes on 18,560 acres of land, valued at $12.50 per acre for the years 1895, 1896, 1897, 1898 and 1899.

Notice was served on Robinson Brown, secretary, and James E. Webb, chairman of the executive board of trustees, and on Governor Johnston, who accepted service as ex-officio chairman of the board, who waived copy.

It has been understood that all property belonging to the university was exempt from taxation, the university being a state institution, and under the control of the governor and a board appointed by him. Mr. Wetmore, however, takes a different view of the matter, and has undertaken to collect back taxes for the past five years.

Many Aspirants For Wheeler's Seat.

In the event General Wheeler does not become a candidate again for congress, there will be a lively time in the Eighth district. Madison county will support the candidacy of Judge William Richardson. Jackson county will present the name of Hon. Jesse E. Brown. Morgan will present the name of Hon. Samuel Blackwell. Colbert, the name of Hon. W. H. Sawtelle, and Lauderdale the name of Paul Hodges, to the congressional convention, which will meet in Decatur.

Walker County's Primary.

News from Jasper Sunday was to the effect that all but five small beats have been heard from. It is a certainty that Tom Long is the nominee for representative, and it is estimated that his majority will exceed 500 votes. The senatorial campaign was not a leading issue in the primary, but it was understood that both the leading candidates for representative were Morgan men.

In the race for sheriff Gurtery received thus far 456 votes; Higgins, 721; Moore 1,217.

Dale County Carried by Oates.

On account of the extremely cold weather, a light vote was polled in Saturday's democratic primary in Dale county. Acree for senator and Garner for representative, both pronounced Oates men, were nominated by large majorities, the exact figures not yet being available. This insures General Oates three votes in the democratic legislative caucus for United States senator, his other vote being from Coffee county.

Settlement is Expected.

It is learned on high authority that the litigation over the ownership of the East and West railroad is rapidly shaping itself so that a settlement will soon be accomplished whereby the Kelly heirs will soon receive an undisputed title to the property. With this end in view it is said that the Kellys are now figuring on extending the line from Pell City to Birmingham, a distance of about thirty-five miles, so as to give it an outlet.

Chilton Populists to Hold Primary.

The populists held a meeting at Clanton and decided to have a primary election on March 15, with the final count March 17, to select county officers.

BRIEFLY MENTIONED.

James D. Snodgrass has been installed as mayor of Scottsboro.

At a meeting of Anniston citizens interested in the proposed new cotton mill it was shown that half of the $100,000 necessary to build a mill has been raised.

It is stated that the Tennessee Coal, Iron and railroad company has purchased the Bessemer rolling mill and will at an early date operate the plant. The fact leaked out at the meeting of the Bessemer Land and Improvement company.

At a citizens' meeting at Eutaw Wednesday a committee was named to solicit subscriptions for a cotton mill.

It is now definitely known that Judge John Bruce will preside over the forthcoming term of the United States court, which begins in Birmingham March 5. Judge Bruce is reported as very much improved in health. Active preparations are being made for the coming court.

RICH GOLD FIELD.

Much Excitement Over Recently Discovered Texas Mine.

The San Antonio Daily Express has received from its special correspondent at Marathon, Tex., the following:

"Have just arrived from the new Cinnabar district in Brewster county, where discoveries of gold of wonderful richness have been made, and great excitement prevails. Over 800 claims have been located. I met a number of eminent mining engineers on the ground, including Puffer of Boston, and Jenny of Washington. The district is said to rival in richness and extent the New Almaden finds of California."

PLAGUE AT MANILA.

Thirty-Two Deaths Have Resulted, Half of Victims Being Chinese.

Out of a total of fifty-one cases of suspected bubonic plague in Manila, forty-two proved genuine and thirty-two deaths resulted, half of them being Chinamen. There were twelve cases during the past week, mostly within the walled city, and a hundred inspectors under the superintendence of a health officer, Major Edie, are enforcing the sanitary regulations. Thirty of the inspectors are Chinamen, who have been furnished by the Chinese merchants.

The health department census shows the population of Manila is about 190,000, including 31,000 Chinese.

STEAMBOAT SINKS.

Two Negro Deck Hands Drowned—Much Cotton Lost.

The steamer New Mattie, of Memphis, sprung a leak and sank in Wild Goose Bayou, near the mouth of White river, Saturday night. Two negro deck hands were drowned. The general merchandise portion of the cargo is a total loss, while 356 bales of cotton consigned to Memphis will probably be saved. No estimate of the property loss is given. The New Mattie has broken in two and will not be raised.

TO MEET AT FRANKFORT.

Democratic Legislators Formally Decide to Do So.

The democratic legislators got together a quorum in each house Saturday and adopted a concurrent resolution adjourning the general assembly to meet at Frankfort Monday. Governor Beckham will remain in Louisville until the case by which it is hoped to settle the title to the office of governor is decided by the court of appeals.

Harrell Not Indicted.

The grand jury at Louisville, Ky., Saturday refused to indict State Senator S. B. Harrell, on John H. Whallen's charge of obtaining money by false pretenses. This prosecution followed Senator Harrell's statement before the democratic caucus that Whallen had attempted to bribe him to keep him away from the caucus and had paid him $4,500 for this purpose.

Will Reduce Force in Cuba.

Secretary Root has determined to continue the policy begun by General Leonard Wood of reducing the force of United States troops in Cuba, and during the coming spring there will be a heavy reduction of the forces unless there should be some change in present conditions.

Clarksdale, Miss., Has Big Fire.

A fire which started in the rear of Bacot & Co.'s general store, at Clarksdale, Miss., destroyed seven brick stores is the business portion of the place, entailing a loss of about $57,000.

Two Men Killed in an Explosion.

Two men were instantly killed and three frightfully injured by the explosion of a locomotive boiler in the Santa Fe round house at Topeka, Kan. The dead are: John Heustis, boiler maker; Felse Linde, fireman. The explosion was caused by compressed air which was to be used as motive power.

Great Family Raisers.

Jesse Edwards, aged 85 years, a veteran of the Seminole war, whose home is at New Market, is the father of twenty-one living children, and his son, Kenny Edwards, has at this writing sixteen children, and is in splendid health. Jesse Edwards is 85 years old, and there is not a decayed tooth in his head.

CURRENCY BILL PASSED.

The Senate Acts on the Substitute For the House Currency Bill.

The senate substitute for the house currency bill was passed by the senate by the decisive majority of 46 to 29. Prior to the final passage of the bill amendments were considered under the ten minute rule. Only two of these amendments were adopted, viz: One offered by the finance committee keeping the door open to international bimetallism, and one by Mr. Nelson, of Minnesota, providing for national banks with $25,000 capital in towns over 4,000 in population.

The bill passed consists of ten sections. It provides that the dollars of 25 8-10 grains of gold, 9-10 fine, shall be the standard of value, and that all forms of United States money shall be maintained at a parity with it; and that treasury notes and greenbacks shall be redeemable in gold.

The secretary of the treasury is to set apart a fund of $150,000,000 in gold for the redemption of these notes and to maintain this fund at a figure not under $100,000,000, he is empowered to sell bonds of the United States, bearing interest at not exceeding 3 per cent.

Favorable Report on Nicaragua Bill.

Chairman Hepburn, of the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce, Saturday submitted the report of the committee in favor of the Hepburn bill for constructing the Nicaraguan canal.

ATTEMPTED MURDER.

Woman Shoots a State Senator at Raymond, Miss.

State Senator R. L. Bradley was shot and slightly wounded at Raymond, Miss., by Mrs. Ida Bolls, who alleges that Bradley had failed to keep faith in a promise to marry. Senator Bradley was seated at dinner in the hotel, when the women entered the dining room and fired at his head, the bullet entering the back of the neck and inflicting a painful, though not fatal, flesh wound. Mrs. Bolls then attempted to commit suicide by stabbing herself, but was prevented.

DARNING NEEDLE KILLED HER.

A Woman Found Murdered in Bed With Her Husband.

Mrs. Wm. J. Garland, wife of a saloon proprietor in Phoebus, Va., was found murdered in her bed by her husband, who lay beside her. An autopsy developed the fact that she had been stabbed just below the left breast with a darning needle, and so scientifically was it done that it struck the heart in the center, causing instant death. The husband reported the murder and he was arrested, charged with the crime.

BRITISH ENTER KIMBERLY.

Two Thousand Break Through—The Federals Captured Much Booty.

A cable dispatch from Pretoria says: It appears from further reports of Saturday's fighting at Jacobsdal that 2,000 British troops got through the federal position at Modder river and entered Kimberly.

The federals intercepted the rear guard of the British and captured great booty, many oxen and a number of prisoners.

Head Blown Off.

Pete Hickey, who shot and killed Maggie Jones and seriously wounded Tom Billingsley, at the home of Lizzie Kirklin, near Paint Rock, Tenn., was found dead in the woods near the scene of the tragedy. Hickey had the top of his head blown off. It is said to have been done with a shot gun at close range and the general opinion is that he committed suicide.

A Double Tragedy.

In a row at McMinnville, Tenn., W. C. Watts, local storekeeper and gauger, and Mr. Higgins, a revenue man, got into a row and both got their throats cut. Buck Locke is supposed to have done the work. Locke escaped, but is being hunted by about fifteen revenue men.

Piping for Honolulu.

The Central Foundry Company of Anniston received an order Saturday from Honolulu, Hawaiian Islands, for a large quantity of sanitary iron piping to be shipped as early as possible.

Maya Indians Driven Back.

A special from Oaxaca, Mex., says General Bravos' force of government troops has driven back the Maya Indians and taken possession of several important towns that were occupied by the rebels during the week. The country occupied by the Maya Indians is little known to the outside world. Its natural riches are great.

TWO KENTUCKY SENATORS.

Each Party Recognized Its Own President—Fight Will End in Court.

The democrats had a session of the senate at 9 o'clock Monday, President Pro Tem Carter presiding, and adjourned to meet at 10:30. The republicans met Saturday to meet at 11 o'clock, the democrats made this move to get possession of the chamber.

The senate convened at 11 o'clock, Carter and Marshall presiding, the republicans recognizing Carter. The senate adjourned after prayer, and Lieutenant-Governor Marshall and republican senators left the chamber. The democratic senators remained, President Pro Tem Carter called the attention to the republicans to proceedings and continued in session.

The democratic senate then adopted a motion by Senator Arlington, to ratify and reaffirm former action of the senate. Mr. Goebel was declared governor and prevailed on a viva voce vote, making a demand for the ayes and nays. Senator Tripplett, another democrat, voted with the democrats for the purpose of making a quorum.

The republicans who spoke, Governor Taylor said that he would recognize as legal the proceedings taken today, and what would be anticipated will be duplicated in the house, but has told them that he looks upon these proceedings as illegal, and will not quit the fight. The whole matter is passed into the courts of the last resort.

PORTO RICO TARIFF DEBATE.

The Question Involves the Government of New Possessions.

The debate upon the Porto Rican tariff bill, which is to last throughout the week, and perhaps longer, opened in the house Monday. On all hands it is agreed that the bill, although it applies only to Porto Rico, involving as it does the question of the power to govern our new possessions outside the limits of the constitutions, is the most important measure which will come before this congress. Interest in the debate is intense among the members on both sides, and there is urgent demand for time. The democrats are solidly arrayed against the measure, and they will have powerful support from the republican side in the persons of Massachusetts, and Maine, both able and practiced debaters.

MISSISSIPPI WANTS CAPITAL.

And the Legislature Invites It From the South.

A concurrent resolution has passed both houses of the Mississippi legislature inviting home and foreign capital to invest in manufacturing enterprises, and especially cotton mills, and setting forth the advantages of Mississippi as a manufacturing state.

Bills to exempt newly established factories from taxation for a period of ten years are now pending and will be passed during the present session.

COLD WEATHER IN FLORIDA.

All Early Vegetables Have Been Destroyed Near Orlando.

A special from Orlando says: "The thermometer registered 28 degrees Saturday night. Nearly all tender vegetables are killed. The strawberry crop has been ruined. The orange, peach and pineapple crop will be shortened, but the extent of the damage will not be known until warmer weather."

Snow in Cuba.

A Monday's special from Havana, de Cuba says: Today has been the coldest recorded here, the temperature being 58 degrees for the city this morning. In the mountains ten miles away, the temperature was 40 degrees. At San Pedro, twenty miles to the east, with an altitude of 3,000 feet, is covered with snow. Old residents say that thirty years ago, during the war of that day, snow fell on the mountains, but none has been observed since until today.

Killed by the Marshal.

Ralph Banks, a young man of respectable family, was killed at Hamilton, Ga., by Quincy Pierce, the town marshal. Pierce says he killed Banks in burglarizing Dr. Head's office.

Mississippi Bank Fails.

The Bank of Commerce at Memphis received notice Monday of the suspension of the Bank of Friars Point, at Friars Point, Coahoma county, Miss. The Bank of Commerce was the Memphis correspondent of the Friars Point bank. President D. A. Scott announced that depositors will be paid in full when due them in time.

White blackberries are much esteemed in Acadia and Calcasieu, because they are superior in flavor to the black kind. Some regard them as a concession of nature to the color prejudice. They differ from the black blackberries mainly in complexion.

In Louisiana is what popularly is known as the "dishcloth plant." It produces a green pod, which yields, when opened, a large piece of cellular vegetable tissue, often used in kitchens as a "dishcloth."

The native horses and cattle in this part of the State formerly lived on sweet potatoes, grass and hay. When Northern farmers came here to settle they found that the Creole ponies would not eat corn or oats. Both remained untouched in their feed boxes. In some cases the native horses had to be starved for days before they would touch either.

A Northern farmer threw an ear of corn among a herd of wild cattle. They came up to it, looked at it, sniffed it and walked away again. Not a steer would eat it. The colonists from the North inferred that to the horses and cattle of these parishes corn and oats were an acquired taste.

The bread fruit of Louisiana is the sweet potato. It will grow anywhere in any kind of soil. The varieties of sweet potatoes are almost innumerable. They yield from 200 to 500 bushels to the acre, and usually sell for fifty cents a barrel or twenty cents a bushel, though in seasons of scarcity they are thirty and even forty cents a bushel. They are the daily food of the farmers, and are fed to horses, cattle, swine and poultry. The Louisiana sweet potatoes are wholesome, but lack the fine flavor of those raised in Virginia. Irish potatoes are regarded here as a luxury, and the people have them on Sundays and holidays.

It is supposed generally in the North that Louisiana is a swamp country, a network of morass and bayou, and that there is little ground in its

Here the land is upheaved in innumerable little mountains, which rise sixty or seventy feet above the surrounding landscape. The highest peak in the State is in this wild district, and it towers 150 feet above the Gulf of Mexico.

The hill country might make the mountaineers of the Alps or the Andes smile, but it is as serious a fact in this State as are the Highlands in Scotland or the Catskill Mountains in New York. This mountainous country is the lumber belt. It is full of sawmills, and turns out vast quantities of handsome yellow pine lumber for the Northern market.

In the southwestern part of the State lies the Acadian country. It is a land of beautiful prairies and of magnificent yellow pine forests that in the distance look blue. This is the upland of Louisiana, the foothills of the little Switzerland to the north. It is the rice belt and cattle country of the State.

In Acadia the prairies are small, being ten or twelve miles long and five or six miles wide. They are girded round by yellow pine forests, through which run bayous. It is a fertile parish, but not as pretty to the eye as Calcasieu. The Calcasieu prairie is the largest in the State—about fifty miles long and from five to forty miles wide. The parish itself, which is also the largest in the Commonwealth, comprises 4000 square miles, and is about two-thirds the size of Connecticut.

Here the land is firm and solid. In digging wells the farmers have to go deeper to find water than they do in Wisconsin. The land, which is now fifty to sixty feet above the Gulf of Mexico, was once its bed, and contains a great deal of sand. The roads are sometimes dry within twelve hours after a semi-tropical rain. There is so little mud, except in proximity to rice marshes, that one may ride a bicycle along a highway covered with water.

This is the upland, and yet it is the rice country. The explanation is simple. From a foot to two feet under the soil lies a bed of clay which is impervious to water. Wherever land lies in a shallow saucer shape, so that its edges are slightly higher than its interior, the falling rain will fill it to the rim and form a marsh, because the water cannot percolate through the underlying bed of clay and escape. In Louisiana you will find the low grounds hard and dry and marshes on the ridges.

The alluvial land which lies in the Mississippi bottom seems to be plantations part of the time and part of the time Mississippi River. Swamps are not unknown there.

"We are having a Louisiana blizzard," said a Northern settler in Calcasieu parish. "The thermometer has fallen to seventy degrees above zero."

The children in the country go to school barefoot all winter. In a country schoolhouse, on a sharp midwinter day, there was only one child who wore shoes. All the children had shoes at home, but they did not care to wear them.

The well-to-do French farmer, with land by the league and cattle by the hundreds, with money buried in the ground or hidden in hollow trees or deposited in the bank, goes barefoot the year round, except when he visits the parish town. His winter dress is a straw hat, a calico shirt and a pair of blue cotton trousers. He goes without collar, cravat and shoes. His feet are as insensible to cold as are the hands of a Northern man who never wears gloves. It is a common sight in Acadia, on a winter's day, to see a man from the North, in a heavy ulster, talking to a barefooted French farmer in his shirtsleeves.

Her Cinch.

"Mildred," said her mother, "I don't believe that young man cares for you at all. In my opinion he comes here to see you merely because he has no place else to go."

"Oh, mamma," the girl replied, "you are mistaken—you wrong him. I have proof that he loves me."

"What is it? Has he asked you to marry him?"

"No, but I accidentally said I 'had saw' the other evening, and he immediately afterward said something about 'having came,' just to make me feel that he was somewhat shy on grammar. You needn't tell me that anything less than love—deep, soulful, everlasting love—would induce a man to do that."—Chicago Times.

THE CURIOUS LACE TREE.

One of the Many Marvels of Our Little Puerto Rico.

Some exquisite lamp shades, napkins and centre pieces have come from our dear little Puerto Rico this winter. They are made from the inner part of the lace tree; to be more explicit, from a lace-like fibre, which grows beneath the bark. The outside of this curious tree very much resembles the white and mottled mistletoe boughs one sees exposed for sale during the holidays, but the inside of the younger limbs and branches is a mass of the lace fibre, sometimes pure white in color and again yellow, tending to brown. Though the lace tree is apparently a very hard wood, the interior fibre may be unwrapped in sheets, which the Puerto Rican ladies convert into drawn work or embroider in bright colors.

PUERTO RICO'S WONDERFUL LACE TREE—WHIP, WITH LASH TWISTED FROM THE FIBRE OF ITS OWN STICK—LACE ROSETTE FROM THE SAME FIBRE.

Whips are made of the branches, a part of the branch being left for the stock and the fibre lace drawn out to form a topknot rosette. A long lash is plaited at the other end.

The manufactured lace fibre is very expensive, but nothing can be more beautiful than the effect of light through the lamp shades. The cocoanut palm grows sheets of fibre on the outside, so that it looks as if it is tied up in old mats, but the lace tree grows its delicate textile fibres inside, with vast improvements in texture and color.

The women of Puerto Rico do beautiful decorative work with this natural lace, the net of the fibre being so fine that it lends itself to the most delicate designs. It is dyed the brightest hues and made into flowers, which are applied to the lamp shades of the same or arranged in shapes of brilliant moths and butterflies. The large firefly of the tropics is exquisitely simulated. On the centrepieces for table adornment, the Spanish rose is frequently imitated. This rose is white in the morning, pink at noon and a deep crimson at night, hence there are three roses to go with the centrepieces and these are daintily attached by means of minute fibres to correspond with the hour of the day. Each color of the rose has a meaning. The white rose signifies that the daughters of the house are too young to think of marriage; the pink rose that they are society debutantes, and the red rose that they are married.

Tommy as a Humorist.

"Tommy Atkins is a regular humorist at times," the subaltern continued with a grin. "Did you ever hear the story of the court-martial in the —— Hussars? No? Well, you must know that, just as in the ordinary trial, a prisoner may object to the presence of a juryman whom he thinks has already some prejudice or grudge against him, so at a court-martial he is always asked if he is satisfied with the officers selected to try him. Well, this particular Tommy, when the president asked him the regular question, looked at the officers sitting solemnly before him and answered: 'Certainly; I object to the 'ole blooming lot of yer.' I believe that they were so astonished at this startling reply that they had to put off the trial till they could make out what was the right thing to do under the circumstances."—St. James's Gazette Correspondence.

The Balaclava Cap.

In England just now women are busy knitting comforts for the British soldiers in South Africa—sleeping helmets, tam-o'-shanters, cardigan jackets, cuffs, scarfs, mittens, socks and chest and back protectors. The Balaclava cap is the favorite object with these patriotic knitters. It is cold o' nights in South Africa, and some of the soldiers find the Balaclavas very useful.

BILL ARP'S LETTER

Bartow Man Talks at Length of the Higher Criticism.

DIFFERS WITH REV. LYMAN ABBOTT

In Recent Remarks of the Prelate Regarding the Authenticity of the Holy Bible.

A great lawyer whose chief business was to defend criminals was asked the secret of his success, and he replied: "It is to deny everything and call for the proof." New England agnosticism and higher criticism of the scriptures seem to have a like maxim. The deeper a man goes into science the more inclined is he to call for the proof; especially if he has more learning than brains, and has to strain his mind to solve the mysteries of life and nature.

I was ruminating about this, for I had just read the press dispatches that Rev. Lyman Abbott, who succeeded Henry Ward Beecher, had in a public address in Boston declared that the book of Genesis was a myth—a legend written before the flood by some unknown prophet—and that it was impossible for Moses to have known of the things that transpired 2,000 years before he was born, and he asks, "What were his resources if they were not legends and myths?"

I know that it does not become me to teach theology or the infallibility of the scriptures, but it occurs to me that if Mr. Abbott can undermine the Book of Genesis he will overthrow the whole structure of Biblical authority that has withstood the wear and tear of time for all these centuries. The Bible is the standard of the ages—the headlight of the nations, and it must stand as a whole or fall as a whole. The reverend gentlemen professes to believe in the new testament and part of the old, but if he is really a Christian he must believe as much of the Old Testament as the Savior and His apostles did. It was Christ who said in the parable of Dives and Lazarus, "If they will not believe Moses and the phophets, neither will they believe, though one rose from the dead."

This is that Moses who predicted the coming of the Savior when he was giving the laws to the children of Israel—that Moses to whom God intrusted the tables of stone that contained the commandments, and who wrote the most beautiful song in the Psalms of David—that Moses who appeared in glory on the mount while the Savior was transfigured—that Moses of whom Paul said he was faithful as a testimony of those things which were to come after. References are too numerous to quote—all showing that Moses was the vice-gerent of the Almighty, and was a prophet inspired by Him.

No, Mr. Abbott cannot uphold the New Testament and pull down the Old. He must sustain or demolish all. It is the same old attack of science upon miracles because they cannot be explained upon any hypothesis of human reason; when the truth is that Mr. Abbott himself is a stupendous miracle, and cannot tell how he thinks or where the power of thought or the faculty of memory is located, nor how he can at will raise his hand or close his eye; nor how he took form and shape in his mother's womb. All nature is a miracle; the leaves of the trees, the color of the flowers, the flight of birds, the infinite smallness of matter and germs, the infinite magnitude and boundless extent of the heavens and of space, and in all creation there is nothing that has pride, vanity and self-conceit save man—an agnostic or skeptic or an infidel—"The fool (only) has said in his heart, there is no God."

Well, now, leaving out the inspiration that guided Moses when he wrote the Book of Genesis, let us come down to human reason and see whether Moses had resources or not.

Mr. Abbott is now sixty-five years old. He is the son of Rev. Jacob Abbott, who was born in 1803, and Jacob was the son of a revolutionary sire. Mr. Lyman Abbott has children and perhaps grandchildren. That would make five generations from his grand sire. This Mr. Abbott lived in communion with his father forty-four years, and probably was a young man when his grandfather died. Now, if his grand sire and his sire were good, truthful, Christian men, and no doubt they were, how easy it was for Lyman to get a true account of the revolutionary war so far as relates to all the incidents that his grandfather knew of or took part in. And how easy for Lyman to hand it down correctly to his children and grandchildren.

No inspiration is needed—nothing but truth and a good memory. This is precisely the case with Moses—only six persons were needed to transmit the account of the creation from Adam down to Moses. True there were twenty-seven generations during that long period of years, but they lapped over each other surprisingly, and it seems to have been a dispensation of providence that they should. The chronology of the Mosaic account is as clear as a bell, and figures do not lie. Adam lapped over onto Lamech and lived with him fifty-six years, and Lamech was Noah's father. Surely Lamech told Noah all about the creation, for he got it direct from Adam, and he lived with his son Noah 595 years—had plenty of time didn't he? Noah had a son named Shem, who went into the ark with him, and I reckon during the long rainfall the old gentleman didn't have much else to talk about to his children besides the creation and Cain and Abel and Seth and Enoch, and so Shem knew it all about as well as his father.

Now, Shem was another long-lived patriarch, for he lived 502 years after the flood. He lived to see Arphaxad, Salah, Eber, Peleg, Reu, Serug, Nahor, Terah, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob—eleven generations. Yes, he lived and communed with Jacob for fifty years, and old Noah himself, the preacher of righteousness, lived until Abraham was sixty years old. Well, of course old Father Noah told Father Abraham everything that Lamech had told him, and Shem told it, too, and also had fifty years' talk with Jacob about it.

Is there any trouble about keeping the account straight this far, and this clears up the Mosaic record for about 2,000 years.

Now, Jacob had a son named Levi, and this same Levi—the father of the priesthood—was the grandfather of Amram, who was the father of Moses. How easy it was for Levi to transmit to Amram, his grandson, all that he learned from Jacob. Then the record would read: Adam told Lamech, Lamech told Noah, Noah told Abraham, Abraham told Jacob (and Shem told him, too), and Jacob told Levi and Levi told Amram.

Lamech, Noah, Abraham, Jacob, Levi and Amram. The 27 generations are reduced to six men and those six were all men favored of God and in the line of descent to David and Jesus Christ. Besides these men there were godly women not a few. Old Mother Eve was there, the last and best part of the creation, and probably lived with Adam until his death. Don't you know she loved to meet with her descendants and how she sat in the corner with her knitting and talked to old Mother Enoch and Mother Methusaleh and Mother Lamech, who was her g-g-g-g-g-g-g-granddaughter, and how she wept with them over that apple business?

Resources indeed! Could a historian have any better or more truthful, God-fearing men and women to learn from? Young men, beware how you become infatuated or infected with this modern idea of higher criticism.

For 2,500 years the authenticity of the Old Testament has been studied by the most learned men of the ages. Paul says, "Unto the Jews were committed the oracles of God. What if some do not believe: shall their unbelief make the faith of God without effect? God forbid; yea, let God be true, but every man a liar." Two hundred and eighty-five years before Christ seventy learned men compiled the sacred canon and it has remained the same unchanged till this day. But ever and anon some carping and cynical mind strains itself to find a flaw and calls it higher criticism. Just like Seward and Giddings and other fanatics did when they armed old John Brown and declared that there was a higher law than the constitution.

Young man, stand by the faith of the ages, the faith of your fathers and be not wise in your own conceit, for Solomon saith, "There is more hope of a fool than of him."

I have recently visited the good old city of Columbus and received its hospitality and benedictions. It is just my age, and through all these years has moved steadily and surely forward, manufacturing with serenity and dignity the character its cultured men and women gave it in the beginning. How broadly beautiful it was laid out; how bountiful is its shade; how green the grass on its public grounds; how beautiful the river that girdles it. Not for a single year has there been any retrograde in the manners or morals of its people. Considering its climate, society and prosperity, I do not know a city that I had rather live in. It is already large enough for moral safety, for Jefferson spoke a truth when he said that great cities were pestilential to good health and good morals.

Of course, we favor the increase of an industrial population that keep the wheels and spindles turning and the wolf from the door and the beggar from the streets, and if every city cared for its operatives in the mills as Columbus does, there would be no object lessons of misery to be carried before the legislature. I visited the young men's club rooms of the Eagle and Phenix mills. Yes, club rooms for factory boys, where they can spend their evenings and read and write and bathe and exercise instead of going to the saloons.

The beautiful library has 2,000 volumes of standard books and the reading tables are furnished with the best newspaper and magazine literature. I cannot enumerate the pleasant and attractive features of these rooms. They are all free or nearly so to the factory boys who become members. Colonel Gunby Jordan is the big-hearted promoter of this attachment to the mills and the mill owners pay all the expenses.—BILL ARP, in Atlanta Constitution.

There are 82,329 prisoners in the United States today occupying penitentiaries, states prisons, county jails and other places of confinement. In addition to these there are 3289 persons who are under indictment to answer charges of one or another description in the criminal courts who are at liberty on bail, while 5632 offenders against the laws of state or nation are fugitives from justice, whether in or out of the country, no one knows. This is a surprising number in proportion to a population of 70,000,000—over 90,000. This means that over 1 1-3 per cent. of the entire population of the United States is serving a term in jail or awaiting trial for some crime either on bail or a fugitive from a tardy justice—an astonishing record.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY AT CLANTON, CHILTON COUNTY, ALA.

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS.

A X mark under your name on the first page of this paper means that your subscription is due. If we do not hear from you within two weeks we shall conclude that you wish to discontinue, and the paper will be stopped.

READ our special offer on this page, the biggest offer ever made by any county paper in Alabama. Then tell your friends and neighbors about it. Now is the time to subscribe.

We have much pleasure in announcing that we have perfected arrangements by which we can extend our Special Offer until Thursday March 1, 1900. It affords us much gratification that our Special Offer should have been so much appreciated, and if there is any person who wishes to take advantage of it, we shall be glad to have them do so on or before March 1, after which date the offer will positively be withdrawn.

J. W. LITTLEJOHN.

The progressive young man is coming to the front in these nays, and Mr. J. W. Littlejohn can fairly be classed with the progressives. He was born within a stone's throw of where he now resides and has spent the whole of his life in the center of Chilton county. He joined the Alliance at the start and for some time was its secretary. When the Knights of Labor was strong in this county, he was a member and at one time Master Workman. Of deep religious principles, a member of the Baptist church, honest, hardworking and conscientious, he will, if elected Tax Collector, doubtless make an excellent record. He has always acted with the Populist party, and for a long time has been a member of the executive committee.

J. W. MOORE.

Prof. J. W. Moore is so well known to our readers it only needs the announcement that he is a candidate for Superintendent of Education to call forth a host of friends. The Professor has already made a splendid reputation as County Superintendent, and all feel satisfied that if he is again elected to that important position he will add to that reputation, and that the schools will continue to progress under his administration. He is a good conscientious man, thoroughly acquainted with the duties of the office and the needs of the people.

RUFUS C. RIGGINS.

This gentleman announces himself a candidate for re-election to the office of Commissioner from the Fourth District—the office he has been satisfactorily filling for the last tow years. We have always been of the opinion that the best interest of the county are subserved by the retention of some members of the old board, and the new law will remedy this by the election of two commissioners every two years. At this coming election the Fourth Distnict, which Mr. Riggins now represents, will elect a commissioner for four years, and if he is re-elected the new board will have the benefit of the experience he has gained. He is a Populist true and tried, and will do his utmost to make the people a most efficient servant.

ROBT. M. SMITH.

Mr. Robert M. Smith is a native Alabamian who has spent the last four years of his life in Chilton county. He is a brother of County Solicitor A. C. Smith and aspires to be Sheriff of the county. Mr. Robert M. Smith is a member of the masonic fraternity, and also a member of the Baptist church. The duties of the sheriff requires a man of courage and firmness and Mr. Smith is well qualified in these particulars. He has always acted with the People's Party, and solicits their support, believing he can, if elected, give the people of Chilton county every satisfaction,

ALEX G. DAKE

There is nothing that so much shows up a man's standing in the community where he is well known as his ability to make a heavy bond. The law requires a county treasurer to make a heavy bond, and it takes a well-known man to make such a bond. Mr. Dake has thoroughly justified his bondsmen and is entitled to have his term of office which is now expiring extended for another term, providing the voters should see fit to again entrust him with the office. He has made a record of which he can justly feel proud, and if he is re-elected we are satisfied he will do as much for the people in the future as he has in the past.

PRIMARY TO BE HELD ON MARCH 15.

The Executive Committee of the People's Party of Chilton county met in called session on Saturday, Feb. 15, at the court house, Clanton. The meeting was open and several visitors were present.

In the absence of Chairman W. H. Conway, Judge Adams called the committee to order. The Secretary called the roll and six beats were represented.

On motion of L. Moore, Judge Adams was elected chairman of the committee for the day.

W. A. Mims, of Beat 9, tendered his resignation as committeeman as he was a candidate for Tax Collector. Resignation accepted, and J. D. Collins, of Strasburg, was unanimously elected to fill the vacancy.

J. W. Sorrell, of Beat 1, made a motion that the party hold beat meetings and and a county convention for the nomination of candidates to the county offices, and after considerable discussion the motion was lost.

A motion wus made by R. J. Williams, of Beat 3, and seconded by Ben H. Wells, of Beat 5, that a primary election be held at the several polling places in the county on Thursday, March 15, 1900, and it was unanimously carried.

On motion of L. B. Pounds, of Beat 4, the committeemen from each beat were instructed to appoint the managers and returning officeas for the polling places in their respective beats, and report their names to Judge Adams not later than Saturday, Feb. 24, for the purpose of publishing them in the same way as at a general election. A motion was made and carried that the Committee meet on Saturday, March 17, to canvass the returns of the primary election and annonnce the nominees.

Ben H. Wells moved that the candidates receiving the highest number of votes at the primary be declared the nominees, and in the event of a tie vote the matter to be referred to the Committee for a decision.

Judge Adams explained the new law on primary elections.

The following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, the true principles of Democracy was assailed by Grover Cleveland and his followers, thereby dividing the people, and of neeessity alienating the two factions, to-wit: The faction known as the "Gold Bug" or Cleveland Democracy, and the faction known as the Bryan or "Free Silver" Democracy.

And whereas, the people who adhere to the Chicago platform and those who subscribe to the principles of the People's Party, are in principle, one and the same, advocating the glorious principles of a government by the people and for the people.

And whereas, there is no longer a necessity for a division of the people who are agreed upon these great questions.

And whereas, we recognize in Mr. Bryan, that qualification of leadership which will restore this government back to the people, be it therefore resolved, by the Peoples' Party Executive Committee of Chilton County Alabama.

1st. That we favor a union of all voters who believe in the principles heretofore declared by the National People's Party or by the National Democratic Party at Chicago in 1896.

And to this end we most cordially invite all men regardless of past political affiliation, to join us in the nomination and election of the best and most capable men to office, in this County and State in the coming August election, with no other view than to unite the people, who have a common irterest, and to perpetuate and protect the time honored principles of original Democracy, to-wit: "The greatest good to the greatest uumber," and upon these principles we will labor together with honest methods for the preservation of a people's government, which was purchased by the blood of our fathers and left as a heritage to us.

Resolved 2, That all voters who participate in the primary election on March 15, 1900, shall pledge their sacred honor to support and vote for the nominees of said primary election.

Resolved 3, That the managers at each polling place shall be the judges as to the proper qualification of voters.

On motion of J. W. Sorrell every person present was requested to signify his approval of the work of the Committee by rising to his feet, and everyone immediately rose.

A motion was made and carried that each candidate pay his pro rata share of the expenses for printing the ballots and necessary blanks for the primary election to the Secretary of the Committee on or before March 8, 1900, or if any fail

That Cough Hangs On

You have used all sorts of cough remedies but it does not yield; it is too deep seated. It may wear itself out in time, but it is more liable to produce la grippe, pneumonia or a serious throat affection. You need something that will give you strength and build up the body.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

will do this when everything else fails. There is no doubt about it. It nourishes, strengthens, builds up and makes the body strong and healthy, not only to throw off this hard cough, but to fortify the system against further attacks. If you are run down or emaciated you should certainly take this nourishing food medicine.

to do so their names will not be placed on the ticket.

W. A. Greene, of Beat 7, offered his resignation as a committeeman on account of being a candidate. It was accepted and J. D. Holsembeck was elected to fill the vacancy.

J. W. Littlejohn of Beat 4, tendered his resignation as committeeman as he purposed becoming a candidate for Tax Collector. The resignation was accepted and H. B. Rodgers elected to fill the vacancy.

The Committee them adjourned until Saturday, March 17.

Thursday, Feb. 22, 1900

In consequence of there being but a bare quorum of the committee present at the meeting last Saturday, and several of the absent members not agreeing with the action then taken by the committee, a called meeting was held this morning and the following resolutions unanimously passed:

WHEREAS, It is not in accord with the views of the Populists of Chilton county that their primary election should be open to all voters, therefore

RESOLVED: That the invitation to all voters to participate in the primary election to be held on March 15, 1900, be and is hereby withdrawn, and

RESOLVED 2. That all voters who have heretofore voted the Populist ticket are invited to take part in the primary election on March 15, 1900. W. H. CONWAY, Chm.

FRANK CRICHTON, Secretary.

JUDSON STROCK.

When, two years ago, Prof. Judson Strock was elected County Superintendent of Education, he was comparatively speaking an unknown man. He entered into his new duties with a vim that foretold success, and the county has reason to be proud of him. He has made an excellent superintendent, and feels he is entitled to an endorsement by the people, and seeks re-election. There has been some change in the law affecting schools, and Supt. Strock has devoted much of his time and talent in the study of the new law. If re-elected he will continue to devote his time to the improvement of our schools.

F. M. FOSHEE

This gentleman is another of our younger friends born and raised in Chilton county, in fact is still living within four miles of where he was born. A man who is seeking the suffrage of the people, whose entire life has been passed under their supervision has nothing to conceal. Mr. Foshee is a member of the Baptist church, and also clerk of his own church. He has identified himself with the People's Party since its inauguration in this State, and was previously a member of the Farmers' Alliance. He sarved as deputy assessor under Assessor E. G. Rollins and then became acquainted with the duties of Tax Assessor, the office of which he would like the voters of Chilton county to elect him. If he is elected he is well qualified by education and experience to make a good Assessor.

An Editor's Life Saved by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

During the early part of October, 1896, I contracted a bad cold which settled on my lungs and was neglected until I feared that consumption had appeared in an incipient state. I was constantly coughing and trying to expel something which I could not. I became alarmed and after giving the local doctor a trial bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and the result was immediate improvment, and After I had used three bottles my lungs were restored to their healthy state.—H. S. Edwards, publisher of the Review, Wyant, Ill. For Sale by the Clanton Drug, Co.

READ our special offer on this page, the biggest offer ever made by any county paper in Alabama. Then tell your friends and neighbors about it.

"After doctors failed to cure me of pneumonia I used One Minute Cough Cure and three bottles of it cured me. It is also the best remedy on earth for whooping cough. It cured my grand children of the worse cases," writes Jno. Berry, Loganton, Pa. It is the only harmless remedy that gives immediate results. Cures coughs, colds, croup and throat and lung troubles. It prevents consumption. Children always like it. Mothers endorse it. J. B. Downs.

There is no better medicine for the babies than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Its pleasant taste and prompt and effectual cures make it a favorite with mothers and small children. It quickly cures their coughs and colds, preventing pneumonia or other serious consequences. It also cures croup, and has been used in tens of thousands of cases without a single failure so far as we have been able to learn. It not only cures croup, but when given as soon as the croup cough appears, will prevent the attack. In cases of whooping cough it liquefies the tough mucus, making it easier to expectorate, and lessens the severity and frequency of the paroxysms of coughing, thus depriving that disease of all dangerous consequences. Although Free Silver and Bryan went down in defeat, good times came when cotton went up to 7¼ cents; and if they will give us 10 cents for it I will promise better times still.

If you want any evidence of it, come and examine the large stock of all kinds of merchandise, from a baby nursing ring to a 4 horse Florence wagon, that I carry in stock.

For the next 30 days I am going to sell some of it—at my price if I can, at your price if I can't.

I won't say too much for fear I might lie, so invite you all, with your aunts, your uncles, your mother-in-law, and your cousins to come and see. Brogans and Patent Leather Shoes put down on the same basis of profit. Your measure taken and coffins trimmed to suit prior to demise or "any other old thing" you want.

CENSUS OF 1900.

Greenville, Ala., Feb. 20, 1900.

Editor BANNER—Dear Sir. For the benefit of all interested in the taking of the Twelfth Census, I desire to furnish you the following infofmation for publication.

The Census enumerators for this, the 2d District, will not be appointed until after the several counties embraced in my Census District have been divided into enumeration districts. The Department will furnish me with this sub-division as soon as it has been completed; then the matter of appointing enumerators will be taken up and disposed of at an early date.

The success of taking the Census will depend very largely upon the capacity and reliability of the enumerators. To that end the qualification of enumerators is a matter of no little importance.

It shall be my earnest endeavor to select all enumerators with reference to their physical activity, good moral character; aptness, neatness, and accuracy in writing, spelling and ready use of figures. The Department requires this.

They will be required to make a house to house canvass in the beats assigned to them, with perfect satisfaction to the Department.

After they begin the work, they will furnish a daily report of their progress to the Supervisor and in order to do this, the necessary blanks will be furnished them.

The enumeration will begin on the 1st day of June, 1900, and in all enumeration districts, outside of the City of Montgomery, the work must be completed within the month of June, but the City of Montgomery, only two weeks will be allowed.

The Act of March 3, 1899, fixes the compensation of enumerators as follows: The minimum rate is two cents for each living inhabitant; two cents for each death; fifteen cents for each farm; and ttweny cents for each establishment of productive industry; this is provided for all sub-divisions where the allowance is deemed sufficient. In other sub-divisions, higher rates will be paid according to the difficulties of the work. In such cases, the maximum rate will not exceed three cents for each living inhabitant: three cents for each death; twenty cents for each farm: and thirty cents for each establishment of productive industry.

In sub-division where per diem rates are established, having reference to the nature of the region to be canvassed, and the density or sparsness of the settlement, or other consideration pertinent thereto, the compensation allowed to enumerators will not be less than three dollars, nor more than six dollars, per day or ten hours.

All enumerators must be residents of the enumeration districts for which they are appointed.

Political party affiliations will not be considered in making these appointments

The enumeration will be restricted to inquiries relating to the population, to mortality, and the products of agriculture, and of manufacturing and mechanicle establishments.

Any enumerator who, without justifiable cause, neglects or refuses to perform the duties of his position, after accepting an appointment and qualifying for the work, or who communicates to any person not authorized to receive the same, any information gained by him in the performance of his duties, will be subject to a fine of five-hundred dollars.

Yours very truly,
ALBERT STEINHART,
Supervisor 2d Census Dist. of Ala.

In supplicance for thy aid—
To-day thy children's children send
Their prayers as we have prayed!

Children of unfamiliar face,
From Cuba and Luzon,
In thy strong care to-day we place,
That thou wilt lead them on.

These little ones of far-off lands
Need all thy strength and might.
Teach them to clasp our proffered hands
And follow in the right!

IT is not claimed for these anecdotes of Washington that they are new. But to many they will seem new because they have been collected from sources not accessible to the general public. They serve to show, in each instance, some special characteristic of the man who began as a surveyor and rounded his career as a President, and as a whole give a fairly rounded-out picture of the great soldier and statesman.

Declined a Delicacy as a Reproof.

Washington's steward once purchased the first shad of the season for the President's table, as he knew his master to be extravagantly fond of fish. He placed it before Washington at table as an agreeable surprise. The President inquired how much he paid for the shad. "Three dollars," was the reply. "Take it away," commanded Washington rather sharply. "I will not encourage such extravagance in my house."

A Flag of Truce For General Howe's Dog.

While the British occupied Philadelphia and the American force lay in winter quarters at Valley Forge, one day, as Washington and his staff were dining, a fine hunting dog, which was evidently lost, came to seek something to eat. On its collar was the name "General Howe." Washington ordered that the dog should be fed, and then he sent it to Philadelphia under a flag of truce, with a letter reading: "General Washington's compliments to General Howe. He does himself the pleasure to return to him a dog which accidently fell into his hands, and, by the inscription on the collar, appears to belong to General Howe." The British commander, in reply, sent a cordial letter conveying his warm thanks for this act of courtesy of his enemy.

An Example of His Thoughtfulness.

Elkanah Watson, who visited Mount Vernon after Washington's retirement from the Presidency, tells a story which shows Washington's thoughtfulness of his guests. Watson relates that "I was extremely oppressed by a severe cold and excessive coughing, contracted by the exposure of a harsh journey. Washington pressed me to use some remedies, but I declined doing so. As usual, after retiring my coughing increased. When some time had elapsed the door of my room was gently opened, and, on drawing my bed-curtains, to my utter astonishment I beheld Washington himself standing at my bedside with a bowl of hot tea in his hand."

Others, if Afraid, Might Fall Back; He Would Not.

While Mr. Evans, one of the chaplains of the army, was standing near Washington a shot struck the ground so close as to cover his hat with sand. Much agitated he took off his hat and said, "See here, General!" "Mr. Evans," replied Washington, with his usual composure, "you had better carry that home and show it to your wife and children."

During the bombardment of Yorktown the British kept up an incessant firing of cannon and musketry from their whole line. General Washington and Generals Knox and Lincoln were standing in an exposed situation. Colonel Cobb, one of Washington's aids, who was exceedingly solicitous for his commander's safety, said to him, "Sir, you are too much exposed here. Had you not better step a little back?" "Colonel Cobb, if you are afraid you have liberty to move back," was General Washington's icy reply.

impudent sometimes—such impudence Fanny, as you and I like."

The Cherry Tree Story.

The cherry tree story is pure fiction—an invention of Washington's first biographer, Parson Mason L. Weems, whose budget of anecdotes, to which were usually appended a first-class moral, was accepted as truth by an unsuspecting world because its author was the earliest in the field with a life of the great man. The scene of the cherry tree incident is located on the Stafford farm, where Washington's father died, and from which his mother moved to the house in Fredericksburg, Virginia.

He Told One.

Washington told a lie when a boy, according to a tradition in the town of his youth—Fredericksburg. Being a tradition—a great-grandmother's narrative—it is given for what it is worth. The story runs that Washington, thirteen years old at the time, you deem that satisfactory here is my hand—let us be friends." Mr. Payne was from that moment an enthusiastic admirer of Washington.

Washington's Apology to Nelly Custis.

Nelly Custis, who was Mrs. Washington's grandchild, used to relate the following incident: "I was young and romantic and fond of wandering alone by moonlight in the woods of Mount Vernon. Grandmamma thought it wrong and unsafe, and scolded and coaxed me into a promise that I would not wander in the woods again unaccompanied. But I was missing one evening, and was brought home from the interdicted woods to the drawing-room, where the General was walking up and down with his hands behind him, as was his wont. Grandmamma, seated in her great armchair, opened a severe reproof. I was reminded of my promise and taxed with my delinquency. I knew that I had done wrong, admitted my fault and essayed no excuse. But when there was a slight pause I moved to retire from the room. I was just shutting the door when I overheard General Washington attempting in a low voice to intercede in my behalf. 'My dear,' observed he, 'I would say no more;

The General made one of his most courtly bows and replied, 'My child, I beg your pardon.'"

Could Be "Downright Impudent Sometimes."

Washington always seems to have been most at ease when among women. At his wife's receptions he did not view himself as host, but conversed without restraint, generally with women who rarely had other opportunity of seeing him. An eyewitness states that "the young ladies used to throng around him and engage him in conversation. As these were the only opportunities which they had of conversing with him they were disposed to use them." That this attention was not merely the respect due to a great man is shown very clearly by the letter of a young Virginia woman, who wrote to a correspondent that "when General Washington throws off the was sent by his mother to drive home a cow from the nearby pasture, and milk it when stabled. The cow was duly driven to shelter by George, who, disliking menial tasks, neglected to milk the beast. He had gone to bed when his mother, hearing the bellowing of the cow, and suspecting something wrong, called to George, asking if he had obeyed her injunction about milking. Sleepily he answered "Yes."

At the February Tea-Party.

When I arrived, in regimentals trig,
She stood dispensing tea and sally-lunns,
Transformed by stiff brocade and powdered wig,
The fairest of all Lady Washingtons.
In time I craved the favor of a cup
Of her own savory, delicious brew,
Which serving me and looking coyly up,
She caught and eyed askance my buff and blue.
Her glance said plainly as a spoken word
In donning them I'd gone a step too far;
For my forebears wore red for George the Third,
And Mattie is a loyal d. a. r.

So when the urns were drained and growing cold,
To calm the torrent of a rising gorge
And justify my action, I made bold
Myself to liken to that other George.
She listened, then incredulously asked,
"And wherein, pray, does the resemblance lie?
Take care, sir, that no innuendo's masked
By the fine words with which you make reply."
"It's simply this," I said, intensely grim.
"Where he was vanquished I'm content to be;
And what fair Martha Custis did for him
Another Martha's fairly done for me."

Martha Washington's Watch.

It has a cracked and yellow face
And hangs within a crystal case;
The stem is bent, the key is lost,
The golden back with scratches crossed.
For many a year has passed away
Since last it told the time of day
To Martha Washington.

In old Virginia, years agone,
She put that pretty trinket on
With rich brocade and laces rare,
And silver powder on her hair,
When courtly George a-wooing came,
Before she took the stately name
Of Martha Washington.

When he was late, I have no doubt,
She took the ancient timepiece out
And frowned to mark him overdue;
For Cupid, tyrant over you
And over me, oh, love of mine,
Had then the same sweet power divine
O'er Martha Washington.

Oh, broken toy of time! they say
She wore you on her wedding-day;
You saw her beauty and her bliss,
You witnessed, too, the marriage-kiss,
And thrilled in answer to the start
And happy throbbing of the heart
Of Martha Washington.

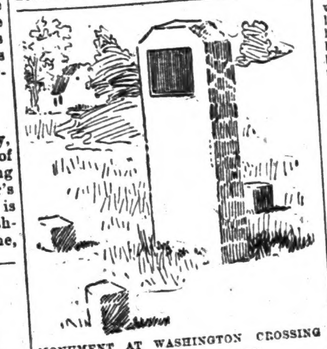
WASHINGTON'S CROSSING.

Present Day Appearance of the Place Where Washington Crossed the Delaware.

NO one will find it easy to disassociate Washington Crossing, on the Delaware, with bluster weather, broken fields of ice and the hardships and privations of the disheartened Continental army on that Christmas night of 1776 which is held by many historians and patriots to be the turning point of the Revolution.

To think of and to see this sleepy little hamlet of Washington Crossing on a bright and balmy day one can hardly realize that in the midst of its picturesque beauty once limped that starving, half-clad yet determined army of men to the victory that turned the thought of defeat into one of conquest.



MONUMENT AT WASHINGTON CROSSING NEAR THE OLD TAVERN.

From the little station, which is eight miles above Trenton, on the Belvidere road, parts of all the houses and the blacksmith shop which go to make up the village are in sight. Parallel with the railroad is the canal, winding in graceful curves about the lines of the hills, and a few hundred feet to the west, down a gentle slope, is the river, broad and peaceful.

On a bit of rising ground, with grand old trees about the yard, sloping westward to the canal, stands the one house of interest—the headquarters during the hours which made this bit of land historic. Great willows grow at the foot of the front yard by a stream that runs through the stone springhouse; their big limbs stretch far out over the canal and lend a grateful shade to weary mules and pedestrians alike.

The stones erected on the Pennsylvania side by the Bucks County Historical Society and on the New Jersey side by the Society of the Cincinnati mark the old ferry and where the army crossed. It was then called McKonkey's Ferry, afterwards Bernardsville, after Bernard Taylor, the original owner of the property upon which the "old house" stands. The present name was given when the railroad passed through.

There are many changes in the place since General Washington and his army took Bear Tavern. The accurate tracing of the landmarks is made somewhat difficult by the building of the Delaware and Raritan canal feeder, which parallels the river, and the difference in the present grades and roads from those that existed in 1776.

The old house, then a tavern, was far too small to be of any use, save to the officers. It is a quaint structure, shingled and whitewashed. The front shows two entrances and a double door at each, with bright flowers below the steps. On the first floor of the house are three rooms of good size and a stairway around the great chimney. The east room was once the barroom, and traces of where the bar stood are still visible. Rows of wooden pegs ornament the walls and the great hewn beams.

The old fireplaces are still intact, though the cranes and spits are rusted. In the woodwork of the mantel hundreds of bullets are imbedded, besides as many holes and indentations of others. Tradition says that the soldiers, to keep warm, pegged away at the fireplaces to see if their aim was still good.

REV. DR. TALMAGE

DISCOURSE BY THE EMINENT DI... TINE LAST SUNDAY

Subject: The Responsibility of Those Who Are Well and Strong—Physical Energy Not Indicative of Spiritual Power—Fight the Battles of the Weak.

[Copyright 1900.]

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In this discourse Dr. Talmage sets forth the responsibility of those who are strong and well, as in a former discourse he preached to the disabled and "the shut in," text, Judges xiv. 1, "And Samson went down to Timnath."

There are two sides to the character of Samson. The one phase of his life, if followed into the particulars, would administer to the grotesque and the mirthful, but there is a phase of his character fraught with lessons of solomn and eternal import. To these graver lessons we devote our sermon.

This giant no doubt in early life gave evidences of what he was to be. It is almost always so. There were two Napoleons—the boy Napoleon and the man Napoleon—but both alike; two Howards—the boy Howard and the man Howard—but both alike; two Samsons—the boy Samson and the man Samson—but both alike. This giant was no doubt the hero of the playground, and nothing could stand before his exhibition of youthful prowess. At eighteen years of age he was betrothed to the daughter of a Philistine. Going down toward Timnath, a lion came out upon him, and, although this young giant was weaponless, he seized the monster by the long mane and shook him as a hungry hound shakes a March hare and made his bones crack and left him by the wayside bleeding under the smiting of his fist and the grinding heft of his heel.

There he stands, looming up above other men, a mountain of flesh, his arms bunched with muscle that can lift the gate of a city, taking an attitude defiant of everything. His hair had never been cut, and it rolled down seven great plaits over his shoulders, adding to his bulk fierceness and terror. The Philistines want to conquer him, and therefore they must find out where the secret of his strength lies.

There is an evil woman living in the valley of Sorek by the name of Delilah. They appoint her the agent in the case. The Philistines are secreted in the same building, and then Delilah goes to work and coaxes Samson to tell what is the secret of his strength. "Well," he says, "if you take seven green withes such as they fasten wild beasts with and put them around me I should be perfectly powerless." So she binds him with the seven green withes. Then she claps her hands and says, "They come—the Philistines!" and he walks out as though there were no impediment. She coaxes him again and says, "Now, tell me the secret of this great strength." And he replies, "If you should take some ropes that have never been used, and tie me with them I should be just like other men." She ties him with ropes, claps her hands and shouts, "They come—the Philistines!" He walks out as easily as he did before—not a single obstruction. She coaxes him again, and he says, "Now, if you should take these seven long plaits of hair and by this house loom weave them into a web, I could not get away." So the house loom is rolled up, and the shuttle flies backward and forward, and the long plaits of hair are woven into a web. Then she claps her hands and says, "They come—the Philistines!" He walks out as easily as he did before, dragging a part of the loom with him.

But after awhile she persuades him to tell the truth. He says, "If you should take a razor or shears and cut off this long hair, I should be powerless and in the hands of my enemies." Samson sleeps, and that she may not wake him up during the process of shearing, help is called in. You know that the barbers of the East have such a skillful way of manipulating the head to this very day that, instead of waking up a sleeping man, they will put a man wide awake sound asleep. I hear the blades of the shears grinding against each other, and I see the long locks falling off. The shears or razor accomplishes what green withes and new ropes and house loom could not do. Suddenly she claps her hands and says, "The Philistines be upon thee, Samson!" He rouses up with a struggle, but his strength is all gone. He is in the hands of his enemies.

I hear the groan of the giant as they take his eyes out, and then I see him staggering on in his blindness, feeling his way as he goes on toward Gaza. The prison door is open, and the giant is thrust in. He sits down and puts his hands on the mill crank, which, with exhausting horizontal motion, goes day after day, week after week, month after month—work, work, work! The consternation of the world in captivity, his locks shorn, his eyes punctured, grinding corn in Gaza!

First of all, behold in this giant of the text that physical power is not always an index of moral power. He was a huge man—the lion found it out and the 3000 men whom he slew found it out; yet he was the subject of petty revenges and outgiantedness by low passion. I am far from throwing any discredit upon physical stamina. There are those who seem to have great admiration for delicacy and sickness of constitution. I never could see any glory in weak nerves or sick headache. Whatever effort in our day is made to make the men and women more robust should have the favor of every good citizen as well as of every Christian. Gymnastics may be positively religious.

Good people sometimes ascribe to a wicked heart what they ought to ascribe to a slow liver. The body and soul are such near neighbors that they often catch each other's diseases. Those who never saw a sick day and who, like Hercules, show the giant in the cradle have more to answer for than those who are the subjects of lifelong infirmities. He who can lift twice as much as you can and walk twice as far and work twice as long will have a double account to meet in the judgment.

How often it is that you do not find physical energy indicative of spiritual power! If a clear head is worth more than one dizzy with perpetual vertigo, if muscles with the play of health in them are worth more than those drawn up in chronic "rheumatics," if an eye quick to catch passing objects is better than one with vision dim and uncertain, then God will require of us efficiency just in proportion to what He has given us. Physical energy ought to be a type of moral power. We ought to have as good digestion of truth as we have capacity to assimilate food. Our spiritual hearing ought to be as good as our physical hearing. Our spiritual taste ought to be as clear as our tongue. Samsons in body, we ought to be giants in moral power.

But while you find a great many men who realise that they ought to use their money aright and use their intelligence aright, how few men you find aware of the fact that they ought to use their physical organism aright! With every thump of the heart there is something saying: "Work! Work!" And lest we should complain that we have no tools to work with, God gives us our hands and feet, with every knuckle and with every joint and with every muscle saying to us, "Lay hold and do something."

But how often it is that men with physical strength do not serve Christ! They are like a ship full manned and fully rigged, capable of vast tonnage, able to endure all stress of weather, yet swinging idly at the docks when these men ought to be crossing and recrossing the great ocean of human suffering and sin with God's supplies of mercy. How often it is that physical strength is used in doing positive damage or in luxurious ease, when, with sleeves rolled up and broadened bosom, fearless of the shafts of opposition, it ought to be laying hold with all its might and tugging away to lift up this sunken wreck of a world.

It is a most shameful fact that much of the business of the church and of the w... must be done by those comparatively in... ild. IT is not claimed for these anecdotes of Washington that they are new. But to many they will seem new because they have been collected from sources not accessible to the general public. They serve to show, in each instance, some special characteristic of the man who began as a surveyor and rounded his career as a President, and as a whole give a fairly rounded-out picture of the great soldier and statesman.

Declined a Delicacy as a Reproof.

Washington's steward once purchased the first shad of the season for the President's table, as he knew his master to be extravagantly fond of fish. He placed it before Washington at table as an agreeable surprise. The President inquired how much he paid for the shad. "Three dollars," was the reply. "Take it away," commanded Washington rather sharply. "I will not encourage such extravagance in my house."

A Flag of Truce For General Howe's Dog.

While the British occupied Philadelphia and the American force lay in winter quarters at Valley Forge, one day, as Washington and his staff were dining, a fine hunting dog, which was evidently lost, came to seek something to eat. On its collar was the name "General Howe." Washington ordered that the dog should be fed, and then he sent it to Philadelphia under a flag of truce, with a letter reading: "General Washington's compliments to General Howe. He does himself the pleasure to return to him a dog which accidently fell into his hands, and, by the inscription on the collar, appears to belong to General Howe." The British commander, in reply, sent a cordial letter conveying his warm thanks for this act of courtesy of his enemy.

An Example of His Thoughtfulness.

Elkanah Watson, who visited Mount Vernon after Washington's retirement from the Presidency, tells a story which shows Washington's thoughtfulness of his guests. Watson relates that "I was extremely oppressed by a severe cold and excessive coughing, contracted by the exposure of a harsh journey. Washington pressed me to use some remedies, but I declined doing so. As usual, after retiring my coughing increased. When some time had elapsed the door of my room was gently opened, and, on drawing my bed-curtains, to my utter astonishment I beheld Washington himself standing at my bedside with a bowl of hot tea in his hand."

Others, if Afraid, Might Fall Back; He Would Not.

While Mr. Evans, one of the chaplains of the army, was standing near Washington a shot struck the ground so close as to cover his hat with sand. Much agitated he took off his hat and said, "See here, General!" "Mr. Evans," replied Washington, with his usual composure, "you had better carry that home and show it to your wife and children."

During the bombardment of Yorktown the British kept up an incessant firing of cannon and musketry from their whole line. General Washington and Generals Knox and Lincoln were standing in an exposed situation. Colonel Cobb, one of Washington's aids, who was exceedingly solicitous for his commander's safety, said to him, "Sir, you are too much exposed here. Had you not better step a little back?" "Colonel Cobb, if you are afraid you have liberty to move back," was General Washington's icy reply.

great love for him and their duty to return peaceably to their barracks. Feeling himself to be the aggressor, Washington resolved to make honorable reparation. Early next morning he wrote a polite note to Mr. Payne, requesting to see him at the tavern. Payne repaired to the place appointed in expectation of a duel. On his approach Washington rose to meet him, and, smiling as he offered his hand, began: "Mr. Payne, to err is nature; to rectify error is glory. I believe I was wrong yesterday; you have already had some satisfaction, and if you deem that satisfactory here is my hand—let us be friends." Mr. Payne was from that moment an enthusiastic admirer of Washington.

Washington's Apology to Nelly Custis.

Nelly Custis, who was Mrs. Washington's grandchild, used to relate the following incident: "I was young and romantic and fond of wandering alone by moonlight in the woods of Mount Vernon. Grandmamma thought it wrong and unsafe, and scolded and coaxed me into a promise that I would not wander in the woods again unaccompanied. But I was missing one evening, and was brought home from the interdicted woods to the drawing-room, where the General was walking up and down with his hands behind him, as was his wont. Grandmamma, seated in her great armchair, opened a severe reproof. I was reminded of my promise and taxed with my delinquency. I knew that I had done wrong, admitted my fault and essayed no excuse. But when there was a slight pause I moved to retire from the room. I was just shutting the door when I overheard General Washington attempting in a low voice to intercede in my behalf. 'My dear,' observed he, 'I would say no more; perhaps she was not alone.' H[illegible] intercession stopped me in my ret[illegible] I re-opened the door and advanced up to the General with a firm step. 'Sir,' said I, 'you brought me up to speak the truth, and when I told grandmamma I was alone I hope you believed I was alone.' The General made one of his most courtly bows and replied, 'My child, I beg your pardon.'"

Could Be "Downright Impudent Sometimes."

Washington always seems to have been most at ease when among women. At his wife's receptions he did not view himself as host, but conversed without restraint, generally with women who rarely had other opportunity of seeing him. An eyewitness states that "the young ladies used to throng around him and engage him in conversation. As these were the only opportunities which they had of conversing with him they were disposed to use them." That this attention was not merely the respect due to a great man is shown very clearly by the letter of a young Virginia woman, who wrote to a correspondent that "when General Washington throws off the impudent sometimes—such impudence Fanny, as you and I like."

The Cherry Tree Story.

The cherry tree story is pure fiction—an invention of Washington's first biographer, Parson Mason L. Weems, whose budget of anecdotes, to which were usually appended a first-class moral, was accepted as truth by an unsuspecting world because its author was the earliest in the field with a life of the great man. The scene of the cherry tree incident is located on the Stafford farm, where Washington's father died, and from which his mother moved to the house in Fredericksburg, Virginia.

He Told One.

Washington told a lie when a boy, according to a tradition in the town of his youth—Fredericksburg. Being but a tradition—a great-grandmother's narrative—it is given for what it is worth. The story runs that Washington, thirteen years old at the time, was sent by his mother to drive home a cow from the nearby pasture, and milk it when stabled. The cow was duly driven to shelter by George, who, disliking menial tasks, neglected to milk the beast. He had gone to bed when his mother, hearing the bellowing of the cow, and suspecting something wrong, called to George, asking if he had obeyed her injunction about milking. Sleepily he answered "Yes."

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY, FEBRUARY 22, 1732.

Augustine Washington—"Well, Psyche, what is it?"
"Praise heaben, massa! it's a boy."

At the February Tea-Party.

When I arrived, in regimentals trig,
She stood dispensing tea and sally-lunns,
Transformed by stiff brocade and powdered wig,
The fairest of all Lady Washingtons.
In time I craved the favor of a cup
Of her own savory, delicious brew,
Which serving me and looking coyly up,
She caught and eyed askance my buff and blue.
Her glance said plainly as a spoken word
In donning them I'd gone a step too far;
For my forebears wore red for George the Third,
And Mattie is a loyal d. a. r.
So when the urns were drained and growing cold,
To calm the torrent of a rising gorge
And justify my action, I made bold
Myself to listen to that other George.
She listened, then incredulously asked,
"And wherein, pray, does the resemblance lie?
Take care, sir, that no innuendo's masked
By the fine words with which you make reply."
"It's simply this," I said, intensely grim.
"Where he was vanquished I'm content to be;
And what fair Martha Custis did for him
Another Martha's fairly done for me."
—Edward W. Barnard, in Judge.

One Way Out of It.

Martha Washington's Watch.

It has a cracked and yellow face
And hangs within a crystal case;
The stem is bent, the key is lost,
The golden back with scratches crossed.
For many a year has passed away
Since last it told the time of day
To Martha Washington.

In old Virginia, years agone,
She put that pretty trinket on
With rich brocade and laces rare,
And silver powder on her hair,
When courtly George a-wooing came
Before she took the stately name
Of Martha Washington.

When he was late, I have no doubt,
She took the ancient timepiece out
And frowned to mark him overdue;
For Cupid, tyrant over you
And over me, oh, love of mine,
Had then the same sweet power divine
O'er Martha Washington.

Oh, broken toy it time they say
She wore you on her wedding-day;
You saw her beauty and her bliss,
You witnessed, too, the marriage-kiss,
And tricked in answer to the start
And happy throbbing of the heart
Of Martha Washington.

WASHINGTON'S CROSSING.

Present Day Appearance of the Place Where Washington Crossed the Delaware.

NO one will find it easy to dissociate Washington Crossing, on the Delaware, with blustering weather, broken fields of ice and the hardships and privations of the disheartened Continental army on that Christmas night of 1776 which is held by many historians and patriots to be the turning point of the Revolution.

To think of and to see this sleepy little hamlet of Washington Crossing on a bright and balmy day one can hardly realize that in the midst of its picturesque beauty once limped that starving, half-clad yet determined army of men to the victory that turned the thought of defeat into one of conquest.

MONUMENT AT WASHINGTON CROSSING NEAR THE OLD TAVERN.

From the little station, which is eight miles above Trenton, on the Belvidere road, parts of all the houses and the blacksmith shop which go to make up the village are in sight. Parallel with the railroad is the canal, winding in graceful curves about the lines of the hills, and a few hundred feet to the west, down a gentle slope, is the river, broad and peaceful.

On a bit of rising ground, with grand old trees about the yard, sloping westward to the canal, stands the one house of interest—the headquarters during the hours which made this bit of land historic. Great willows grow at the foot of the front yard by a stream that runs through the stone springhouse; their big limbs stretch far out over the canal and lend a grateful shade to weary mules and pedestrians alike.

The stones erected on the Pennsylvania side by the Bucks County Historical Society and on the New Jersey side by the Society of the Cincinnati mark the old ferry and where the army crossed. It was then called McKonkey's Ferry, afterwards Bernardsville, after Bernard Taylor, the original owner of the property upon which the "old house" stands. The present name was given when the railroad passed through.

There are many changes in the place since General Washington and his army took Bear Tavern. The accurate tracing of the landmarks is made somewhat difficult by the building of the Delaware and Raritan canal feeder, which parallels the river, and the difference in the present grades and roads from those that existed in 1776.

The old house, then a tavern, was far too small to be of any use, save to the officers. It is a quaint structure, shingled and whitewashed. The front shows two entrances and a double door at each, with bright flowers below the steps. On the first floor of the house are three rooms of good size and a stairway around the great chimney. The east room was once the barroom, and traces of where the bar stood are still visible. Rows of wooden pegs ornament the walls and the great hewn beams.

The old fireplaces are still intact, though the cranes and spits are rusted. In the woodwork of the mantel hundreds of bullets are imbedded, besides as many holes and indentations of others. Tradition says that the soldiers, to keep warm, pegged away at the fireplaces to see if their aim was still good.

REV. DR. TALMAGE

DISCOURSE BY "THE EMINENT DIVINE LAST SUNDAY

Subject: The Responsibility of Those Who Are Well and Strong—Physical Energy Not Indicative of Spiritual Power—Fight the Battles of the Week.

(Copyright 1900.)

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In this discourse Dr. Talmage sets forth the responsibility of those who are strong and well, as in a former discourse he preached to the disabled and "the shut in," text, Judges xiv., 1, "And Samson went down to Timnath."

There are two sides to the character of Samson. The one phase of his life, if followed into the particulars, would administer to the grotesque and the mirthful, but there is a phase of his character fraught with lessons of solemn and eternal import. To these graver lessons we devote our sermon.

This giant no doubt in early life gave evidences of what he was to be. It is almost always so. There were two Napoleons—the boy Napoleon and the man Napoleon—but both alike; two Howards—the boy Howard and the man Howard—but both alike; two Samsons—the boy Samson and the man Samson—but both alike. This giant was no doubt the hero of the playground, and nothing could stand before his exhibition of youthful prowess. At eighteen years of age he was betrothed to the daughter of a Philistine. Going down toward Timnath, a lion came out upon him, and, although this young giant was weaponless, he seized the monster by the long mane and shook him as a hungry hound shakes a March hare and made his bones crack and left him by the wayside bleeding under the smiting of his fist and the grinding heft of his heel.

There he stands, looming up above other men, a mountain of flesh, his arms bunched with muscle that can lift the gate of a city, taking an attitude defiant of everything. His hair had never been cut, and it rolled down seven great plaits over his shoulders, adding to his bulk fierceness and terror. The Philistines want to conquer him, and therefore they must find out where the secret of his strength lies.

There is an evil woman living in the valley of Sorek by the name of Delilah. They appoint her the agent in the case. The Philistines are secreted in the same building, and then Delilah goes to work and coaxes Samson to tell what is the secret of his strength. "Well," he says, "if you take seven green withes such as they fasten wild beasts with and put them around me I should be perfectly powerless." So she binds him with the seven green withes. Then she claps her hands and says, "They come—the Philistines!" and he walks out as though there were no impediment. She coaxes him again and says, "Now, tell me the secret of this great strength." And he replies, "If you should take some ropes that have never been used, and tie me with them I should be just like other men." She ties him with ropes, claps her hands and shouts, "They come—the Philistines!" He walks out as easily as he did before—not a single obstruction. She coaxes him again, and he says, "Now, if you should take these seven long plaits of hair and by this house loom weave them into a web, I could not get away." So the house loom is rolled up, and the shuttle flies backward and forward, and the long plaits of hair are woven into a web. Then she claps her hands and says, "They come—the Philistines!" He walks out as easily as he did before, dragging a part of the loom with him.

But after awhile she persuades him to tell the truth. He says, "If you should take a razor or shears and cut off this long hair, I should be powerless and in the hands of my enemies." Samson sleeps, and that she may not wake him up during the process of shearing, help is called in. You know that the barbers of the East have such a skillful way of manipulating the head to this very day that, instead of waking up a sleeping man, they will put a man wide awake sound asleep. I hear the blades of the shears grinding against each other, and I see the long locks falling off. The shears or razor accomplishes what green withes and new ropes and house loom could not do. Suddenly she claps her hands and says, "The Philistines be upon thee, Samson!" He rouses up with a struggle, but his strength is all gone. He is in the hands of his enemies.

I hear the groan of the giant as they take his eyes out, and then I see him staggering on in his blindness, feeling his way as he goes on toward Gaza. The prison door is open, and the giant is thrust in. He sits down and puts his hands on the mill crank, which, with exhausting horizontal motion, goes day after day, week after week, month after month—work, work, work! The consternation of the world in captivity, his locks shorn, his eyes punctured, grinding corn in Gaza!

First of all, behold in this giant of the text that physical power is not always an index of moral power. He was a huge man—the lion found it out and the 3000 men whom he slew found it out; yet he was the subject of petty revenges and outgiantedby low passion. I am far from throwing any discredit upon physical stamina. There are those who seem to have great admiration for delicacy and sickness of constitution. I never could see any glory in weak nerves or sick headache. Whatever effort in our day is made to make the men and women more robust should have the favor of every good citizen, as well as of every Christian. Gymnastics may be positively religious.

Good people sometimes ascribe to a wicked heart what they ought to ascribe to a slow liver. The body and soul are such near neighbors that they often catch each other's diseases. Those who never saw a sick day and who, like Hercules, slew the giant in the cradle have more to answer for than those who are the subjects of lifelong infirmities. He who can lift twice as much as you can and walk twice as far and work twice as long will have a double account to meet in the judgment.

How often it is that you do not find physical energy indicative of spiritual power! If a clear head is worth more than one dizzy with perpetual vertigo, if muscles with the play of health in them are worth more than those drawn up in chronic "rheumatics," if an eye quick to catch passing objects is better than one with vision dim and uncertain, then God will require of us efficiency just in proportion to what He has given us. Physical energy ought to be a type of moral power. We ought to have as good digestion of truth as we have capacity to assimilate food. Our spiritual hearing ought to be as good as our physical hearing. Our spiritual taste ought to be as clear as our tongue. Samsons in body, we ought to be giants in moral power.

But while you find a great many men who realise that they ought to use their money aright and use their intelligence aright, how few men you find aware of the fact that they ought to use their physical organism aright! With every thump of the heart there is something saying: "Work! Work!" And last we should complain that we have no tools to work with. God gives us our hands and feet, with every knuckle and with every joint and with every muscle saying to us, "Lay hold and do something."

But how often it is that men with physical strength do not serve Christ! They are like a ship full manned and fully rigged, capable of vast tonnage, able to endure all storm of weather, yet swinging idly at the docks when they ought to be crossing and recrossing the great ocean of human suffering and sin with God's supplies of mercy. How often it is that physical strength is used in doing positive damage or in luxurious ease, when, with sleeves rolled up and brained bosom, fearless of the shafts of opposition, it ought to be laying hold with all its might and together away to lift up this sunken wreck of a world.

It is a most shameful fact that much of the business of the church and of [illegible] must be done by three comparatively [illegible]. Richard Baxter, by reason of [illegible] sons, all his days sitting in the [illegible] tomb, yet writing more than one [illegible] volumes and sending out an influence [illegible] God that will endure as long as [illegible] Saint's Everlasting Rest;" Edward [illegible] never knowing a well day, yet [illegible] preached and how he wrote, helping [illegible] ands of dying souls like himself to [illegible] a sea of glory. And Robert McCh[illegible] walking skeleton, yet you know [illegible] did in Dundee and how he shook [illegible] with zeal for God; Philip Dodd[illegible] vised by his friends, because of his [illegible] not to enter the ministry, yet you [illegible] what he did for the "Rise and Pro[illegible] Religion" in the church and in the [illegible]

Wilberforce was told by his doct[illegible] he could not live a fortnight, yet [illegible] very time entering upon philanthro[illegible] terprises that demanded the great[illegible] durance and persistence, Robert H[illegible] fering excruciations, so that often [illegible] pulpit while preaching he would [illegible] lie down on a sofa, then getting [illegible] to preach about heaven until the [illegible] the celestial city dropped on the [illegible] tude, doing more work, perhaps, [illegible] most any well man in his day.

Oh, how often is it that men with [illegible] physical endurance are not as [illegible] moral and spiritual stature! What [illegible] are achievements for those who [illegible] all their days with sickness—acute [illegible] of patience, achievements of Chris[illegible] durance—I call upon men of hea[illegible] of muscle, men of nerve, men of [illegible] power, to devote themselves to th[illegible] Behold also, in the story of my [illegible] lustration of the fact of the dam[illegible] strength can do if it be misgui[illegible] seems to me that this man spent [illegible] deal of his time in doing evil, thi[illegible] of my text. To pay a bet which [illegible] lost by the guessing of his riddle [illegible] and kills thirty people. He was [illegible] gigantic in strength, but gigantic [illegible] chief, and a type of those men in [illegible] of the world who, powerful in body [illegible] or any faculty of social position o[illegible] have used their strength for im[illegible] purposes.

It is not the small, weak men of [illegible] who do the damage. These small [illegible] go swearing and loafing about yo[illegible] and shops and banking houses, [illegible] Christ and the Bible and the chur[illegible] do not do the damage. They hav[illegible] fluence. They are vermin that y[illegible] with your foot. But it is the gian[illegible] day, the misguided giants, giants [illegible] ical power, or giants in mental [illegible] or giants in social position, o[illegible] in wealth, who do the damag[illegible] men with sharp pens that [illegible] ligion and throw poison all [illegible] our literature, the men who use th[illegible] of wealth to sanction [illegible] justice and make truth [illegible] their golden scepter. Misguided [illegible] look out for them! In the middle [illegible] ter part of the last century no do[illegible] were thousands of men in Paris a[illegible] burgh and London who hated [illegible] blasphemed the name of the Almi[illegible] they did but [illegible] mischief [illegible] small men, insignificant men. [illegible] were giants those days. Whe[illegible] could [illegible] havoc of a Roun[illegible] ing on with very imagination [illegible] iquity, with fancy imagination [illegible] upon all the impulsive nature[illegible] day? Or David Hume, who [illegible] his life as a spider en[illegible] mer, in spinning out sicken[illegible] the unwary? Or Voltaire, the m[illegible] man of his day, marshaling a gr[illegible] skepties and leading them out i[illegible] land of infidelity? Or Gibbon, w[illegible] an uncontrollable grudge again[illegible] in his history of one of the mo[illegible] ing periods of the world's exis[illegible] "Decline and Fall of the Roma[illegible] —a book in which, with all the [illegible] of his genius, he magnified th[illegible] Christian disciples, while with [illegible] ness of notice that never can b[illegible] be treated of the Christian heroe[illegible] the world was not worthy?

Oh, men of stout physical heal[illegible] great mental stature, men of h[illegible] position, men of great power o[illegible] want you to understand your p[illegible] want you to know that that po[illegible] to God will be a crown on ea[illegible] typical of a crown in heaven, b[illegible] ed, bedraggled in sin, admir[illegible] evil, God will thunder against y[illegible] condemnation in the day when [illegible] and pauper, master and slave [illegible] subject shall stand side by side [illegible] men and money bags and ju[illegible] and royal robe shall be rive[illegible] lightnings.

Behold also how a giant may [illegible] a woman. Delilah started the [illegible] cumstances that pulled down t[illegible] Dagon about Samson's ears. [illegible] thousands of giants have go[illegible] death and hell through the [illegible] tions. It seems to me that it [illegible] that pulpit and platform [illegible] press speak out against the [illegible] odern society. Fastidious[illegible] ery say, "Better not speak; [illegible] up adverse criticism; you will [illegible] what you want to make bette[illegible] in glittering generalities; the [illegible] delicate for polite ears." But [illegible] a voice from heaven overp[illegible] taining sentimentalities of t[illegible] ting, "Cry aloud, spare not, lift [illegible] like a trumpet, and show My [illegible] transgressions and the house [illegible] sins."

The trouble is that when p[illegible] speak upon this theme they a[illegible] it up with the graces of bel[illegible] that the crime is made attr[illegible] of repulsive. Lord Byron, i[illegible] adorns this crime until it sm[illegible] queen. Michelet, the great F[illegible] covers it up with bewitching [illegible] it glows like the rising sun, [illegible] to be made loathsome as a s[illegible] pital. There are to-day in[illegible] which, if unresisted by the p[illegible] printing press, will turn our [illegible] into Sodoms and Gomorrahs. [illegible] the storm of fire and br[illegible] whelmed the cities of the pla[illegible]

If, then, we are to be com[illegible] out of the world, where are w[illegible] This body and soul must soo[illegible] shall be the destiny of the for[illegible] dust to dust. But what shal[illegible] tiny of the latter? Shall it [illegible] companionship of the white r[illegible] sins Christ has slain, or w[illegible] among the unbelieving, who [illegible] the world and save their so[illegible] swindled out of both? Ple[illegible] We have a Champion! WHY HE SUCCEEDS.

A Difference That Sometimes Baffles Detectives.

"It is often difficult to see any difference between the men who succeed and those who fail," says a critic. A man may try to console himself with the unction that lies in the belief that it is all luck; that one man was born to be successful and another to fail. The average man cannot even deceive himself to that extent. He knows, generally, where the trouble is. Observe two men who apparently begin with equal advantages, with equal capital. Unless close attention was paid to their respective careers, you might not perceive the difference in them. One puts a little more rush into his work; he is never satisfied with accomplishing only so much as is expected of him. He is a little more accommodating to his patrons or those of his employer; he manifests more devotion to details; he is more prompt, is not afraid of getting to the office too early or of staying there too late. He makes a study of ways to improve his mind and enlarge his capacity for service, whether to his own direct betterment or indirectly, through having benefited his employers. Right here it might be well to consider the problem one moment from the employer's point of view. "He is utterly lost to gratitude for good service; utterly selfish," you say. Granted—but it is fortunate for you that he is selfish. That gives you a point of attack. When you become so necessary to him that he will be suffering a loss by the discontinuance of your service you are in a position to demand a better position or bigger salary—and his selfishness will not permit him to allow you to go. Observe a different instance: A young lawyer who has just been admitted to the bar will go into a town where several before him have failed, and by energy and manly, business-like methods soon succeed in establishing a lucrative practice. Instead of sitting around the office, like some of his predecessors, with his feet upon a table, telling stories and chewing tobacco while waiting for clients, he spends his spare time in studying his law books and adding to his general information. He goes into society, gets acquainted with the people, is always on the lookout to improve any opportunity that comes in his way, and finally makes his way to the top of the ladder.

Gems in California.

San Francisco Chronicle: It is a well known fact that several hundred diamonds of commercial size have from time to time been found in connection with gold placer workings in certain portions of this state. Within twelve months twenty-seven stones have been found in one placer mine on the Feather river, all but one being in the rough and globular, while the twenty-seventh showed a well defined crystalline structure. The largest of these weighed but a single carat, and the small octahedral brilliant weighed but a quarter of a carat, but all were stones of pure water. The recent discovery of zicron sands close to the limits of Oakland has already been announced in the Chronicle, but the discoverer is not yet prepared to define the locality, probably for commercial reasons. Near Manvel, San Bernardino county, turquoises have been found which in color and quality surpass the Oriental gems.

You're Gambling!

It's too risky, this gambling with your cough. You take the chance of its wearing off. Don't!

The first thing you know it will be down deep in your lungs and the game's lost. Take some of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and stop the gambling and the cough.

"I was given up to die with quick consumption. I ran down from 138 to 98 pounds. I raised blood, and never expected to get off my bed alive. I then read of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and began its use. I commenced to improve at once. I am now back to my old weight and in the best of health."—CHAS. E. HARTMAN, Gibbstown, N. Y., March 3, 1899.

You can now get Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in a 25 cent size, just right for an ordinary cold. The 50 cent size is better for bronchitis, croup, whooping-cough, asthma, and the grip. The dollar size is best to keep on hand, and is most economical for long-standing cases.

PILES

"I suffered the tortures of the damned with protruding piles brought on by constipation with which I was afflicted for twenty years. I ran across your CASCARETS in the town of Newell, Ia., and never found anything so equal them. To-day I am entirely free from piles and feel like a new man."—C. H. Wild With ECZEMA

Hands and Limbs Covered with Blisters and Great Red Blotches. Scratched Until Almost Wild. Burned Like Fire. Sleep Impossible. CUTICURA Remedies Bring Speedy Relief and a Permanent Cure at a Cost of Only $2.

I was a sufferer for eight years from that most distressing of all diseases, Eczema. I tried some of the best physicians in the country, but they did me little good. The palms of my hands were covered and would become inflamed; little white blisters at first would appear, then they would peel off, leaving a red, smooth surface which would burn like fire and itch; well, there is no name for it. On the inside of the upper part of both my limbs great red blotches, not unlike hives, would appear, and as soon as I became warm the burning and itching would begin. Night after night I would lie awake all night and scratch and almost go wild. I heard of CUTICURA REMEDIES, got them and gave them a thorough trial, and after a few applications I noticed the redness and inflammation disappear. Before I had used one box there was not a sign of Eczema left. I can truthfully assert that $2.00 worth of CUTICURA REMEDIES cured me. There has been no sign of its return anywhere upon my body since I wrote you I was cured, nearly four years ago. Hardly a month passes but what I receive a letter or some one calls and wishes to know how I got cured, if I had Eczema bad, and if the cure has been permanent, etc., etc. I always take pleasure in enlightening them the best I can.

...TIME AND PLACE.—A little more than ...hirty years have passed since we saw ...esus at the Passover feast in Jerusalem. ...is long period of seclusion at Nazareth, but His ...ame now appears on the scene.

...In the fifteenth year." "Augustus ...sar is August. A. D. 14, but three ...ears before his death in August, A. D. 11, ...e associated Tiberius with him in the ...ower and position to reign with him, and ...ay evidently reckons from that time. ...Tiberius was a very bad man, given to ...ensuality and cruelty. "Pontius Pi...te was governor of Judea for ...ears, A. D. 26 to 36. His reign ...as a bad one, and was finally banished, and is ...said to have killed himself. "Herod being ...tetrarch." Herod Tetrarch meant originally the ...ruler of the fourth part of a country, but was ...sometimes used with reference to any tri...butary prince. After the death of Herod the ...Great his dominions were divided. This ...Herod Antipas, tetrarch of Galilee, ...had imprisoned John, and to whom Jesus ...was sent at the time of His trial. "Ituræa ...and of Trachonitis." Two provinces of Syria ...east of Judea.

...Annas and Caiaphas." Caiaphas was ...son-in-law of Annas, or Ananias, and it ...is probable that they exercised the high ...priesthood by turns. The law provided ...for only one high-priest, and he was to ...hold office for life, but surely we have two ...here. Luke thinks that Caiaphas was ...the real high-priest. "Came unto John." The ...word came upon him" in the desert ...of Judea. "Son of Zacharias." ...John was in the wilderness." ...The word was given to a dis...tinct class, not regularly cultivated ...districts.

...Brood of vipers, repentance." John ...the Baptist. This was "a ...severe rebuke, representing an in...dividual pledge of re...pentance, to those who were truly ...penitent." "Who hath ...warned you to flee" like calls attention ...to the suddenness and ...unexpectedness of the ...information. "Fruits worthy of repentance" draws attention ...rather than to the ...fruits. The point was clear, distinct, ...and personal." The idea is taken ...from the practice of eastern monarchs ...when they took a journey, sent ...heralds before them to prepare the ...people. The Jewish church was the desert ...valley, etc." This is figura...tive language. The words illustrate the ...forces of the Gospel." There must ...be thorough preparation before God, ...the King, will come to us. The self-life ...must be brought low." The crooked, ...the self-life must be "straightened." Let ...down the obstructions of unbelief and ...evil desires.

..."All flesh." Gentiles as well as Jews. ...Shall see." It will not be necessary to ...rely on the testimony of others. ...The whole multitude." Matthew mentions ...Pharisees and Sadducees. "To be bap...tized." This was a baptism unto repent...ance. It was not Christian baptism. ..."Generation of vipers." "Brood" of vipers. ...Describes persons deceitful and mali...cious. A terribly expressive speech." ...Warned them snakes. Was he harsh? ...Remember that love can be ...severe. John desires that they may es...cape impending doom. "Who hath ...warned you." How came you to think ...that by complying with an outward sign, ...you escape the wrath of God without ...a change?

..."Fruits worthy of repentance." John ...does not quarrel with a profession, but they ...must show their reformation by their con...duct. The instance includes, (1) convic...tion; (3) confession; (4) re...formation leads to conversion. John, ...Christ and Paul all preached re...pentance and begin not to say, etc." ...The impulse of the unregenerate ...heart is to look out excuses and subter...fuges when conscience is touched." ...Two common errors. The first, ...that it would be sufficient to turn ...away, and second, that ...we are children of Abraham, ...we are safe. "These stones." ...With reference to the calling of ...Gentiles out of these hard, unregen...erate stock is able to make hearts of ...children of Abraham.

..."Well said." There is an allusion ...to a man, who, having marked a ...tree, lays his axe at the root, ...and lays his outer garment in or...der to wield more powerful ...blows. Each nation is the tree, and ...the axe, which, by the just ...judgment, was speedily to cut it ...down.

...Fruits meet." There are three ...questions here who ask the same ...question, "What shall we do?" The an...swer would show that he under...stood what were practicing. They ...were to be faithful preaching and ...hearers, and he does not ...deal unfully with them.

..."Repent." This is a remark...able word for the naked and feed ...himself. That is the true ...spirit.

..."Publicans, tax-gatherers. An of...fice hated by Jews, yet John does ...not forbid."

..."Exact no more than tax-gather...ers. The Roman emperor, ...rather than the governor, ...is to do, and the sur...rounding.

..."Do violence to no man." John de...nounces the soldiers. They ...were to be ...content with their ...wages, but ...were not to use their ...power and stop ...the mouths of ...the people. "His ...fan is in his right of ...hand." It is a ...figure of the over...throwing of become a ...chaff."

..."Preached unto the people." John ...spoke with eloquence and ...power began to think he ...might be the Christ.

..."I indeed baptize you I." "His bap...tism with water is powerless to ...cleanse. John shows his ...inferiority to Christ. "With fire." ...Holy Spirit.

..."Whose fan, or the in...strument of the Gospel. ...Gather his wheat." True ...believers. The kingdom of ...heaven hereafter. "Fire ...unquenchable." Matt. 25:46.

One puts a little more rush into his work; he is never satisfied with accomplishing only so much as is expected of him. He is a little more accommodating to his patrons or those of his employer; he manifests more devotion to details; he is more prompt; is not afraid of getting to the office too early or of staying there too late. He makes a study of ways to improve his mind and enlarge his capacity for service, whether to his own direct betterment or indirectly, through having benefited his employers. Right here it might be well to consider the problem one moment from the employer's point of view. "He is utterly lost to gratitude for good service; utterly selfish," you say. Granted—but it is fortunate for you that he is selfish. That gives you a point of attack. When you become so necessary to him that he will be suffering a loss by the discontinuance of your service you are in a position to demand a better position or bigger salary—and his selfishness will not permit him to allow you to go. Observe a different instance: A young lawyer who has just been admitted to the bar will go into a town where several before him have failed, and by energy and manly, business-like methods soon succeed in establishing a lucrative practice. Instead of sitting around the office, like some of his predecessors, with his feet upon a table, telling stories and chewing tobacco while waiting for clients, he spends his spare time in studying his law books and adding to his general information. He goes into society, gets acquainted with the people, is always on the lookout to improve any opportunity that comes in his way, and finally makes his way to the top of the ladder.

Gems in California.

San Francisco Chronicle: It is a well known fact that several hundred diamonds of commercial size have from time to time been found in connection with gold placer workings in certain portions of this state. Within twelve months twenty-seven stones have been found in one placer mine on the Feather river, all but one being in the rough and globular, while the twenty-seventh showed a well defined crystalline structure. The largest of these weighed but a single carat, and the small octahedral brilliant weighed but a quarter of a carat, but all were stones of pure water. The recent discovery of zicron sands close to the limits of Oakland has already been announced in the Chronicle, but the discoverer is not yet prepared to define the locality, probably for commercial reasons. Near Manvel, San Bernardino county, turquoises have been found which in color and quality surpass the Oriental gems.

FOR ALL LUNG TROUBLE

You're Gambling!

It's too risky, this gambling with your cough. You take the chance of its wearing off. Don't!

The first thing you know it will be down deep in your lungs and the game's lost. Take some of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and stop the gambling and the cough.

"I was given up to die with quick consumption. I ran down from 138 to 98 pounds. I raised blood, and never expected to get off my bed alive. I then read of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and began its use. I commenced to improve at once. I am now b... to my old weight and in the best of health."—CHAS. E. HARTMAN, Gibbstown, N. Y., March 3, 1899.

You can now get Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in a 25 cent size, just right for an ordinary cold. The 50 cent size is better for bronchitis, croup, whooping-cough, asthma, and the grip. The dollar size is best to keep on hand, and is most economical for long-standing cases.

Wild With ECZEMA

Hands and Limbs Covered with Blisters and Great Red Blotches. Scratched Until Almost Wild. Burned Like Fire. Sleep Impossible. CUTICURA Remedies Bring Speedy Relief and a Permanent Cure at a Cost of Only $2.

I was a sufferer for eight years from that most distressing of all diseases, Eczema. I tried some of the best physicians in the country, but they did me little good. The palms of my hands were covered and would become inflamed; little white blisters at first would appear, then they would peel off, leaving a red, smooth surface which would burn like fire and itch; well, there is no name for it. On the inside of the upper part of both my limbs great red blotches, not unlike hives, would appear, and as soon as I became warm the burning and itching would begin. Night after night I would lie awake all night and scratch and almost go wild. I heard of CUTICURA REMEDIES, got them and gave them a thorough trial, and after a few applications I noticed the redness and inflammation disappear. Before I had used one box there was not a sign of Eczema left. I can truthfully assert that $2.00 worth of CUTICURA REMEDIES cured me. There has been no sign of its return anywhere upon my body since I wrote you I was cured, nearly four years ago. Hardly a month passes but what I receive a letter or some one calls and wishes to know how I got cured, if I had Eczema bad, and if the cure has been permanent, etc., etc. I always take pleasure in enlightening them the best I can.

WHY HE SUCCEEDS.

A Difference That Sometimes Baffles Detectives.

"It is often difficult to see any difference between the men who succeed and those who fail," says a critic. A man may try to console himself with the unction that lies in the belief that it is all luck; that one man was born to be successful and another to fail. The average man cannot even deceive himself to that extent. He knows, generally, where the trouble is. Observe two men who apparently begin with equal advantages, with equal capital. Unless close attention was paid to their respective careers, you might not perceive the difference in them. One puts a little more rush into his work; he is never satisfied with accomplishing only so much as is expected of him. He is a little more accommodating to his patrons or those of his employer; he manifests more devotion to details; he is more prompt, is not afraid of getting to the office too early or of staying there too late. He makes a study of ways to improve his mind and enlarge his capacity for service, whether to his own direct betterment or indirectly, through having benefited his employers. Right here it might be well to consider the problem one moment from the employer's point of view. "He is utterly lost to gratitude for good service; utterly selfish," you say. Granted—but it is fortunate for you that he is selfish. That gives you a point of attack. When you become so necessary to him that he will be suffering a loss by the discontinuance of your service you are in a position to demand a better position or bigger salary—and his selfishness will not permit him to allow you to go. Observe a different instance: A young lawyer who has just been admitted to the bar will go into a town where several before him have failed, and by energy and manly, business-like methods soon succeed in establishing a lucrative practice. Instead of sitting around the office, like some of his predecessors, with his feet upon a table, telling stories and chewing tobacco while waiting for clients, he spends his spare time in studying his law books and adding to his general information. Night after night I would lie awake all night and scratch and almost go wild. I heard of CUTICURA REMEDIES, got them and gave them a thorough trial, and after a few applications I noticed the redness and inflammation disappear. Before I had used one box there was not a sign of Eczema left. I can truthfully assert that $2.00 worth of CUTICURA REMEDIES cured me. There has been no sign of its return anywhere upon my body since I wrote you I was cured, nearly four years ago. Hardly a month passes but what I receive a letter or some one calls and wishes to know how I got cured, if I had Eczema bad, and if the cure has been permanent, etc., etc. I always take pleasure in enlightening them the best I can.

My Hair Was Coming Out

About a year ago my hair was coming out very fast. I got a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor to stop this. It not only stopped the falling, but also made my hair grow very rapidly, and now it is 45 inches in length and very thick."—Mrs. [illegible] Atchison, Kans., [illegible], 1899.

It Feeds the Hair

Have you ever thought why your hair is falling out? It is because you are starving your hair. If this starvation continues your hair will continue to fall. There is one good hair food. That is Ayer's Hair Vigor. It goes right to the roots of the hair and gives them just the food they need. The hair stops falling, becomes healthy, and grows thick and long. Ayer's Hair Vigor will do another thing, also: it always restores color to faded or gray hair.

HOUSEHOLD MATTERS.

Cucumber and Onion Salad.

Cucumbers and onions, especially Bermuda onions, make a delicious salad. Slice the cucumbers and onions and lay them in separate bowls of ice water for one hour. Never salt cucumbers if you wish them to be crisp. Drain carefully, arrange in a salad bowl, and at the last moment mix with a French dressing, or with pepper, salt and vinegar. There should be three large cucumbers to one onion.

Chocolate Blanc Mange.

Put two tablespoonfuls of corn starch and a heaping tablespoonful of grated chocolate into a bowl and stir smooth in a gill of milk. Meanwhile have a pint of milk heating in a double boiler or in a saucepan over a slow fire. As it heats add three tablespoonfuls of sugar and stir it until dissolved. When the milk bubbles, stir in gradually the blended cornstarch and chocolate, stirring constantly to keep it from lumping. Let it cook until thick and smooth. Pour into a mould, and when cold set in the refrigerator. When ready to serve, turn into a glass dish and surround with whipped cream flavored with vanilla.

Fruit and Meat Diet.

While fruit is not a complete dietary in itself, it forms an excellent addition to a meat diet. The acid of the fruit in many cases is of great assistance to the digestion. Pineapple, for instance, is so powerful a digester that it is never safe to take it on an empty stomach. The apple is especially valuable and should always accompany goose, the fat of which is rendered more assimilable by its acid. The peculiar acids of the gooseberry, currant, cranberry, lemon and orange are all effective adjuncts to the proper digestion of game, poultry and meats, the taste, as well as time-honored usage, showing which particular fruit is best in combination with the meat used.

How to Tell Good Beef.

The importance of securing a superior quality of meat whenever meat is used need not be dwelt upon. Wise people who are compelled to be economical choose to buy a limited quantity of the best quality of beef rather than a larger poor grade. The color of the meat when first cut should be a dark reddish hue, which speedily turns a clear bright red. The fat should be firm and white, and well distributed through the lean. Yellow fat, and tough, dry, lean meat means that the animal was old or ill fed. "Veal," says a health expert, "if of superior quality has pink flesh and tender white fat, but it is not distributed through the lean, as it is in beef." In well fed mutton or lamb fat accumulates around the muscles.

Good beef should have little or no odor. To judge of the odor of beef, pass a knife which has been heated in boiling water through it, and notice the odor. Tainted meat will give off a disagreeable odor, as it will when cooking. Sound beef is firm, but not to the touch. Flabby meats unfit for use. After all these directions an ignorant marketer may fail to secure meat of the best quality, as butchers who deal in such meat understand how to prepare it for sale and make it look like prime beef. The best way to learn beef or any other meat is under the guidance of an expert marketer in the large city markets. Do not expect to buy superior prime meat at a low price. There is an abundant demand for such beef, and it commands its price. It is safe to buy an inferior cut of prime beef. It takes more care and time to cook such a cut of meat, but such cuts are often more nutritious than the more expensive tenderer cuts of meat that require less time in cooking.—New York Tribune.

Hints For the Housewife.

Use the oil left from sardines in making fish cakes. It saves butter.

In beating eggs for custard do not beat too light or they will float on top of the milk.

When making an apple pie three tablespoonfuls of made tea, with nutmeg, may be added to give a delicious flavor.

In disinfecting a room with sulphur the vessel containing it should be placed as high as possible so that the heavy fumes may fall.

Apples should never be cooked in a tin dish. Even in stirring them care should be exercised in using either a wooden or a silver spoon.

When grease is spilled on the kitchen floor pour cold water upon it at once. This will harden it and prevent its soaking into the boards.

Do not forget, when drying the face after washing, to rub upward toward the nose. This will prevent wrinkles and will help to smooth out to a great extent the crease along side the nose.

A dainty dessert for the nursery or invalid's tray consists of an apple cored and carefully baked, then covered with whipped cream or the white of an egg beaten stiff with a little sugar.

Closet shelves and floors washed with hot water and cayenne pepper will tend to keep away ants and roaches. Borax and alum may be sprinkled under the shelf paper, or an underlayer of tar paper is effective.

Old and obdurate stains in linen may be removed by the fumes arising from a small piece of burning sulphur (sometimes even a sulphur match will be enough), followed by washing in water, in which a little soda has been dissolved.

The importance of dried fruits as food is not always well understood. The process of drying eliminates a large portion of the water of which all fresh fruits are largely composed, leaving its nutritive parts in condensed form for our use.

SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY.

It is said that successful trials of a telephonic apparatus without wire have been had in Italy. The instruments were installed on moving trains. The details of the experiments and apparatus are very meagre.

An electric band has been patented for use in giving treatment to patients, comprising two semi-circular pieces of metal, one being zinc and the other copper, hinged together at the back, with an adjustable fastening at the front which grips the hand around the waist.

Three "cures" for tuberculosis are at present competing for professional favor in Italy—two of them, that of Cervello of Palermo—and that of Ruata of Perugia, consisting of medicated inhalations, and the oldest of them, that of Maragliano of Genoa, proceeding by sero-therapy.

For many years efforts have been made from time to time to measure the heat radiated from some of the brightest stars. The most successful attempt appears to be that of Professor Nichols at the Yerkes observatory. With the aid of an apparatus recalling the principle of the Crookes radiometer, he has ascertained that the star Vega, which shines very brilliantly near the zenith in midsummer evenings, send to the earth an amount of heat equal to that of an ordinary candle six miles distant. Arcturus, the star celebrated by Job, and which has a somewhat fiery color, radiates about twice as much heat as Vega.

A somewhat novel form of rail joint has recently been introduced on a Western railroad. It is a base-support joint located between ties, and comprises in addition to angle bars on either side of the rails fastened together by four bolts, a short piece of rail inverted and placed under the joint. This piece of rail is fastened to flanges of the angle bars by U-bolts. Three of these bolts are used in some cases and two in others, the presence of the middle bolt having not yet been proved absolutely necessary.

Two Letters from Women Helped Through the "Change of Life" by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—When I first wrote to you I was in a very bad condition. I was passing through the change of life, and the doctors said I had bladder and liver trouble. I had suffered for nine years. Doctors failed to do me any good. Since I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, my health has improved very much. I will gladly recommend your medicine to others and am sure that it will prove as great a blessing to them as it has to me."—MRS. GEO. H. JUNE, 901 DeKalb Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Relief Came Promptly

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I had been under treatment with the doctors for four years, and seemed to get no better, I thought I would try your medicine. My trouble was change of life, and I must say that I never had anything help me so much as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Relief came almost immediately. I have better health now than I ever had. I feel like a new woman, perfectly strong. I give Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound all the credit, and would not do without her medicine for anything. I have recommended it to several of my friends. There is no need of women suffering so much for Mrs. Pinkham's remedies are a sure cure."—MAHALA BUTLER, Bridgewater, Ill.

Sleep for Skin-Tortured Babies

In a Warm Bath with Cuticura SOAP

And a single anointing with CUTICURA, purest of emollients and greatest of skin cures. This is the purest, sweetest, most speedy, permanent, and economical treatment for torturing, disfiguring, itching, burning, bleeding, scaly, crusted, and pimply skin and scalp humors with loss of hair, of infants and children, and is sure to succeed when all other remedies fail.

Millions of Women Use Cuticura Soap

Exclusively for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, for cleansing the scalp of crusts, scales, and dandruff, and the stopping of falling hair, for softening, whitening, and soothing red, rough, and sore hands, in the form of baths for annoying irritations, inflammations, and chafings, or too free or offensive perspiration, in the form of washes for ulcerative weaknesses, and for many sanative antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves to women, and especially mothers, and for all the purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery. No amount of persuasion can induce those who have once used it to use any other, especially for preserving and purifying the skin, scalp, and hair of infants and children. CUTICURA SOAP combines delicate emollient properties derived from CUTICURA, the great skin cure, with the purest of cleansing ingredients and the most refreshing of flower odors. No other medicated or toilet soap ever compounded is to be compared with it for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, scalp, hair, and hands. No other foreign or domestic toilet soap, however expensive, is to be compared with it for all the purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery. Thus it combines in ONE SOAP at ONE PRICE, viz., TWENTY-FIVE CENTS, the most skin and complexion soap, the most toilet soap and most baby soap in the world.

Cuticura Complete External and Internal Treatment for Every Humor, consisting of CUTICURA SOAP (25c.), to cleanse the skin of crusts and scales, and soften the thickened cuticle; CUTICURA OINTMENT (50c.), to instantly allay itching, inflammation, and irritation, and soothe and heal, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT (50c.), to cool and cleanse the blood. THE AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS

THE "NECESSARY" MAGAZINE

The best-informed men and women in the world use the AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS to keep well informed, and call it the "necessary" and "indispensable" magazine. In the busy rush of to-day ambitious men and women must know about the important questions of the month, and not only this, they want to know about them at the right time. When the whole country is puzzled over the gigantic combination of trusts, a well-informed article is printed in the AMERICAN MONTHLY, giving the facts, and its editor discusses the theory; when the Dreyfus affair is in everyone's mouth, the best story of Dreyfus and the great case comes out in this magazine.

Every month, in "The Progress of the World," Dr. Albert Shaw gives a comprehensive picture of the world's history during the previous thirty days. In the departments, the valuable articles and books that have been published during the past month are reviewed and quoted from, so that the readers of the AMERICAN MONTHLY can get the gist of them. In every issue nearly a hundred pictures are printed, including the portraits of the men and women who are making the history of the month.

To be thoroughly well informed helps any man or woman in his or her work. A subscription to the AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS represents an investment for the best kind of profit, as well as entertainment. One subscriber has just written: "Count me a life subscriber, and when you send me a number beyond the limit of my subscription, and cannot be renewed from me, consider it a notice of my death."

Price 25 cents per number, $2.50 a year.

A sample copy will be sent on receipt of ten cents in stamps.

A Thousand Tongues

Could not express the rapture of Annie E. Springer, of 1125 Howard st., Philadelphia, Pa., when she found that Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption had completely cured her of a hacking cough that for many years had made life a burden. All other remedies and doctors could give her no help, but she says of this Royal Cure—"it soon removed the pain in my chest and I can now sleep soundly, something I can scarcely remember doing before. I feel like sounding its praises thoughout the Universe." So will every one who tries Dr. King's New Discovery for any trouble of the Throat, Chest or Lungs. Price 50c. and $1.00. Look In Your Mirror

Do you see sparkling eyes, a healthy, tinted skin, a sweet expression and a graceful form? These attractions are the result of good health. If they are absent, there is nearly always some disorder of the distinctly feminine organs present. Healthy menstrual organs mean health and beauty everywhere.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

makes women beautiful and healthy. It strikes at the root of all their trouble. There is no menstrual disorder, ache or pain which it will not cure. It is for the budding girl, the busy wife and the matron approaching the change of life. At every trying crisis in a woman's life it brings health, strength and happiness. It costs $1.00 of medicine dealers.

For advice in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, "The Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

MRS. ROZENA LEWIS, of Osmeville, Texas, says:—"I was troubled at monthly intervals with terrible pains in my head and back, but have been entirely relieved by Wine of Cardui."

Clanton, Feb. 19, 1900

Editor BANNER—I would like to say a word to the voters. I see my friend Killgore has announced for Sheriff. I think the people who have been wanting true Pops. ought to think of four years ago when he was defeated, how he stuck to the party. He wrote The Banner a letter urging the people to turn out and vote for the man of their choice and stand by the nominees. I will say to the people that as far as I can hear from the east and north part of the county I think the people are pretty solid for him. J. F. GOODGAME.

Clanton, Feb. 23, 1900

Editor BANNER. Seeing so many candidates announced for office I am somewhat alarmed. It seems as if there will not be any voters left to elect them. If there is any one else that wants an office, please come forward and let us know who you are. The "Man on the Corner" makes room for you. We would like to have a few more aspirants for County Commissioners.

Hello! Well! Well! Where is the Representative? Is there anyone that wants to go to the legislature.

The writer wishes to urge the Populist voters to come out to the primary and select their man, and then elect him in August.

Success to the Banner and its many readers. A POPULIST.

Randolph, Ala., Feb. 19, 1900

Editor Banner: I want to say a few words as candidates are coming thick and fast, and more to come. Now let us think twice before jumping; we can but get one for each place, and it should be the best that can be had. Let us take the steps of Brother Killgore—commence with clean hands and end with a clear conscience. Under this head we may expect success. [illegible] down with [illegible]

Wire and Rod Mill Will Begin Work.

The wire and rod mill will begin operation about the middle of the week. Last week the machinery was run for several days in order to detect any flaws. It is now in readiness.

Births and Deaths in Jefferson.

Dr. J. W. Barclay, county health officer, has made his report of the number of births and deaths in Jefferson county during the year 1899. The report shows a total of 2,223 births and 1,695 deaths.

To Pay War Claims.

A bill was sent to the house by Secretary of War Root Monday, paying claims for damages done by troops during the Spanish-American war, which contains an appropriation of $13,345 for citizens of Alabama.

Fire at Pratt City.

Pratt City was visited by another disastrous fire Monday night, which destroyed fifteen houses, entailing a loss of $20,000. The fire originated in a Negro drug store in the Drennen building and is supposed to have been caused by a new style lamp that was being tested. The Drennen building contains twelve stores, and this, together with the livery stable on the same lot, was entirely destroyed.

Supposed Dynamiters Arrested.

In Mobile the police arrested L. Cohen, John Williams and W. H. Hall, believed to be the men who overpowered the night watchman and attempted to dynamite the safe of the American door and sash factory in New Orleans. In a valise belonging to the men was found nitro-glycerine, dynamite, time fuses, pincers, skeleton keys, jimmies and other high-grade burglar tools.

Cut His Throat in Sheer Madness.

Suffering from the effects of debauchery, it is suspected, Thomas B. Wilson made a horrible attempt Monday morning to terminate his existence.

Just before the Blossburg accommodation pulled out of Blossburg Wilson was perceived standing on the track hewing at his throat with a razor. The fireman of the train and others ran to the man and induced him to throw the razor away.

Committee Left for Washington.

The Warrior canal committee of the Commercial club of Birmingham left Monday for Washington, and they will go before the rivers and harbors committee of the house of representatives to present the claims of this section in the matter of the Warrior canal. In the party that went to Washington were James A. Van Hoose, who has devoted the greater part of his time for the past two or three years to an effort to arouse interest in the proposed canal.

FATAL MINE EXPLOSION.

Two Men Are Horribly Burned and a Third Maimed for Life.

A terrible explosion occurred in Dolch coal mines, near Eagle Pass, Tex., in which three miners, Jesus Martinez, Antonio Garcia and Francisco Gonzales, received fatal injuries and a number of others were severely burned. The men had been lowered in the mine and had not taken the precaution to have a gas tester with them.

The sweet bay tree, or laurel, was sacred to Apollo, and in both Egypt and Rome its leaves were used to decorate the victors in games or in war. These leaves are much used now in the culinary art, the practice having been borrowed from the Orientals.

DISASTROUS FIRE VISITS BIRMINGHAM

Value of Railroad Property in Alabama—Two Men Killed in a Fight. Will Resist Payment of Taxes. New Election in Girard Beat.

One of the most disastrous fires in the history of Birmingham broke out in the basement of the Metropolitan hotel Friday afternoon, and within four hours the entire block from Twentieth street and Morris avenue to First avenue, extending back to the Berney National bank, was a smoldering mass of ruins.

The property loss will amount to more than $114,000, with probably $80,000 insurance.

The buildings consumed were the Moore and Handley building, two three-story brick structures, occupied by the Metropolitan hotel, M. Wise & Co., saloon, and the Metropolitan barber shop, and the Hewlett block, the property of the Boddie estate, the upper floors of which were also occupied by the Metropolitan hotel, and the first floor by numerous mercantile establishments.

The fire originated from an overturned gasoline stove in the basement of the hotel.

Value of Alabama Railroads.

The work of the state board of railroad assessment shows a net increase in the assessment for this year over last of $1,045,101.20. Of this amount $866,905.10 comes from new roads constructed in the state during the last year. Another large item in the increase is the Birmingham Southern road, assessed $801,250. This road has heretofore been assessed along with other property of the Tennessee Coal and Iron company. Other increases come from increases on roads first assessed last year and considered more valuable this year. The Montgomery division of the Mobile & Ohio, constructed in 1898, was raised $1,000 per mile, footing up a total of $156,474.

The total railroad assessment for the year is $48,154,153.83. The board made decreases amounting to $229,997.75.

Two Dead and a Third Badly Wounded.

News comes from Horse Creek of a tragedy five miles east of that town, the result of which is two men dead and one badly wounded.

From what can be learned the trouble arose over the rent for a small tract of land belonging to Walter Stevens, the renter being Sylvester Hinson, his nephew. The dispute was carried to the justice court of Esquire Martin Phillips. Justice Phillips continued the trial and the crowd left the school house in which the court was held and as soon as all got outside a fight opened. When the smoke cleared away Jack Boyd and Sylvester Hinson were dead, and Walter Stevens was shot in both legs and cut in the neck.

To Resist Payment of Taxes.

The executive committee of the board of trustees of the University of Alabama, in session in Birmingham, discussed the proposed equity bill, which is soon to be filed for the purpose of having the recent sale of university lands set aside. They also discussed the question of taxes and determined to resist their payment until forced by law to pay them.

Two Distilleries Seized.

Two Alabama distilleries were seized and destroyed last week. One was near Jumbo, in Chilton county, said to belong to M. F. Waggoner, of Jumbo. Waggoner was arrested, pleaded guilty and was bound over to the grand jury. The other was near Cottonwood, in Henry county, said to belong to Joseph Kirkland, of Cottonwood. In this case there was no arrest, but affidavit was made against Kirkland. Both distillers violated the law in not having registered their stills, and not displaying government signs.

Prof. Charles Ross is Dead.

Prof. Charles H. Ross, C. E., Ph. D. and L. L. D., professor of modern languages at the State Agricultural College at Auburn, died at El Paso, Tex., Saturday, where he had gone in vain effort to renew his failing health. Prof. Ross was one of the leading authors and educators of the south, and was one of the most noted men of the state, being considered a high authority in circles of learning and literature.

New Election for Girard Box.

The Russell county democratic committee gave out their decision a few days ago, alleging that, so far as Girard box is concerned, the recent election in Russell county was illegal, and a new election for that box was ordered for April 14.

Instantly Killed.

Jeff Culbrath, a deputy sheriff shot and instantly killed a man by the name of Keys, near Eva, Morgan. The shot killed Keys instantly, but in order to make sure of the work Culbrath mashed his head into a jelly with a heavy piece of iron. Culbrath went to Decatur and surrendered to Sheriff Ryan.

Young Lady Shot.

John Dreshman, aged 12 years, shot and instantly killed Bessie Miller, aged 18, Saturday night, at Bayou La Batre, twenty miles from Mobile. He was arrested and taken to Mobile at midnight. Witnesses say the killing was cold-blooded, but Dresham claims the girl had assaulted his mother with a stick.

Passenger Trains Collide.

The Louisville and Nashville passenger train, was wrecked at Flomaton early Sunday morning. The train was a double-header, having on board a large number of Mardi Gras excursionists, but fortunately none were hurt. Both engines were thrown down the embankment and badly wrecked. A negro fireman was killed and another fireman was probably fatally injured. Engineer John Coins was severely hurt. The passengers in the day coaches were thrown from their seats and some what shaken up. The cause of the wreck was an open switch.

Coal Output for 1899.

State Mine Inspector J. DeB. Hooper has completed his final report on the output of coal in Alabama last year. The total output for the year amounted to 7,484,768 tons as against 6,527,766 tons for 1898, showing an increase of 956,997 tons. The following is the production by counties: Bibb, 904,887; Blount, 12,699; Cullman, 8,000; Etowah, 9,378; Jackson, 150; Jefferson, 4,700,982; Marion, 359,213; St. Clair, 67,977; Shelby, 359,213; Tuskaloosa, 241,740; Walker, 1,117,372; Winston, 19,970; smaller mines, 25,000; grand total, 7,484,768. This is the largest year's production in the history of the state by almost a million tons. The prospects are that the output of 1900 will even exceed last year's stupendous showing.

Dallas Cotton Mill Extension.

Contractor George B. Hinman arrived in Huntsville from Atlanta to begin work on the extensive additions to the Dallas Cotton mills. The contract recently awarded by the company required the construction of a building of about equal size to the present mill, the engine house excepted, and it must be completed by October 1. The additional building will contain 5,000 spindles and 1,200 looms; the machinery will be operated by a new 1,500 horse-power engine in the old engine house. The corporation will spend about $700,000 in the improvements. A public library for the use of the mill operatives will be established in the Moore residence, recently purchased, and the handsome grove surrounding the place will be converted into a beautiful park. Contracts for about 200 new tenant houses will probably be awarded soon.

Cotton Mill Organized.

The directors of the new cotton mill at Opelika organized a few days ago and representatives left for the north to purchase necessary machinery. Capital stock, $100,000.

STATE BREVITIES.

Joseph Morrow, of Whitesburg, was instantly killed by a falling tree in the woods near his home.

The seam of coal which the Consolidated Coal and Iron company will open at Brookwood is ninety-seven inches, and one of the finest in the whole mineral south.

It is announced that the saw mill of the Indiana Lumber company, at Byrd Springs, which was recently burned, will probably be rebuilt in Huntsville. The old plant employed fifty men.

John K. Castleberry, a prominent druggist of Anniston and alderman from the Second ward, died of pneumonia Saturday.

The Sumter county executive committee met at Livingston Saturday and ordered a primary for the nomination of county officers for March 31, and primary for senator and governor April 14. The names of the candidates will be printed on the ballots, and plurality wins.

Both Branches of Congress Will Hold Interesting Sessions.

NEW PHILIPPINE COMMISSION ANNOUNCED

Our Title to Sibitu and Cagayan Islands—Porto Rican Tariff Bill Comes Up—Quay Case to Be Acted Upon.

The time of the senate during the present week will be divided between the questions of the finances, the government policy toward the insular possessions, and the seating of Senator Quay upon the nomination of the governor of Pennsylvania.

The Hawaiian bill remains the unfinished business subject to removal at any time by the Quay resolution, and also by the conference report upon the currency bill.

The event of the week in the house of representatives will be the taking of the vote on the Porto Rican tariff bill. This has been set for 3 p. m., on Tuesday, although the differences which have arisen on the bill may compel a rearrangement of the program. The general debate on the measure closed Monday, and on Tuesday, up to the hour of voting, the debate will proceed under the five-minute rule.

Extraordinary interest attaches to the outcome of this struggle, owing to the differences which have arisen on the republican side of the chamber.

The Hawaiian bill and the Nicaraguan canal bill also are awaiting a hearing, although it is not likely that either of them will be taken up this week.

The Alabama contested election case of Aldrich vs. Robbins will be considered as soon as the Porto Rican bill is out of the way.

OUR TITLE IS GOOD.

American Flag Will Not Be Lowered on Sibitu or Cagayan Islands.

The American flag will not come down on Sibitu island or on Cagayan island. Spain has been demanding that these islands be returned to it. The war department was ready to make the return and so was the state department up to Saturday. The navy department was, however, unwilling to surrender anything it had taken, and has made its title good to the islands. The state department will inform Spain that the islands are the property of the United States and will hold them.

Sibitu is east of Borneo and Cagayan is west of Mindoro, about 200 miles. Sibitu was saved to the United States by the discovery of an old treaty between Spain, Great Britain and Germany, which specifically says that Borneo's holding shall not extend further than three miles from the coast of Borneo. Sibitu is on the opposite side of the channel separating Borneo from the Sulu archipelago.

As to Cagayan island, the records show that it was at one time used as a penal colony by Spain, and the latter is therefore estopped from denying that it was used as a part of the Philippine group.

FOUR MEMBERS SELECTED.

Personnel of the New Philippine Commission.

It was officially announced late Saturday afternoon that four of the five members of the new Philippine commission has been selected. They are:

Judge Taft, of Ohio; Luke E. Wright, of Tennessee; H. C. Ide, of Vermont, and Dean Worcester, of Michigan.

The fifth member will be announced later. It is generally believed that he will be Benard Moses, of California.

Silver Plate Trust.

Representative Richardson, of Tennessee, has introduced a bill in the house to prevent the inter-state transpoetation of the products of trusts making silver-plated ware.

Father and Son Called Out and Killed.

A special from Dunktown says: "Miles Woods was called from his mountain home and shot down in cold blood. He died in ten minutes. His father ran out to ascertain the trouble and was shot twice by the assassin. It is claimed that before the latter died he charged a deputy United States Marshal with committing the crime. No arrests have been made."

THE CONSOLIDATED SUITS.

Beckham Begins Proceedings According to Agreement.

The suit of J. C. W. Beckham, governor of Kentucky, against W. S. Taylor, was filed in the circuit court at Louisville Saturday. This action was originally brought at Georgetown. The filing of the suit here was in accordance with the agreement made by both sides for a consolidation of suits involving the governorship of Kentucky. The action is for an injunction. W. S. Taylor is the plaintiff in a similar suit against Beckham and others. By the agreement Judge Field will try the consolidated suits.

The answer and counter claim of Beckham, Castleman and Carter in the injunction suits by W. S. Taylor, John Marshall and Dan Collier, were filed. The answer denies all of the allegations of plaintiff's petition and sets up a counter claim that the offices of governor and lieutenant governor and adjutant general have been usurped by plaintiffs, and defendants pray that they be adjudged the holders of said offices.

Whittaker's Trial.

The attorneys for the prosecution and defense held a conference and arranged for an examining trial for Harland Whittaker at Frankfort, Ky., March 6. Whittaker is one of the men charged with complicity in the murder of Goebel. Lee Jones, the Whitley county suspect, will also be arraigned for trial the same day.

FIGHT AT A COUNTRY DANCE.

One Man Was Killed and Several Others Wounded.

A special from Whitesburg, Ky., tells of a fight near Pond's Gap in which one person was killed and several were injured. The trouble occurred during a dance at the home of Bill Mullins, a Virginia moonshiner. Pistols and knives were used in the scrimmage, which lasted until the place had been cleared of all but the wounded. John Newberry was shot and died within two hours. Ed Newberry, his brother, was fatally wounded. Luella, the 18-year-old daughter of Mullins, was stabbed three times with a dirk and cannot recover. Mrs. Mullins was severely bruised, and a man named Keller, of Dickinson county, was shot in the knee. Mullins has been arrested.

FATAL EXPLOSION IN ARKANSAS.

Sawmill Boiler Explodes, Killing Two and Injuring Seven.

The boiler of the Pullman Lumber Co.'s sawmill at Pullman Ark., exploded with terrible results Saturday. The following is a list of the known dead and wounded: Hoover Thompson, foreman, killed; Al Hutton, trucker, washed to death; J. W. Discus, cut by flying iron, will die; Taylor Brown, cut and scalded; Loyd Busby, cut and scalded; Jim Busby, badly cut; Dr. Baldwin, badly burned in the face; James Brown, burned on back and right arm. It is believed three bodies are under the wreck. Tobe Thompson is said to have allowed the water to run low in the boiler, and the explosion followed.

Street Car Wrecked in Atlanta.

An Atlanta street car was wrecked near Oakland cemetery Saturday by striking an obstruction, which had evidently been placed across the track. The car, which is the largest in the service, jumped fully ten feet into the air and rolled fifteen feet down an embankment. The twelve passengers on the car were more or less injured. It is thought Merschell Dellaperry and Eugeman Coker were fatally wounded.

Two Prisoners Cremated.

Frank Hogan and Charles Norris, prisoners at the station house in Forest City, Ark., were burned to death a few days ago. The fire is supposed to have been started by Norris on the floor of the jail, in an attempt to keep warm. Norris was an Arkansas lumber man and Hogan a bricklayer.

Georgia Populists.

The middle-of-the-road populists of Georgia have decided to put a full ticket in the field and have called a convention to meet in Atlanta April 10.

Sub-Committee Named.

Chairman Jones, of the democratic national committee, has named the following members of the sub-committee on arrangements for the national convention, Senator Jones being ex-officio chairman: Stone, of Missouri; Johnson, of Kansas; Clayton, of Alabama; Campau, of Michigan; Gulley, of Pennsylvania, and Wilson, of Colorado.

TO AMEND PORTO RICAN BILL.

Conference Requests Committee to Reduce Duty From 25 to 15 Per Cent.

At the conference of house and Republicans Monday on the Porto Rican bill, assurances were given that the president believed the bill was constitutional and would sign it if it came to him, and an agreement was reached to limit the debate on the bill to two years, and to reduce the duty imposed by it from 25 to 15 per cent. of the American rates. As a result the republican leaders believe that the bill will have the support of all the republicans except Messrs. McCall, of Massachusetts, Littlefield of Maine, Lacey of Illinois and Crumpacker of Indiana. It is thought that this loss will be offset by the positive votes of the opposition. They claim the passage of the bill is certain.

...ad Taylor and the whole ...would have said: "Well, I ...r that my candidacy was ...et up all this bitter and ...fuss and make enmities ...never be healed, and so I ...drawn from the contest." ...ably that a gentleman and a patriot would have said that and done it. It is a mean contemptible, selfish ambition that has produced all this trouble in that grand old state and revived its ancient name of the dark and bloody ground. I wish that I was another little child and didn't know it. Hamlet said: "A politician would circumvent God." So I reckon this kind of corruption is no new thing. It goes back to the time when Brutus killed Caesar. Yes, it goes back to the time when Absolom tried to circumvent his own father and depose him from the throne and Jacob cheated Esau out of his birthright. Selfishness is the cardinal sin of mankind—the trump card of the devil in seducing us to his allegiance.

There is another antidote to melancholy; it is work, and I long to go at it. The winter has been long and hard and I am impatient for the time to come when the flowers shall appear on the earth and the singing of birds shall come and the voice of the turtle be heard in the lands. I want to straighten up things in the garden and dress it off and see how many roses have been killed. I want to fork up the ground and plant some more seeds. I planted peas a month ago and they are coming up, sweet violets are peeping out and I found a solitary strawberry bloom. The elm tree buds are swelling, the crows are cawing in the tree tops and soon some imprudent peach trees will be in bloom. As the poet saith spring is getting ready to "unlock the flowers and paint the laughing earth." But there is some bad with every good thing. My wife has just called my attention to the neighbors' chickens that have taken up in our garden and the neighbors' dogs that are roaming over our lot and fighting in our back yard.

They are colored mostly—the owners, I mean—and I'm going to declare war; see if I don't. I hereby give warning to all owners of gallinaceous and canine animals to keep them at home or the race problem will break out in these parts. They say they passed a dog law and now they say it does not go into effect until May, 1901, and never if the grand juries don't indorse it. The lawmakers were politicians and wanted the Negro vote and so they shoved the law onto the grand juries. I see that the grand jury of Gordon county have already killed the law. They like dogs and sausage—don't like mutton.

"Beware of dogs," saith the scripture. The last legislature was a miserable abortion. If Carlyle were here to write its history he would say: "The last Georgia legislature had 220 members—mostly fools." Again I wish that I was a little child and didn't know anything about these things. We all know too much anyhow, such as it is. Too much about the rascality and devilment that is going on in the world. I believe I will quit reading the daily papers and read only the weeklies and the magazines. The mind wants a rest. A hundred years ago the poet said:

"Oh! for a lodge in some vast wilderness
Where rumor of oppression and deceit
Of successful or unsuccessful war
Might never reach me more."

Wonder what he would say now. But there is another side to all this and I'll feel better in the morning, for if the children don't come to me, I'll go to them.—BILL ARP in Atlanta Constitution.

PROMINENT PEOPLE.

The Sultan of Turkey is booked to visit the Paris exposition.

Senator Simons, of Oregon, is the shortest man in the Senate.

Andrew Carnegie's income from his steel works is $68,130.13 a day.

George L. Watson, the Scotch designer of yachts, will this year celebrate his fiftieth anniversary as a designer.

Aubrey Thomas de Vere, the oldest living English poet, has just celebrated the eighty-sixth anniversary of his birth.

Senator Clark, of Montana, is the most accomplished linguist in Congress, although he never had the benefit of a college training.

A. H. Longino, the new Governor of Mississippi, is a young man, being just on the thither side of forty, but in that time he has done much in politics.

Professor Roentgen, of Wurtzburg, the discoverer of the X rays, has finally decided to accept a call to Munich University, which was extended to him some time ago.

General Hector Macdonald of Omdurman fame was engaged, it is said, on a monograph on the training of savage troops when he received the call to proceed from India to South Africa.

Admiral Dewey is the possessor of an autograph letter from Admiral Farragut to Dewey's father, which reads: "Sir—Your son, George, is a worthy and brave officer. He has an honorable record and some day will make his mark."

Malietoa Tanus, who was declared to be King of Samoa by Chief Justice Chambers, has asked for an education. It is reported that the United States, Great Britain and Germany will pay the expenses of the young man while he attends school in Europe.

President McKinley has decided as a special recognition for the services performed by General Otis in the Philippines during the past two years, to grant him leave of absence in order that he may come home and visit his family and enjoy a brief period of rest.

The heads of Commonwealths were well represented in one Washington hotel the other day, where, by an old coincidence, the following had registered one after the other: Governor Lounsbury, of Connecticut; Governor Voorhees, of New Jersey; Governor Brown, of Indian Territory, and former Governor Crawford, of Kansas.

Goebel's Law Partner Nominated.

The democratic executive committee of Kenton county, Ky., which constituted the senatorial district represented by the late Wm. Goebel, met and nominated for that office Harbeson, the late Senator Goebel's law partner.

The democratic, silver republican and populist committees met at Idaho Falls and declared for a union of all silver forces in the state.

OUR GREAT ALASKAN WEALTH.

Governor Brady Gives Vivid Idea of Northwest Resources.

"Alaska: Its Resources and Needs," is the title of an article by John G. Brady, Governor of Alaska, printed in the Independent. Governor Brady writes:

"If you want to get a vivid impression of the extent of Alaska hitch up a caribou in the northern part of Maine, drive him south as long as he will stand the climate, and continue the journey on horseback or on foot to the end of Florida, and then to the mouth of the Mississippi. If, on the other hand, you choose to compass Alaska by water you will have to follow a coast line of 25,000 miles.

"A vast source of wealth is to be found in its fisheries. The canning industry did not fairly begin till 1882; now it is pursued with immense and even disastrous, rivalry. The value of the pack last year was more than three and a half million dollars. From the best estimates the value of the pack this year will be $4,120,000. New legislation and a thorough enforcement of existing laws are needed to regulate wasteful and destructive competition. Our cod is practically inexhaustible. It is safe to assume that we have the grandest banks in the world, covering 125,000 square miles.

"But it is the mining possibilities of Alaska that are attracting the attention of the world. It is difficult to set forth with accuracy truthful statements of the product of the mining camps. Last summer I visited Cape Nome. A soldier, in a joking spirit, said he was going to wash gold out of the beach. Greatly to his astonishment, he found what he did not expect, and soon for fifteen miles along the beach a string of tents was pitched and occupied by men who averaged $20 a day. I am satisfied that the yield at Nome will reach two and a quarter millions for this year.

"Attention is turned, naturally, to our new acquisitions in the Philippines and the West Indies, but it would be unfortunate to wholly divert the mind of our legislators from the growing needs of Alaska. In all our vast extent of coast there is not a single lighthouse. We need the extension of telegraph facilities. A man said to me last summer that he would willingly have given a thousand dollars if he could have sent a message of ten words to the States."

WISE WORDS.

Money is a fine thing, but it is better to labor than to live in idleness.

Gossip has been well defined as putting two and two together and making it five.

He who commits injustice is ever made more wretched than he who suffers it.

Speculation is a short cut to wealth for the few, the broad road to destruction for the many.

He who receives a benefit should never forget it; he who bestows should never remember it.

Happiness consists in being perfectly satisfied with what we have got and with what we haven't got.

Judge thyself with the judgment of sincerity, and thou wilt judge others with the judgment of charity.

Every man will persevere over little things, but few show the same spirit in going after things that are worth having.

Nothing more completely baffles one who is full of trick and duplicity than straightforward and simple integrity in another.

Often a man who has eight or nine sons thinks he has done all that is necessary to hand his name down to future generations.

Generally when a man thinks success is in sight he has just begun to travel over the rough road leading to the foot of the ladder.

Good nature is the very air of a good mind; the sign of a large and generous soul, and the peculiar soil in which virtue prospers.

The majority of men confound happiness with the means by which it is acquired. Money in their eyes is the chief element of happiness.

If you would be useful and happy, if you would be strong and brave, believe in the future, believe in it for yourselves, believe in it for the world. Believe in a millennium of some kind or other.

All the events of a life are necessary to a higher development. The common task is a round by which we climb to glorious achievement. The ladder which leads us to perfection is made up of small events and small victories. In the economy of life nothing is useless, and nothing is wasted. Everything in its place is the best thing for that place. Life is a law, not an accident.

Oh, Go to Halifax.

The good women who are trying to reform the altogether vile system of below-stairs life should take a lesson from Halifax. No servant (household) in Halifax can hope to obtain employment without having remained at least two years in the place where last previously engaged. This is the one recommendation that is of avail. In New York if a servant, a domestic, stays two years in one place she receives from a charity society a $20 gold piece. This is equivalent to a monthly increase of eighty-three and one-third cents in her salary. The cash payment of thrice that sum will not persuade Cinderella to remain longer than a few weeks, for Cinderella, Esq., of New York, always needs a rest.—New York Press.

All the funerals in Paris are conducted by a single syndicate, which has a licensed monopoly of the business.

CUBA'S BOILED MILK.

It's Not Nice When Mixed With Seltzer as the New American Learns It.

An American who had recently come to Cuba was having a discussion with a companion in a cafe concerning what was the best temperance drink. The companion was insisting that a tamarindo fria—which is an iced concoction from the tamarind fruit—was the best he could do in this country.

"Oh! no," said the newcomer, "milk is milk anywhere. Give me seltzer and milk. It's the best teetotaler's drink in the guide. I've drunk it from Maine to 'Frisco."

"Well, have you tried it on here?" inquired the friend.

"No," said the other fellow, "but I will just to show you that I know my business."

Thereupon he hissed at a waiter who responded and was ordered to bring a "leche con selts," which in plain English is a seltzer and milk. When it arrived the advocate of its merits clinked glasses with his friend who had tackled a fria and then he took a long pull.

"Spt!" he went for a convenient cuspidor.

"Why this milk is sour," he exclaimed. "It's pretty near 'clabber.' It'd make a fellow sick."

"The milk's all right," insisted his companion. "Drink it if you think seltzer and milk is the only thing. Go on and drink it."

The temperance man smelled the glass in front of him and then sipped its contents. Again he insisted that it was sour milk that had been brought to him. He called the waiter and abused him in English until his wiser comrade came to the waiter's rescue and explained what the trouble was. All milk in Cuba is boiled as soon as it comes from the cow. In no other way can it be kept, even with the lavish use of ice. The climate seems similar in effect to the atmospheric conditions obtaining in the States during a thunder storm when the good country housewives generally find their milk spoiling on their hands. Boiled milk is kept in cafes and bars and restaurants here have just as fresh milk as in the States and is used for the same purposes. At first it is rather disagreeable to drink, but after becoming accustomed to it one does not mind. It is a great drink late at night before retiring. The Cubans generally put into it a panal, a flakey cake of sugar and the white of an egg, mixed and hardened. This sweetens the milk, destroying the boiled taste and is at the same time strengthening. But they never put seltzer in the milk, for that combination makes it taste exactly as though it were raw milk which had soured.

Another reason for boiling the milk here is the prevalence of bacteria of all kinds, milk being such an absorbent that it is dangerous to drink it raw. The fact that tuberculosis exists among the cattle is also another reason for taking this precaution. It is both economical and healthful.—New York Sun.

A French Road-Engine.

The French, thanks to the prejudices and interests which have checked the development of automobilism in this country, have taken the lead in the manufacture of motor cars and their applications. The Scotte traction engine, drawing a train of cars on the roads, is giving satisfaction in the French Army. Twenty-five of these engines can provide an army of 60,000 men, sixty miles distant, with cartridges in eighteen hours. They can also transport fifty "cannon of 24," weighing twenty-four tons each, a distance of ten miles in a single night. If the Prussians had had such engines in 1870, they would not have required to wait three and a half months before getting their guns into position for the siege of Paris. According to Moltke, they had to bring 960 wagons and over 2000 horses from Metz for the purpose. A Scotte traction engine replaces thirty-two horses, and 200 or 300 of them would have enabled the Germans to commence bombarding Paris a few days after the investment began. It is evident that in future wars traction engines and motor cars will render important service.—London Globe.

Character in Red Hair.

Red-haired women are ardent and vivacious, especially if with it they have hazel eyes, in which case they have a bright and quick intelligence. They have a great deal of natural felicity for study, and good memories. Red hair with blue eyes shows the same warmth of character, but not so much intelligence; bright golden hair, of a rich, deep color and of a crisp and waving texture, growing thickly on the head and somewhat low on the brow, shows an ardent, poetic and somewhat artistic temperament. It is the signature of Apollo, the sun. People with red-brown hair which is very thick, and redder over the ears and at the temples than on the head, are courageous and energetic. This sort of hair gives sense of color in painters, force of language and eloquence in poets, power in musical composition.—Woman's Home Companion.

"Sleuth" as a Term of Endearment.

A correspondent talks to us seriously of our etymological error in deriving the term of endearment "brick" from the "well red" undergraduate. The real origin of the word, it seems, is the proud reply of a king to an invading enemy who mocked at his unwalled towns. "My troops are my walls," he answered, "and every soldier is a brick."—London Globe.

When a dog barks at night in Japan the owner is awakened and summoned to work for a year for the neighbor whose slumbers may have been disturbed.

SCIENTIFIC AND INDUSTRIAL.

Since the new Tower Bridge, London, has been built, the old Thames subway has fallen into disuse. It has been suggested that it be used for growing mushrooms. It would be an ideal spot for their growth.

One eminent medical authority declares that influenza undermines the nervous system to a greater extent than almost any other disease, leaving all kinds of nervous maladies, even insanity, as its dregs. He estimates that a severe epidemic of influenza reduces the nerve energy of the country by nearly twenty per cent.

A French naturalist, Domingos Freire, finds that on cultivation in suitable media several well-known pathogenic bacteria can be developed from the anthers and stigmas of several species of flowers. Moreover, he found that several species of microbes, termed osmogeus, reproduce the odors of the flowers in which they occur.

A new species of mountain railroad has been devised in Germany. It consists of an electrically worked rope railway, the railway being in sections, the cars being suspended on rollers. As it is not considered safe to allow a greater distance than 4000 feet between the supports, intermediate stations are necessary, the passengers changing from the first to the second section and so on until the journey is completed. About seven minutes are occupied in traversing each of the 4000-foot sections.

An electrolytic method of sharpening files has recently been devised, in which the cutting edges off the files are restored by dissolving of electrolytically a thin and even film of steel. A number of experiments with various electrolytes and current densities have been made, and the results were carefully recorded photographically and otherwise. Among the electrolytes used were cyanide of potassium, ferric chloride, ferric sulphate and solutions of sulphuric acid of different strengths. The best results were obtained with a solution of ferric chloride and using high current densities.

It is curious that when China is just on the eve of introducing Western methods of engineering she should threaten to demolish the greatest engineering work she possesses; that is to say, the Great Wall, erected 200 years B. C. for the purpose of keeping back the Tartars. It is stated that an American engineer is en route to China in behalf of a Chicago syndicate which is expected to take a share in the contract to be given out by the Chinese Government for the demolition of the wall. The Engineer states that one French, two British, and three German firms are also bidding for the work, payment for which is to be in the way of rich concessions.

She Bought Him Off.

"It's one pair for three cents or two for five, you know," said the shoestring faker, "and the profits are so small that but for an occasional bit of luck I'd be hard put for three meals a day. Just now, however, I'm not worrying over the next three weeks. The other day a motherly-looking old lady bought two pairs of strings from me, and then asked about my sales and profits. When I gave her straight good she said:

"'Young man, are you ever tempted to crime?'

"'Yes'm, I am,' says I.

"'But you always resist the temptation?'

"'I always have, but I can't promise for the future. I'm getting tired of this shoe-string business.'

"'Do you think you might turn burglar?'

"'I do, ma'am. That's what I shall go into if I make a change.'

"'How soon might you become a burglar?' she asked after looking me over.

"'I may begin to-night,' says I.

"'Look here,' says she in a whisper, 'I'm mortally afraid of burglars, I'm going to California with my daughter in about two weeks, and I'll tell you what I'll do. If you will not turn burglar for a fortnight I'll give you $5.'

"'It's a very small sum, ma'am, but being it's you I'll strike hands on it and keep my word.'

"And she outs with a five," laughed the faker, "and handed it over, and if you hear of any burglaries within the next few days, you can be sure I didn't have a hand in the business. I'll wait till the old lady gets on the other side of the United States."—Washington Post.

A Delayed Wedding Fee.

It is easy to sympathize with a certain Yorkshire clergyman who, after pronouncing a couple man and wife, was asked by the groom what the charge was.

The parson, according to Spare Moments, told him that there was no fixed charges in such matters, but that he might give what he thought proper.

"Parson," said the young man, "I have five greyhound pups at home. I ask a sovereign apiece for them, but I'll let you have one for half a sov."

The clergyman protested that he could not accept a fee of such a character. It would be quite impossible.

The bride and groom went home, and the marriage must have turned out very happily, for before a month was over the parson received a note containing a fine greyhound pup, accompanied by a note from John, saying that Mario had proved such a treasure that he was glad to give the dog for nothing.

THE SABBATH SCHOOL.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR MARCH 4.

Subject: Jesus Healing in Capernaum. Mark i., 21-34.—Golden Text, Mark i., 34.—Memory Verses, 32-34.—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

CONNECTING LINKS.—After Jesus left Nazareth He went to Capernaum and again definitely called Andrew, Peter, James and John the second time. They now left all and followed Him.

21. "Into Capernaum." Christ now makes Capernaum His home, and the center of His ministry for more than a year. It is called His own city (Matt. 9:1), and here as a citizen He paid the half shekel. Matt. 17:24. His mother and brethren came here with Him. John 2:12. "The Sabbath Day." His first Sabbath in Capernaum. "The synagogue." This was the gift of a centurion. Luke 7:5. Schools and colleges were often connected with the synagogues. They were the centers of religious and intellectual life. "Taught." "It was common to call upon any suitable person to speak in the synagogue services." "It is not unlikely that at this time He repeated what He had said at Nazareth." Luke 4:16-30. It was truth that produced results, whatever may have been the subject.

22. "They were astonished." As the matter, manner, spirit and authority of His teaching. "1. At the range of His intellectual gifts. 2. The force of His illustrations. 3. His acquaintance with the human heart. 4. His deep knowledge of the Divine law." "Authority." He spoke as one commissioned by God and He laid great stress upon Himself. He said, "I say unto you," without quoting their teachers. "He was, 1. Dignified. 2. Original. 3. Convincing. 4. Consistent." "Not as the scribes." The scribes were without spiritual life, their manner was cold, and, with an unholy ambition, they sought their own and not God's glory. They could only insist on the observance of petty rules invented by men like themselves. Christ dove down to eternal principles, which bore the impress of the Divine approval.

23. "A man with an unclean spirit." Luke says he had "a spirit of an unclean devil" and "cried out with a loud voice." Luke 4:33. There has been much discussion regarding this "unclean spirit." Many hold that those who were said to have devils were simply diseased people, and that their strong paroxysms were only "fits." We cannot agree with this, however, and must insist that, difficult as it may be to understand, yet 'real demons did inhabit this man and those referred to in verse 32. "This country abounded in demons. 1. Because they were then advanced to the very height of impiety. There was not a nation under heaven more wicked than they were. 2. They were addicted to magic and so invited evil spirits to be familiar with them." "Cried out. "An evil spirit is stirred to its depths when in contact with Jesus."

24. "Let us alone." The devil always desires to be let alone, and bad men do not want to be disturbed with anything good. We hear this cry the moment we undertake to deal with unclean things to-day, such as intemperance and the social evils. "What have we to do with Thee." Nothing at all. There is no ioncord between Christ and Belial. "To destroy us." To drive us from our abode back to our native place. "I know Thee." Imagine some disease, like the apoplexy, thus addressing Christ! No, Christ is dealing with devils now, and they know Him well. "The holy one of God." The Messiah, who has come to destroy the kingdom of the devil. 1 John 3:8.

25. "Jesus rebuked him." He does not desire the testimony of devils to prove His Messiahship. Throughout His ministry Christ never for a moment countenances anything that might be construed into a truce with Satan. "Hold thy peace." Literally, "Be thou muzzled." Come out of him." He speaks with authority. He will show who He is, by casting out the devil.

26. "Torn him." Or, convulsed him. Luke says the devil threw the man, and came out of him, and hurt him not. Never was there a person possessed by an unclean spirit who did not suffer a convulsion, perhaps a total ruin, by it. Sins of uncleanness sap the foundations of life so that but very few of this class live out half their days. "He came out of him." Even the devils obey His word of command. This is an evidence of the great object of Christ's mission, to destroy the works of the devil. It is also a proof of His love for lost man. The Pharisees said that He cast out devils by Beelzebub the prince of the devils, but truth was that the very thought of collusion with Satan would be abhorrent to Him.

27. "What thing is this?" "God's wonders are more wonderful than the devil's wonders." "Jesus taught by what He did as well as by what He said." "They do obey Him." Thus Jesus established His mission by the miracles He wrought. And they could not doubt it.

28. "Fame spread abroad." This miracle was wrought in the public congregation and those who saw it published it wherever they went, and the people throughout all Galilee were soon discussing Him and His work. He did not need devils to publish Him, and we do not need to compromise with the world, the flesh or the devil to-day in order to be able to carry on His work.

29. "The house of Simon and Andrew." Jesus, James and John had entered Peter's house.

30. "Simon's wife's mother." Peter was a married man and lived in Capernaum. It is strange indeed that the Roman Catholic Church should lay so much stress on the celibacy of the clergy when Peter, their chief corner-stone, had a wife. "Lay sick of a fever." Luke calls it a "great fever." Luke 4:38. She was prostrated with a burning fever. "They tell Him of her." This was really a request for healing. They knew He could restore her.

31. "Took her by the hand." Could anything on this side the unlimited power of God effect such a cure? These proofs should demonstrate His divinity to the intelligence of every man. "The fever left her." Christ has power over disease. He can, and frequently does, heal to-day; and yet we cannot test the spirituality by the health of the body. Some of God's best saints have suffered with bodily infirmities and have been sick. It is the "prayer of faith" that saves the sick, and he who offers that prayer will see immediate results. "She ministered." She was perfectly recovered. She was not obliged to wait a long time for strength to return.

32. "When the sun did set." The Sabbath ended with the setting sun and then they brought their sick to Him. It would not have been a desecration of the day if they had come before the sun went down. Jesus had just performed a cure on that day.

33. "All the city." Not necessarily every person, but a very large company.

34. "Healed many." Matthew says, "all that were sick." Luke says He laid hands on them. Jesus healed all who came, and they were many. "Diseases . . . devils." A distinction is made here that we must not fail to notice; diseases were "healed" and devils "cast out." "Suffered not." See on verse 25. This had been a great day at Capernaum, a day filled with stirring events. May God give us such days in all our cities.

The Autauga democratic executive committee met in Prattville Tuesday and ordered a primary for April 14th. The Advertiser's report says: "When the minority saw that the odds were against them they bolted the meeting and held a conference among themselves Those who left the meeting represented beats 2, 3, 4, 5 and 12.

"It is feared that a serious split in the party, in Autauga will be the result of the meeting."

The lovers of music were splendidly entertained last Thursday night at the Court House by the Chicago Glee Club. It is but seldom we have the pleasure of hearing such music in Clanton as was given by the male quartette, so delicately blended with the soprano tones of Miss Lucy Brower. It was a revelation in singing to many of the large audience which filled the hall, and the pianist, Mrs. F. W. Garn, charmed them with her accompaniements. We hope to soon see the Club again.

L. H. REYNOLDS.

The announcement of Mr. L. H. Reynolds as a candidate for Senator from this district is very gratifying to his numerous friends. The district comprises Chilton, Elmore, and Shelby and in each of these counties Mr. Reynolds has hosts of friends which practically makes his nomination and election a certainty. As the representative from Chilton in the General Assembly he made a fine record and was recognized as one of the most useful members. When the constitutional convention question was before the House, Mr. Reynolds was the second member of the steering committee. He has performed valuable services for the county and will prove the same good friend to the people of the senatorial district as he has to the people of Chilton.

ALEX GLASSCOCK.

When a public servant is disposed to retire to private life, and is urged by his friends and neighbors to continue in the same position he has so well filled, it is a pleasing recognition of the value of his services. This is the case with Mr. Alex Glasscock, but the insistence of his friends has prevailed over his own wishes, and he is announcing as a candidate for Commissioner from the second district. He has been a faithful and diligent member of the present board and is thoroughly posted on all the duties of the office. The best interests of the whole county are served by the retention of some of the old officers, and we know from past experience that if Mr. Glasscock is re-elected the people will have a good servant who will serve them well.

G. L. LANGSTON.

This gentleman, at the request of his friends, is announced as a candidate for Commissioner from the first district. A live-long acquaintance with the county's affairs, he having been a resident of Chilton since he was six years old, is one of the many reasons he has been brought forward, and in addition the knowledg he has acquired of the duties of the commissioners' office during the last two years while he has been running the pauper farm, and attending every meeting of the board, makes him an eligible candidate. He is a strictly temperate man, and an anti-tobacco man, a member of the Baptist church and proposes, if elected, to do his best for the welfare of the county and his fellow citizens.

On Tuesday evening a young white man while trying to board a moving freight train south of the depot, fell and the train passed over his right leg, smashing the foot, making amputation necessary. Dr. Campbelle performed the operation, taking the leg off just below the knee, and the young man is doing as well as can be expected. He was carried to the home of Mr. Pink Giles who will take care of him until he recovers.

The war in South Africa has taken a turn and the British are fast getting the best of it.

E. S. CALLOWAY.

This gentleman is announced as a candidate for Commissioner from the Fourth District, a position he is well qualified to fill by reason of age, experience, sound judgment and a thorough knowledge of the county. Mr. Calloway was born in Chilton and the greater part of his life has been spent within the confines of the county. When the trouble between the States arose he espoused the Confederate cause and saw much hardship. As a staunch member of the Farmers' Alliance he was highly appreciated and was the last chaplain of the County Alliance. He is a man of strong, religious character, a member and deacon of the Baptist church, and highly esteemed by all who are acquainted with him, and if elected will serve the people faithfully. An out-and-out Populist he would serve the people well.

J. R. VINSON.

A right good citizen is Mr. J. R. Vinson, and in Beat 6, where he is best known and loved, his friends and neighbors insist that he should be a candidate for Commissioner from the Fourth District. In the prime of life, vigorous and stalwart, a clear intellect, ripe judgment and sound discretion, well posted on current affairs, he is a man well fitted for the role of commissioner. He has served the people as a member of the Populist executive committee and has made a good committeeman, and no doubt if he is elected commissioner he will make an excellent official. The man who knows what the county requires, and what the resources of the county can provide, is the man needed on the board of commissioners.

D. M. APPERSON

"Nothing succeeds like success" is an old saying, and Mr. Apperson, having made a success of his own affairs, desires to give the benefit of his experience to the people and solicits their support in his candidacy for County Treasurer. Of a retiring disposition, Mr. Apperson was diffident of offering himself, but his friends, who recognize his ability, made the point that he should become a candidate. The office of Treasurer requires to be filled by a man of brains and education—brains to comprehend all that comes before him, and education to keep his accounts correctly. In both these respects Mr. Apperson is well qualified, and if elected Treasurer will prove a good honest and capable officer. He has always been a good and faithful Populist, and that alone makes him an eligible candidate.

D. L. LANGSTON.

One of the hardest, and at the same time, one of the most thankless offices, to be filled in any county, is that of Tax Assessor. There is a vast amount of work which has to be done in a systematic manner. It takes not only a man's time but a good general business knowledge of an all around nature. Chilton county has made a large move forward in the last few years, and the Tax Assessor has to note not only the valuation of farm lands but other advanced valuations. The friends of Mr. D. L. Langston, of Jemison, have induced him to become a candidate for Tax Assessor, knowing him to be thoroughly qualified to meet the conditions of the day. A young man born and raised in Chilton county a graduate of the Lexington, Ky., Business college, a member of the People's Party since its commencement, a member of the Baptist church, he is by training, education and religious principles well adapted to the office he seeks.

Z. J. JONES.

In the second district of Chilton county, comprising Beats 3 and 9, Mr. Z. J. Jones is a popular man, and his announcement as a candidate to represent that district as Commissioner is hailed with satisfaction by his friends and well-wishers. This, in itself, is a guarantee that the people are satisfied he can and will properly attend to all business brought before the board of commissioners, and if education and a knowledge of public affairs—more especially those of our own county—count for any thing, then Mr. Jones, if elected, will unquestionably reflect great credit upon his constituency and himself. The board of commissioners about to be elected needs good men and a good man we believe Mr. Jones to be in every respect. He has always been a good Populist and asks Populists to support him.

All voters who have at any time voted with the Populists are entitled to vote in the coming primary. For instance, if from any cause whatever, a man did not vote with the Populists two years ago, but did four or six years ago, he is entitled to vote now.

CORRESPONDENCE.

To the Public.

In order to refresh the minds of the people of the stand I took four years ago, and to show that I used no partiality or prejudice towards any of the candidates, I now propose having a letter re-published that I wrote to the Banner after my defeat. I want every one to read carefully and see if you think I could have done any more or fallen upon a better plan to work for the interest of the Party than I did. If so, please tell me your plan.

Yours truly,
MOSES A. KILLGORE.

Clanton, Ala., April 20, '96.

Editor Banner: Sir, you will please give me space in your paper to express my feelings as a defeated candidate, I am perfectly satisfied and I feel my conscience clear of misrepresenting anything or bringing any reproach upon the party. To my friends I thank you all very much for your support and appreciate it as much as if I had received a majority. I wish to say to the voters to be as quiet as possible and look over the claims of the nominees and elect the men fo your choice Turn out in August and support the nominee. Gentlemen, I am out of the race but I am not out of the fight. I have my choice whom I rather would get their but every body cannot get their choice. Every body must be satisfied for the majority to rule for that is the only way we can ever keep together. I hope the people will consider well the importance of the success of our party and keep in the middle of the road. As the old saying is, stand to the rack, fodder or no fodder.

Success to the People's Party and Banner. Respectfully,
M. A. KILLGORE.

Jemison, Feb. 26, 1900

Editor Banner. I notice amongst the names of those who have announced themselves as candidates for tax collector of Chilton county that of W. A. Mims of Beat 4 We are right glad he has the courage to give the people fo our conty an opportunity to support him for this responsible office. The people of Chilton county are generally acquainted with Bro. Mims. And it goes without telling it again that to know him is to love, honor and respect him. We do not believe there is a better and purer man in the county. We have known him for twenty years and not a stain or a blot has ever marred his character. His hospitality is free to all, and his house is the home of all who chance to pass that way. Why cannot every friend of the People's Party drop all business for a few hours on the 15th of March and go to the primary and vote for such a man as Aikin Mims? The other candidates are all good men and our especial friends, but the purest diamond always shines the brightest, and is the one of our choice. Let all who love the people's cause in every beat of the county be on hand the 15th of March and prove your faith by your works. Let no excuse intervene, rain or shine be at your post in time. What we say to one, we say to all, if you vote for Aikin Mims you will never regret it. I. C.

Editor Banner. I want to say a few words on behalf of my friend W. H. Conway, candidate for sheriff. I have lived a close neighbor to him thirteen years, and know him to be a man straight and honest in all his dealings, and I know he will make the county a good sheriff. I think every Populist should show his appreciation of the services Mr. Conway has rendered the Party by turning out to a man to the primary and vote for him.

Jemison, Feb. 26, 1900

We have cold weather, and colder, but we look for warmth in the atmosphere, and friendly times, for your candidates love everybody they meet, and send greetings abroad. You would have as much luck in stopping a runaway swarm of bees as in halting a candidate. That is right—it must be as it is. The dear people would not know these men wished to serve them if they did not say so.

It is also right for every Populist in Chilton county to vote for Mr. W. A. Mims for tax collector, and Mr. Henry Conway for sheriff.

Let me ask all women, and others who think women should have nothing to say on this line, are we interested in our husbands, fathers, sons, and brothers welfare—politically and otherwise? Then hinder us not from telling strangers that there is not a blemish on the pure record of Mr. M. and Mr. C. We have had a number of years acquaintance. Their whole makeup of character is safe and sound. Their influence in their neighborhood is all that anyone could ask for. Now, as you want the best men in office, we have the pleasure of speaking thus.

Editor Banner. Please allow me space in your paper in the behalf of Brother N. J. Calloway for commissioner for the fourth district. He has been a taxpayer in Chilton county for some 18 or 20 years, and I believe is worthy and competent for the office.

To the Populist voters of Chilton county:

Have You Heard Of It?

You may have heard about SCOTT'S EMULSION and have a vague notion that it is cod-liver oil with its bad taste and smell and all its other repulsive features. It is cod-liver oil, the purest and the best in the world, but made so palatable that almost everybody can take it. Nearly all children like it and ask for more.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

looks like cream; it nourishes the wasted body of the baby, child or adult better than cream or any other food in existence. It bears about the same relation to other emulsions that cream does to milk. If you have had any experience with other so-called "just as good" preparations, you will find that this is a fact.

The hypophosphites that are combined with the cod-liver oil give additional value to it because they tone up the nervous system and impart strength to the whole body.

A CANDIDATE

It is customary for a candidate to announce his platform when coming before the people and asking their support. Even so we desire to announce to our friends that we want their business on a platform of fair dealing and giving a fair value for your money in every line we handle. Give us a trial.

again. Let us have a fair campaign with respect to ourselves and party.

It is talk that Z. J. Jones will be a commissioner in the second district. He is a man of business and has a good will for the common interest and for all people.

Christian hearted man, Mr. A. Mims, paid the writer a pleasant visit on his trip through here; he is in good heart of his success.

S. E. WALDROUP.

To the people of this district:

In announcing as a candidate for State Senator from this district, I assure the people, if elected, I will do in the future as I have done in the past, endeavor to pass such laws as the majority of my constituents want, striving to keep down any laws advocated by the minority and detrimental to the majority. Believing a constitutional convention to be detrimental to the people I therefore oppose the same.

Owing to a recent attack of measles I will be unable to meet the people of Chilton before the primary. My mouth tastes like I had already eaten two or three politicians.

Randolph, Feb. 26, 1900

To the voters of the Second District.

I am before you as a candidate for Commissioner from the second district. I have been urged to enter the race by those who know me best, and I trust we will have no "mud slinging" in this campaign, or anything like greed or scramble for office. Those things I abhor.

If you think me worthy and will support me I will appreciate it, if not I will cheerfully submit to your decision. Owing to sickness I shall not be able to canvass the district.

Yours respectfully,

Z. J. JONES.

The Imperial Gas Lamp

Covered by U. S. Patents.

Admittedly the BEST light on the market and the most economical.

The Imperial burns common stove gasoline and gives a 100 candle power light at a cost of one cent per day.

One Gallon will burn 60 hours.

The needle keeps the burner clean, so it will not clog, and the generating tube being in center of flame, insures a light that will not go out. There is no odor, no smoke and no flicker. The light can be raised or turned down just as with a gas jet or lamp. THE IMPERIAL is the most perfect light on the market and everything pertaining to it is the best to be had. IT WILL PAY TO INVESTIGATE.

YANKEES OF THE ORIENT

WONDERFUL MILITARY AND NAVAL DEVELOPMENT OF THE JAPANESE.

The Navy That Japan Has Built Up in Thirty-one Years—Effective Work at the Naval College on Etajima Island—Admirable Army Drill.

In an address Mr. Arthur Diosy, at the opening meeting of the ninth session of the Japan Society, in London, related some experiences of a visit to the far East. Among the things which filled Mr. Diosy with admiration was the navy of Japan.

Upon this topic he says: "There is only one word for the navy of Japan, and that is 'miraculous.' It is, indeed, a miraculous navy. When you think that thirty-one years ago the navy of Japan consisted of two steamships, one of them about the size of Citizen A on the Thames, the other a very ancient American man-of-war, which had been sold at a very big price to Japan, and when you think at the present moment the ships of the Japanese navy are second to none in the world in their power, in their handiness, in their rate of speed, in what may be called their fighting efficiency. In all essentials the ships of Japan are behind none in the world.

"Even in numbers the Japanese navy now stands eighth on the list of navies of the world, and in another two years' time will probably stand fifth, may be even fourth, but at all events fifth, unless some very great efforts are made to increase their navies by the powers now ahead of Japan. Moreover, the ships of the Japanese navy may be described, I think, as being the most intelligently designed warships in the world, because they are designed for the particular work that they have got to carry out, and for no other. The Japanese know that their battles will be fought near home, and that consequently they need not have very large spaces for carrying coal, and thus the space which would otherwise be filled by bunkers can be devoted to more guns and more projectiles, which, as we know by recent naval warfare, is the chief point. The ship that can pump the greatest weight of metal into another ship in the shortest time will be the victor.

"That is as regards the material. Now what about that which is much more important, the men? The men of the Japanese navy are simply perfect. The officers who command them are first rate; they showed it not many years ago.

"On the Island of Etajima, one of the most beautiful islands in the beautiful inland sea, there lies the Imperial Navy College, at which the cadets are trained who afterward become officers in the Japanese navy. I will not weary you with a description of what is one of the most perfect naval educational establishments in the world, I will simply tell you that the Russian Naval Attache at Tokio, an authority who could not be suspected of any undue predilection for things Japanese, said to me. "Ha! It is a model for all the navies in the world; it is absolute perfection!" And absolute perfection it is. There several hundred young Japanese gentlemen of splendid physique—I have never seen a finer body of young men between the ages of fifteen and twenty than I saw there—are trained in all that goes to constitute an efficient modern naval officer, that is to say, in every mortal thing that you can think of. They are trained there in the midst of the healthiest surroundings. The island is entirely given up to the Naval College; they can roam over it at will; they can even go shooting deer in the woods; they have their games, their sports, their boating, their sailing, and their life is an absolutely healthy one. Every care is taken to keep their minds as healthy as their bodies. I was taken into the battery, the finest, most accurate representation of the fighting battery of a first-class battleship that I have ever seen, a battery containing every kind of the most up-to-date guns that are used at sea. Outside on the greensward, were 120 cadets—clad in their flannel singlets and their white duck trousers, and with those white Japanese socks, with a division for the white toe, which form such excellent footgear on board ship—standing at attention, solid like a wall. I was requested to inspect them. I did so. I never saw a finer lot of young men in my life.

"At one word spoken by the chief gunnery instructor the 120 young men tumbled into that battery. I timed them by my watch—twenty-eight seconds from the giving of the order every man stood to his gun. There was absolute silence, most perfect order. The officer of quarters came toward me and said: 'What would you like to see?' I said, 'I would like to see exercise action.' The words were hardly out of my mouth before the bugle sounded, and I can assure you—and I speak, as you know, with some technical knowledge of this matter—it has never been my delight to see better gun drill in the whole world than I saw there. The fellows simply jumped over one another like mice or squirrels, and for the whole time there was not a sound, save for the clanking of the securing chains and the chinking of the projectile as it came up to the breech.

"Not a sound! That was enough for me! There is not another navy in the world, except, of course, ours, and, perhaps, the American, where such a thing would be possible. I may say that outside at the same time another 120 cadets were fencing on the sward with the two-handed swords of old Japan.

"If the Japanese navy is miraculous, their army, in the opinion of Mr. Diosy, is not less remarkable. He says: "The Japanese army is an army. There is no mistake about that. In it nothing is left to chance. Everything is provided for and prepared for. It is not only the drill I am thinking of, though in that the Japanese soldiers are simply perfect; their infantry drill is just like a piece of machine work, and their artillery drill perfectly wonderful.

"I had the privilege of having a battery of mountain artillery delivered over to me to work my wicked will on for a whole morning, a very hot morning, on a big plain outside Tokio, and I tried to make them do very difficult things. They did them simply admirably. If you had seen how those guns were laid you would have been astonished. I took care to look along the sights of every gun after it was laid, and I am perfectly certain that if the targets had been living men instead of dummies there would not have been any left to tell the tale. That, of course, is all very well, but it is not the sole criterion of the efficiency of an army. But I was shown things which are a criterion. I was shown the regimental, battalion and company storehouses, where every man's war kit lay ready prepared for for him, with his number ticketed on it, that was only to be used in time of war. Everything was new—the Japanese soldier, like the German soldier, goes to war with everything about him new, and everything has been prepared for him, and he knows where to find it. Not only that, but for every man in the reserves there was the reserve kit on the shelf behind. Therefore, the moment the regiment was mobilized each reserve man could go to his shelf and get his full war kit. I saw also in their army medical department most wonderful things which would take too long to relate."

A Hard Rain.

"It rains a great deal in the Puget Sound country," said the man from that section, "and I heard of a funny incident not long ago about it. Some chap had come from the Mississippi valley to take up his residence at Whatcom on Bellingham Bay, where there are very high tides. When the boat landed him at the end of the long pier extending over the tide flats the water was low and the new man didn't notice anything but a wide stretch of sand between the boat and the town. It was in the evening about dark and was raining, and he went to the hotel on the front street and stayed there, going to bed without having gone out for a walk. The next morning when he got up he looked out and the tide was in, the water coming up close to the hotel. He gazed at the widespread waters for an instant and throwing up his hands in astonishment he exclaimed: 'Gee whiz, but it must have rained hard last night.'

"Then he hurried down stairs to the office to find out if there was any danger from the flood and the clerk smiled four or five times and gave him some much-needed information." — Washington Star.

Table Mountain Ropeway.

The ropeway located at Table Mountain is an important example of a line 5280 feet long. It consists of a single fixed rope on which one carriage is drawn to and fro with an endless hauling rope, the driving gear having reversing motion so that the direction of travel of the carrier can be controlled. Commencing at sea level, and following the ground on posts spaced about 800 feet apart, the cable takes a span of 1500 feet, rising to a projecting rock some 1480 above the starting point. Resting on a support at this point, the cable again takes a span of 1400 feet to an upper terminal 2200 feet above the lower one. This ropeway has worked so satisfactorily that it is not only used for the carriage of materials employed in the construction of a reservoir, but is at times used for passengers.—Engineering Magazine.

Blue Jay Tree Planters.

An old-time Arizona woodchopper says the blue jays have planted thousands of the trees now growing all over Arizona. He says these birds have a habit of burying small seed in the ground with their beaks and that they frequent pinyon trees and bury large numbers of the small pine nuts in the ground, many of which sprout and grow. He was walking through the pines with an Eastern gentleman a short time ago when one of these birds flew from a tree to the ground, stuck his bill in the earth and quickly flew away. When told what had happened the Eastern man was skeptical, but the two went to the spot and with a knife blade dug out a sound pine nut from a depth of about an inch and a half. Thus it will be seen that nature has plans of her own for forest perpetuation.

Ruskin's Sense of Taste.

John Ruskin, at seventy-five, had as keen a sense of taste as most men have at twenty, and greatly enjoyed new flavors.

"My palate," he once said, "serves me now so well, because when I was a child I was given only the plainest food. When I was a boy, too, I had but one or two toys and no amusements. Hence the keen delight which I take now in every little pleasure."

Solar Rainbows.

Solar rainbows are very rare. They depend, says Professor Lewis Swift, of the Lowe Observatory, on the simultaneous occurrence of four distinct events. First, it must—say in the Middle States—occur during the three winter months; second, it must take place at noon; third, it must be raining in the north, and fourth, the sun must be shining in the south. As the span of the bow is low, it also requires to see it an unobstructed horizon."

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

New York City is at last fully alive to the dangers which menace its commercial supremacy.

What must be the reflections of Dr. Jameson when he thinks that he once tried to conquer the Boers with 500 men?

The Boston Journal puts it in this way: "Congressman-elect Roberts will return to his families."

The cost of educating a pupil in the public schools of Chicago in 1877 amounted to $8.41. It has been steadily increasing each year until the record of 1898 showed a cost per pupil of $18.44.

At the recent meeting of the Michigan association in Washington Justice Brown expressed the hope that he might live long enough to have the privilege of writing opinions in appeals sent up to the United States Supreme court from the federal courts of Puerto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippine islands.

America sells nearly three times as much as she buys; Germany buys over $250,000,000 worth more every year than she sells, while Great Britain last year actually bought twice as much as she sold.

The Czar has revoked the law which since 1865 has forbidden Poles to acquire real estate except by inheritance. They will still be restricted, however, both in Poland and Western Russia, to sixty-five acres for one family.

It will necessarily take a great many years to demonstrate to the lay mind whether the rejection of the Holland submarine torpedo boat was a great economy or a great oversight.

A club of Chicago ladies has been discussing the question "what is society." This is probably a prospecting enterprise. If Chicago enterprise can discover just what "society" is and where it is to be found there is no doubt that it will proceed to take possession, no matter what it costs.

The toot of the American locomotive continues to encircle the globe. This time the Paris and Orleans Railway, of France, wants ten of our iron giants—and the order is the first ever placed in this country by the company operating that line. We have set the pace and we mean to keep it.

Prof. Robert Koch, the celebrated bacteriologist in the Deutsche Medicinitsche Wochenschrift, reporting upon the results of the Java malaria expedition, says that these fully corroborate his theory, already illustrated on the German East African coast. It is that where there are mosquitoes there is always malaria, and that where there are no mosquitoes there is no malaria.

For some reason which is not easily assigned, the condition of convicts fails to interest the benevolent so much as it ought. All sorts and conditions of men are carefully looked after by charitable societies and individuals, but it is almost impossible to bring any effective influence to bear on prison reform.

The simplest way to get warm after exposure to cold, says a writer in a health journal, is to take a long breath with the mouth firmly shut. Repeat this several times until you begin to feel the heat returning. It requires a very short time to do this. The long breath quickens the pulse, and thus causes the blood to circulate faster. The blood flows into all parts of the veins and arteries and gives out a great deal of heat. It is stated that this method of deep breathing prevents colds and a great many other ailments if begun in time.

Horrid men have long been prone to pass disparaging remarks on an alleged prevalence of cold feet among the gentler sex. Now Prof. Hutchinson, of the Royal Society, has been prodding under the surface of this matter, and he finds that if this allegation of terminal coldness be true it can have a scientific explanation in the fact that women are large consumers of tea. Tea drinking he finds tends to contract the arteries and to reduce the circulation to the extremities; and practical tests convinced him that to the same cause is often due the clammy sweatiness of the feet suffered by many people.

Japanese experiments have convinced the authorities there that the rat is an active spreader of the plague and the main factor in the dissemination of its germs in Oriental cities. A crusade against the animal is therefore decreed, and the health departments of Kobe, Osaki, Yokohama and other Japanese cities, as well as Hong Kong and Shanghai, are distributing thousands of traps among the people, with orders to kill and burn all the rats they can catch. The animal may be one agent in the dissemination of the pestilence, but its progress, historical and current, shows that there are others, requiring other corrections than rat-traps, useful as these may in some cases be found to be.

The work of reforesting Pennsylvania has been well begun. Thus far 60,000 acres at the head-waters of the principal rivers have been purchased by the state, and 40,000 more will soon come into its possession. Most of the land purchased has been denuded of merchantable timber, the maximum price of $5 per acre fixed by the Legislature barring the purchase of more valuable lands. This limitation may not be a misfortune, however. Much of the land acquired has a young second growth that will make valuable timber hereafter; and while the work of protecting the watersheds may proceed more slowly than if timbered land could be obtained, a lesson in care of forest lands will be taught, and a greater amount of land will be secured through the available appropriation. The growth on the state lands is to be carefully fostered, one of the plans being to cut a protecting lane around the state's land, to bar out neighboring forest fires.

Joseph Leidy, Jr., of Philadelphia, in a letter to the Ledger, exposes the German pretence of a fear of trichinosis as the reason for shutting the door on American pork. There is little or no trichinosis in this country, he says, because the native-born cook their pork thoroughly before eating it, while the foreign-born, who frequently consume their pork raw, are protected against their indiscretion by the thorough system of curing now pursued in the principal pork-packing establishments. Because of this latter system, it would be safer, Mr. Leidy thinks, or the Germans, who eat pork raw or insufficiently cooked, to use the American product rather than their own. Of 400 cases of trichinosis, with 388 deaths, collected in Germany during the past two years, in not a single instance could the infection be traced to American cured pork, Mr. Leidy asserts, although our meat exports to Germany were larger last year than at any time since the opposition to American pork.

Early in the history of the government it was a popular delusion that congress was infallible; that, being composed of the chosen representatives of the people, it could declare the will of the people on any subject and was responsible only to the people at the polls, but John Marshall knocked this theory in the head, and in his first famous decision declared that the Supreme court was the highest and final authority of the government, with power to review and revoke the acts of both the executive and the legislative branches, although under the constitution they are "coordinate." This decision created a profound sensation and provoked a storm of dissent and indignation throughout the entire nation. Many constitutional amendments, resolutions and bills were introduced upon the theory that the voice of the people, as expressed through their representatives in congress, was the voice of God, but when the excitement died down congress accepted the decision and has since conformed its laws to the decisions of the court.

The action of Germany and France some years ago in exclusion of our hog products led to the exclusion of articles by other European countries which had no strong economic reason for excluding them, but which were honestly alarmed at the representations of French and German official scientists regarding diseases of our cattle and microbes in our fruit. Immediately after Germany excluded our fruit on the ground of the San Jose scale Switzerland followed her example. The declaration recently of German scientists that no danger whatever is to be apprehended from this source has led Switzerland to relax her exclusion and our fresh and dried fruits are to be admitted, subject, of course, to inspection. But the inspection will be for the purpose of ascertaining if there is really any danger and not for the purpose of indirectly excluding our products. Americans have been extremely patient under charges of the unwholesomeness of their food products which had really no foundation beyond the desire of interested parties to escape their competition.

Public Honesty in New York City.

The feature of New York life that appeals most forcibly to a stranger is said to be the honesty of the general public in little things, such as paying car fares and bills at restaurants. In no other city perhaps is the public trusted so far by restaurants. There are big places downtown where the crush of patrons at the noon hour is so great that it would be a physical impossibility to wait on the diners and keep "tab" on what they eat. Therefore the restaurant man makes no attempt to do so. He sets the food out where the patrons can help themselves. Tags over each article tell what the customer is expected to pay and he eats, and pays what he pleases. His statement of a bill is never questioned. The proprietor knows at the end of each day whether he has been cheated any. Occasionaly there is a trifling loss, but it is not enough to pay the wages of a clerk. Now and then a boy is caught in the act of gorging himself with pie and pudding at the rate of ten cents a day, but persistent offenders are watched until there is no possible doubt as to their guilt and then they are openly reprimanded in the hearing of hundreds, and the offense is not repeated.—New York Mail and Express.

Germany's army is to have, shortly, a number of automobiles that are to be used not only for the transportation of the baggage, provisions and ammunition, but also for the rapid transportation of detachments of soldiers.

EMPIRE UNDER THE SEA.

GREAT BRITAIN PRACTICALLY CONTROLS THE CABLES OF THE WORLD.

In Case of a Naval War Possession of the Submarine Telegraph Lines Makes Every British Battleship Worth Five Ships of an Enemy Destitute of Cables.

"THE Transvaal war," said a naval officer the other evening, "is presenting one startling object lesson which our country would do well not to overlook. It is, perhaps, rather a side-light lesson, but it is none the less impressive. Put in broad general terms, the proposition which the lesson demonstrates is that in case of war between two naval powers the one which controls a system of submarine cables with which to inform its fleets of the strength and movements of the enemy, will be mistress of the seas. There is nothing especially new in this.

"Writers on naval matters have time and again pointed out that in the twentieth century a nation, to be a sea power, would have to control cables as well as fleets. But the Transvaal war is making this truth as obvious to the lay mind as to the professional. It has opened the eyes of the people generally in all civilized nations that England has got practically a monopoly of all the cables of the world. As I said, this fact appears in a sort of side light reflected from the very glaring fact that not one word of telegraphic news gets to or from South Africa which English authorities do not choose to let through. That has set people to thinking a little and they have discovered that what England is doing in South Africa she could do nearly all over the entire globe if she felt so disposed.

"There is already a lively discussion of the matter in Europe, particularly in France, and it ought to move our own people and Government to lose not a moment in getting our own distant dependencies from Puerto Rico to Hawaii and the Philippines strung together on electric wires all our own, which we alone would control. The French are genuinely alarmed on the subject. The impression prevails among them that war with England is rather more than one of the remote possibilities of the future. They know, of course, that it would be very largely a naval war and that it would be fought all over the world, from the French possessions in China, Siam and Africa to the French possessions in the West Indies. And from all these possessions, save from the insignificant ones in the West Indies, England could instantly cut off all telegraphic communication with the outside world. France's fleets would move as completely in the dark as though the age of electric cables had not come. England's would know just where they were going and what they would find when they got there. Our own war with Spain and our efforts to cut Cuba off from communication with the world set the French thinking and writing on the subject. The startling Transvaal object lesson has revived the discussion and given it a tone of earnestness which ought to produce results.

"Only a few days ago, M. Depelley, an authority on the subject, presented France's helpless position in this respect so clearly and convincingly that his article, published in one of the leading French periodicals, has produced a profound impression.

"If you will study a cable map of the world a little, you will see what a tremendous power — for control of communication is power and a very high order of power—England has quietly built in the forty-two years since the first cable message was sent by the President of the United States to Queen Victoria. From that day until this, silently and ceaselessly, England has built up a system of submarine cables which to-day covers the entire world and holds it fast in a sort of immense spider's web, of which London is the centre. You will notice in studying the map that this marvelous system divides itself into three great branches, each of which has its subdivisions. For instance, a trunk of no less than ten cables connects Great Britain with this country and the British possessions on the north. From this diverge various wires, as to Bermuda and the West Indies.

"From London, by way of Spain and Portugal, three more lines stretch to Brazil and spread out through the West Indies and to Central America on the north, and down the coast to Montevideo on the south. From Montevideo, across the South American continent, there is an English land line to Valparaiso. From Valparaiso northward there is a double line, touching at all the principal points on the South American Pacific coast up to Tehuantepec, from which there is a land line to Vera Cruz and Tampico, whence cables go across the Gulf of Mexico to Galveston.

"So in that vast mesh of the spider's web all North and South America with their adjacent islands are held.

"From England toward the Mediterranean, Africa and the Orient four cables are stretched. They touch at Gibraltar, Malta and Egypt, and thence pass down the Red Sea to Aden. Aden is a great electric nerve centre and distributing point which to-day is of much interest, for through the cables there filters all the news England allows to be known about the military operations in South Africa. The African filament thrown out from Aden touches Zanzibar, Mozambique, Delagoa Bay, Natal and Cape of Good Hope. Up the west African coast creeps another line—not in service just now — touching twelve coast towns, the last one being [illegible] until it lands at last at Cape Town. Thus you see the entire African continent, with all adjacent islands in any consequence, is caught fast in England's electric [illegible].

"Three cables reach from Bombay, and thence they spread in all directions to Japan, our Philippines, Australia, New Zealand. And over all this region England has no opposition that can be called such. A few French lines to this country, through the West Indies to Hayti to the east South American coast—that is all. Here and there are short French lines—for instance, from New Caledonia to Australia—but these are mere feelers to the English lines, entirely without international consequence.

"But even this system, extensive as it is, does not satisfy Great Britain. A number of her cables land on foreign soil. That will not do. In addition to all this earth-grabbing commercial spider's web, there is to be an imperial web which will girdle around the globe and touch British land alone. That system is already in course of construction. An important link of it is to reach from Vancouver in Columbia to Australia. Still another link will reach from Gibraltar to the islands of Bathurst, St. Helena, Ascension—all English—to the Cape of Good Hope. Thence another cable will be run to the island of St. [illegible], which will be a great imperial telegraphic distributing station, thence reaching to India, China and Australasia. Of this system, one cable is already completed—from the Cape of Good Hope to Bathurst Island. The total cost of the entire imperial system will be about $25,000,000, the Government will bear all of it [illegible]den.

"It is an expensive job, [illegible] English. 'It will cost enough to build five battleships. But when it is done it will make each and every battleship we have five times as powerful as now.'

"Certain laws control the use of cables which make them absolutely under the control of the Government. They are all subsidized, as you know, in return for the subsidy John Bull makes his own rules. Every cable, for instance, must be a British cable and the lines can never be under the control of any foreign Government. In addition to that, English government dispatches have precedence over all others at all times, even those of other Governments no matter what urgent the latter may be. In case of war England can seize all the cables and operate them entirely with Government employes.

"In other words, John Bull has built for himself an empire under the sea where he rules with undisputed sway. Whether Britannia rules the waves has yet to be decided, but that she rules under them [illegible] question. Other nations are chafing restless under the sway, and [illegible] we were making a strike for freedom from it. Germany has already [illegible] under way for a cable system of her own country. As I have said, France is just now greatly agitated on the subject. Surely, Uncle Sam will get a move on and put that wire to the Philippines by way of Hawaii and Guam."—New York Sun.

The Deadly High Heel.

In the feet vanity too often exacts a price which is dangerously high. The high-heeled shoe is made in defiance of the relation it ought to bear to the anatomy of the foot. In the direction in which the pressure of the body's weight falls upon the heel of the boot or shoe, that it may not slip from the foot, which by the high heel is deprived of its usual purchase to resist downward pressure, is required to hold with undue firmness by the muscles at the back of the heel. Chafing of the delicate skin is readily produced. This, though in itself a trifle, may lead to graver troubles. Inflammation of the leg with abscess formation not infrequently follows, as the result of inciting cause has been trivial as a pin in the patient's shoe. Abscesses sometimes form around some neglected trifling wound of this kind have sometimes ended fatally.—London Family Doctor.

Pertinent Impertinence.

"Say, mister, do you want your bag carried?" asked a boy, running after a man who was hurrying down the street, evidently bound for the railway station.

"No, I don't," answered the man a little sharply.

"I'll carry it all the way for a nickel," persisted the boy.

"I tell you I don't want it carried," said the man, quickening his pace.

"Don't you?" said the boy, breaking into a trot to keep abreast of his victim.

"No, I don't!" said the man, looking fiercely at his small tormentor.

"Well, then, mister," said the urchin, with an expression of wistful and innocent inquiry on his dirty face, "what are you carrying it for? Why don't you set it down?"

He got the bag and a dime.

Vestiges of an Old Civilization.

The present population of the provinces of Tumbes, Peru, is 30,000 souls, in sad contrast with its former prosperity, when 100 miles of land on either bank of that river supported a population to 80,000 souls alone. Vestiges of roads and bridges are found throughout the country.

Tea Drinkers Galore.

Six hundred and fifty million pounds of tea are consumed in the world every day, which gives 3300 pounds a minute, night and day, throughout the year. The tea drunk in Britain in a year would make a lake two miles long, one mile wide and six feet deep.

POPULAR SCIENCE.

The popular notion that the blind possess a more acute sensibility for tactile impressions is not supported by the numerous and carefully made observations of Professor Greisbach, of Basle.

Self-fertile plants or varieties are those which do not require pollen from other plants or varieties in order to produce seeds or fruit. Self-sterile plants or varieties are those which do require pollen from other plants.

It has been assumed that the depth of unvarying temperature in the soil increases from one foot at the equator to seventy odd feet at the poles, yet a shaft in northern Siberia has reached a depth of 1500 feet without getting through the frost. A Western mining engineer explains that this may not disprove the theory, as the deep freezing may be a result of annual accumulations of sediment on unthawed ground.

Barometric readings reduced to true atmospheric pressure are now required by the Weather Bureau, the approximate corrections for gravity being applied to all barometric readings. This correction applies to all mercurial barometers and is nearly constant at any one station. The corrected reading is a standard measure of atmospheric pressure and can be compared to similar corrected readings made at any place in the world.

Hormaguilla, a beautifully resonant wood of Peru, Ecuador and Bolivia, is made by the Quichua and Amayra Indians into a remarkable musical instrument, an invention that seems to be an heirloom from prehistoric civilization. The instrument resembles in principle the xylophone, with the addition under each piece of a sounding box of a size corresponding to the note. Some of the instruments mounted on stands, have as many as forty-five tones, and are played by four or five operators. The tones are not short and sharp like those of the xylophone, but are sustained by the sounding boxes in an organ-like melody.

The reputation of being the driest spot on earth is claimed for Payta, in Peru, a place about five degrees south of the equator on a coast that has risen forty feet in historic times. Professor David G. Fairchild, a recent visitor, reports having reached there in February just after a rain of more than twenty-four hours, the first for eight years. The average interval between two showers is seven years. Sea-fogs are common. Of about nine species of plants noticed, seven were annuals and their seeds must have remained dormant in the ground for eight years. In spite of the lack of rain, the long-rooted Peruvian cotton is grown in the dried-up river-bed, furnishing crops that yield substance to the natives.

Cork Floors.

Cork, as every one knows, is one of the best non-conductors of heat or sound. That it has not been more widely used in building is due chiefly to the difficulty of obtaining it in an unadulterated form. A product called cork tiling has recently been placed upon the market, which is made of what is known to the trade as "virgin cork," ground, compressed and otherwise treated by a patented process, and which is free from the cement and glue usually employed to hold the particles together.

We are informed that tiles made of this pure, compressed cork form an admirable flooring, which, besides being noiseless, waterproof, warm and germ proof, is capable of withstanding hard usage. By varying the degree of compression and modifying the manufacturing process slightly, sheets of cork different in color and density are obtained, which, when sawed and finished in the form of panels, can be used for wainscoting alone, or in connection with cork floors.—Scientific American.

Their Names Misleading.

It is quite generally known throughout Orange County, New York, that the Goshen Independent Republican is a Democratic paper, while the Goshen Democrat is of the Republican faith. That this fact is not known by everyone is evident by the following from the Independent Republican:

There came into the office of the Independent Republican not long since a gentleman who desired to have his name enrolled upon its list of subscribers. But as the new subscriber took his departure he was moved to remark: "One of the things I have no use for is a Democratic paper." Evidently he had been deceived by the name of the paper. The joke seemed good enough to tell to Brother Will Mead of the Democrat, who chuckled and said: "That's nothing; we've had orders lately for $2.50 worth of work from a man who said he'd never give a Republican newspaper a cent's worth of work if he could help it."

Rex Wanted a Tie Badly.

Children get queer associations of ideas in their heads at times. A little lad on Capitol Hill has a playmate of his own age in the son of a poor neighbor. The son of toil visited his richer friend the other day wearing a gorgeous red tie. The son of wealth eyed the tie enviously for a while and then asked Benny where he got it.

"My mamma dyed it for me for a birthday present," lisped Benny.

After Benny went home Rex played listlessly about for a time and then leaned on his mother's knee, thoughtfully studying the pictures in the fire. "Mamma," he said finally, "Benny's tie was awful pretty, wasn't it?"

"Yes, dear."

"Mamma, won't you kill me a tie like Benny's when I get a birthday?" —Washington Star.

OUR GREAT FARMING INDUSTRY.

$16,000,000,000 Capital Invested and 8,466,365 Workers Engaged.

Professor John F. Crowell of New York testified recently before the industrial commission, Washington, on the general subject of agriculture and the distribution of agricultural products. In a review of agricultural conditions in the United States he cited the Dutch farmer of southern Pennsylvania as a striking example of the successful small operator. He held that the Scandinavian immigrant was more successful than his American confrere because of instinctive frugality and farm economy bred in his bones, and said that training schools intended to develop untrained and unskilled youth into farmers on a small scale were of an unappreciated value to the state. Of wages and living conditions among various industries, Professor Crowell said:

"We want to know why it is that the returns of the various industries are so unequal. I have taken a few figures from the census of 1890. The amount of capital invested in agriculture was $16,000,000,000, and 8,466,365 workers were engaged. The value of the combined properties was $2,460,000,000, and the product per capita was $290. In manufactures the product per capita was $893. In mining it was $740. These figures in the eyes of the farmer's boy are decisive argument in favor of abandoning the farm for the factory. The farmer has to adjust himself to prevailing prices. A proper distributing system is his urgent need today. This can be effective only through the European markets. The productiveness of the farm is limited. But the manufacturer can govern his supply as market quotations may indicate. These difficulties are increased by too large a burden of taxation."

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Worthless Stuff!

What a lot of trash is sold as cough cures. The hollow drum makes the loudest noise—the biggest advertisement often covers worthlessness.

Sixty years of cures and such testimony as the following have taught us what Ayer's Cherry Pectoral will do.

"I had a most stubborn cough for many years. It deprived me of sleep and made me lose flesh rapidly. I was treated by many eminent physicians, but could get no permanent relief. I then tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and I began to get better at once. I now sleep well, my old flesh is back, and I enjoy myself in every way at the age of seventy-four."—R. N. MANN, Fall Mills, Tenn., Feb. 7, 1899.

It's the do-as-you-would-be-done-by cough medicine. Try a 25-cent bottle.

Sore Hands

Red, Rough Hands, Itching, Burning Palms, and Painful Finger Ends.

One Night Treatment

Soak the hands on retiring in a strong, hot, creamy lather of CUTICURA SOAP. Dry, and anoint freely with CUTICURA, the great skin cure and purest of emollients. Wear, during the night, old, loose kid gloves, with the finger ends cut off and air holes cut in the palms. For red, rough, chapped hands, dry, fissured, itching, feverish palms, with shapeless nails and painful finger ends, this treatment is simply wonderful, and points to a speedy cure of the most distressing cases when physicians and all else fail.

Sore Hands 8 Years Cured.

Pain So Intense Would Nearly Twist Fingers From Sockets. Hands Puffed Up Like a Toad. Water Ran Through Bandages to Floor. Had to Walk the Floor Until Would Fall Asleep. Fingers Would Peel Like an Onion. Doctors Could Not Cure.

Eight years ago I got sore hands, commencing with a burning sensation on my fingers and on top of the hand. When I rubbed them, you could see little white pimples. I felt like twisting my fingers out of their sockets. I had high fever, and cold chills ran over me, and so I kept it going until I was tired out. Nights, I had to walk the floor until I fell asleep. My hands peeled like an onion, the finger nails got loose, and the water ran out, and wherever there was a little pimple there the burning fire was—that happened at least ten times. I am running a blacksmith shop, horse-shoeing, and I would not shut up the shop for anybody, but it was hard. My hands puffed up worse than a toad. When I drove horse nails, the water from my hands ran through the bandage, on to the floor. My customers refused to look at my hand. I had a friend take me to the doctor; he gave a solution of something to bathe my hands. I went to another doctor, I think, for a year. I found your advertisement in a Utica newspaper, and I got the CUTICURA remedies. As soon as I used them I began to gain, and after using a small quantity of them I was entirely cured. I would not take fifty dollars for a cake of CUTICURA SOAP if I could not get any more. I would not suffer any more as I did, for the whole country.

Cuticura The Set, $1.25 Complete External and Internal Treatment for Every Humor, consisting of CUTICURA SOAP (25c.), to cleanse the skin of crusts and scales and soften the thickened cuticle, CUTICURA OINTMENT (50c.), to instantly allay itching, inflammation, and irritation, and soothe and heal; and CUTICURA RESOLVENT (50c.), to cool and cleanse the blood. A SINGLE SET is often sufficient to cure the most torturing, disfiguring, and humiliating skin, scalp, and blood humors, with loss of hair, when all else fails. Sold throughout the world. POTTER DRUG AND CHEM. CORP., Sole Props., Boston, U. S. A. "All about the Skin, Scalp, and Hair," free.

Millions of Women Use Cuticura Soap

Exclusively for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, for cleansing the scalp of crusts, scales, and dandruff, and the stopping of falling hair, for softening, whitening, and soothing red, rough, and sore hands, in the form of baths for annoying irritations, inflammations, and chafings, or too free or offensive perspiration, in the form of washes for ulcerative weaknesses, and for many sanative antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves to women, and especially mothers, and for all the purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery. No amount of persuasion can induce those who have once used it to use any other, especially for preserving and purifying the skin, scalp, and hair of infants and children. CUTICURA SOAP combines delicate emollient properties derived from CUTICURA, the great skin cure, with the purest of cleansing ingredients and the most refreshing of flower odors. No other medicated soap ever compounded is to be compared with it for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, scalp, hair, and hands. No other foreign or domestic toilet soap, however expensive, is to be compared with it for all the purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery. Thus it combines in ONE SOAP at ONE PRICE, viz., TWENTY-FIVE CENTS, the BEST skin and complexion soap, the BEST toilet and BEST baby soap in the world.

THE AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS

THE "NECESSARY" MAGAZINE

The best-informed men and women in the world use the AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS to keep well informed, and call it the "necessary" and "indispensable" magazine. In the busy rush of to-day ambitious men and women must know about the important questions of the month, and not only this, they want to know about them at the right time. When the whole country is puzzled over the gigantic combination of trusts, a well-informed article is printed in the AMERICAN MONTHLY, giving the facts, and its editor discusses the theory; when the Dreyfus affair is in everyone's mouth, the best story of Dreyfus and the great case comes out in this magazine.

Every month, in "The Progress of the World," Dr. Albert Shaw gives a comprehensive picture of the world's history during the previous thirty days. In the departments, the valuable articles and books that have been published during the past month are reviewed and quoted from, so that the readers of the AMERICAN MONTHLY can get the gist of them. In every issue nearly a hundred pictures are printed, including the portraits of the men and women who are making the history of the month.

To be thoroughly well informed helps any man or woman in his or her work. A subscription to the AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS represents an investment for the best kind of profit, as well as entertainment. One subscriber has just written: "Count me a life subscriber, and when you send me a number beyond the limit of my subscription and cease to receive from me, consider it a notice of my death."

Price 25 cents per number, $2.50 a year.

A sample copy will be sent on receipt of ten cents in stamps.

The examining board has completed the mathematical part of its report on the December quarterly examination. The figures show what a job it was to examine the papers of each of 2,186 applicants, or rather each paper of each applicant in each study. Out of the total of 2,186 applicants 512 were rejected, or a per cent of 23.

There were 1,425 applicants teaching under conditional contracts. Of these canta 1,165 were passed and 260 rejected. The per cent. of rejected applicants was 18.

Of the applicanas not conditional 334 was rejected. In round numbers there were 761 applicants who were not conditional teachers. Of these 509 passed and 252 were rejected.

Story of a Slave

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich. tells how such a slave was made free. He says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters, she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. This miracle working medicine is a godsend to weak, sickly, rundown people. Only 50 cents. Sold by all Druggist.

Clear Creek, Mar. 5, 1900

To the voters of Chilton county:

I want to say in announcing my name as a candidate for the office of tax assessor I do so without any feeling that the people of the county or the party owe me any unpaid debt for any past services, for I have only done my duty as a Populist, and now I wish to say to the Populist voters, if you consider me worthy of the honor of the nomination and should so speak by your votes on the 15th inst., I shall feel very grateful to you, and if some other candidate should receive the honor I shall still remain one of the boys. As my business is such I cannot canvass the county at large, I want to say I am running on my own merits and I take this means of reaching you. Now, let me say in conclusion, let all Populists turn out to the primary, and if I am defeated I feel sure it will be by a good man and a good Populist.

Respectfully,

Thornby.

Clanton, March 5, 1900

Editor BANNER—I wish to say a few words in behalf of my friend, J. W. Littlejohn, candidate for tax collector. There is a number of us in this part thankful for the opportunity of voting for such a man as Bro. Littlejohn for the office which he aspires to. We believe he will make a good officer; we have known him for a number of years; he has been a hard and earnest worker in the People's Party for sometime. Let every Populist voter turn out to the primary and vote for Littlejohn for tax collector. The other aspirants for the same office are good men as far as the writer knows; some are especial friends, although every man has his choice of who he supports.

Let me urge the Populist voters to come out to the primary and help nominate the man of his choice for the various offices and if we should lose our man, submit cheerfully to the majority, and put our shoulders to the wheels and look forward to the first Monday in August.

Oh! I liked to forgot to mention commissioners. I will say keep your eyes on R. C. Riggins; he is pretty tall, and if some of the aspirants in the Fourth district are not good runners, he will come out at the head of the class.

ARGUMENTS CONCLUDED.

Decision in Kentucky Case Not Expected for Several Days.

Argument in the suits to determine the rights of the rival claimants for the governor of Kentucky was concluded Saturday at Louisville before Judge Field, who took the cases under advisement. A decision is not looked for soon. When it is announced an appeal will be taken to the state court of appeals. This, the democrats claim, is the court of last resort. The republicans, however, will try to get the case before the United States supreme court if the decision is against them.

Big Reward for Goebel's Slayer.

The Kentucky democratic senate Saturday passed the bill for the appointment of a commission to hunt down the person or persons who assassinated Governor Goebel, and appropriating $100,000 to carry on the work. The bill had previously passed the house, and now goes to Gov. Beckham for approval.

The Republican senate, sitting in the same hall, took no part in the proceedings.

ENORMOUS EXTENSION.

Tennessee Coal and Iron Company Will Increase Its Capital to $23,000,000.

The stockholders of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company have received a circular stating that two-thirds of the holders of the preferred stock have agreed to accept an exchange on a basis of 180 shares of common for 100 shares of the preferred. The executive committee of the company has declared the plan operative and has increased the capital stock to $23,000,000, all common stock.

According to this circular it is the plan to sell $1,200,000 of the new common stock for cash. The company proposes to acquire three Sheffield furnaces, 370 coke ovens and 72,000 acres of coal lands. The stockholders will vote upon the proposition at the annual meeting to be held on March 13, next.

RISING IS FEARED IN HAVANA.

Correspondent Says All Is Not Serene in Cuba's Capital.

Bearing upon the Washington dispatch telling of some fear that everything is not serene in Havana, the following from a Havana correspondent is of interest:

"I have inside information that there is to be a rising on the island ere long. Lately there has been a great demand for spurs, machetes and hammocks, the three principal impliments of Cuban warfare. Several of the stores have sold out their entire stock of these goods."

Clark Investigation Closed.

Just before the adjournment of the senate committee on elections Friday, both the prosecution and the defense in the investigation of the election of Senator Clark, of Montana, announced that they had concluded the presentation of testimony. The investigation began January 5, and up to date a hundred witnesses have been examined. Their testimony will fill between 2,400 and 2,500 pages. The expense to the government so far has been about $27,000.

Large Sale of Fertilizer Tags.

Commissioner of Agriculture Stevens, of Georgia, says the department has sold on a reasonable estimate one million more fertilizer tags this year than last. "This indicates," says the commissioner, "that the farmers are sowing every available piece of ground they have in cotton." In a few days they will be plowing up the oat fields where the crop appears to be injured and will plant it in cotton.

Amendment to Goebel Election Law.

The Johnson bill amending the Goebel election law in Kentucky by removing the party emblems from the ballots was advanced in the house Saturday and this is construed by democratic leaders to mean that this will be the only amendment to the law at this session.

Philippine Receipts.

The total receipts from the Philippine Islands for the month of February was $126,678, of which amount $857,000 was derived from customs sources.

Congressman Epps Dead.

CURRENT ALABAMA NEWS

Events of the Past Week Briefly Chronicled.

ABERCROMBIE ISSUES CIRCULAR LETTER.

Superintendent of Education Dead. No Deaths in Convict Department. Illicit Stills Destroyed. Other News Items.

Superintendent of Education Abercrombie has issued the following circular letter to the teachers of the state in regard to state institutions and the holding of the quarterly examinations:

"The idea seems to prevail in some counties that the new examination law abolished the county board of education. This is an erroneous notion. The law creating the county board of education was repealed only in so far as it related to the examination and certification of teachers. The county board still exists for the purpose of organizing and maintaining teachers' institutes. (See sections 3583, 3590, 3591, 3592, 3598 of the code of 1896.)

"The law says that every teacher holding a certificate is a member of the institute, and that not less than three meetings shall be held annually, one of which must be in the month of September. A greater number of meetings may be held. It is the duty of teachers to attend every meeting, and they should close school for that purpose if necessary. The time spent in institute should be counted in quarterly reports.

"A failure upon the part the teacher to perform his duty in the matter of attending institutes is cause for the cancellation of his certificate.

"Complaints have reached this department that many teachers fail to attend the institutes regularly—some do not attend at all. If township trustees will refuse to make and county trustees refuse to approve contracts with such teachers, grounds for such complaints will soon cease to exist.

"You will be requested at the end of each scholastic year to report to this department the number of institutes held, and the names of those teachers who have not attended, as required by law, that the regulation concerning the cancellation of certificates may be enforced.

"The state board of examiners has been greatly troubled by teachers giving and receiving assistance on the examination. In a number of instances two or more applicants have submitted answers exactly alike, word for word, sentence for sentence, paragraph for paragraph, mistake for mistake. Excepting in giving definitions, this is impossible in the absence of communication between applicants. Hereafter it will be the policy of the board of examiners to reject, without explanation or investigation, all applicants whose papers show unmistakable evidence of fraud of this nature.

"The object of the law will be avoided unless county superintendents are diligent in the matter of preventing fraud in the examination. The state pays them for this service, and they are expected to perform it faithfully and conscientiously."

No Deaths in February.

The convict department has reported another clear record for the month of February in the death rate. According to the report not a single death occurred in the prisons during the month. Dr. W. H. Blake, the department physician, said this morning that this was a phenomenal record.

Moonshiners Arrested.

Deputy Collector John F. Lanier has reported the seizure and destruction of two illicit stills in Jackson county, near Trenton. No arrests were made, but warrants have been sworn out against Harrison, Kenimore and James McElgin, the alleged owners of the stills.

Direct Vote in Bibb County.

The executive committee of the democratic party for Bibb county has ordered a primary for the nomination of county offices. The committee ordered the names of candidates for United States senator to be placed on the tickets to be voted for in the primary election.

Superintendent of Education Dead.

Charles P. Robertson, superintendent of education of Lawrence county, died a few days ago at Moulton. Mr. Robertson was elected by the republicans in 1898, and his term would have expired next September.

New Buildings in Birmingham.

During the month of February there were issued by Chief Mullin, of the fire department, seventeen building permits, calling for building, repair work and other improvements to the value of $35,340. The largest permit was for the addition to the Louisville & Nashville freight depot placed at $12,000.

Prominent Attorney Falls Dead.

Hon. L. Y. Lipscombe fell to the floor in the circuit court room at Bessemer last week and expired in a few minutes, death resulting from a catarrhal affection, from which he had been a sufferer for several years.

At the time of his death Mr. Lipscombe was engaged in the trial of a case and a moment before he was overcome he had arisen and requested Judge A. A. Coleman, who occupied the bench, to deliver certain charges to the jury. While thus upon his feet he suddenly appeared to grow weak and sat down in his chair. He arose, however, and started as though to leave the court room, but stagged a few steps and then fell to the floor a corpse.

Mr. Lipscombe was elected solicitor for the city of Bessemer in 1898, and in the following year was elected to the legislature. He was again elected to the legislature in 1896. He was a lawyer of marked ability and enjoyed a fine practice. The deceased was 45 years of age, having been born in Sumter county on March 16, 1855.

Extensive Developments Contemplated.

Indications point to extensive developments of the 10,000 acres of land belonging to the Pawnee Land company, situated in Blount county between Oneonta and Swansea. The visit of Mr. Hull, of Savannah, Ga., one of the directors of the Central of Georgia railway, with other directors of that company and directors of the Pawnee Land company, is explained, and if the deductions of experts who have seen the property, and who have made technical investigations, are of an encouraging nature, lavish development of the properties is probable.

Colonel Garrett Is Dead.

Colonel Henry A. Garrett, one of Alabama's most distinguished lawyers, died at his home in Dadeville, Sunday. Colonel Garrett was 70 years old at the time of his death. He was well known to the judges of Alabama, and was regarded by them as an authority on many legal questions.

STATE BREVITIES.

A brother of Jacob Furth, the New York drummer, who was shot and killed by Alex. Cowthorn, is in Selma investigating the killing.

The 6-year-old son of E. M. Jones was badly burned at Centerville. His clothing caught from an open fire. The little fellow is in bad shape.

Mineral development and mining operations on a large scale are going on at and around Jacksonville. That section is wonderfully rich in minerals.

James Martin, living near Leesdale was killed by a falling limb of a tree. He left home late in the afternoon to cut down a tree near by, and not returning for supper, some member of the family went after him and found him dead. In cutting the tree it fell against another tree and a limb from one of them fell on him.

Uniontown has an epidemic of grip. Many people have the disease and fears are felt for the lives of some of the victims.

The first marine boiler ever built in Birmingham was shipped to Apalachicola, Florida, Saturday, consigned to Coombs & Co., and will be placed on one of the tugs operating out of that place.

The governor has granted a pardon to Daniel Grant, convicted of murder in the second degree and sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary in Sumter county. Grant has served eleven months of his time.

In the London hospital for consumption the basis of treatment is rest in the open air, graduated exercise, and good feeding. No window in the open-air wards is ever closed, and during the cold weather the consumptive patients are kept warm with extra clothing and artificial heat. It is encouraging to note that practically all the early cases and 70 per cent. of all cases improve considerably under the open-air system.

New Blast Furnace to Be Built.

The Republic Iron and Steel company has let the contracts for the construction of the new blast furnace at Thomas. The new furnace will have a daily capacity of about 250 tons, and the company expect to have it in operation before the end of the present year.

Hon. W. B. Ferguson, treasurer of Cleburne county, died last Friday.

Over a thousand houses in London are untenanted because they are supposed to be haunted.

LADYSMITH IS RELIEVED.

General Buller's Cavalry Under Lord Dundonald Enters the City.

SIEGE ABANDONED BY THE BOERS

General White's Troops Were Living on Mule Meat and Meal When Succor Arrived—Tumultous Demonstrations in Great Britain Over the News From South Africa—Story of the Siege.

London (By Cable).—Ladysmith has been relieved after a terrible struggle, which lasted four months, at the cost of nearly 7000 men. For 118 days the little town in Natal has been besieged. For three months an army of 40,000 men has been within twenty miles of it. The people in the beleaguered city were facing starvation.

The first news that Ladysmith had been rescued was in a dispatch received by the War Office from General Buller, and it read:

"Lyttleton's Headquarters. — General Dundonald, with the Natal Carbineers and a composite regiment entered Ladysmith Wednesday night. The country between me and Ladysmith is reported clear of the enemy. I am moving on Neilthorpe."

The War Office subsequently received the following message from General Buller:

"Nelthorpe.—I have just returned from Ladysmith. Except a small guard north of Surprise Hill the whole of the enemy lately besieging the town have retired in hot haste, and to the south of the town the country is quite clear of them.

"The garrison were on half a pound of meal per man a day and were supplementing the meat ration by horses and mules. The men will want a little nursing before being fit for the field."

BRITISH REJOICING.

Public Elation Over the Successes in South Africa.

London (By Cable).—The news of the relief of Ladysmith was received with the greatest enthusiasm. The Lord Mayor of London immediately telegraphed his congratulations to Generals White and Buller. When the Queen received the news at Windsor Castle the bells on the Curfew Tower of the castle were rung.

COL. DUNDONALD.

When the news became generally known London literally went mad with joy, and throughout England the scenes witnessed have no parallel in the memories of this generation. The pent up jubilation at the relief of Kimberley and the defeat of Cronje could no longer be controlled, and with this crowning triumph the national trait of self-restraint was thrown to the winds.

All over the United Kingdom the outbursts of enthusiasm were duplicated. At Glasgow, Liverpool, Birmingham, Edinburgh, and, in fact, in all the cities, big and little flags flew everywhere, whistles tooted, bells chimed and crowds paraded the streets, singing patriotic songs. Business was given up for the day, the schools were closed, in the harbors all the vessels dressed ship, and at the military and naval depots scenes of the wildest enthusiasm prevailed.

But the Boers were not beaten. They cut off railroad communication with Ladysmith and began shelling the English position at Dundee. General Yule, who succeeded General Symons, was forced to abandon the town, leave his wounded and all his stores and make a terrible forced march of three days. The men reached General White's outposts in a frightful condition. A column of 800 Boers sent to cut off Yule's retreat was met by General White's men at Elands Laagte. Only 300 Boers were in action and they were routed.

On October 24 General White made a reconnaissance, resulting in the battle of Rienfontein, when the British lost 12 killed and 104 wounded. A week later the English again tried to crush the Boers and the disaster of Nicholson's Nek resulted, General White losing 61 killed, 211 wounded, and battalions of the Royal Irish Fusiliers, the Gloucestershires and the Tenth Mountain Battery were captured—800 men in all.

The Boers placed heavy guns in position, including the famous "Long Tom," and the long bombardment began.

Sickness laid more of the men low than cannon and rifle. Enteric fever became epidemic. At one time the death-rate was ten a day.

General White had foodstuffs and small-arm ammunition to last for three months under ordinary circumstances. The number of Boers about Ladysmith and between there and the Tugela River had varied from 10,000 to 25,000 men, commanded by General Joubert.

After the first bombardment General White asked permission for the civilian population to depart. General Joubert allowed them to establish a camp within four miles. The three days' armistice was devoted to deciding upon the safety camp under Mount Bulwana. The London Times's correspondent thus tells how they set about preparing their defenses:

"Every civilian adult, white and black, capable of wielding pick or shovel had bent his back in honest soil, and the gravel cliffs of the streamlet will remain a lasting testimony to what men can do when moved by a sense of physical danger.

"The majority of delvers were able to secure some mining talent to aid them in their work. Others with longer purses enlisted the services of soldiers, who brought the rudiments of military fortification to bear upon their labors. Others, imbued only with the instinct of self-preservation, burrowed shafts perpendicular to the bank, so that the cliff face bore the appearance of a nesting home of mammoth sand martins.

"But the greatest defense of all was that of the Imperial Light Horse. The majority of these men are Johannesburg miners, and they at once began to undermine their camp with shafts and galleries. Commandeering every colored man that ventured near their camp, they cut ten shafts in the river cliff, and, working day and night for forty-eight hours, constructed an underground gallery capable of holding half the garrison."

GENERAL VIEW OF LADYSMITH.

STORY OF THE SIEGE.

The Gallant Defence of Ladysmith by General White and His Men.

Had it not been for the fact that a great relieving army was within a few miles, it is likely that Ladysmith would have surrendered before relief came.

Of no great strategic importance, it has cost many thousands of lives to rescue those shut up in the town. Public opinion compelled the British Government to make a prodigious effort to save it. Not since the days of the Indian mutiny has an English army been so long beleaguered.

While the conferences engineered by Joseph Chamberlain and Sir Alfred Milner were going on, General Sir George White, V. C., who had been Commander-in-Chief of the British forces in India, was sent to Natal to take command of the British troops that had been poured steadily into South Africa.

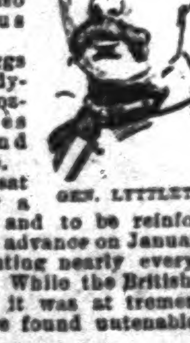
Ladysmith was the military headquarters of the colony. When President Kruger sent his ultimatum to the British Government, General White had small garrisons scattered up the neck of Natal as far as Newcastle. These he was obliged to recall, as well as the troops guarding Laing's Nek, the pass through which the railroad enters Natal.

He left 4000 men under General Symons to guard the large stores of military supplies at Dundee and Glencoe. General White wanted to fall back to the Tugela, but he sacrificed military reasons to political ones.

When the Boers made that swift and unexpected descent on Natal the British were amazed. War was declared on October 12. The Boers engaged the English outpost on October 14.

General Symons made an attack on October 20 at Glencoe and the Boers fell back with a loss that the British estimated at 500 killed and wounded. The British loss was thirty-six killed, 181 wounded and 200 prisoners, a squadron of the Eighteenth Hussars falling into a Boer trap, the first of the war. General Symons was mortally wounded.

When General Sir Redvers Buller was made Commander-in-Chief of the British forces in South Africa he took upon himself the task of relieving Ladysmith. He landed in Durban, Natal, in November. He managed to reach the Tugela River by December 15, when his army of 30,000 was defeated at Colenso with tremendous losses.



GEN. LYTTLETON.

By this time eggs were selling in Ladysmith for $2.50 a dozen, fifty potatoes brought $15, and whisky $35 a bottle.

General Buller "sat tight" for nearly a month to recover and to be reinforced. He made a general advance on January 10, and then was fighting nearly every day until January 25. While the British took several positions, it was at tremendous cost, and they were found untenable, notably Spion Kop.

There was a lull in the fighting for a few days, General Buller falling back to the Tugela. On February 18 General Buller resumed operations, Lord Roberts's campaign having drawn away many Boers. Since then General Buller has made pretty steady progress, meeting only one check, when the Inniskilling Fusiliers in attempting to rush Pieter's Hill suffered frightfully, losing fourteen of seventeen officers killed and wounded and 250 men.

Ladysmith was saved in the nick of time. Its garrison was almost at its last gasp.

A New Oyster Syndicate.

The movement to form an oyster trust with a capital of about $5,000,000 has taken shape. The corporation is to be known as the Consolidated Oyster Company, with headquarters in New York City. In the four States in the waters of which the new company is to operate options on grounds and property of oystermen valued at $4,000,000 have been bought. The company estimates that it will distribute in the market the bulk of the oysters used, or nearly 4,000,000 bushels every season.

Incendiarism at Martinique.

Disorder and incendiarism continue in the island of Martinique.

Rescued from the Filipinos.

As a result of information brought to Manila by a boatload of Spanish prisoners who escaped from the insurgents, the transport Alava with fifty marines from the cruiser Brooklyn was sent to the Gulf of Ragay on the south coast of Luzon and the troops succeeded in rescuing 200 Spanish prisoners and ten Americans.

More Troops For South Africa.

The British army estimates show an increase of $200,000,000, and Lord Lansdowne announced in the House of Lords that 50,000 more men would be sent to South Africa as soon as arrangements could be made.

Scarcely any ...ter misfortune could come just ...than an uprising such as this. ...e Zulu is undoubtedly the best ...e fighter of South Africa. Add to this ...mmory of a magnificent past, the ...itions and courage of a race un... ...pped except by white men, and by ...n only at fearful odds, and you ...e a worthy foeman. The Zulus first, in organization, and second, in the tradition of victory. Organization under the great chieftain Tshaka at the beginning of the present century gave them their first superiority over other savage tribes, and an unending series of victories for half a century or more produced a race of rare courage and warlike prowess. The story of it describes the Zulu of to-day.

What is now known as Zululand—a wild country, bounded on the north by the Transvaal, on the south and west by Natal and on the east by the sea—was then divided among several savage tribes, of which the Zulus were one of the weakest. The chief of a neighboring tribe, the Umtetwas, plotted the murder of his two sons, one of whom, however, escaped, and in his wanderings fell in with the British, the organization of whose forces he noted with shrewd understanding. After his father's death he returned to his tribe, was made chief, and proceeded to organize his warriors into brigades, regiments and companies, British fashion, and had remarkable success in warfare.

One of his lieutenants was a youth of fierce and restless energy. He was the son of a conquered chieftain and his name was Tshaka. He studied the organization of the Umtetwa army zealously and saw in it wonderful things not accomplished by his wise but mild chieftain. He made up his mind that some day his own chance would come.

Winning consideration, Tshaka was finally, as a reward, appointed chief of the weak tribe of Zulus. He organized them perfectly, and when the chief of the Umtetwas was killed in battle Tshaka announced the independence of the Zulus and upheld it by force.

This done Tshaka started in to make the Zulu power supreme. He attacked his weaker neighbors first, and with every victory absorbed the young warriors into his own army and destroyed the old men, women and children. In this way his own army grew marvelously, and his conquered neighbors lost recuperative power and eventually identity.

He divided his young warriors into regiments, distinguishing each regiment by different colored shields, and established with rewards a competitive spirit among regiments. He trained them to advance and attack in solid formation, something new in

DEBATE IN THE BASUTO PARLIAMENT.

...ded to the sway of England through ...ce indeed, but the fight they made ...s was one to keep alive the hope of ...etter ending for renewed struggle. The secret of the Zulu power lies, South African savage warfare, and he developed the close quarters attack with the short stabbing assegai or spear, so generally used among South African tribes.

Then he established an inviolate law that any soldier returning from battle without assegai or shield, or with a wound in the back, should be executed as a coward. By another law young soldiers were forbidden wives until after long service, unless meantime they earned them by distinguished bravery in the field.

Absolute discipline was inculcated. An expedition never knew its destination and purpose until far from home. In attacking the first onslaught was always in solid formation, supported on either side by wings of skirmishers. Flank movements were a regular manœuvre, and as effective in savage as in civilized warfare.

It can easily be seen how the Zulus, under such a system, swept all before them. The undisciplined savages of the plains and forests went down like grain before the reaper. And every new tribe subjugated was ruthlessly amalgamated into the victorious nation.

The Zulus swept the coast, subjugated Natal and pushed their fierce, bloody sway far inland. The terror of their name passed far north and far south.

Nor was there limit to their ravages until the Dutch settled in Natal. Then began a series of fierce fights in which the white man and the rifle finally triumphed and the Zulu power was broken, or at least reduced to the point of non-interference with the movements of the Dutch and the English, who soon after swarmed over the land.

But while taught to respect the white man, the Zulu nursed his traditions, his pride and his ferocity. It was a disgrace in his eyes to labor except in the prosecution of war. Under Cetewayo, the great chief whose power England broke in a war in which she met several terrible reverses and lost hosts of splendid men, the Zulu was at heart the Zulu of the great Tshaka's days.

And this is the people who now threaten to avail of England's troubles to regain their freedom. They are the same in spirit and are rich in resentment. For years they have nursed their wrongs. What they have lost in savage fierceness by a generation of peaceful subjection is more and grass producing territory in South Africa. The capital of the country is Maseru, with a population of 600, and it is here that the native parliament meets to discuss matters of State. Basutoland is really a British protectorate, but the imperial authorities interfere very little with the liberties and ways of the natives, the only white official being a resident commissioner who levies a very small "hut tax" on the natives in return for which they receive the protection of British troops along their frontier.

Handling Large Military Forces.

Some of the practical difficulties of handling large military forces may be than matched, say recent writers, by their gains in knowledge. They still retain their terrible stabbing assegai, but they have added the rifle, and are splendid marksmen. They dream of restoring the splendors of their past, and if they rise can be counted a terrible foe.

Zululand to-day has a population of about a hundred and eighty thousand natives and less than fifteen hundred whites. The only occupation of the natives is the raising of cattle. There are 8900 square miles in the district and the government is a British protectorate.

ZULU BOYS AT THEIR MIDDAY MEAL—"MEALIE PAP."

The Basutos, while by no means the peers in war of the Zulus, occupy a strong position. Basutoland is bounded by Cape Colony, the Orange Free State and Natal. They have only 600 Europeans in their entire territory.

The country is a splendid grain producer, and the Basutos are thrifty and rich. There are wild mountain districts to serve in time of need.

They were once a warlike power of some consequence, and in 1879 they stood off England in a war over disarmament to a compromise by which the Cape Government has since paid them $90,000 a year toward the cost of government.

They are in large measures self-governing—of course, under British dictation—and enjoy a considerable measure of civilization. About fifty thousand out of a population of two hundred and twenty thousand have been converted to Christianity.

In one of the accompanying large illustrations is shown a meeting of the most extraordinary parliament, perhaps, that ever came together to discuss State affairs. This congregation of ebony skinned politicians is the Kaffir Parliament of Basutoland, which lies to the northeast of Cape Colony, and is consequently intimately associated with the present African muddle. These Basutos number over 200,000, and occupy the finest grain inferred from the following statements in T. Miller Maguire's "Outlines of Military Geography:"

"A British division on the march along an ordinary main road without an advanced guard would be five miles in length. If the modern German army were put in motion the whole military road from the Rhine to the Russian frontier would be thickly crowded with soldiers, guns and transports. If an army corps of 30,000 men and 10,000 horses rests for a day or two preparatory to a battle or during a siege it eats up all provisions procurable in a piece of rich country nine miles long by five miles wide."

An Accidental Consequence of a Kiss.

Webster Snider, of Sullivan, Ind., went to Terre Haute to have a piece of knitting needle removed from his arm where it found lodgment when his sweetheart was playfully resisting his effort to kiss her. Snider says that when bidding the young lady good night he attempted to kiss her. She resisted and there was a scuffle. He kissed her and in doing so ran his arm against the needle, which she held in her hand. It penetrated the arm four or five inches and three inches of it broke off in the arm. The X-ray was used by the surgeon and the piece of the needle was removed.

Bartow Man Writes About What He Saw In Clinton, South Carolina—Some Interesting Comment.

Hard, hard indeed, is the contest for freedom and the struggle for liberty. Here I am at Clinton, barricaded, ambuscaded, enfiladed and any other distressing thing, for there is a wreck seven miles away and they say it will take all day to remove it. And so I can't get home tonight. Oh! the pity of it, for I am tired and homesick. I am not calm and serene. I was at Laurens last night and found good friends, who made the lingering hours pleasant, but all the time I was comforted with the thought that it was my last day away from my numerous wife and children and grand-children. I left the hotel at 5 o'clock this morning and walked at a lively gait down to the depot to take the early train for Clinton, where I was to intercept the Seaboard fot Atlanta and then for home.

But the train for Clinton did not come and nobody knew when it would come. I waited until half-past 7 o'clock—and time was fleeting; went back up-town, hired a livery stable man to drive me over to Clinton by 9:30 o'clock to catch the Seaboard. The road was awful, but the horse was a good one and I knew he could make the ten miles in two hours and I felt happy on the way. We did make it, and as I stepped on the platform I felt proud that I had not waited on that belated train. But, oh! what a fall was there, my countrymen, when the agent told me the Seaboard was in a wreck and could not get here until late in the day and perhaps later.

Well, here I am—no garden to dig in; no children to frolic with and nothing to do but ruminate. Yes, ruminate upon the trials and crosses and disappointments of this sublunary world and I find myself humming that plaintive old song, "Pity the Sorrows of a Poor Old Man." But this preface is the shadow—the dark side of the picture, and now I will brighten up and look at the other side and feel ashamed of myself, for after all, my disappointment is only for a day and it is not as bad as war nor sickness nor death in the family. And, besides, I am at Clinton, the loveliest village of the plain. Yes, Clinton, where I have a host of kind friends who are glad to see me and wouldent be sorry that I am belated here if I was not so sorry for myself. I was here two days ago and had a real ovation, a large audience and a love feast after the lecture. In this little town of 2,500 people I had 400 out to hear and to greet me and many of them were from the country and some came several miles, for the night was lovely and the full moon smiled upon everybody and everything.

The women turned out in force, for they do love to see and hear a man who has been subdued by matrimony and does not claim to be one of the lords of creation—a man who helps his wife to nurse the children and plant the flowers; a man who, in the dead of night, will let his wife rest and sleep while he walks the room in his night gown with a teething child in his arms and sings his little songs until his eyelids droop and his legs get weary and his thoughts say you are a little darling and I wouldn't take a million dollars for you—but I wouldn't give a nickel for another. A fond father has none to sell, but doesn't want to buy, but a true mother gives glad welcome to all who come and is even happy in the prospect.

While in Clinton I was the guest of Mr. Bailey, the banker and mill man, a model gentleman of the old school whose maxims are truth and honesty, whose sons and daughters are like olive plants around his table and have never given him a moment's grief or anxiety. And now that they are all grown up and established in their own business, he has adopted several hundred factory children and is delighted every day to visit them in the cotton mill and place his hand kindly and gently upon their heads as he passes them at the spindle or the loom. He has built for them a church and employed a preacher and established a Sunday school and it has awakened in his bosom a new love for his fellow creatures and he is growing young again. This cotton mill runs 16,000 spindles and 450 looms and has prospered ever since 1897, when it was completed. The stock is at a premium of 30 per cent and its surplus earnings are all invested in enlarging its capacity and increasing its products.

Now think of it. Here is a mill that manufactures only a fine grade of cloth, and consequently only consumes about 3,000 bales of cotton. He has now on hand enough cotton to run until next December, and it was all bought for 7 cents per pound. He has orders ahead at fixed prices for all the goods he can make this year. His goods are already sold at 5¼ cents a yard, and it takes 4¼ yards to weigh a pound. Now counting for a loss in weight of 10 per cent he is getting 25 cents a pound for the cotton that cost him 7 cents. Labor and machinery does the work, and the cost of that depends upon the man and the management. The mill owners can grind that labor down to a starvation price if they choose to, but Mr. Bailey assures me that it is possible and profitable to pay these operatives good living prices and provide good, comfortable cottages and a garden and fuel and all the necessaries and many of the comforts of life, and still leave a good profit for the stockholders.

Now why can't every town in Georgia do likewise? The traveler is hardly ever out of sight of a smokestack over here in Carolina. I am just from the good old town of Laurens, only ten miles away, and they have a mill there with 20,000 spindles and 800 looms. When every county spins and weaves all the cotton it grows then will the south be truly independent.

But the most beautiful feature of Clinton is the orphanage—the Thornwell orphanage—that in 25 years has developed from a little plain building with rooms for 20 orphans into a lovely village of rock-built, solid, handsome houses two stories high and in the best architectural design and where 200 of the fatherless or motherless children reside. No one would ever suspect that this village was an orphanage that was built on faith and charity and for all these years has been maintained in the same way.

I visited and inspected every tenement and was delighted. I tell you that these orphans are not orphans very long after they get here. They are put to work and to school and soon learn to do their share in maintaining the institution. They are put to printing, carpentering, shoemaking, painting, engineering, farming, dairying dressmaking, cooking and everything else that helps to run a household and everything is methodized and goes on like clock work. A happier, brighter looking flock of children I never saw. They dress neatly and keep clean, and their rooms and beds are models of cleanliness. The advanced boys and girls have to graduate in the seminary, and then some of them find a place in the college that is near by. Most of the boys find good places in the shops and manufacturing establishments and printing offices all over the country.

Many of the girls become teachers and dressmakers and they never leave the orphanage until a good place is offered them. Neither boys nor girls are ever bound to anybody. They have an independent manhood and womanhood acquired before they leave the orphanage and they never dishonor or disgrace it. There are children here from every southern state and a few from the north, and there is one little waif from Cuba. He is about ten years old and is as happy now as he was poor and miserable in Cuba. His father and mother actually starved to death there during the long trouble and this boy was found in a ditch sitting by the corpse of his dead sister. A Clinton soldier brought him here and begged a place for him.

I forgot to mention that the advanced scholars did all the wood work in the several homes, and it is beautifully done—stairs, mantels, doors, windows, bedsteads, hatracks and wainscoating is all their work, and is in up-to-date style. Their printing goes all over the country and the girls sell first-class butter in the market. The orphanage runs a farm and has a herd of Jersey cattle and not only supplies their own meat and vegetables, but always has some to sell. There are not less than 225 mouths to feed, and they are well fed, and they show it in face and form and movement.

Isn't this wonderful, and it is all done by a faith and trust equal to Muller's. They tell me here that Dr. Jacobs is in partnership with the Lord and that Mr. Bailey is the Lord's financial agent. Certainly is it that these two work heartily together, and more so since Mr. Bailey's son married Dr. Jacobs' daughter.

Well, Georgia has thirty-seven orphans here and cares for them and I was proud to know that Cartersville not only maintained an asylum, but had a little share in the mite cottage that was built by the offerings of the children. There seems to be no limit to the expansion of this great work. The money comes in just as fast as the number of orphans increase and no faster. "I am the God of the fatherless" is visible and palpable in everything about this wonderful institution. I could write a book about it, but time and space and place forbid, for I am at last on the train and bound for home. It saddens me to know that an engineer and fireman were killed on the engine that wrecked the train a few miles from Clinton.

On this little tour into South Carolina I have visited good old Abbeville and New Greenwood and was made much of at both places. My stay at Abbeville was most delightful, for I was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Speed, where I found five little children who behaved well and had bright, clean faces and sat on my knee and rode on my feet and one wanted to know who pulled my hair out and I told her that Mrs. Arp did it.

At Greenwood I stopped at the fine new Oregon hotel, which is the best I have ever found; and a Georgian keeps it. He put me in the bridal chamber and when I expressed my surprise he said he heard about our golden wedding and expected me to bring my bride along.

But I don't believe the printer will ever read this.—BILL ARP in Atlanta Constitution.

ARGUMENTS CONCLUDED.

Decision in Kentucky Case Not Expected for Several Days.

Argument in the suits to determine the rights of the rival claimants for the governor of Kentucky was concluded Saturday at Louisville before Judge Field, who took the cases under advisement. A decision is not looked for soon. When it is announced an appeal will be taken to the state court of appeals. This, the democrats claim, is the court of last resort. The republicans, however, will try to get the case before the United States supreme court if the decision is against them.

Big Reward for Goebel's Slayer.

The Kentucky democratic senate Saturday passed the bill for the appointment of a commission to hunt down the person or persons who assassinated Governor Goebel, and appropriating $100,000 to carry on the work. The bill had previously passed the house, and now goes to Gov. Beckham for approval.

The Republican senate, sitting in the same hall, took no part in the proceedings.

ENORMOUS EXTENSION.

Tennessee Coal and Iron Company Will Increase Its Capital to $23,000,000.

The stockholders of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company have received a circular stating that two-thirds of the holders of the preferred stock have agreed to accept an exchange on a basis of 180 shares of common for 100 shares of the preferred. The executive committee of the company has declared the plan operative and has increased the capital stock to $23,000,000, all common stock.

According to this circular it is the plan to sell $1,200,000 of the new common stock for cash. The company proposes to acquire three Sheffield furnaces, 370 coke ovens and 72,000 acres of coal lands. The stockholders will vote upon the proposition at the annual meeting to be held on March 18, next.

RISING IS FEARED IN HAVANA.

Correspondent Says All Is Not Serene in Cuba's Capital.

Bearing upon the Washington dispatch telling of some fear that everything is not serene in Havana, the following from a Havana correspondent is of interest:

"I have inside information that there is to be a rising on the island ere long. Lately there has been a great demand for spurs, machetes and hammocks, the three principal impliments of Cuban warfare. Several of the stores have sold out their entire stock of these goods."

Clark Investigation Closed.

Just before the adjournment of the senate committee on elections Friday, both the prosecution and the defense in the investigation of the election of Senator Clark, of Montana, announced that they had concluded the presentation of testimony. The investigation began January 5, and up to date a hundred witnesses have been examined. Their testimony will fill between 2,400 and 2,500 pages. The expense to the government so far has been about $27,000.

Large Sale of Fertilizer Tags.

Commissioner of Agriculture Stevens, of Georgia, says the department has sold on a reasonable estimate one million more fertilizer tags this year than last. "This indicates," says the commissioner, "that the farmers are sowing every available piece of ground they have in cotton." In a few days they will be plowing up the oat fields where the crop appears to be injured and will plant it in cotton.

Amendment to Goebel Election Law.

The Johnson bill amending the Goebel election law in Kentucky by removing the party emblems from the ballots was advanced in the house Saturday and this is construed by democratic leaders to mean that this will be the only amendment to the law at this session.

Philippine Receipts.

The total receipts from the Philippine Islands for the month of February was $426,978, of which amount $357,000 was derived from customs sources.

ABERCROMBIE ISSUES CIRCULAR LETTER.

Superintendent of Education Dead No Deaths in Convict Department. Illicit Stills Destroyed. Other News Items.

Superintendent of Education Abercrombie has issued the following circular letter to the teachers of the state in regard to state institutions and the holding of the quarterly examinations:

"The idea seems to prevail in some counties that the new examination law abolished the county board of education. This is an erroneous notion. The law creating the county board of education was repealed only in so far as it related to the examination and certification of teachers. The county board still exists for the purpose of organizing and maintaining teachers' institutes. (See sections 3583, 3590, 3591, 3592, 3598 of the code of 1896.)

"The law says that every teacher holding a certificate is a member of the institute, and that not less than three meetings shall be held annually, one of which must be in the month of September. A greater number of meetings may be held. It is the duty of teachers to attend every meeting, and they should close school for that purpose if necessary. The time spent in institute should be counted in quarterly reports.

"A failure upon the part the teacher to perform his duty in the matter of attending institutes is cause for the cancellation of his certificate.

"Complaints have reached this department that many teachers fail to attend the institutes regularly—some do not attend at all. If township trustees will refuse to make and county trustees refuse to approve contracts with such teachers, grounds for such complaints will soon cease to exist.

"You will be requested at the end of each scholastic year to report to this department the number of institutes held, and the names of those teachers who have not attended, as required by law, that the regulation concerning the cancellation of certificates may be enforced.

"The state board of examiners has been greatly troubled by teachers giving and receiving assistance on the examination. In a number of instances two or more applicants have submitted answers exactly alike, word for word, sentence for sentence, paragraph for paragraph, mistake for mistake. Excepting in giving definitions, this is impossible in the absence of communication between applicants. Hereafter it will be the policy of the board of examiners to reject, without explanation or investigation, all applicants whose papers show unmistakable evidence of fraud of this nature.

"The object of the law will be avoided unless county superintendents are diligent in the matter of preventing fraud in the examination. The state pays them for this service, and they are expected to perform it faithfully and conscientiously."

No Deaths in February.

The convict department has reported another clear record for the month of February in the death rate. According to the report not a single death occurred in the prisons during the month. Dr. W. H. Blake, the department physician, said this morning that this was a phenomenal record.

Moonshiners Arrested.

Deputy Collector John F. Lanier has reported the seizure and destruction of two illicit stills in Jackson county, near Trenton. No arrests were made, but warrants have been sworn out against Harrison, Kenimore and James McElgin, the alleged owners of the stills.

Direct Vote in Bibb County.

The executive committee of the democratic party for Bibb county has ordered a primary for the nomination of county offices. The committee ordered the names of candidates for United States senator to be placed on the tickets to be voted for in the primary election.

Superintendent of Education Dead.

Charles P. Robertson, superintendent of education of Lawrence county, died a few days ago at Moulton. Mr. Robertson was elected by the republicans in 1898, and his term would have expired next September.

New Buildings in Birmingham.

During the month of February there were issued by Chief Mullin, of the fire department, seventeen building permits, calling for building, repair work and other improvements to the value of $85,540. The largest permit was for the addition to the Louisville & Nashville freight depot placed at $12,000.

Prominent Attorney Falls Dead.

Hon. L. Y. Lipscombe fell to the floor in the circuit court room at Bessemer last week and expired in a few minutes, death resulting from a catarrhal affection, from which he had been a sufferer for several years.

At the time of his death Mr. Lipscombe was engaged in the trial of a case and a moment before he was overcome he had arisen and requested Judge A. A. Coleman, who occupied the bench, to deliver certain charges to the jury. While thus upon his feet he suddenly appeared to grow weak and sat down in his chair. He arose, however, and started as though to leave the court room, but stagged a few steps and then fell to the floor a corpse.

Mr. Lipscombe was elected solicitor for the city of Bessemer in 1898, and in the following year was elected to the legislature. He was again elected to the legislature in 1896. He was a lawyer of marked ability and enjoyed a fine practice. The deceased was 45 years of age, having been born in Sumter county on March 16, 1855.

Extensive Developments Contemplated.

Indications point to extensive developments of the 10,000 acres of land belonging to the Pawnee Land company, situated in Blount county between Oneonta and Swansea. The visit of Mr. Hull, of Savannah, Ga., one of the directors of the Central of Georgia railway, with other directors of that company and directors of the Pawnee Land company, is explained, and if the deductions of experts who have seen the property, and who have made technical investigations, are of an encouraging nature, lavish development of the properties is probable.

Colonel Garrett is Dead.

Colonel Henry A. Garrett, one of Alabama's most distinguished lawyers, died at his home in Dadeville, Sunday. Colonel Garrett was 70 years old at the time of his death. He was well known to the judges of Alabama, and was regarded by them as an authority on many legal questions.

The first marine boiler ever built in Birmingham was shipped to Apalachicola, Florida, Saturday, consigned to Coombs & Co., and will be placed on one of the tugs operating out of that place.

The governor has granted a pardon to Daniel Grant, convicted of murder in the second degree and sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary in Sumter county. Grant has served eleven months of his time.

In the London hospital for consumption the basis of treatment is rest in the open air, graduated exercise, and good feeding. No window in the open-air wards is ever closed, and during the cold weather the consumptive patients are kept warm with extra clothing and artificial heat. It is encouraging to note that practically all the early cases and 70 per cent. of all cases improve considerably under the open-air system.

LADYSMITH IS RELIEVED.

General Buller's Cavalry Under Lord Dundonald Enters the City.

SIEGE ABANDONED BY THE BOERS

General White's Troops Were Living on Mule Meat and Meal When Succor Arrived—Tumultuous Demonstrations in Great Britain Over the News From South Africa—Story of the Siege.

LONDON (By Cable).—Ladysmith has been relieved after a terrible struggle, which lasted four months, at the cost of nearly 7000 men. For 118 days the little town in Natal has been besieged. For three months an army of 40,000 men has been within twenty miles of it. The people in the beleaguered city were facing starvation.

The first news that Ladysmith had been rescued was in a dispatch received by the War Office from General Buller, and it read:

"Lyttleton's Hea dquarters. — General Dundonald, with the Natal Carbineers and a composite reg iment entered Ladysmith Wednesday night. The country between me and Ladysmith is reported clear of the enemy. I am moving on Nelth orpe."

The War Office subsequently received the following message from Gener al Buller:

"NELTHORPE.—I have just returned from Ladysmith. Except a small guard north of Surprise Hill the whole of the enemy lately besieging the town have retired in hot haste, and to the south of the town the country is quite clear of them.

"The garrison were on half a pound of meal per man a day and were supplementing the meat ration by horses and mules. The men will want a little nursing before being fit for the field."

BRITISH REJOICING.

Public Elation Over the Successes in South Africa.

LONDON (By Cable).—The news of the relief of Ladysmith was received with the greatest enthusiasm. The Lord Mayor of London immediately telegraphed his congratulations to Generals White and Buller. When the Queen received the news at Windsor Castle the bells on the Curfew Tower of the castle were rung.

COL. DUNDONALD.

When the news became generally known London literally went mad with joy, and throughout England the scenes witnessed have no parallel in the memories of this generation. The pent up jubilation at the relief of Kimberley and the defeat of Cronje could no longer be controlled, and with this crowning triumph the national trait of self-restraint was thrown to the winds.

All over the United Kingdom the outbursts of enthusiasm were duplicated. At Glasgow, Liverpool, Birmingham, Edinburgh, and, in fact, in all the cities, big and little flags flew everywhere, whistles tooted, bells chimed and crowds paraded the streets, singing patriotic songs. Business was given up for the day, the schools were closed, in the harbors all the vessels dressed ship, and at the military and naval depots scenes of the wildest enthusiasm prevailed.

But the Boers were not beaten. They cut off railroad communication with Ladysmith and began shelling the English positions at Dundee. General Yule, who succeeded General Symons, was forced to abandon the town, leave his wounded and all his stores and make a terrible forced march of three days. The men reached General White's outposts in a frightful condition. A column of 800 Boers sent to cut off Yule's retreat was met by General White's men at Elands Laagte. Only 300 Boers were in action and they were routed.

On October 24 General White made a reconnaissance, resulting in the battle of Rienfontein, when the British lost 12 killed and 104 wounded. A week later the English again tried to crush the Boers and the disaster of Nicholson's Nek resulted, General White losing 61 killed, 211 wounded, and battalions of the Royal Irish Fusiliers, the Gloucestershires and the Tenth Mountain Battery were captured—800 men in all.

The Boers placed heavy guns in position, including the famous "Long Tom," and the long bombardment began.

Sickness laid more of the men low than cannon and rifle. Enteric fever became epidemic. At one time the death rate was ten a day.

General White had foodstuffs and small-arm ammunition to last for three months under ordinary circumstances. The number of Boers about Ladysmith and between there and the Tugela River had varied from 10,000 to 25,000 men, commanded by General Joubert.

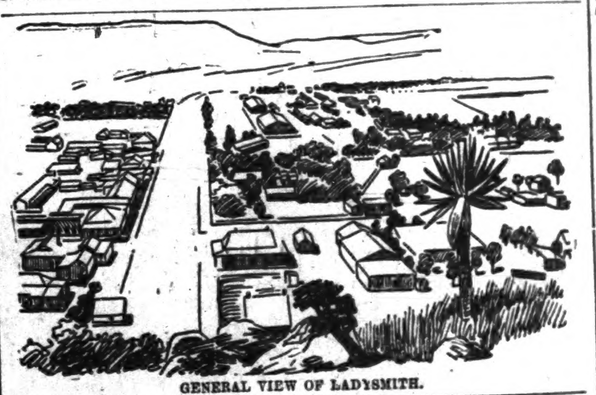
GENERAL SIR GEORGE WHITE.
(Commander of the beleaguered Ladysmith forces.)

After the first bombardment General White asked permission for the civilian population to depart. General Joubert allowed them to establish a camp within four miles. The three days' armistice was devoted to deciding upon the safety camp under Mount Bulwana. The London Times's correspondent thus tells how they set about preparing their defenses:

"Every civilian adult, white and black, capable of wielding pick or shovel had bent his back in honest soil, and the gravel cliffs of the streamlet will remain a lasting testimony to what men can do when moved by a sense of physical danger.

"The majority of delvers were able to secure some mining talent to aid them in their work. Others with longer purses enlisted the services of soldiers, who brought the rudiments of military fortification to bear upon their labors. Others, imbued only with the instinct of self-preservation, burrowed shafts perpendicular to the bank, so that the cliff face bore the appearance of a nesting home of mammoth sand martins.

"But the greatest defense of all was that of the Imperial Light Horse. The majority of these men are Johannesburg miners, and they at once began to undermine their camp with shafts and galleries. Commandeering every colored man that ventured near their camp, they cut ten shafts in the river cliff, and, working day and night for forty-eight hours, constructed an underground gallery capable of holding half the garrison."



GENERAL VIEW OF LADYSMITH.

STORY OF THE SIEGE.

The Gallant Defence of Ladysmith by General White and His Men.

Had it not been for the fact that a great relieving army was within a few miles, it is likely that Ladysmith would have surrendered before relief came.

Of no great strategic importance, it has cost many thousands of lives to rescue those shut up in the town. Public opinion compelled the British Government to make a prodigious effort to save it. Not since the days of the Indian mutiny has an English army been so long beleaguered.

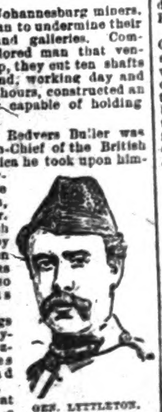
While the conferences engineered by Joseph Chamberlain and Sir Alfred Milner were going on, General Sir George White, V. C., who had been Commander-in-Chief of the British forces in India, was sent to Natal to take command of the British troops that had been poured steadily into South Africa.

Ladysmith was the military headquarters of the colony. When President Kruger sent his ultimatum to the British Government, General White had small garrisons scattered up the neck of Natal as far as Newcastle. These he was obliged to recall, as well as the troops guarding Laing's Nek, the pass through which the railroad enters Natal.

He left 4000 men under General Symons to guard the large stores of military supplies at Dundee and Glencoe. General White wanted to fall back to the Tugela, but he sacrificed military reasons to political ones.

When the Boers made that swift and unexpected descent on Natal the British were amazed. War was declared on October 12. The Boers engaged the English outpost on October 14.

General Symons made an attack on October 20 at Glencoe and the Boers fell back with a loss that the British estimated at 300 killed and wounded. The British loss was thirty-six killed, 191 wounded and 208 prisoners, a squadron of the Eighteenth Hussars falling into a Boer trap, the first of the war. General Symons was mortally wounded.



GEN. LITTLETON.

When General Sir Redvers Buller was made Commander-in-Chief of the British forces in South Africa he took upon himself the task of relieving Ladysmith. He landed in Durban, Natal, in November. He managed to reach the Tugela River by December 15, when his army of 30,000 was defeated at Colenso with tremendous losses.

By this time eggs were selling in Ladysmith for $2.50 a dozen, fifty potatoes brought $15, and whisky $35 a bottle.

General Buller "sat tight" for nearly a month to recover and to be reinforced. He made a general advance on January 10, and then was fighting nearly every day until January 26. While the British took several positions, it was at tremendous cost, and they were found untenable, notably Spion Kop.

There was a lull in the fighting for a few days, General Buller falling back to the Tugela. On February 19 General Buller resumed operations, Lord Roberts's campaign having drawn away many Boers. Since then General Buller has made pretty steady progress, meeting only one check, when the Inniskilling Fusiliers in attempting to rush Pieter's Hill suffered frightfully, losing fourteen of seventeen officers killed and wounded and 250 men.

Ladysmith was saved in the nick of time. Its garrison was almost at its last gasp.

A New Oyster Syndicate.

The movement to form an oyster trust with a capital of about $8,000,000 has taken shape. The corporation is to be known as the Consolidated Oyster Company, with headquarters in New York City. In the four States in the waters of which the new company is to operate options on grounds and property of oystermen valued at $4,000,000 have been bought. The company estimates that it will distribute in the market the bulk of the oysters used, or nearly 4,000,000 bushels every season.

Reconstruction at Martinique.

Disorder and lawlessness continue in the island of Martinique.

Rescued From the Filipinos.

As a result of information brought to Manila by a boatload of Spanish prisoners who escaped from the insurgents, the transport Alava with fifty marines from the cruiser Brooklyn was sent to the Gulf of Bagal on the south coast of Luzon and the troops succeeded in rescuing 300 Spanish prisoners and ten Americans.

More Troops For South Africa.

The British army estimates show an increase of $200,000,000, and Lord Lansdowne announced in the House of Lords that 30,000 more men would be sent to South Africa as soon as arrangements could be made.

...E BLACK PERIL ...OF SOUTH AFRICA.

... and Basutos Menace Both ... Boer and Briton.

...F the Zulus seize the opportunity offered by the Transvaal war to strike for freedom, England would have her hands full. Should the bold Basutos join arms with their fierce cousins, South Africa would become hot soil for the British foot for ...long months to come.

...h of these uprisings are threatened, both are greatly feared. The ...situation in particular is watched ...anxious eye. England for a while ...overmatched in the last Zulu war ...victory was bought in the end with ...s of English blood. Scarcely any ...er misfortune could come just ...than an uprising such as this.

...e Zulu is undoubtedly the best ...e fighter of South Africa. He is ...ically a splendid savage—fierce, ...rful and enduring. Add to this ...mystery of a magnificent past, the ...ions and courage of a race unequaled except by white men, and by ... only at fearful odds, and you ... a worthy foeman. The Zulus first, in organization, and second, in the tradition of victory. Organization under the great chieftain Tshaka at the beginning of the present century gave them their first superiority over other savage tribes, and an unending series of victories for half a century or more produced a race of rare courage and warlike prowess. The story of it describes the Zulu of to-day.

What is now known as Zululand—a wild country, bounded on the north by the Transvaal, on the south and west by Natal and on the east by the sea—was then divided among several savage tribes, of which the Zulus were one of the weakest. The chief of a neighboring tribe, the Umtetwas, plotted the murder of his two sons, one of whom, however, escaped, and in his wanderings fell in with the British, the organization of whose forces he noted with shrewd understanding. After his father's death he returned to his tribe, was made chief, and proceeded to organize his warriors into brigades, regiments and companies, British fashion, and had remarkable success in warfare.

One of his lieutenants was a youth of fierce and restless energy. He was the son of a conquered chieftain and his name was Tshaka. He studied the organization of the Umtetwa army zealously and saw in it wonderful things not accomplished by his wise but mild chieftain. He made up his mind that some day his own chance would come.

Winning consideration, Tshaka was finally, as a reward, appointed chief of the weak tribe of Zulus. He organized them perfectly, and when the chief of the Umtetwas was killed in battle Tshaka announced the independence of the Zulus and upheld it by force.

This done Tshaka started in to make the Zulu power supreme. He attacked his weaker neighbors first, and with every victory absorbed the young warriors into his own army and destroyed the old men, women and children. In this way his own army grew marvelously, and his conquered neighbors lost recuperative power and eventually identity.

He divided his young warriors into regiments, distinguishing each regiment by different colored shields, and established with rewards a competitive spirit among regiments. He trained them to advance and attack in solid formation, something new in

A RICH BASUTO.

DEBATE IN THE BASUTO PARLIAMENT.

...ded to the sway of England through ...n indeed, but the fight they made ... was one to keep alive the hope of ...ter ending for renewed struggle. ...he secret of the Zulu power lies, Then he established an inviolate law that any soldier returning from battle without assegai or shield, or with a wound in the back, should be executed as a coward. By another law young soldiers were forbidden wives until after long service, unless meantime they earned them by distinguished bravery in the field.

Absolute discipline was inculcated. An expedition never knew its destination and purpose until far from home. In attacking the first onslaught was always in solid formation, supported on either side by wings of skirmishers. Flank movements were a regular manœuvre, and as effective in savage as in civilized warfare.

It can easily be seen how the Zulus, under such a system, swept all before them. The undisciplined savages of the plains and forests went down like grain before the reaper. And every new tribe subjugated was ruthlessly amalgamated into the victorious nation.

The Zulus swept the coast, subjugated Natal and pushed their fierce, bloody sway far inland. The terror of their name passed far north and far south.

Nor was there limit to their ravages until the Dutch settled in Natal. Then began a series of fierce fights in which the white man and the rifle finally triumphed and the Zulu power was broken, or at least reduced to the point of non-interference with the movements of the Dutch and the English, who soon after swarmed over the land.

But while taught to respect the white man, the Zulu nursed his traditions, his pride and his ferocity. It was a disgrace in his eyes to labor except in the prosecution of war. Under Cetewayo, the great chief whose power England broke in a war in which she met several terrible reverses and lost hosts of splendid men, the Zulu was at heart the Zulu of the great Tshaka's days.

And this is the people who now threaten to avail of England's troubles to regain their freedom. They are the same in spirit and are rich in resentment. For years they have nursed their wrongs. What they have lost in savage fierceness by a generation of peaceful subjection is more than matched, say recent writers, by their gains in knowledge. They still retain their terrible stabbing assegai, but they have added the rifle, and are splendid marksmen. They dream of restoring the splendors of their past, and if they rise can be counted a terrible foe.

Zululand to-day has a population of about a hundred and eighty thousand natives and less than fifteen hundred whites. The only occupation of the natives is the raising of cattle. There are 8900 square miles in the district and the government is a British protectorate.

ZULU BOYS AT THEIR MIDDAY MEAL—"MEALIE PAP."

The Basutos, while by no means the peers in war of the Zulus, occupy a strong position. Basutoland is bounded by Cape Colony, the Orange Free State and Natal. They have only 600 Europeans in their entire territory.

The country is a splendid grain producer, and the Basutos are thrifty and rich. There are wild mountain districts to serve in time of need.

They were once a warlike power of some consequence, and in 1879 they stood off England in a war over disarmament to a compromise by which the Cape Government has since paid them $90,000 a year toward the cost of government.

They are in large measures self-governing—of course, under British dictation—and enjoy a considerable measure of civilization. About fifty thousand out of a population of two hundred and twenty thousand have been converted to Christianity.

In one of the accompanying large illustrations is shown a meeting of the most extraordinary parliament, perhaps, that ever came together to discuss State affairs. This congregation of ebony skinned politicians is the Kaffir Parliament of Basutoland, which lies to the southeast of Cape Colony, and is consequently intimately associated with the present African muddle. These Basutos number over 200,000, and occupy the finest grain and grass producing territory in South Africa. The capital of the country is Maseru, with a population of 600, and it is here that the native parliament meets to discuss matters of State. Basutoland is really a British protectorate, but the imperial authorities interfere very little with the liberties and ways of the natives, the only white official being a resident commissioner who levies a very small "hut tax" on the natives in return for which they receive the protection of British troops along their frontier.

NATIVE POLICEMEN OF THE PROVINCE OF NATAL, S. A.

Handling Large Military Forces.

Some of the practical difficulties of handling large military forces may be inferred from the following statements in T. Miller Maguire's "Outlines of Military Geography:"

"A British division on the march along an ordinary main road without an advanced guard would be five miles in length. If the modern German army were put in motion the whole military road from the Rhine to the Russian frontier would be thickly crowded with soldiers, guns and transports. If an army corps of 30,000 men and 10,000 horses rests for a day or two preparatory to a battle or during a siege it eats up all provisions procurable in a piece of rich country nine miles long by five miles wide."

An Accidental Consequence of a Kiss.

Webster Snider, of Sullivan, Ind., went to Terre Haute to have a piece of knitting needle removed from his arm where it found lodgment when his sweetheart was playfully resisting his effort to kiss her. Snider says that when bidding the young lady good night he attempted to kiss her. She resisted and there was a scuffle. He kissed her and in doing so ran his arm against the needle, which she held in her hand. It penetrated the arm four or five inches and three inches of it broke off in the arm. The X-ray was used by the surgeon and the piece of the needle was removed.

An Arizona Curiosity.

This enormous cactus grows near Phœnix, and is one of the curiosities of that region. It is about forty feet high, and its great size may be easily noted from a comparison of its height with that of the man standing under it. The cactus fiber is used for roofing of huts in Arizona and other States where it is found.

BILL ARP'S LETTER

Wreck On a Railroad Causes Him To "Lay" Over.

TOOK THE MATTER PHILOSOPHICALLY

Bartow Man Writes About What He Saw In Clinton, South Carolina—Some Interesting Comment.

Hard, hard indeed, is the contest for freedom and the struggle for liberty. Here I am at Clinton, barricaded, ambuscaded, enfiladed and any other distressing thing, for there is a wreck seven miles away and they say it will take all day to remove it. And so I can't get home tonight. Oh! the pity of it, for I am tired and homesick. I am not calm and serene. I was at Laurens last night and found good friends, who made the lingering hours pleasant, but all the time I was comforted with the thought that it was my last day away from my numerous wife and children and grand-children. I left the hotel at 5 o'clock this morning and walked at a lively gait down to the depot to take the early train for Clinton, where I was to intercept the Seaboard for Atlanta and then for home.

But the train for Clinton did not come and nobody knew when it would come. I waited until half-past 7 o'clock—and time was fleeting; went back up-town, hired a livery stable man to drive me over to Clinton by 9:30 o'clock to catch the Seaboard. The road was awful, but the horse was a good one and I knew he could make the ten miles in two hours and I felt happy on the way. We did make it, and as I stepped on the platform I felt proud that I had not waited on that belated train. But, oh! what a fall was there, my countrymen, when the agent told me the Seaboard was in a wreck and could not get here until late in the day and perhaps later.

Well, here I am—no garden to dig in; no children to frolic with and nothing to do but ruminate. Yes, ruminate upon the trials and crosses and disappointments of this sublunary world and I find myself humming that plaintive old song, "Pity the Sorrows of a Poor Old Man." But this preface is the shadow—the dark side of the picture, and now I will brighten up and look at the other side and feel ashamed of myself, for after all, my disappointment is only for a day and it is not as bad as war nor sickness nor death in the family. And, besides, I am at Clinton, the loveliest village of the plain. Yes, Clinton, where I have a host of kind friends who are glad to see me and wouldent be sorry that I am belated here if I was not so sorry for myself. I was here two days ago and had a real ovation, a large audience and a love feast after the lecture. In this little town of 2,500 people I had 400 out to hear and to greet me and many of them were from the country and some came several miles, for the night was lovely and the full moon smiled upon everybody and everything.

The women turned out in force, for they do love to see and hear a man who has been subdued by matrimony and does not claim to be one of the lords of creation—a man who helps his wife to nurse the children and plant the flowers; a man who, in the dead of night, will let his wife rest and sleep while he walks the room in his night gown with a teething child in his arms and sings his little songs until his eyelids droop and his legs get weary and his thoughts say you are a little darling and I wouldn't take a million dollars for you—but I wouldn't give a nickel for another. A fond father has none to sell, but doesn't want to buy, but a true mother gives glad welcome to all who come and is even happy in the prospect.

While in Clinton I was the guest of Mr. Bailey, the banker and mill man, a model gentleman of the old school whose maxims are truth and honesty, whose sons and daughters are like olive plants around his table and have never given him a moment's grief or anxiety. And now that they are all grown up and established in their own business, he has adopted several hundred factory children and is delighted every day to visit them in the cotton mill and place his hand kindly and gently upon their heads as he passes them at the spindle or the loom. He has built for them a church and employed a preacher and established a Sunday school and it has awakened in his bosom a new love for his fellow creatures and he is growing young again. This cotton mill runs 16,000 spindles and 450 looms and has prospered ever since 1897, when it was completed. The stock is at a premium of 30 per cent and its surplus earnings are all invested in enlarging its capacity and increasing its products.

Now think of it. Here is a mill that manufactures only a fine grade of cloth, and consequently only consumes about 3,000 bales of cotton. He has now on hand enough cotton to run until next December, and it was all bought for 7 cents per pound. He has orders ahead at fixed prices for all the goods he can make this year. His goods are already sold at 5½ cents a yard, and it takes 4¼ yards to weigh a pound. Now counting for a loss in weight of 10 per cent he is getting 25 cents a pound for the cotton that cost him 7 cents. Labor and machinery does the work, and the cost of that depends upon the man and the management. The mill owners can grind that labor down to a starvation price if they choose to, but Mr. Bailey assures me that it is possible and possible to pay these operatives good living prices and provide good, comfortable cottages and a garden and fuel and all the necessaries and many of the comforts of life, and still leave a good profit for the stockholders.

Now why can't every town in Georgia do likewise? The traveler is hardly ever out of sight of a smokestack over here in Carolina. I am just from the good old town of Laurens, only ten miles away, and they have a mill there with 30,000 spindles and 800 looms. When every county spins and weaves all the cotton it grows then will the south be truly independent.

But the most beautiful feature of Clinton is the orphanage—the Thornwell orphanage—that in 25 years has developed from a little plain building with rooms for 20 orphans into a lovely village of rock-built, solid, handsome houses two stories high and in the best architectural design and where 200 of the fatherless or motherless children reside. No one would ever suspect that this village was an orphanage that was built on faith and charity and for all these years has been maintained in the same way.

I visited and inspected every tenement and was delighted. I tell you that these orphans are not orphans very long after they get here. They are put to work and to school and soon learn to do their share in maintaining the institution. They are put to printing, carpentering, shoemaking, painting, engineering, farming, dairying dressmaking, cooking and everything else that helps to run a household and everything is methodized and goes on like clock work. A happier, brighter looking flock of children I never saw. They dress neatly and keep clean, and their rooms and beds are models of cleanliness. The advanced boys and girls have to graduate in the seminary, and then some of them find a place in the college that is near by. Most of the boys find good places in the shops and manufacturing establishments and printing offices all over the country.

Many of the girls become teachers and dressmakers and they never leave the orphanage until a good place is offered them. Neither boys nor girls are ever bound to anybody. They have an independent manhood and womanhood acquired before they leave the orphanage and they never dishonor or disgrace it. There are children here from every southern state and a few from the north, and there is one little waif from Cuba. He is about ten years old and is as happy now as he was poor and miserable in Cuba. His father and mother actually starved to death there during the long trouble and this boy was found in a ditch sitting by the corpse of his dead sister. A Clinton soldier brought him here and begged a place for him.

I forgot to mention that the advanced scholars did all the wood work in the several homes, and it is beautifully done—stairs, mantels, doors, windows, bedsteads, hatracks and wainscoating is all their work, and is in up-to-date style. Their printing goes all over the country and the girls sell first-class butter in the market. The orphanage runs a farm and has a herd of Jersey cattle and not only supplies their own meat and vegetables, but always has some to sell. There are not less than 225 mouths to feed, and they are well fed, and they show it in face and form and movement.

Isn't this wonderful, and it is all done by a faith and trust equal to Muller's. They tell me here that Dr. Jacobs is in partnership with the Lord and that Mr. Bailey is the Lord's financial agent. Certainly is it that these two work heartily together, and more so since Mr. Bailey's son married Dr. Jacobs' daughter.

Well, Georgia has thirty-seven orphans here and cares for them and I was proud to know that Cartersville not only maintained an asylum, but had a little share in the mite cottage that was built by the offerings of the children. There seems to be no limit to the expansion of this great work. The money comes in just as fast as the number of orphans increase and no faster. "I am the God of the fatherless" is visible and palpable in everything about this wonderful institution. I could write a book about it, but time and space and place forbid, for I am at last on the train and bound for home. It saddens me to know that an engineer and fireman were killed on the engine that wrecked the train a few miles from Clinton.

On this little tour into South Carolina I have visited good old Abbeville and New Greenwood and was made much of at both places. My stay at Abbeville was most delightful, for I was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Speed, where I found five little children who behaved well and had bright, clean faces and sat on my knee and rode on my foot and one wanted to know who pulled my hair out and I told her that Mrs. Arp did it.

At Greenwood I stopped at the fine new Oregon hotel, which is the best I have ever found; and a Georgian keeps it. He put me in the bridal chamber and when I expressed my surprise he said he heard about our golden wedding and expected me to bring my bride along.

But I don't believe the printer will ever read this.—BILL ARP in Atlanta Constitution.

THE candidates have taken the field.

J. W. SORRELL.

For many years Mr. J. W. Sorrell has been a highly respected and valued citizen of beat one, and while he is not desirous of pushing himself forward, his friends have insisted that he should become a candidate for Commissioner from the First District. All who are acquainted with him know his many good qualities and his ability to meet the requirements of the people in the capacity of commissioner. He has for some time past been a member of the Populist executive committee and has always been a strong member of the Populist party. If elected he will make a good, honest and capable commissioner.

JOHN A STROCK.

The man who is to represent an entire county in the General Assembly needs to be a well-informed man, and a man of good sound judgment and business ability. He should be a ready thinker and a man of decision. Mr. John A. Strock, of beat five, is well known to a large number of people throughout the county, having spent his whole life here. He is a prosperous farmer, a member of the Baptist church, and has always identified himself with the Populist party since the commencement. He has never sought office before, but believing that he can faithfully represent the people in the General Assembly he now asks their support, promising if elected, to strive his utmost for the best interests of the whole county.

WM. P. WHITE.

This gentleman is announced as a candidate for the respousible position of sheriff—an office that needs a man of good physique, moral character, firm judgment and sound discretion. In all of these respects Mr. White eminently fills the bill. He was born and raised in the county, and all his life has been spent within six miles of his present residence at Lily, where his friends and neighbors all speak highly of him. Ever since he became of age he has been a consistent Democrat, and has given twenty-one years service to that cause, but has never previous to this time asked for any recognition of his services. If elected, Mr. White will undoubtedly make a good sheriff, and as he says in his announcement no one will ever have cause to regret casting his ballot for him.

R. O. HEADLEY.

Mr. R. O. Headley is a Chilton boy, born and bred in beat six; a studious boy of great application he has given himself a good sound education and for eight years he has devoted himself to teaching, and has given thorough satisfaction to his patrons. He believes, and the belief is shared by his many friends, that he would make a good tax collector for Chilton county; his honesty and integrity render him well qualified for the position, and his education would enable him to keep his accounts perfectly straight. Mr. Headley is a young man who has always acted with the Democratic party, and thinks he is entitled to their support. If elected, he will bring a clear mind to bear upon the duties of his office.

JOHN W. COX.

A thorough out-and-out Populist is Mr. John W. Cox, of beat five; not an extremist but one who has an abiding faith in the principles of Populism. He is a man who has fought in the ranks ever since the first start of the People's Party, and has been a delegate to every State convention held by the party, and that is the only office of any kind he has ever held. Mr. Cox is a right good speaker, and a well informed man who can say what he thinks. He is opposed to a constitutional convention, and is in favor of the whole people having all the rights and privileges to which they are entitled. He is a member of the Masonic fraternity. If elected Mr. Cox will make a popular representative of the people.

J. W. MIDDLEBROOKS.

The wise men of old came from the east, and there is no reason now why the wise men should not come from that direction. We do not suppose that this thought had occured to Mr. Middlebrooks, but it is rather singular that very few of our county officers have come from the eastern part of the county. In offering his services as Commissioner from the First District, Mr. Middlebrooks' friends claim that thirty years spent in Chilton is a recommendation to the people, and when the greater part of that time has been devoted to a careful watching of the public service and noting what can and should be done then he is undoubtedly well qualified for the position. He is a member of the Baptist church, and has been a deacon for several years. He was a prominent member of the Farmers' Alliance, and has been identified with the Populist party since the commencement. He has never sought office before, and if elected will serve the people well and faithfully.

Clanton, March 3, 1900

Editor BANNER—I call upon you in this extraordinary way to introduce to the voters of the remote parts of Chilton county, Mr. J. W. Littlejohn, who is now before you—subject to the People's Party primary—a candidate for the office of Tax Collector of Chilton county.

Mr. Littlejohn is not an office seeker, therefore he is not so universally known, but he is a quiet, upright, peace-loving cool headed and christian gentleman, and as well qualified to perform the functions of that office as any one in the race. Put him through, boys, you will never regret it.

Mr. Littlejohn is one of the earliest Populists and even in the most gloomy times and places he stood coolly and firmly, yet bravely to the cause and never did he ask for an office or intimate such thing until some of his many friends insisted on it, and the writer had much rather support a man of this description for office than one who canvasses the county by rows from campaign to campaign, approaching the people with vain promises and artificial smiles.

Editor BANNER—The political fires have been kindled, therefore the political pot begins simmering, and judging from the number of candidates and the interest manifested by them, she will soon be in a very highly heated condition, seething, boiling and bubbles breaking and bursting to the hurt of good men and an injury to the party.

Through the columns of your paper which is so closely read by the citizens of Chilton county, I beg leave to say a few words to our Populist friends, regarding our past and future record as a political party. We have done much good in Chilton county and there remains much unfinished work for us yet to do. We have been, and must continue to be, actuated in all things from a sense of duty and justice to all men. When we fail to do this we fall short of the noble principles upon which our party is founded. The eyes of the critic and designing parties are upon us. Let's look well to our record; let's give no party reason to doubt our justice one towards another, and let the best of good will prevail among us, "for if a house be divided against itself it cannot stand." I fear the candidates are going to so far outnumber the offices, that some who are defeated will feel that they have been unfairly dealt with. But I sincerely trust that this will not be. We, as intelligent citizens, should think carefully and then act according to our best judgment. The party must be a consistent party.

Many citizens are undecided whether they will vote for Prof. Moore or Strock for Supt. of Education. All will admit that both are good men without a blemish or stain on their characters, and well qualified for the office, yet can the Populists as a party, lose sight of the relationship existing between the party and candidate who has faithfully performed the duties of his office and asks for re-election. Two years ago with but a modest solicitation, the Populist party intrusted the office of county superintendent of education to one of her most moral, religious, talented and energetic young men, Judson Strock. He assumed the duties and responsibilities of this office, devoting much time and study to the interest of education. Honesty of purpose ever being his, he has discharged the duties of this office to the satisfaction of all interested. There has been much improvement in our public schools under his wise supervision. Our school system has undergone a great change during his term of office, and he has

CORRESPONDENCE.

Cane Creek, March 5, 1900

Editor BANNER—I would love to say a few words in this week's issue to the voters of the county.

Gentlemen, I would like to make a thorough canvass, but it is impossible owing to bad weather. I want every voter to know I would like to see him if I could, but I cannot. So come out and vote for the man of your choice and then stand by the nominee.

There is a misunderstanding by some means. I hear that some have thought from the reading of the letter written by me that was republished last week that I had come down. I call their attention to the fact that it is a mistake. Please notice and see if that was not written in 1896. I want the people to understand I am on hand yet, and you all will find my name on the ticket on the 15th inst. I hope everything will go on quiet and all be satisfied with the results of the primary.

Respectfully,
MOSES A. KILLGORE.

Enid, March 3, 1900

Editor BANNER—I see that announcements have been made in your paper for some of the officers of the county, but as yet I have not seen any for representative. He is the best man we need next to our commissioners and I would like to see his name out as soon as possible, so we can see who he is and what platform he is on. For my part I would like for us to get a man that would be willing to do something to improve our public roads. Why not give us a road tax law that will give us justice and uniformity of work. Last year I observed the way our roads were worked and the amount of work done by the hands on the different roads. For example, I will give you two that I noticed in particular, one, the Island and Verbena and the Calloway short line. On the island the hands worked ten days and the road was in bad fix then, while on the other they worked two and a half days. That goes to prove that there is no justice in the present system, and under the present law as it now stands we will always have bad roads and an unequal division of the time that the different hands have to work and those that are subject to road duty. Let us have a road tax law and work the roads by taxation, that will put everybody on an equal footing with each other. You can take the states that have the tax system established and you will find everybody satisfied with the system; there is no shirking out of the duty and a few men have to work the roads but everybody and all are well pleased with the good roads that they are sure to have and nobody is excused from the duty like they are in counties like ours which have the ten day law. Another thing is our board of examiners let off some men who ought to work the roads. Not long ago a man in our neighborhood went to Clanton and got a certificate of disability, and I know positively that he can cut as many cross ties and split as many rails as anybody, go to a log rolling and hardly a man can pull him down. Still he is exempt from road duty and I don't blame him if he can get out of it alright.

But I say again our board is too slack in regard to examining an applicant for exemption. That was the excuse they had for changing the school law and it is a success. Why not change the road law too? I note one thing, where it has ever been established it has never been repealed. I say again, let us have the road worked by taxation. Let us go down to the polls and cast our vote for the law, then send the right man to the legislature and we will have the law passed. Let us hear from the road working part of Chilton county and see what they have to say in regard to working the road by tax.

Yours truly,
L. A. CALLOWAY.

ASK YOUR DOCTOR!

Ask your physician this question, "What is the one great remedy for consumption?" He will answer, "Cod-liver oil." Nine out of ten will answer the same way.

Yet when persons have consumption they loathe all fatty foods, yet fat is necessary for their recovery and they cannot take plain cod-liver oil. The plain oil disturbs the stomach and takes away the appetite. The disagreeable fishy odor and taste make it almost unendurable. What is to be done?

This question was answered when we first made of Cod-Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. Although that was nearly twenty-five years ago, yet it stands alone today the one great remedy for all affections of the throat and lungs.

The bad taste and odor have been taken away, the oil itself has been partly digested, and the most sensitive stomach objects to it rarely. Not one in ten can take and digest the plain oil. Nine out of ten can take SCOTT'S EMULSION and digest it. That's why it cures so many cases of early consumption. Even in advanced cases it brings comfort and greatly prolongs life.

Editor Banner. Please allow me space to say to the people, that they need not expect me to canvass the county again for the position I have asked for. I am well acquainted all over the county in person and by my work and I don't think it necessary to make a canvass. If there are places that my friends would like for me to visit and will let me know, I will be glad to do so. I want the people to go out and vote for the man of their choice and if I should be their choice I will thank them for their kindness and do all in my power to act in a manner that they shall never regret their action. Thanking them for past favors I am

To the Thinking Voters:

We have before us several candidates for the office of Tax Assessor, and all good men, of course. The quality of goodness is a precious gem and should be firmly embedded in the hearts of all officers, but that is not the only thing we voters should consider, especially in voting for as important an officer as Tax Assessor. An assessor of taxes should be educationally qualified as well as moral and good, and I don't know of anyone in the race who combines all of these qualifications in a higher degree than Mr. F. M. Foshee. He has had some experience in school teaching in both public and private schools; he is a strict member and one of the officials of the Baptist church, a good citizen, born in this county and reared by good and honest parents with whom he now resides and protects in their old age. I have known him ever since he was a mere lad, his career is stainless, and besides he is a true Pop., and if he should be beaten in the primary he will, I'll warrant, step out like a man and support the nominee, but we hope he will not be beaten. The county needs him, and he needs the office. He is an aspiring young man and we think it the duty of every citizen to help him to reach the sumit of his aspirations.

CORRESPONDENCE

Clanton, March 7, 1900

To the Voters of Chilton county:

I am now finishing up my fourth years' service with you as tax assessor of Chilton county. I have served you in the office to the best of my ability and I am before you to ask you for the office a second term, which has been customary in the county heretofore, and the present duties of my office makes it impossible for me to go to see you all. I wish to again express my high appreciation of your support in the past and your kindness to me as a people generally while discharging the duties of the office the present term. I am aware that a public office is a public trust, and is a gift of the people and as such I have tried to serve you, feeling myself your servant in that capasity.

And while I would be glad to go around and see you all I do not think it necessary for me to canvass the county as you all know me. I just wish to say here that past favors will never be forgotton and if you should give me the office a second term I promise, as in the past, to serve you to the very best of my ability, feeling that I am better qualified because I am now familiar with the duties of the office and the different localities of land and the owners.

I wish to say in conclusion that while the office is a very difficult one to fill, if I have made any mistakes upon my past that has cost any person time or money I am personally responsible and stand ready to make it good; and now again thanking you for past favors and asking your support for a second term if consistent with you

I am yours very respectfully,

A. C. MEMS,

Our school exhibits, both white and colored, have been remarkably good; Miss Jenney Wilson's pupils reflected great credit on their training by their splendid performances. Prof. Neely, (col.) gave invitation to all to attend his closing performances which was hughly enjoyed by many white friends, particularly the rendition of the "Nigger, 40 Acres and the Mule." A good imitation was brought in with plenty of help and though he was belabored with sticks and tail twisted most unmercifully he was "no go".

The Imperial Gas Lamp

Covered by U. S. Patents.

Admittedly the BEST light on the market and the most ECONOMICAL.

The Imperial burns common stove gasoline and gives a 100 candle power light at a cost of one cent per day.

One Gallon will burn 60 hours.

The needle keeps the burner clean, so it will not clog, and the generating tube being in center of flame, insures a light that will not go out. There is no odor, no smoke and no flicker. The light can be raised or turned down just as with a gas jet or lamp. THE IMPERIAL is the most perfect light on the market and everything pertaining to it is the best to be had. IT WILL PAY TO INVESTIGATE.

FARM AND GARDEN.

Asparagus Culture.

Asparagus is one of those garden vegetables which are always of interest, both to the private grower and the market gardener. A brief statement of the principal points in its culture is appropriate at this season when many are planning for new plantings the coming spring. Not many years since the preparation of a piece of ground for raising asparagus, what with extra deep spading or trenching and filling the ground with a great amount of manure and bones, was considered a formidable undertaking, and consequently but small beds of the plant were cultivated; and the produce was considered as a luxury rather than a staple culinary vegetable. The more rational and simple treatment that has since prevailed has caused the cultivation of this healthful vegetable to be greatly extended. Notwithstanding, but few private gardens of suburban residents, and innumerably fewer of farm or country dwellers, produce the crop, and the large markets demand a greater supply than they receive.

The different varieties in cultivation under different names are all of the same species, the difference in character being the result of peculiar soils and culture, and breeding and selection. With good culture one may be sure of good results with any of them. —Vick's Magazine.

First Food for Chicks.

Soon the downy little chicks will begin to break the shells, and it is well to know the best and at the same time the cheapest, first food for them. Don't presume that the chicks are starving when first they see the light of day. On the contrary, they do not need food for at least thirty-six hours.

Nature has provided for them in this respect, and it is better to let them remain under the hen just as hatched for fully one night and day, after which they may, with the hen, be removed to a warm, dry coop. By all means do not foolishly set the coop on the cold, bare ground. If the coop must be placed out doors, let it have a good solid bottom, on which is spread an inch or two of soft straw or chaff. Chickens, after the first ten days, will withstand considerable cold, but during their earlier life the greatest care in this regard must be given.

When thirty-six hours old, rolled oats or pin-head oats, slightly moistened with sweet milk, should be given, and from the very first do not fail to furnish fine grit. When first hatched the chicks have no way of masticating their food, hence the necessity of providing it. Equal parts of corn meal and shorts, moistened with sweet milk, and baked hard in the oven, may be given after the first few days, then gradually teach them to eat a variety of foods, just as given to the older fowl.—Home and Farm.

A Dairy Cow's Important Points.

The first consideration is that the dairy cow is a machine for the conversion of food into milk. In this respect she is the exact opposite of the beef breed and should show angularity, giving evidence that the food which one converts into flesh, the other sends into the udder.

She should be large-barreled, with a great stomach capacity, in order that she may have room in her digestive organs to work up heavy feed, as with the true type the heavier the feed the larger the result at the milk pail. The next point is the shape and the general character of the udder. It should be deep and broad without hanging especially low, and the four teats should be well placed, of good size and pointing directly down. The next point is in the milk veins and milk wells. The milk veins may be either one or more in number, but they should be large, prominent and the more they are crooked the better.

Necessarily the thighs are important, as their conformation determines the capacity for carrying the udder. They should be thin, as far away from the beef type as possible, and they should be especially light on the inside or twist. This conformation gives abundant room for udder development. The escutcheon test is not necessarily a true indication, but it is desirable and should be noted. The length of the tail cuts no important figure, and the man buying a dairy cow by such a test would meet with no success. Among the minor tests, a rich, yellow skin with a thin hide is usually an indication of a good quality of milk, but this is not an infallible sign. It should be noted, however, and the best way to make this test is to examine the inside of the ear and also the color of the skin on the udder.—W. F. Kennedy, in American Agriculturist.

The Farm With Many Labors.

The farm that is safest as a support is the farm with many labors. The farm where one kind of produce is raised is indeed a farm easy to manage, but it is a lottery, and there are few farmers with a big enough bank account to permit them to take part in such a lottery. The farmer that grows many crops does not have to compress all his labor into a few short months. The many labors are of such a varied character that he is enabled to divide them into all the months of the year. He can thus utilize all of his own time, and this is a great saving in a long run. The percentage of hired labor to all labor on a diversified farm is very much less than the proportion of hired labor to all labor on a farm that makes a specialty of certain crops. This margin is frequently where the profit comes in.

The man that raises one kind of crop can indeed have long rest periods, but such rest periods are expensive. Some farmers say they like to raise all wheat, for it is a crop of little labor requirements. The man that raises wheat and rests all the time not required for the care of his crop is on a good way to lose his farm. What a legitimate business is there in the so-called commercial world that could stand so much idleness?

The man that follows diversified farming and sticks to it reaps the rewards of his labors oftener than any other farmer. He has a part of his farm devoted to each general branch of farming, and so is always getting the best of some one market. He does not try to chase the "booms" around; he heads them off. The farm with many labors is the abode of happiness and contentment, for there is little idleness to breed discontent. It is the diversified farm that was the foundation of American agriculture, and is its hope for the future.—Farm, Field and Fireside.

Breeding Pigeons.

Breeding and rearing pigeons are not difficult, though many fail. If it always the fault of the breeder, if their is failure, for the conditions of success are not many and not complex. In our investigation of the cause of failure in pigeon rearing, want of cleanliness has been the basis of the trouble in the vast majority of cases. In one instance the breeder declared that his pigeon loft was as clean as regular cleaning could make it, and he thought it was. Upon visiting it, we found that he permitted water to set in vessels in which the pigeons could get their feet. If this way they tracked filth over the floor, which, though comparatively clean, was too dirty to insure perfect health. Some system of watering must be adopted, which, while giving the birds free access to the water—and they drink very often—will prevent them from getting their feet into it. Unless the loft is kept free from droppings the birds will sicken. We have seen lofts that had not been cleaned for a year, and the odor was sufficient to taint the air even outside the house. But outside the injury that is done by the foulness of the air, there is danger of the filth getting on the feet and between the toes causing cranks and sores. Keep the floor clean and well sanded, and always be sure that water is not only plenty but fresh.

Nothing but pure, sweet food should be given, and never feed more than the birds will eat at once. If any does remain, remove it. Never give sloppy food. Meal may be moistened or scalded. Stale bread that has been moistened with fresh milk makes an excellent food, especially for those breeds that have short or soft bills. Wheat, rye, oats, barley, buckwheat and whole corn are suitable feed, but the last should be fed sparingly, and the small-grained varieties should be selected. Small white peas, turnip seed and millet are also good feed for pigeons. Keep finely broken oyster shells, if possible, before them all the time. They are particularly fond of lettuce, and it should be provided for them whenever it is possible. Strew sulphur in the nests occasionally, it being useful in exterminating vermin. If the nest are made of tobacco stems, vermin will not trouble them.—Richard Preston, in The Epitomist.

Economizing in the Wood Lot.

The unscientific handling of the wood lot has been the fruitful cause of much of our wood supply being cut short. There seems to be a notion abroad that the ultimate deforestation of all our farms is a certainty, and, more than that, a necessary consequence of cutting off the wood for use. Some of the writers on this subject express great concern for the future and talk about the "woodless era" that is imminent. There is, however, one great factor that is frequently forgotten or intentionally ignored, and that is that every year sees billions of cubic feet of wood added to our forest growths, and under a proper system of handling this annual increase of wood will supply all the needs of man, provided it is not uselessly wasted.

The annual growth of wood in the United States more than equals the annual consumption for all the demands of commerce, but the forest fires are far more exhaustive than the axe of the woodman. The above points the moral on the wood lot: prevent fires and cut away systematically, and there will be no need of buying other fuel than wood for generations, perhaps never.

Careful estimates show that most of our forest trees attain their average size in about fifty years, though of course there are some soft wood trees that reach maturity much sooner. These are not, however, of much value for fuel, as they burn out too quickly and make only weak embers. The hard woods like maple and beech are the standards in this matter. A wood lot composed of such trees must be treated in such a way that the mature trees will be the ones cut away, and the immature left to grow. It must be remembered than when a tree approaches maturity its annual increase is very small, and there is therefore no reason why it should be left longer when needed for fuel.

A young growing tree should never be cut down if it is properly placed for development, that is, not one of a great mass growing close together. Young trees planted too closely tend to produce branches and limbs but little trunks, and do not make wood rapidly. The underbrush must be kept out away and new trees not allowed to start where they will check the growth of the trees that are intended for use. It should not be forgotten that 100 cubic feet of wood is more available if in one tree than it is in a number of trees.

The English Channel is nearly as large as Lake Superior.

FILIPINOS NOT CONQUERED.

Pretended Supporters of American Treasure to This Country.

A Manila special says: Reports reach the Associated Press from various sources, including army officers and the heads of commercial houses with agents throughout the islands, of continued activity among the insurgents, who are endeavoring to keep alive the armed opposition to the sovereignty of the United States and are planning to continue the insurrection with guerilla warfare on a larger scale when the rainy season begins.

A person holding a position second only to that of the governor general, says he is convinced that the insurgent organization has been remarkably rehabilitated during the past month, particularly in the northern portion. He says they have a secret organization patterned after Katipunan, methods in the strongest garrisoned towns, affording perfect means of communication, and that the machinery is managed from Manila, some of the leaders being Filippinos pretending to be supporters of the American administration, and many of the municipal governments installed by the army forming part of the machinery.

A fresh issue of insurgent pamphlets is being circulated, asserting that the American promises of good government are merely a mask for commercial exploitation of the Philippines' quoting Senator Beveridge's speech and an editorial from a Washington newspaper headed, "Let Us Be Honest."

CLASH WITH REBELS.

Twenty-four Filipinos Were Killed and Thirty Wounded.

A cable dispatch from Manila says: Colonel Anderson, with the Thirty-eighth Infantry, employing the insurgent's own tactics, has ambushed the enemy near Batangas.

Through spies Colonel Anderson learned that a detachment of insurgents would pass a certain road. He posted his soldiers concealed among the trees lining the road, and when the enemy arrived the Americans opened fire unexpectedly, killing twenty-four insurgents, wounding thirty and capturing several. Some arms and ammunition were also captured.

The effect of this blow has been salutary. The enemy in that locality are dismayed.

STARVING NATIVES

Of Porto Rico Will Be Aided by the Emergency War Fund.

A special from Washington says:

"To relieve the great distress in Porto Rico caused by the hurricane, Secretary Root, by direction of the president, has authorized the use of $1,225,000 remaining over from the emergency war fund. This authorization was made about ten days ago as the result of a special report from Major-General Davis, showing the starving condition of natives."

To Test Election Laws.

An important conference of representative Afro-Americans was held in Washington Saturday, at which the testing of the suffrage law legislation of the southern states, especially Louisiana, was thoroughly discussed.

The conference endorsed the action of the National Afro-American council in determining to bring to a final test the constitutionality of the suffrage clause of the Louisiana constitution, and a sufficient amount of money was raised to insure the institution of a proper case in Louisiana, and to see that it reaches the United States supreme court for final adjudication if necessary.

Contest Case Comes Up.

In the house of representatives Saturday the desk of Representative Epes, who died Friday, was hung with crepe and covered with a profusion of flowers, lillies, roses and carnations. The chaplain, in his invocation, made feeling reference to the death of Mr. Epes, who died after an operation for appendicitis.

It had been intended to proceed with the Aldrich-Robbins contested election case, but unanimous consent was given to vacate the order heretofore made and postpone the final vote until next Tuesday, the debate continuing Monday and Tuesday.

Terry Defeated for Re-Election.

A special from Little Rock, Ark., says: Congressman W. L. Terry has been defeated for re-election by Hon. Charles C. Reid of Morrilton. The primaries held in Yell county settled the matter beyond further doubt. Telegrams received in Little Rock from Dardanell, Danville, Ola and several other Yell county points indicate that Reid carried the day by fully 600 majority.

REV. DR. TALMAGE.

DISCOURSE BY THE EMINENT DIVINE LAST SUNDAY.

Subject: A Religion of Ghosts—Spiritualism Denounced as Necromancy and Delusion—Its Disciples Are Deceived—It Causes Insanity Among Its Victims.

(Copyright 1900.)

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In this discourse Dr. Talmage discusses a theme never more under exploration than at this time and warns people against what he calls a religion of ghosts; text, I Samuel xxviii., 7: "Behold, there is a woman that hath a familiar spirit at En-dor. And Saul disguised himself and put on other raiment, and he went, and two men with him, and they came to the woman by night."

Trouble to the right of him and trouble to the left of him, Saul knew not what to do. As a last resort he concluded to seek out a spiritual medium or a witch or anything that you please to call her—a woman who had communication with the spirits of the eternal world. It was a very difficult thing to do, for Saul had either slain all the witches or compelled them to stop business. A servant one day said to King Saul, "I know of a spiritual medium down at the village of En-dor." "Do you," said the king. Night falls. Saul, putting off his kingly robes and putting on the dress of a plain citizen, with two servants, goes out to hunt up this medium.

Saul and his servants after awhile reached the village, and they say, "I wonder if this is the house," and they look in, and they see the haggard, weird and shriveled up spiritual medium sitting by the light and on the table sculptured images and divining rods and poisonous herbs and bottles and vases. They say, "Yes, this must be the place." One loud rap brings the woman to the door, and as she stands there, holding the candle or lamp above her head and peering out into the darkness, she says, "Who is here?" The tall king informs her that he has come to have his fortune told. When she hears that, she trembles and almost drops the light, for she knows there is no chance for a fortune teller or spiritual medium in all the land. But Saul having sworn that no harm shall come to her, she says, "Well, who shall I bring up from the dead?" Saul says, "Bring up Samuel." That was the prophet who had died a little while before. I see her waving a wand, or stirring up some poisonous herbs in a caldron, or hear her muttering over some incantations, or stamping with her foot as she cries out to the realm of the dead: "Samuel, Samuel!" Lo, the freezing horror! The floor of the tenement opens, and the gray hairs float up and the forehead, the eyes, the lips, the shoulders, the arms, the feet—the entire body of the dead Samuel—wrapped in sepulchral robe, appearing to the astonished group, who stagger back and hold fast and catch their breath and shiver with terror.

The dead prophet, white and awful from the tomb, begins to move his ashen lips, and he glares upon King Saul and cries out: "What did you bring me up for? What do you mean, King Saul?" Saul, trying to compose and control himself, makes this stammering and affrighted utterance as he says to the dead prophet: "The Lord is against me, and I have come to you for help. What shall I do?" The dead prophet stretched forth his finger to King Saul and said: "Die to-morrow! Come with me into the sepulcher. I am going now. Come, come with me!" And, lo, the floor again opens, and the feet of the dead prophet disappear and the arms and the shoulders and the forehead! The floor closes. Oh, that was an awful seance!

To unlatch the door between the present state and the future state all the fingers of superstition have been busy. We have books entitled "Footfalls on the Boundaries of Other Worlds," "The Debatable Land Between This World and the Next," "Researches Into the Phenomena of Spiritualism" and whole libraries of hocus pocus, enough to deceive the very elect. I shall not take time to rehearse the history of divination, Delphic oracle, sibyl or palmistry or the whole centuries of imposture.

Modern spiritualism proposes to open the door between this world and the next and put us into communication with the dead. It has never yet offered one reasonable credential.

When I find Saul in my text consulting a familiar spirit, I learn that spiritualism is a very old religion.

Spiritualism in American was born in the year 1847, in Hydesville, Wayne County, N. Y., when one night there was a loud rap heard against the door of Michael Weekman; a rap a second time, a rap a third time, and all three times. When the door was opened, there was nothing found there, the knocking having been made seemingly by invisible knuckles.

After awhile Mr. Fox with his family moved into that house, and then they had bangings at the door every night. One night Mr. Fox cried out, "Are you a spirit?" Two raps—answer in the affirmative. "Are you an injured spirit?" Two raps—answer in the affirmative. Then they knew right away that it was the spirit of a peddler who had been murdered in that house years before and who had been robbed of his $500. Whether the spirit of the peddler came back to collect his $500 or his bones I do not know.

The excitement spread. There was a universal rumpus. The Hon. Judge Edmonds declared in a book that he had actually seen a bell start from the top shelf of a closet, heard it ring over the people that were standing in the closet; then, swung by invisible hands, it rang over the people in the back parlor and floated through the folding doors to the front parlor, rang over the people there and then dropped on the floor. A Senator of the United States, afterward Governor of Wisconsin, had his head quite turned with spiritualistic demonstrations. The tables tipped, and the stools tilted, and the bedsteads raised, and the chairs upset, and it seemed as if the spirits everywhere had gone into the furniture business! "Well," the people said, "we have got something new in this country. It is a new religion!" Oh, no, my friend, thousands of years ago, we find in our text, a spiritualistic seance!

Nothing in the spiritualistic circles of our day has been more strange, mysterious and wonderful than things which have been seen in past centuries of the world. In all ages there have been necromancers, those who consult with the spirits of the departed; charmers, those who put their subjects in a mesmeric state; sorcerers, those who by taking poisonous drugs see everything and hear everything and tell everything; dreamers, people who in their sleeping moments can see the future world and hold consultation with spirits. Yes, before the time of Christ, the Brahmans went through all the table moving, all the furniture excitement, which the spirits have exploited in our day, precisely the same thing over and over again, under the manipulation of the Brahmans. Now, do you say that spiritualism is different from these? I answer, all these delusions I have mentioned belong to the same family. They are exhumations from the unseen world.

What does God think of all these delusions? He thinks so severely of them that He never speaks of them but with livid thunders of indignation. He says, "I will be a swift witness against the sorcerers." He says, "Thou shalt not suffer a witch to live." And lest you might make some important distinction between spiritualism and witchcraft God says in so many words, "There shall not be among you a consulter of familiar spirits or wizard, or necromancer, for they that do these things are an abomination unto the Lord." The Lord God Almighty in a score of passages which I have not now time to quote utters His indignation against all this great family of delusions. After that he a spiritualist if you dare!

If you lose a friend, you want the spiritualistic world opened, so that you may have communication with him. In a highly wrought, nervous and diseased state of mind you go and put yourself in that communication. That is why I hate spiritualism. It takes advantage of one in a moment of weakness, which may come upon us at any time. We lose a friend. The trial is keen, sharp, suffocating, almost maddening. If we could marshal a host and storm the eternal world and recapture our loved one, the host would soon be marshaled. The house is so lonely. The world is so dark. The separation is so insufferable. But spiritualism says, "We will open the future world, and your loved one can come back and talk to you." Though we may not hear his voice, we may hear the rap of his hand. So, clear the table. Sit down. Put your hands on the table. Be very quiet. Five minutes gone. Ten minutes. No motion of the table. No response from the future world. Twenty minutes. Thirty minutes. Nervous excitement all the time increasing. Two raps from the future world. The letters of the alphabet are called over. The departed friend's name is John. At the pronunciation of the letter J two raps. At the pronunciation of the letter O two raps. At the pronunciation of the letter H two raps. At the pronunciation of the letter N two raps. There you have the whole name spelled out—J-o-h-n, John. Now, the spirit being present, you say, "John, are you happy?" Two raps give an affirmative answer.

Many years ago the steamer Atlantic started from Europe for the United States. Getting midocean, the machinery broke, and she floundered around day after day and week after week, and for a whole month after she was due people wondered and finally gave her up. There was great anguish in the cities, for there were many who had friends aboard that vessel. Some of the women in their distress went to the spiritual medium and inquired as to the fate of that vessel. The medium called up the spirits, and the rappings on the table indicated the steamship lost, with all on board. Women went raving mad and were carried to the lunatic asylum. After awhile one day a gun was heard off quarantine. The flags went up on the shipping, and the bells of the churches were rung. The boys ran through the streets crying: "Extra! The Atlantic is safe!" There was the embracing as from the dead when friends came again to friends, but some of those passengers went up to find their wives in the lunatic asylum, where this cheat of infernal spiritualism had put them.

I bring against this delusion a more fearful indictment—it ruins the soul immortal. First, it makes a man a quarter of an infidel; then it makes him half an infidel; then it makes him a whole infidel.

If God is ever slapped in the face, it is when a spiritual medium puts down her hand on the table, invoking spirits departed to make a revelation. God has told you all you ought to know, and how dare you be prying into that which is none of your business? You cannot keep the Bible in one hand and spiritualism in the other. One or the other will slip out of your grasp, depend upon it. Spiritualism is adverse to the Bible, in the fact that it has in these last days called from the future world Christian men to testify against Christianity. Its mediums call back Lorenzo Dow, the celebrated evangelist, and Lorenzo Dow testifies that Christians are idolaters. Spiritualism calls back Tom Paine, and he testifies that he is stopping in the same house in heaven with John Bunyan. They call back John Wesley, and he testifies against the Christian religion, which he all his life gloriously preached. Andrew Jackson Davis, the greatest of all the spiritualists, comes to the front and declares that the New Testament is but "the dismal echo of a barbaric age" and the Bible only "one of the pen and ink relics of Christianity."

I have in my house a book used in spiritualistic service. It contains a catechism and a hymn book. The catechism has these questions and answers:

Q. What is our chief baptism? A. Frequent ablution in water.

Q. What is our inspiration? A. Fresh air and sunshine.

Q. What is our love feast? A. Clear conscience and sound sleep.

Q. What is our prayer? A. Physical exercise.

And then it goes on to show that a great proportion of their religious service is a system of calisthenics. Then when they want to arouse the devotion of the people to the highest pitch they give out the hymn on the sixty-fifth page:

The night hath gathered up her silken fringes.

Or, on the fifteenth page:

Come to the woods, heigh ho!

"But," says some one, "wouldn't it be of advantage to hear from the future world? Don't you think it would strengthen Christians? There are a great many materialists who do not believe there are souls, but if spirits from the future world should knock and talk over to us they would be persuaded." To that I answer in the ringing words of the Son of God, "If they believed not Moses and the prophets, neither will they be persuaded though one rose from the dead."

I believe these are the days of which the apostle spake when he said, "In the latter times some shall depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits." Audiences in this day need to have reiterated in their hearing the passages I quoted some minutes ago. "There shall not be among you a consulter of familiar spirits, or wizard, or necromancer, for they that do these things are an abomination unto the Lord," and, "The soul that turneth after such as have familiar spirits I will set Myself against them, and they shall be cut off from their people."

But I invite you now to a Christian seance, a monday seance. This congregation is only one great family. Here is the church table. Come around the church table; take your seats for this great Christian seance; put your Bible on the table, put your hands on top of the Bible and then listen and hear if there are any voices coming from the eternal world. I think there are. Listen! "Secret things belong unto the Lord, our God, but things that are revealed belong unto us and to our children." Surely that is a voice from the spirit world. But before you rise from this Christian seance I want you to promise me you will be satisfied with the Divine revelation until the light of the eternal throne breaks upon your vision. Do not go after the witch of En-dor. Do not sit down at table rappings either in sport or in earnest.

Teach your children there are no ghosts to be seen or heard in this world save those which walk on two feet or four—human or bestial. Remember that spiritualism at the best is a useless thing, for if it tells what the Bible reveals it is a superfluity, and if it tells what the Bible does not reveal it is a lie.

Instead of going to get other people to tell your fortune tell your own fortune by putting your trust in God and doing the best you can. I will tell your fortune. "All things work together for good to them that love God." Insult not your departed friends by asking them to come down and scrabble under an extension table. Remember that there is only one spirit whose dictation you have a right to invoke, and that is the holy, blessed and omnipotent spirit of God. Hark! He is rapping now, not on a table or the floor, but rapping on the door of your heart, and every rap is an invitation to Christ and a warning of judgment to come. Oh, grieve Him not away! Quench Him not. He has been all around you this morning. He was all around you last night. He has been around you all your lives. Hark! There comes a voice with tender, overmastering intonation, saying: "My spirit shall not always strive."

The committee of the Manchester, Salford and District Temperance Union of England have decided to establish an annual temperance sermon, to be delivered each year in Manchester, by prominent ministers of different denominations.

GOD'S MESSAGE TO

PREGNANT THOUGHTS FR WORLD'S GREATEST PR

The Snow-Birds—Benedictions —Eternity Past and to War by Warfare—Looki ward—Without Haste or

When winter winds are blow
And clouds are full of snow
There comes a flock of little
A-flying to and fro
About the withered garden
Around the naked field
In any wayside shrub or tree
That may a berry yield
You'll see them flitting, flitting
And hear their merry song
The scattered crumbs of sum
Feed winter birdlings long

But when the snowdrifts cove
The garden and the field—
When all the shrubs are cased
And every brook is sealed
Then come the little snow-bi
As beggars, to your door
They pick up every tiny crum
With eager chirps for more
Like wandering musicians
They neath the windows
All winter long they stroll
And leave us in the spring

Off to the land of icebergs
To islands cold and drear
They fly before the summer
To frolic with us here
Give them a hearty welcome
It surely were not good
That they who sing in winter
Should ever lack for food.

Benediction of Goo

A good man is the greatest any community holds. The Snow-Birds—Benedictions ... —Eternity Past and to ... War by Warfare—Looking ... ward—Without Haste or ...

When winter winds are blowing ...
And clouds are full of snow, ...
There comes a flock of little ... ...
A-flying to and fro; ...
About the withered garden, ...
Around the naked field, ...
In any wayside shrub or tree ...
That may a berry yield. ...
You'll see them flitting, flitting, ...
And hear their merry song, ...
The scattered crumbs of sum... ...
Feed winter birdlings long. ...

But when the snowdrifts cover ...
The garden and the field— ...
When all the shrubs are cased ... ...
And every brook is sealed, ...
Then come the little snow-birds ...
As beggars, to your door; ...
They pick up every tiny crumb ...
With eager chirps for more. ...
Like wandering musicians, ...
They 'neath the windows sing ...
All winter long they stoutly ... ...
And leave us in the spring. ...

Off to the land of ... icebergs, ...
To islands cold and drear, ...
They fly before the summer ... ...
To frolic with us here. ...
Give them a hearty welcome! ...
It surely were not good ...
That they who sing in winter ... ...
Should ever lack for food. ...

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Is the problem in the "problem play" to find out how far it is possible to go without police interference?

Mr. Cecil Rhodes must beware. The Southern Presbyterian intimates that if it were on a jury to try him for murder it would hang him forthwith and that it would not regret very much the opportunity to sit on such a jury.

If mosquitoes are responsible for malaria, and rats for the plague, and impure water for typhoid and cholera, then the mosquito frame, the rat trap and the filter are the emblems of health.

An automobile that cost when new $3,000 sold at auction recently in Paris for $13,200, after making a fast record. It appears, comments The Trotter and Pacer, that developed speed is valuable in machines as well as in horses.

Army surgeons report that the Mauser bullet makes "a humane wound." Few persons have been aware until now that there could be wounds of that sort.

In Philadelphia the other day, a man fell down a flight of steps and fractured his skull from tripping on a dangling shoe-string. Never was there a more striking illustration of the necessity of doing small things well.

Dr. Jameson, who led the famous raid upon the Transvaal, must think queer things when he reflects that he once imagined that he could conquer the Boers with a force of 500 men. Events have shown him to have been the prize mis-calculator of the age.

The French Under-Secretary of State, who is responsible for the posts and telegraphs, has, with a view to avoid the transmission of infectious diseases, just made an order that the receivers and transmitters of all public telephones shall be disinfected daily by being washed with a strong solution of carbolic acid.

The reforms promised in the British army will be most effective if they include the opening of the line and staff to the common people. Official position is too commonly reserved for the aristocracy. Still, a yearly larger percentage of promotions from the ranks has occurred since commission by purchase was abolished.

Of course it is not generally known, but it is a fact all the same, that the larger part of the olive oil imported into this country is simply the product of the cotton seed extracted in the United States, sent abroad, refined and returned to us as the pure Mediterranean article. While sailing under false colors it is possible that the cotton seed oil is more wholesome than the genuine olive.

An Atchison man is telling a story about a servant girl that has been working for the same family for twenty-one years. If this man would come out of the woods and become a war correspondent or a world's fair guide, or a theatrical press agent or something in which there is real progress, new and lucrative vistas would open to his peculiar genius.

Among the thirteen countries which add largely to the supply of new books the United States occupy the fourth place. Germany provides nearly twice as many new publications as the United States and England combined. The circulation figures of successful books are, however, much larger in these countries than in Germany.

It is a pleasure to notice the continued decline in the practice of hazing at the colleges throughout the country. The prominent universities, which are more readily influenced by public opinion, naturally took the lead in this reform, and one by one the smaller colleges have followed suit. The vigorous stand recently taken by President Moffatt of Washington and Jefferson University adds one more to the list of enlightened institutions. "I would rather," he said, "have 100 student without hazing than 500 with it."

Exhaustive estimates have just been published of the cost of living at Yale. From $800 to $1,000 is considered enough for the average student. The investigations show that Yale men are spending less for drink than they did a decade ago, and are more liberally contributing to religious and philanthropic societies. The total cost, too, of going to college is less than it used to be. In this improved showing athletics play a not unimportant part, especially at Yale, where the inducements to athletic success are strong enough to make men willing to undergo considerable privations for the sake of helping their college. And self-denial, even for mere success at athletics, reacts in a beneficial way on them that practise it.

At Cape Nome, Alaska, the richest gold deposits lie on the sea coast between high and low tide mark, and in the sea itself, along the shore. Under the existing law the miners have no right whatever to dig for mineral there, as the government reserves a sixty foot line along the shore for highway purposes, and it is against the law everywhere to dig up a public highway for mining operations. Some way had to be found to get around this existing law so as to make the rich mineral lands available to the public. Representative Lacey of Iowa has introduced a bill in the House to meet this unique case. It gives the miners an easement or bare right to take the mineral, without jeopardizing the title of the government to the land.

T. Bently Mott, late adjutant general of the department of Havana, has an interesting paper on "The Social Life of Havana" in Scribner's Magazine in which he presents a view of Cuba surprisingly new to most of us. It was also new and startling to him, when he went to a charity ball, thirty five miles out of Havana, at the time the Spanish were leaving the island, and found himself in his dirty khaki uniform, plunged into an assemblage of gentlemen and gentlewomen "of the same sort which New York or London or Paris would turn out on a similar occasion." Together with probably the majority of Americans, General Mott had an idea that everything that was worthy the name of society in Cuba was Spanish. He found that really the best society was not only Cuban, but open to Cubans only, generally speaking, before the war. It was the boast of the Cubans that no Spanish governor general for twenty-two years had been admitted into Cuban society.

There is no use denying that civilization has its drawbacks. It has brought in its train a long list of vicissitudes which primitive man never experienced—dyspepsia, corns, appendicitis, dentists and such things. Our savage ancestors were no germ chasers; a whole gourd full of microbes didn't scare them even a little bit, and the man who attempted to get up a scare over the impurity of the water was either sold at bargain rates to some neighboring tribe or neatly baked in a mud oven. In that age good health was contagious, and the person who contracted a disease was accused of pampering himself with luxuries. Life was a tranquil joy, simple fare and absolute freedom from the perils which attend modern progress.

Mail collection by ordinary trolley-car, a successful feature of the service in Hartford, Conn., has been broadened in Grand Rapids, Mich., where every trolley-car in the city has been made a mail-car. Each car is equipped with two mail-boxes placed one at either end. The boxes, which are of the ordinary type found on street corners, are placed just inside the vestibule by the controller stand, an opening being made in the front of the car large enough to slip letters through. The side of the box from which the carriers remove the mail is next the vestibule door, enabling collections to be made without entering the car. The instructions issued by the company to its employees are that while they are not compelled to stop at all street corners for the deposit of letters in the boxes, where there are no passengers who wish to get on or off, they are expected to do so if they can maintain their schedule time. Every courtesy is to be shown the people in their use. The boxes are locked every night by an official of the post-office, and the postal authorities collect the mail from every box on each trip at its nearest point to the post-office. Thus far it is a purely gratuitous service on the part of the railroad company.

An interesting effect of the employment of women in many new spheres of labor which has been seen during the last twenty years is the remarkable extension which has been caused in the working period of a woman's life. Every day the term of woman's activity is being lengthened, and instead of retiring from strenuous work at thirty-five, which was the limit formerly fixed of the ordinary woman's business career, the woman of to-day at that age is only approaching the plenitude of her powers. C. E. Collett, in regard to the domestic bearing of this change in the status of women, says: "Formerly at the age of eighteen the young person was expected to relieve her invalid mother of household cares and brighten her aged father's declining years. But mothers in 1900 refuse to become decrepit and take to the sofa merely because their daughters are grown up. The new mother may be considerably over thirty-five, bordering on fifty perhaps, but she neither feels aged, nor looks it, and is rather inclined to look beyond her home for full scope for her powers when thus set free from maternal cares. Mental activity gives freshness and interest to life, and to be fresh and interested is to be young." Miss Collett insists that it is because girls have been taught to use their brains, and women have been encouraged to keep them in repair, that this old stereotyped conception of the necessary failure of woman's power after thirty-five years of age has become absurd.

Mother Angered at Nonsensical Stuff.

A Yale Summit girl recently played a cruel joke on her mother, and this is how it happened. She accidentally found a love letter that her father had written to her mother in the halcyon days of their courtship. She read the letter to her mother, substituting her own name and that of her lover. The mother raved with anger and stamped her foot in disgust, forbidding her daughter to have anything to do with a man who would write such nonsensical stuff to a girl. The girl then gave the letter to her mother to read, and the house became so suddenly quiet she could hear the snowflakes falling in the back yard.—Salisbury Press.

An Italian paper purporting to give statistics of all canonizations and beatifications since the year 1500 shows that there have been no saints in Ireland, England or Scotland from that date.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR MARCH 11.

Subject: The Paralytic Healed, Mark ii., 1-12.—Golden Text: Mark ii., 10.—Memory Verses, 6-12.—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

1. "And again." At the close of the missionary tour in Galilee. "Capernaum." Which was His home, or headquarters. "It was noised." The news spread very rapidly. "In the house." Probably Peter's house. When Christ is in the house, 1. Good men will be attracted to it. 2. Bad men will be benefited in it. 3. Divine benediction will rest upon it. 4. Beneficent ministries will flow from it. Those who have Christ in their home do not act like other people; their motives are purer, their activities more disinterested, and they have with them the source of joy and blessedness.

2. "Many were gathered together." The audience included Pharisees and doctors of the law who had come from the towns of Galilee, and Judea, and Jerusalem. They had come to inspect and criticise this new Teacher. It was like the gathering of Israel on Carmel to witness the issue between Elijah and the priests of Baal. "About the door." There was a great concourse of people so that the house and court were both filled. "Preached the word". The doctrine of the Son of God. They had come partly to criticise and partly out of curiosity, and now Jesus seizes the opportunity to preach the Gospel.

3. "They come unto Him." Access to Jesus seemed impossible. There were many obstacles in the way. Should they have waited for a convenient season? No. They must force their way to Christ. "Bringing one." There are many so weak and discouraged that they cannot go to Jesus without assistance; we should always be ready to hold such. "Sick of the palsy." "Palsy—a contraction of the word paralysis—is a disease that deprives the part affected of sensation, or the power of motion, or both." This patient was utterly helpless. The disease is considered incurable. "Palsy is a type of sin. Sin in the soul takes all the forms which paralysis does in the body. 1. It takes away the sense of feeling. 2. It weakens the will so that when men would do good evil is present with them. They put off duty; they know but will not come to a decision. 3. It produces a fixed condition of evil with intense suffering." "Borne of four." Each one holding a corner of the "pallet," or bed. There was co-operation in this work. One could not have done it; it needed four. In the union of hearts and hands there is strength. United they had no difficulty.

4. "The press." It seemed quite impossible for the crowd to make an opening sufficiently large for them to pass through. "Uncovered the roof." Luke says "through the tiling." In the eastern countries the houses were flat-roofed and joined together so one could walk upon them from one end of the city to the other. These house-tops were places of prayer and meditation, and from the house-tops criers proclaimed the times of public worship. Outside stairs always led to the roof. "Broken it up." They took up the tiling. They determined that nothing should stand in their way. "Let down the bed." Imagine the arresting of the discourse of Jesus, and the breathless surprise of the crowd as this opening through the tiles appeared, and slowly a pallet was let down before them. Willing hands would help to steady it and bring it safe to the ground. On that bed lay one paralyzed—his fevered face and glistening eyes upturned to Jesus.

5. "Saw their faith." Many of the gifts of healing and restoration were obtained through the faith and prayers of the friends of the sufferers. See Matt. 8:13; Mark 5:36; John 4:50. Jesus saw their faith. Real faith acts. Their holy boldness pleased Him. "Faith is the channel through which the grace of God flows into the soul in converting, healing power." Christ always notices and commends faith. To the poor Gentile woman who came to Him for the healing of her daughter He said, "O woman, great is thy faith." "Son." He spoke with tenderness. Matthew adds, "Be of good cheer." Evidently the young man was despondent because of his sins, for it seems probable that this disease had been brought on as a result of dissipation. "Thy sins are forgiven" (R. V.). Our first great need is the forgiveness of sin. Jesus rightly puts this ahead of the healing of the body. We cannot doubt that this paralytic was a conscience-stricken young man. The conditions necessary to forgiveness are repentance, confession, forsaking sin, and faith. Although this man did not speak Jesus must have seen these marks in him.

6. "Certain of the scribes." "The scribes were the leaders of the nation, the theologians, legislators, politicians." They had come up from Jerusalem and other places for the purpose of opposing Him. Luke 5:17. "Reasoning in their hearts." They had not yet spoken openly.

7. "Blasphemies." Taking to Himself what belongs to God only. He is intruding on the Divine rights. The blasphemer was to be put to death by stoning. "But God only." They rightly understood that all sins are sins against God, and therefore only God could forgive them. See Psa. 51:4.

8. "When Jesus perceived." In telling them the thoughts of their hearts Jesus gave them the fullest proof of His divinity. He "searcheth all hearts and understandeth all the imaginations of the thoughts." No sin escapes His notice. "Why reason ye." Matthew says, "Wherefore think ye evil?" Why are you putting a misconstruction on my words?

9. "Whether is it easier." Both are equally easy and equally difficult. Everything is equally easily to that power which is unlimited. A universe can be as easily produced by a single act of the Divine will, as the smallest part of matter.

10. "That ye may know." "Eternal miracles are the proof of internal ones." Christ was conscious of Divine power. "If failure had been the result His humiliation would have been overwhelming and final." He proposes now to prove His divinity beyond question. "Power on earth." They were thinking of God as being in heaven, and Jesus calls attention to the fact that there is power on earth now to forgive sins. The Son of Man has come to earth and has brought this power with Him.

11. "Arise." Here is the test. Christ shows His ability to forgive sins by His ability to heal.

12. "He arose." The man had a part to perform. Had he not acted at the word of command he could not have been healed. He exercised the power of his will and put forth the necessary effort to arise, believing that strength and healing would be given him. "Before them all." This thing was "not done in a corner." Christ's miracles were performed in the most public manner and were never questioned by those who witnessed them. "Amazed." Luke adds, "They were filled with fear." "Glorified God." They had a high degree of reverence for God and were filled with admiration for His power and goodness. "On this fashion." Christ's works are without precedent. He acts independently and advises with no one. They had seen three marks of His divinity. 1. Forgiving sins. 2. Perceiving thoughts. 3. Healing disease.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. ing charge of the public schools, is well posted on the changes in our school law.

While Prof. Moore is a very warm personal friend of mine, yet I feel that the party owes Prof. Strock its support for the arduous and untiring energy with which he has looked after the educational interests in our county. Our party cannot afford to humiliate this promising youth with the humiliation that a failure to re-elect after such gallant service would reflect. It is the custom of all political parties to honor their officials with a second term for the faithful performance of official duties. Prof. Strock has given almost universal satisfaction. Then with charity for all let's not fail to be just to those who have been true to us.

May brotherly love and good-will ever reign and rule among the citizens of Chilton co.

We farmer lads are full of glee, whistling around making preparations for another big cotton crop, with bright anticipations thinking of course, of getting at least 8 cents for our cotton next fall. Oh, we feel like singing "Amazing grace, how sweet the sound." But alas, if we were to only get about 4½ cents for our cotton next fall we would feel like changing our tune and sing "Show pity Lord" &c. However, we will look on the bright side of things and hope for 8 cents, though we think it would be well for every farmer to plant a good big field of corn.

NEW RAILROAD ASSURED.

Work of Construction to Begin on the Tupelo and Decatur Line.

After much work and many years of waiting, the Tupelo and Decatur railroad is now an assured fact, and work is to commence on the construction at an early date. The road is to be built from Decatur to Arkansas City, Ark., and will open up a fine timber, mineral and agricultural county, and will bring untold wealth to the city.

The charter calls for $5,000,000 worth of bonds, and an eastern company has already made a bid for the entire issue. Hon. H. C. Medford, of Tupelo, Miss., acting president of the road, is in Decatur for the purpose of closing the construction contract, and to provide the means for the road to enter the city. He addressed the Commercial club and citizens and was received with great enthusiasm. The Decatur Land Co. will donate land for a terminal.

COL. ROQUEMORE DEAD.

The Eminent Lawyer Passed Away in Montgomery Monday.

Col. John D. Roquemore died at his home in Montgomery Monday.

Colonel Roquemore was one of the most prominent figures in Alabama. At the bar he was considered one of the strongest practitioners in the state. He has also been a prominent figure in state politics. He was at the time of his death a candidate for the United States senate to succeed Senator Morgan.

On the first of February, this year, he suffered a stroke of paralysis during the night, and from the hour of this attack he has been lingering between life and death.

Large Increase in Pig Iron Shipments.

The pig iron shipments from the Birmingham district and from the south in February show a large increase over the shipments of February, 1899. The total shipments for February, 1900, were 94,000 tons, compared with 51,000 tons in February, 1899. The shipments from the south were 112,000 tons. Of this amount a little over 7,000 tons were for export, all from the Birmingham district. Three thousand tons of cast iron pipe were shipped from the district in February.

Democrats Lost the Contest Case.

Monday, for the second time within a week, a democrat was unseated by the house of representatives and a republican seated in his place. R. A. Wise was given the seat which was occupied by W. A. Young from the Second Virginia district. The first decision was in the Aldrich-Robbins contest from the Fourth Alabama, giving the seat to Mr. Aldrich.

Warm Municipal Election.

In a warm municipal election at Oxford Monday T. A. Howle was elected mayor over W. W. Whiteside and his entire aldermanic ticket was victorious, the majorities ranging from 8 to 10. The issue was whether the town which has a population of 3,000 and which has had no saloons for several years should have them. The winning ticket is the dry one.

Killing in Pickens County.

C. M. Carter, a former resident of Macon, Miss., was shot and instantly killed just outside the county line in Pickens county, Ala., by R. M. Underwood, former surveyor of this county. The telephone accounts differ so widely that it is impossible to give any particulars. Both have large families.

Birmingham Gets a Spanish Cannon.

Birmingham will get one of the guns captured from Spain during the recent war with that country. The gun is now at the disposal of Congressman Underwood and will be shipped to Birmingham at any time designated by the Commercial Club, through whose influence it was secured.

Direct Vote for Senator.

The democratic committee of Marion county met at Hamilton on Saturday for the purpose of arranging for the April primary. A resolution was passed directing that the names of the candidates for United States senator be placed on the tickets to be voted for direct.

The supreme court of Connecticut has decided that a furnace is personal property and may be removed from a building by the process of law.

SUMMARY OF STATE NEWS

Current Events Gathered From All Sections of Alabama.

RURAL MAIL DELIVERY IN LEE COUNTY

Income From Experiment Station. Organizing New Railroads—Farmer Shot to Death—Florence Gets Captured Spanish Gun.

Florence Gets a Spanish Gun.

The city of Florence has received from the war department one of the Spanish cannons captured during the late war. The gun is of the mountain Howitzer order, being three feet and two inches in length. It has a carriage. It was secured through the efforts of Mayor John B. Weakley and General Joseph Wheeler.

Rural Mail Delivery in Lee County.

The government has decided to establish another free rural delivery route in Lee county, Opelika being the only place in the state having the free delivery of mail in the country.

The new route will start at Chemacla, three miles south of Opelika, and extend twelve miles. It will supply about 1,000 people and will prove a great convenience.

Income From Experiment Station.

The president has transmitted to congress reports from the agricultural experiment station for the last fiscal year. The report shows the income from the station at Auburn, Ala., with a United States appropriation of $15,000, to be: From fertilizer, $9,673.15; farm products, $720.65; total, $25,393.80. The income at the Alabama Canebrake station was: State appropriation, $2,500; farm products, $250; total, $2,850.

Prominent Farmer Shot to Death.

At an early hour Friday morning Sam Lide shot to death Buck Johnston in the former's store, at Dooley's, eleven miles south of Montgomery. Both men are prominent farmers. Johnston was also justice of the peace in his precinct and a prominent candidate for sheriff of Montgomery county. The killing occurred over an alleged attempt by Johnston to assault Lide's wife. Lide went to Montgomery and surrendered to the sheriff.

An Old Confederate Soldier Dies.

There died in Selma last week, at the age of 72, a man who had never been inside of a court house, and had never in all his life had a day's sickness. He served throughout the war between the states, and was never wounded. This man of such remarkable experience was M. F. Ellis. He was taken suddenly ill and went to the residence of his son, where he passed away. Mr. Ellis was born in Crawford county, Ga. He belonged to Company G, of the Ninth Georgia regiment, confederate army.

Organizing a New Railroad.

Colonel J. M. Falkner, district attorney for the Louisville & Nashville, is engaged in completing the organization of the North Alabama railroad. He says that since the opening of so many new mineral industries the scarcity of coal has made the opening up of the coal region a necessity. For this purpose the North Alabama company has been formed. The new road will run from Phelan, in Cullman county, through Jefferson, Walker and into Tuskaloosa county. It will be extended to Brookwood and three miles beyond.

Two Women Appointed.

Governor Johnston has appointed Mrs. George C. Ball, of Birmingham, and Mrs. Edward L. Russell, of Mobile, as honorary members of the board of women managers for the Pan-American exposition to be held in Buffalo, N. Y., from May 1 to November 1, 1901. The director general of the exposition requested the governor to make two appointments. The board of women managers will consist of twenty-five women to be appointed from the state of New York, with two honorary members from each state in the union.

Negro Killed in Selma.

A. B. Lott and Johnny Marshall, two negroes working in the market house in Selma, became engaged in a friendly dispute, when Lott threw a long steel knife sharpener at Marshall, which Marshall dodged, and threw the steel back at Lott, sticking the steel in Lott's head near the left ear and penetrating three inches, killing him. Marshall was captured.

Boy's Training School to Be Established.

W. A. White has definitely decided to establish in Anniston a boys' training school, and by the first of September he hopes to open the doors of the institution to those boys and young men of the city who wish to thoroughly prepare for a university course.

An Honored Citizen Drops Dead.

Hon. Steve Herman, a resident of the Bainbridge neighborhood, in Colbert county, but at one time a very prominent man in Lauderdale county, dropped dead in his yard Saturday morning. He was about 60 years of age, and was several years ago a member of the lower house.

Making Survey For Railroad.

Maj. B. B. Gordon and a large corps of surveyors are at Oneonta making a survey for a railroad. It will run to the Underwood coal mines, nine miles from Oneonta. It is reported that the survey will extend to Attalla and that the road will be extended to that point.

Machinery Ordered.

The Martin Cracker Company, which was organized in Birmingham a few days ago, has placed an order with the Roth-McMahon company, of Chicago, for the machinery with which to equip its factory. The order calls for over $7,000 worth of machinery, and is for immediate delivery. When completed it will be one of the best equipped cracker factories in the country.

Hardwick Is Badly Wanted.

A special from Decatur says: "A reward of $2,000 has been offered by Miss Bean's relatives for the arrest of John Hardwick, who deserted his wife and fled with Miss Bean, a bewitching young woman 18 years old, who was boarding at his house and attending school. The report that they sailed for Cuba is now said to be untrue, as the relatives feel assured that they are somewhere in Florida. Much interest is being manifested in the affair, as both parties are highly connected."

Brandon Goes to Washington.

Adjutant General Brandon is in Washington in the interest of securing a larger appropriation from the war department for the Alabama National Guards. The military appropriation bill, which has been introduced in congress, and in which all adjutant generals are interested, is of special importance to Alabama. It contains an item which was inserted by Representative Underwood, appropriating $8,000 to pay for the tents that were turned over to the federal government by the state. Colonel Brandon says that it has been decided to hold an encampment of the state guard this year.

Million-Dollar Bridge Works.

One of the most important deals since the boom days was closed at New Decatur Saturday between the Decatur Land Company and Frank Conger, of the Groton Bridge Works, of New York. The latter purchased the old United States Rolling Stock Works, and will erect a million-dollar bridge works theron at once. The company will reach out for trade in Cuba, Porto Rico and all South American countries when their plant here is in operation. They could not handle the trade of these countries successfully with this plant in the far east. The erection of this mammoth plant means much for the future of New Decatur, as it will place her in the column along with the leading manufacturing cities of the south.

Wheeler's Resignation Found.

It appears that General Wheeler did tender his resignation last fall. It was dated November 28, at a place called Paniqui, on the island of Luzon, and was not cabled, but came by the slow process of the mails. Moreover, it did not come directly to the war department, but went to the white house, where it has been reposing since its arrival in Washington. The general's resignation was not accepted promptly by the president out of consideration for the officer. Instead he was ordered to report to the war department at Washington.

Another Gold Company.

It is said the stockholders of the Dahlonega Consolidated Gold Mining Co. at Dahlonega, Ga., will organize a new gold mining and milling company to be capitalized at $5,000,000. It is said this new company will be known as the Standard, and that the promoters hold by deed or portion 5,000 acres of mineral lands for their enterprise.

EXCITEMENT IN KENTUCKY

State Officers for Whom Warrants Were Issued Made Effort to Escape.

ARRESTED IN DISGUISE AT LEXINGTON

Squad of Militia With Them Overawed by Armed Civil Officers—Judge Field Upholds Democratic Contestants.

A Saturday's special from Frankfort, Ky., says:

The situation here reached a point of excitement today almost approaching that of the stirring times after the assassination of Governor Goebel.

Secretary of State Caleb Powers and Captain Davis, for whom warrants were issued today, charging complicity in the murder of Governor Goebel, after spending the day in the state house, to which the civil officers bearing the warrants were refused admittance by the soldiers on duty, tonight left town in disguise. Powers and Davis slipped aboard a Chesapeake & Ohio train, at 8 o'clock, and speeded toward Lexington. A crowd of soldiers, coming from toward the mansion at a double quick, caught the train just before it pulled out. With them were Powers and Davis, dressed in soldiers' uniforms, and before the guard of deputy sheriffs became aware of what was going on the train left.

The plan of escape was so neatly laid and executed that it took the police and big force of deputy sheriffs appointed to guard the entrance to the capitol grounds and prevent their escape off their feet, when they realized what had occurred.

Chief of Police Williams immediately sent telegrams to Lexington, Midway and all stations along the route, notifying officers of the escape and ordering them to be on the lookout. The train makes no stops between here and Lexington, but these steps were taken in the event they should compel the train crew to stop the train between here and there for arrests.

Exciting Scene at Lexington.

On the arrival of the Chesapeake and Ohio train from Frankfort Secretary of State Powers and Capitol Policeman Davis and Lieutenant Peak were arrested by the Lexington police and the sheriff and deputies. There was a large force of officers awaiting them. Powers and Davis still wore the uniforms of soldiers and Davis had on false whiskers. There was a wild scene when the officers broke into the car, and revolvers were drawn by all, but the small squad of soldiers were greatly outnumbered by the police force and the large force of deputies with the sheriff, and the arrest was effected without difficulty.

In the inside pocket of each man was found a pardon from Governor W. S. Taylor, duly signed and sealed. Attorney W. G. Dunlap, Postmaster Clay Elkin and Attorney R. C. Stoll called on Secretary of State Powers later, and to the Associated Press correspondent they stated that Powers told Dunlap substantially that he was not fleeing from arrest. He was simply getting away from Frankfort to avoid lying in jail as Whittaker has done; that he had nothing to fear from arrest, as he was not guilty of the charge, and that he was going to Barboursville, in the Eleventh congressional district, where Taylor's jurisdiction was fully recognized.

Captain Davis had little to say to them except that he thought he had made a mistake in leaving home; that he had nothing to fear from a trial. Neither explained his disguise.

IN FAVOR OF DEMOCRATS.

Judge Fields of the Circuit Court Decides Beckham is Governor.

A decision sustaining the contention of the democrats of Kentucky that the legislature is the tribunal designated by the constitution for the determination of the contests for the offices of governor and lieutenant-governor was handed down in the circuit court Saturday by Judge Fields.

The republicans will appeal the case to the state court of appeals, and if the decision there is against them they will try to get a hearing before the United States supreme court.

Mississippi Land Litigation Ends.

The Mississippi senate has passed a bill authorizing the compromise of the famous suits involving the title to nearly four hundred thousand acres of land in the Mississippi Delta valley at practically $5,000,000. The litigation extends through a period of nearly thirty years, and the terms imposed by the bill are satisfactory to all parties concerned.

SOUTHERN PROGRESS.

The New Industries Reported in the South in a Week.

The more important of new enterprises reported by the Tradesman during the week ending March 10, included brick works in Tennessee and Texas; a bridge construction company in West Virginia; coal mines in Texas; two cotton mills in Georgia, two in North Carolina, three in South Carolina, two in Tennessee and one in Texas; one cotton seed oil mill each in Alabama and Texas and two each in Georgia and Mississippi; a cracker factory in Alabama; a $300,000 electric light and power plant in Virginia; an engine and machine works in West Virginia; flouring mills in Georgia and Tennessee; two furniture factories in North Carolina and one in South Carolina; a grain elevator in Kentucky; hardware companies in Louisiana and Tennessee; ice and cold storage companies in Kentucky and North Carolina; iron ore mines in Alabama and Georgia; an irrigation company in East Texas; lumber mills in Alabama, Florida and Tennessee; planing mills in Alabama and North Carolina; a plaster company in West Virginia; sandstone quarries in Texas; a stave factory in West Virginia; telephone companies in Alabama and the Carolinas; a tobacco factory in North Carolina; a $100,000 water company in Georgia; zinc mines in Arkansas.

DEBS NAMED FOR PRESIDENT.

Social Democrats Nominated the Labor Leader For the High Office.

For president, Eugene Victor Debs, of Indianapolis; for vice-president, Job Harrison, of California.

This is the national ticket of the social democratic party which was nominated in Indianapolis Friday, and will absorb the Hilliquit-Harrison faction of the socialist labor party by agreement.

The social democrats say the candidacy of Debs will attract hundreds of thousands of voters to their party. They profess to see the beginning of a great national victory.

The convention, in agreeing to unite with the socialist labor party, retains the party name—social democratic party. The candidates and the amalgamation are to be approved by a majority of each party, according to the referendum.

Mr. Debs has tentatively refused to accept the nomination, but finally succumbed to persuasion.

CIVIL GOVERNMENT

Is Being Instituted Widely By General Otis.

Without awaiting the arrival of the new Philippine commission General Otis is pressing forward with the installation of civil governments in the various districts of the Philippines. Last August he established municipal governments in towns within the limits of the United States occupation. Now he has taken steps to provide a more systematic and orthodox system of governments. He has appointed a board, headed by the brightest and most acute lawyer in the Philippines, Cayenti Archallo and including some of the most experienced army officers to carry out his project.

Fighting in Panay Province.

A Manila special says: Thousands of organized insurgents are resisting Colonel Houston's battalion of the Nineteenth regiment, at Antique, province of Panay, which is the only province that Americans do not occupy. The Americans lost seven killed. A battalion from the Forty-fourth from Iloilo reinforced Houston's command.

One hundred and fifty Tagalos, armed with rifles, have surrendered at Capiz and have been transferred to Luzon.

Six Americans were killed in an ambuscade recently laid by the Filipinos at Aparri.

PROMINENT MEN ARRESTED.

Kentuckians Charged With Complicity in the Murder of Goebel.

W. H. Coulton, of Jackson county, a clerk in the office of State Auditor Sweeney, was arrested and placed in jail at Frankfort, Ky., Friday, charged with complicity in the murder of the late Governor Goebel.

Literally Torn to Pieces.

At Owensboro, Ky., Frank Burkholder, an employe at the Cellulose Works, was caught in a belt and wound around a shaft, and his body literally torn to pieces. The remains were scraped together and carried to the undertaker's in a bag. He was 15 years of age.

TO DEFEND THE CANAL.

Mr. Davis's Amendment to the Hay-Pauncefote Treaty.

REPORTS MADE TO THE SENATE.

The Amendment Provides For Our Control of the Nicaragua Canal Against an Enemy in Time of War—The Canal to Be Open at All Times to Peaceful Commerce—Senator Morgan's Report.

WASHINGTON, D. C. (Special).—Prompt action was taken Friday by the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations with the amendment offered by Chairman Davis to the Hay-Pauncefote treaty and intended to provide for the defense of the United States against attack by way of the Nicaragua Canal in the event of war with a foreign power.

Following is the text of the amendment:

"Insert at the end of section five of article two the following: It is agreed, however, that none of the immediately foregoing conditions and stipulations in sections number one, two, three, four and five of this act shall apply to measures which the United States may find it necessary to take for securing by its own forces the defense of the United States and the maintenance of public order."

The report accompanying the treaty was signed by all the members of the committee except Senator Morgan. After discussing the effect of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty and going over the history of the entire case the report, touching upon the strategic importance of the canal, says:

"We stipulate against the blockade of the canal by any nation. In conditions it at may not be entirely remote we would find this provision, in letting our ships through the canal free from capture by the enemy of great security to our coastwise trade. With our naval bases at Manila, Honolulu, San Francisco and San Diego, on one side, and at San Juan, Porto Rico, the isle of Pines and Key West, with other fortified naval stations, on the other side, it is extremely improbable that a fleet would cross either of the great oceans and approach the canal to find a gateway to the coasts of the other ocean. If we are not able to handle an enemy under such disadvantages to them, our power of resistance to such a campaign would be unworthy of our country, if it would not be ludicrous."

As to the prohibition of fortifications the report says:

"With the military police of the United States, provided for in this convention for the protection of the canal, its defense can be made perfect against any foreign power that is not strong enough to occupy the country and hold it against all comers.

"In any event, if wars are to come that will involve the ownership or control of the canal or the right of passage through it, no battle should ever be fought in the region near to it. To make the canal a battle ground is necessarily to expose it to destruction, and the erection of fortresses for its protection will invite hostilities to its locality.

"But the real danger to the canal, from the absence of fortifications, is so slight and improbable that its discussion appears to be unnecessary. It is scarcely conceivable that Great Britain would send a fleet across the Atlantic to attack our western coasts, or across the Pacific to attack our eastern coasts.

"In time of war, as in times of peace, the commerce of the world will pass through its portals in perfect security, enriching all the nations, and we of the English-speaking peoples will either forget that this grand work will ever cost us a day of bitterness, or we will rejoice that our contentions have delayed our progress until the honor has fallen to our grand Republic to number this among our best works for the good of mankind."

Senator Morgan later in the day filed a minority report opposing the amendment of the committee.

THE QUEEN IN LONDON.

An Outburst of Loyalty Not Surpassed by the Scenes of the Jubilee.

LONDON (By Cable).—Queen Victoria traveled from Windsor to Buckingham Palace, and afterward drove into the city of London. She was everywhere received with unbounded enthusiasm, the demonstrations of patriotic loyalty being more remarkable than even those of her Diamond Jubilee.

Her Majesty's train arrived at Padlington from Windsor at 12.15 p. m. The Queen was welcomed by the Prince of Wales, the Lord Mayor and other notables, and escorted to the royal carriage, around which the Life Guards were drawn up in their splendid trappings.

The ride to Buckingham Palace was attended by scenes of unequaled enthusiasm. Crowds filled the streets in an almost solid mass, through which a path for the Queen's carriage had to be forced by the troops. Deafening cheers followed the royal procession all along the route, and thousands of Union Jacks were waved.

The enthusiastic scenes of noontime were repeated in the afternoon, when the Queen almost encircled London in a drive extending from Buckingham Palace along the Thames embankment to St. Paul's; thence along Holborn to Piccadilly and back to St. James's Palace.

The Queen's drive around the city was a memorable event. The royal equipage passed through the quarters of all classes, but everywhere was the enthusiasm one and unbounded.
